PERSONAL.

—The Presiding Bishop finished the fifteenth year of his Episcopate on the 31st of last month. He is by much the oldest Bishop in the order of consecration in the Anglican Communion. He was consecrated October 31st, 1832, in St. Paul's chapel, New York. Bishops Hopkins, McIvaine and Doane were also consecrated at the same time and place. They died several years since. Bishop Smith has also exceeded the years of Bishop White's Episcopate several months, which has been the longest. The Bishop of Connecticut prepared a letter of congratulation, which the other Bishops signed.

—The clerical obituary of the month includes the Rev. M. A. Hyde, who was for a time minister of the Good Shepherd Mission in this city, who died in New Jersey; Rev. R. U. Morgan, D. D., of Conn.; Rev. Wm. F. Halsey, of Penn.; Rev. Walter Ayrault, D. D., of Geneva, N. Y.; Wm. Long of Ohio.

—Bishop Talbot has had another stroke of paralysis, rendering his right side helpless, and now lies in a very critical condition. The gravest apprehensions are felt.

—Bishop Doane has his summer house at Mt. Desert, Maine; Bishop Huntington has a country place at Hadley, Mass., where he has some fine cattle; Bishop Howe, of Central Pennsylvania, has a family place at Bristol, Rhode Island; Bishop McLaren has purchased a summer cottage on the New Jersey coast; Bishop Clark has a cottage near Narragansett, built out of the money which Mr. Bonner gave him for his articles in the Ledger, which he calls Bonledge.

—The son of Bishop Stevens, of Pennsylvania, married the daughter of Bishop Pierce, of Arkansas, in Little Rock, last month.

—The vestry of his parish at Fremont, Nebraska, as well as the commission of inquiry appointed by the Bishop on the subject, have returned reports exculpating the Rev. Mr. O'Connell from charge of intoxication made against him.

—The Rev. Mr. Evans, until recently of this diocese, but now of Alpena, Michigan, was married to Miss Wainwright, the daughter of the Rev. Dr. Wainright, Rector of St. Paul's, at Palmyra, on the 26th ult.

—Mr. Wm. T. Woodruff, who at the time lived in Kansas City, and applied three years ago to be come a candidate for Orders, but who withdrew when unpleasant things were heard of him, and afterwards taught in Harrisonville and Hannibal, afterwards entered, it seems, the Reformed Episcopal university in Baltimore; and has come to grief, as might be expected. He was arrested for opening letters, and evidently for years was a very dishonest man.

—The Rev. Albert L. Gray has accepted the Wardenship of Racine College, and will soon enter upon his duties. Those who know him best declare that he has in a very large measure the qualities which will enable him to succeed in that duty, made more difficult and delicate by the pattern which was left by Dr. DeKoven.

—The Bishop of Bedford, England, who has charge of the squalid and crowded districts of East London, where they had scarcely seen or known about a bishop until his faithful work of the last few year among them, told with glee at the recent Church Congress a story showing how they were getting gradually to know more about him and his work. Referring to the peculiar style of hat worn in England, by the Bishops, with rosette, and sides turned up, he says that when he went along the streets the urchins used to cry: "Where did you get that hat?" Now, he says, he hears them say: "There goes a Bishop." He thinks very soon they will say: "There goes our Bishop."

—The Rev. Mr. Hamilton, formerly of this diocese, preached on a recent Sunday in Trinity church, Hannibal. He has taken the parish in Sauk Centre, Minnesota.

—A story is told of Bishop Clarkson, that once he came to a frontier town during court week, and was invited to hold his service in the court room at night. The judge and all the lawyers attended. After a simple service he preached without notes, of "Righteousness, Temperance and Judgment to come," with a power which created such an impression as caused them to wish to have the church established there. At night they were all crowded into bunks in a common room at the hotel. The Bishop knelt down and said his prayers. The Judge, who was in a bed close by noticed it, and could not sleep. Late in the night, he said to the Bishop, "You did what I was taught by my mother to do, but have not done for years. You have given me a lesson." The Judge became foremost in arranging for services, and a fine start was made. A missionary, recommended from the East for his learning and ability, was sent there.

Some months after the Bishop went through that country again. There was kindness, but no longer any enthusiasm. He tried to find out the cause. Evidently there had been no misdemeanor, but certainly there had fallen a blight. The Bishop asked the clergyman with all sorts of questions, and at last, "What have you been preaching about?" "Oh, I preached," he replied, "On the great question of the day." "And what is that?" "Why, the Filioque." "The what?" cried the Bishop. "The Filioque; you know that is the great question." "The Filioque! Why, you have killed the church in all this beautiful country with your Filioque!" He lacked common sense; that was all, and it was enough.

—Bishop Penick is on his way home from Africa, having been very sick with the Africa fever.

—Mr. H. H. Brookes, for a time a Reformed Episcopal minister in Kansas City and Jefferson City, has applied to become a candidate for Orders in the diocese of Kansas.

—The name of Mr. Thomas H. Smith has been dropped from the list of candidates for Orders of this diocese, not, however, from any moral fault.

WE are very glad to announce to the friends of the Orphans' Home, and especially to the ladies of each parish who worked so faithfully for us at the Fair Grounds, that our net proceeds amount to $1,234.20, which we expect to use in painting and repairing the Home building.

MRS. T. MCLEAN, Secretary.

—Bishop Talbot has announced formally to the standing committee of Indiana, that finding himself incapacitated for the performance of Episcopal functions, he has decided to offer his resignation of the diocese to the House of Bishops.

—At the Commemoration services in New York, on the 31st ult., in honor of Bishop Smith's completing his fiftieth year of his Episcopate; he was presented by Dr. Dix with a massive gold chalice and paten.

—There are a few wealthy clergymen. The Rev. Dr. Childs of Newport, R. I., who has just died, and who was rector of one church, and owned another, has left to surprise friends $150,000.

—Bishop Dudley, of Kentucky, who married a wealthy New York lady, has purchased a very handsome residence in Louisville.

—We fear that before this reaches the eyes of our readers they will have seen the notice of the death of the Rev. Dr. Twing, our venerable secretary of the Domestic Mission in New York. He lies at this writing in extremity, and the word is that he is sinking rapidly. He has not been well for a long time, but was taken at Richmond, during the Church Congress, with an attack of angina pectoris, was conveyed to New York, and since then grave complications have arisen, affecting heart and lungs. We can hardly think of the extent of the loss which would be involved in the departure of one who has added to his knowledge of the extended work his strong enthusiasm. We defer the contemplation of the results of his departure, hoping that the may yet be spared.

Bishop Kip has had an operation for cataract for his almost lost sight, which it is hoped may be successful; but his advanced age is against him. Services were held in a number of churches in San Francisco, on the day of the operation, with prayers for his safe deliverance.

—Whatever other lesson a scholar may slight, he is sure to study closely the character and spirit of his own teacher. A teacher teaches less by what he says than by what he is. As a preacher recently expressed this truth concerning the power of the life rather than of the letter: "The lives of good men, and not the libraries of the theologians, are the convincing power of this world."

Not Deserving of Sympathy.

Persons who will persist in dying by inches with dyspepsia and liver disease when Simmons Liver Regulator is an unfailing remedy for these maladies.

—An observer says: "I never place much reliance on a man who is always telling what he would have done had he been there. I have noticed that somehow this sort of people never get there."

—A correspondent of the N. Y. Observer, writes that in his opinion one reason for a falling off of candidates for the ministry is that "Intellectualism has been allowed to suffocate the old-time passion for saving souls." It is certain that there is no enthusiasm, no emotion, no passion in the merely intellectual, and without strong emotion, few will give themselves to the work of the ministry.

BOOK NOTICES.

THE NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW for November presents an unusually diversified Table of Contents. "English views of Free Trade," by the Hon. John Welch of Philadelphia, is a clear and forcible exposition of the difference between the economic situation of England and that of the United States, and of the considerations which make Free Trade imperative for the former country, if she would retain her present position as the world's workshop. Joseph Neilson, Chief Judge of the Brooklyn City Court, writes of "Disorder in Court-Rooms," a subject of profound interest to good citizens at all times, and more especially now in view of certain recent occurrences. Dr. Wm. A. Hammond, ex-Surgeon-General of the U. S. Army, offers "A Problem for Sociologists," the problem being to determine the degree of responsibility before the criminal law, of persons affected by certain forms of insanity. "The Industrial Value of Woman," by Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, is a very able reply to an article recently published on "Woman's work and Woman's Wages." "Advantages of the Jury System," by Dwight Foster, formerly a Justice of the Massachusetts Supreme Court, will command the attention of every thoughtful citizen, being a grave and learned defense of an institution which it is becoming the fashion to be little and decry. The remaining articles are, "Safety in Theatres," by Steele Mackave, the distinguished actor and theatrical manager; "The Pretensions of Journalism," by Rev. Geo. T. Rider; and a symposium on "The Suppression of Vice," by Anthony Comstock, O. B. Frothingham and Rev. Dr. J. M. Bucklev.

SIX LECTURES ON LIGHT.—By Prof. John Tyndall (Illustrated.) Price 15 cents. J. Fitzgerald & Co., Publishers, 80 Lafayette Place, New York.

As a popular expositor of science Professor Tyndall holds the very first place, and the work named above is admittedly his masterpiece. A subject of no little difficulty and abstruseness is here treated by him in a style which for clearness of expression and grace of diction challenges the admiration of all lovers of "English undefiled." The work forms a valuable addition to the excellent series of popular scientific books known as the Humboldt Library of Science.

GEMS OF ILLUSTRATIONS.—From the Writings of Dr. Guthrie, arranged under the subjects which they illustrate. By an American Clergyman. Dr. Guthrie's sermons, like the addresses of most of the great masters of eloquence in all ages, abounded in picturesque simile; and, indeed, few have equaled him either in the number or in the beauty and force of the illustrations employed. There is the same exuberance of graphic similitudes in the books which he wrote after the state of his health compelled him to restrict his pulpit labors; and the numerous volumes which bear his name form a perfect storehouse of anecdotes, comparisons, examples and incidents. This book contains what we conceive to be the choicest of his illustrations, arranged under the subjects which they illustrate.

It has been well said that arguments are the pillars and buttresses which support the building but illustrations are the windows which let in the light. He says: "By awakening and gratifying the imagination, the truth finds its way more readily to the heart, and makes a deeper impression on the memory. The story, like a float, keeps it from sinking; like a nail, fastens it in the minds; like the feathers of an arrow, makes it strike, and, like the barb, makes it stick."

Price, in Cloth, $1.50. Publishers, Funk & Wagnalls, 10 & 12 Dey Street, New York.

THE TRINITY CHURCH CATECHISM, published by Young & Co., Cooper Union, New York, has gone, we see, to its fifth editions and twenty-fifth thousand.

BEECHER'S STATEMENT BEFORE THE CONGREGATIONAL ASSEMBLY.—In this pamphlet Mr. Beecher in withdrawing from the Association gives a full statement of his doctrinal beliefs and unbeliefs. The pronouncement when made was a significant one, and marks the disintegration of Congregationalist faith. This book gives the exact form in which the case was put by Mr. Beecher 10 cts., Funk & Wagnalls, 10 and 12 Dey St., N. Y.

THE NOVEMBER CENTURY.—As the first number of a new volume, the November Century gives promise of even increased excellence for the magazine during the second year under the new name. Pictorially, the November number shows that the Century is as ambitious as ever for the reputation of American wood-engraving, as witness the frontispiece portrait of Florence Nightingale and the full page portrait of Henry James, Jr., the full-page reproduction, by Krull, of an ideal bronze head, which is one of the costly art-treasures of the British Museum.

Though the art side of the November Century is so conspicuous, the contents offer striking proof of a tendency to make the literary side of the magazine paramount and of the greatest possible excellence and importance, in travel, biography, fiction, poetry, criticism, and in the discussion of the foremost public questions. In earnest of this tendency, the November Century presents a paper on "Venice" (prolusely illustrated) by Henry James, Jr., a paper on Henry James, Jr., himself, by W. D. Howells, and a strong argument in the negative to the ripe question, "Is the Jury System a Failure?" by Albert Stickney, who argues for the abolition of the system and suggests a substitute.

Another prominent feature of the number is Edward Eggleston's description of "The Beginning of a Nation," the first of his series on Life in the American Colonies, the illustrations of which include many curious old drawings of Indian life, for which the magazine is indebted to the courtesy of the British Museum.

The fiction of the number comprises the first chapters of Mary Hallock Foote's novel, "The Led Horse Claim," which carries the reader into new and subterranean fields of story-telling short story by Frank R. Stockton, entitled "The Tiger," which is in his quiet and whimsical vein continuation of Mrs. Burnett's "Through one Administration."

St. Nicholas for November begins the new volume in splendid style, with a colored frontispiece, by R. B. Birch, entitled "Indian Summer." This is an entirely new departure, that will be heartily welcomed.

Another prominent feature is the first installment of J. T. Trowbridge's new serial "The Tinkham brothers' Tide-Mill," which is a live American story about live American boys and girls; and it promises to be the best story this popular author has yet written.

Then there is the beginning of another serial, by another favorite, Frank R. Stockton. He writes of boy and girl life in the thirteenth century, and while the story is true to life, it is as fascinating as his charming fairy tales.

But the November number is also the Thanksgiving number, and so Miss Sophie Swett has contributed a jolly story called "All the Plums," which any one with half an eye can see must have some mysterious connection with the Thanksgiving pudding.

The pranks and doing of "Tad" Lincoln, the late President's youngest son, who made things so lively at the White House during his father's administration, are very entertainingly treated by Noah Brooks, who was President Lincoln's private secretary.

The following are among the contents of the Homiletic Monthly for November, Sermonic—"Love to an Unseen Christ," by B. M. Palmer, D. D., of New Orleans; Personal Virtue and Religion—"To Young Men," by C. H. Hall, D. D., of Brooklyn; Love and I. a Mystery," with a fac-simile of the Pulpit Notes used during the delivery of the Sermon, by Rev. C. H. Spurgeon; "God's Way in the Sanctuary," by R. S. Storrs, D. D.; "The Completeness of Divine Teaching," by Joseph Parker, D. D.; "The Vanities," by T. Dewitt Talmage, D. D. Among a number of interesting paper are the following: "The Advantages of Extemporaneous Preaching," No. I. by James M. Buckley, D. D.; "Hints to Young Preachers," No. II. by Prof. James M. Hopin, D. D.; "Misquoted Scripture," Price, $2.50 per year; single number, 25 cents. Funk & Wagnalls, 10 and 12 Dey Street, New York.

The November number of WIDE AWAKE is noticeable for many pleasing features, among them a spirited frontispiece for Rev. I. L. Beman's frontier story of "Lavi's Bedsprad," sent over from his London studio, and two fine illustrated poems, "Mistress Mary," Whitby, and "The little Queen." Next, one notes that both serials, "The Trojan War" and "Lost among Savages," are concluded, double installments being given for that purpose. Every boy, at least, will pronounce these closing chapters capital. There are two gay reminders of Thanksgiving month: Rosa Graham telling of "Tom Wee"—how he made Thankful day resolves, and M. E. Wilkins relating the merry myth of "The Pumpkin Giant." Part II. of Miss Whitney's "A Suit of Homespun" deals with flax wheels and "blue'n coppers check," with fourteen illustrations by Bodfish. Margaret Bertha Wright sends over from her home in France a comical story of "Charlie's first Doughnut."

Only $2.50 a year. D. Lothrop & Co. Publishers, Boston, Mass. (See Prospectus for 1882, and announcement for the magnificent Christmas issue.)

The next number of the North American Review, to be published September 15th, will contain a significant article by A. M. Hyndman, the English Radical leader, on "The coming Revolution in England"; also, an interesting account by Dr. Henry Schliemann of his recent important discoveries at Ancient Troy.

A handsome illustrated book entitled "Edens of Italy" is to be published early in November by Thomas Whitaker, New York. The author the Rev. Joseph Cross, D. D., L. L. D., is a writer of pure captivating English, and his book will be embellished with over one hundred fine wood cuts. The publisher has wisely added those useful features of all works of the kind, an ample index and a good map.

If the music selected amounts to just $1, send only the 15 pictures, your name and address. If in excess of $1, postage stamps may be enclosed for such excess. We make this liberal offer because we desire to give a present sufficiently large to induce every one to give Dobbin's Electric Soap a trial long enough to know just how good it is. If, after trial, they continue to use the soap for years, we shall be repaid. If they only use the fifteen bars, getting the dollar's worth of music gratis, we shall lose money. This shows our confidence. The Soap can be bought of all grocers—the music can only be got of us. See that our name is on each wrapper.

A box of this Soap contains sixty bars. Any lady buying a box, and sending us sixty cuts of Mrs. Foggy, can select music to the amount of $4.50. This Soap improves with age, and you are not asked to buy a useless article, but one you use every week.

THE INDEPENDENT.

The Independent needs only to be better known to add to its large list of friends. It has been published for thirty-five years and has acquired a world-wide reputation as the best religious and literary newspaper.

The Independent is not denominational. Its creed and fields are broader than any sect. As a Christian journal its aim is to strengthen and extend Evangelical religion and to defend it against the attacks of Materialism, Atheism, and unbelief. It is free to approve or criticize in any of the denominations who ever it believes is designed to advance or hinder the progress of the Gospel of Christ.

In civil and political affairs The Independent will contend for sound ideas and principles. It fought against slavery and the iniquitous system of the Oneida Community. It is now fighting against Mormonism. It believes in the reform of the civil service and tariff, in the purification of politics and in cheaper postage, and will maintain those principles which the highest ethics and best intelligence requires.

The Independent is designed to suit all tastes and wants. We provide weekly stories by the best magazine writers, poems by the leading poets of America and England (we first published in America Tennyson's last poem.) and for others, who look especially for instruction whether in religious, literary, educational, philosophical, or scientific articles, we furnish what no other periodical does or can. ST. LOUIS, DECEMBER 15, 1882.

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR.

THE CHURCH NEWS

Is published on the fifteenth of each month. It is a Journal of General and Diocesan Church Intelligence, and is the organ of the Bishop of Missouri.

All subscriptions for the paper, business letters, and also advertisements, should be sent to the Publisher, GEORGE W. MATTHEWS, Room 38, Singer Building, 5th and Locust.

Subscriptions, $1 a year. In clubs of five or more, to different addresses, money sent at one time, 75cts. Other names may be added at the same rate.

A certain number of select advertisements will be received at rates to be arranged by the Publishers.

Contributions, and all other matters for insertion in this paper should be addressed to the Editor of the CHURCH NEWS, St. Louis, Mo.

The Bishop's Column.

Letters intended for the Bishop will reach him most quickly and surely, if addressed to him at the Residence, or with the name of the city simply.

Letters for the Bishop, while on a Visitation, and directed to the interior, should be sent to the care of some clergyman to ensure their safe delivery.

EPISCOPAL APPOINTMENTS.

	31, " a. m., Trinity, St. Louis
January	14, " a. m., St. John's, "

Offerings will be received at each service for Diocesan Missions or the Theological Education Fund, of which clergymen are desired to give notice.

THE Bishop will be at home, as usual, on New Year's Day, and will be glad to see his friends.

LET no wine or spirits be offered on New Year's Day, this year, to the social callers. Many a wreck of manly character has dated from the yielding to temptation offered or countenanced by women. A woman has no greater enemy than strong drink. Nothing has desolated more homes.

FUND FOR AGED AND INFIRM.

On Christmas Day, or in places where the services is not held on that day, on the Sunday nearest to it, the annual offering through the diocese for the Fund for Aged and Infirm Clergymen, and the widows and orphans of those who are deceased, is to be made. It is one which, coming at a glad and thankful time of year, appeals with especial force to the Church in behalf of those who were worn out in its service, and were never able to save anything for themselves. The offerings should be general and liberal.

ONE great and pressing want of our Church work in St. Louis and in all of our larger cities is a systematic canvass, by which we may find out and reclaim the scores of Church people who come to church and do not make themselves known to the rector. A committee of young men should be at the church doors to notice those who come more than once, or who seem to be acquainted with the Service, and make their acquaintance and address, and cause them to feel at home. It ought not to be impossible either to canvass the town or the neighborhood to seek for those who do not even come to the church. Persons in reduced circumstances, and mothers with small children, often for years lie dormant. Those who are modest wait for some approaches. We could double the numbers of almost any of our parishes by this organized evidence of sympathy and recognition. Previous prejudice or ignorance of the Church would yield to this evident kindness of purpose.

THE LATE DR. TWING.

The whole Church is shocked by the sad and unexpected death of the veteran Secretary of our Domestic Missions. He had made the work so wholly his own, had filled it so completely with his own large personality, that the thought of him instantly appears as we speak of it. Beyond his three score and ten, he was yet strong in person, fresh in sympathy and fertile in resources. While in 1864, when he took the office, the standard of which he almost created, the receipts of the domestic department rose from $35,000 to $72,000 for the year; last year they reached over $225,000. In olden times he was refused entrance to many churches to plead for his work; but for years his presence has been sought, and his warm, stirring works kindled sympathy.

He was full of inventions as to how yet more to advance the Church's work. The Sunday-school Army, the Mite Boxes, the Woman's Auxiliary, the great delegate meetings, all these were creations of his. He promoted the creation of Missionary Bishoprics, and then he was their steadfast friend. His heart was open to every plea. The work enlisted him, and he made his belief in it tell on others. His great body, his towering presence, his rolling voice, the strong grasp of the hand, the kindling eye, all told the steady advance in the hold that his work got to have on the Church.

And his end was characteristic of the rest. He wanted to visit and become better acquainted with the colored work carried on by Mrs. Buford in Virginia, and he made use of his presence at the Church Congress in Richmond to go there first. He had to ride in an open wagon twenty-four hours after leaving the railroad, and as much back. This was too much for him. He sank under it, and could not attend the Congress, was taken to New York, and in ten days died.

The extent of the loss to the Church of this wise, large-hearted man cannot be computed. Every missionary has in him lost a friend. He knew the work, and the capacity of the workers as no one else did. It is difficult to see how another can readily be found who can take up the tasks which have been laid down, and fill out the large impression of the office which Dr. Twing created.

STATE GROWTH.

A visit to the western counties of the State shows what a tremendous accession it is having in all the forms of material growth. The counties are filling up with an excellent class of settlers. All the county towns are growing, and their business prospering on account of the abundance of all the crops. All the appliances indicating prosperity in the character of the buildings, the provision for gas and water-works, the introduction of daily papers, and the improvement of the streets, show that an advance has been made from the first experimental life of the community. The hotels are becoming large and handsome; there are opera houses in many towns; the shade trees are getting size; residences are built with gas and water pipes, and furnaces put in. The class of goods offered for sale shows taste and the possession of means.

Kansas City can hardly any longer be spoken of as other than a first class city. Its growth, its mighty energy, its tireless efforts to reach out for new trade, the great net-work of railways which are centering there, the heavy wholesale transactions, and the business in packing and manufactures, mark it as one of the marvels of American enterprise and energy.

Scarcely less wonderful is St. Joseph, with its exceptionally large wholesale trade, and its great accumulation of capital and its beautiful residences.

Sedalia is answering the query what can ever make a great town in the midst of the prairie, without water power, by steadily going on with its growth. It is its own reason for being. One by one the railroads have found it to their interest to get there and cross lines. Then came the large machine shops, and a heavy jobbing trade, and now the city, by its handsome residences and shade trees is becoming beautiful for situation, and has an assured future.

Springfield reminds one now of Kansas City a few years ago, with its streets crowded, and its hundreds of wagons from away off towards Arkansas and other parts. With its large machine shops, and its mills and factories, it is maintaining its old place as the business centre of the South, west.

Hardly a place in the State is as beautiful as Carthage, regularly laid out, with streets well shaded. In the midst of a country of abounding fertility, with a home demand for all that can be raised, with mineral wealth almost at their doors, and iron-works which send machinery away off into New Mexico; here is another center of importance.

In the same county, but wholly different, is Joplin, with 5,000 people, and lead developments all the time increasing in richness, it has caught its second breath, and was never so solidly prosperous as now. It has white-lead works, with machinery of the best, and zinc works of large extent, and a woolen mill as large as any in the State, and street railway. It will probably never be handsome, but it will certainly have an abiding and growing place in the State.

Perhaps the most phenomenal growth of all is Rich Hill. We had to laugh a while at its bombast and brag, but any one will make a huge mistake who leaves out Rich Hill in counting up the resources of the West. With a six foot vein of coal lying within six feet of the surface over thousands of acres, and railways reaching out for it; here are the conditions where very soon there must be great manufacturing interests. They are already beginning to be established, and Mr. Gould has already spent heavily, and is about to give more to bring here the industries into which the use of coal and lead, and iron and zinc enter.

Nevada on one side and Butler on the other side of Rich Hill, county towns of rich counties, are fairly humming with trade. In the first an opera house has just been built, costing $20,000, and in both gas is about to be introduced.

And all this is not a temporary flurry. It is the beginning of a strong, continuous growth. The land is there, the coal is there, and the metals are there; and the people are going to be there. Of course there may be bad years and temporary reverses, but it is startling to see what a vast future there is going to be in that portion of the State, of which only a few salient features have been mentioned.

Quite as much could have been said of Lexington, in its way, of Maryville and of Cameron. The whole country is vitalized with a new energy.

If only we can with at all an equal step keep pace with this material growth in the interests of the Gospel of Christ and the Church of God. The rarest wisdom, and the most tireless energy, and the most utter devotion will be needed to claim any fair and proportionate recognition for spiritual interests and religious truth and duty.

TRUST FUNDS.

A year or two ago word was brought to the Bishop that a lady was proposing to give a lot of ground in a location that was likely to become valuable for a church. Some time after it was intimated that there was needed to be paid for it a small sum, $150, and the Bishop was asked whether he had not in his hands funds that could be used for this purpose. A short time after it was found that there were also some back taxes, amounting to $100 due, on which costs were piling up. The Bishop had no funds at his command available for this. The offer was kept open for a while, and then the person who brought the proffer bought the land himself on the terms which had been offered to the Church, and in a few weeks sold it for $1,000, and doubled his money. It was one of those chances of which the Bishop has seen many, which for want of ability, have slipped through the Church's hands.

Persons often, when wanting the Church to take up some enterprise, parishes wanting aid to build a Church, ask: "Has not the Church somewhere a fund for this?" The Bishop has generally to reply that he knows of none, except individual Churchmen to whom recourse may be had. At this point there comes in often a growl about the huge wealth of Trinity church, New York, or "those big churches in St. Louis," or the idea of writing to Mrs. Stewart or Vanderbilt.

If any persons will take the pains to look into the Convention Journal they will see the amount and the sources of the Trust Funds which come into the Bishop's hands each year. They do not come to very large sums. One generous Churchman has put a certain amount into the Bishop's hands every year since his consecration for his disposal; some little comes from a few of the Bishop's old parishioners or friends in the East; some individuals and parishes give small sums, generally for special objects. All these, amounting to only a few hundred dollars, have to be dealt out by the spoonful to different objects; so much to help in the building of a church in a growing town, which without a little impetus of this kind the people would not have courage to start; so much for a parsonage in a place where high rents and frequent removals have made an incumbency almost impossible; so much for a missionary's family when the Bishop is aware of need that nothing else can reach; so much for books for candidates. It is but a trifle that is possible, anyway.

But of the larger opportunities which the Church should make use of, the lands to be bought in localities where there is sure to be a large town, the chances to use the present moment when so little can do so much, the openings passing, and which take one's breath away by their opportuneness, and leave us to struggle on for years if they are lost; these are beyond the Bishop generally for lack of means. Perhaps one of these days, in happier and wiser times, the Bishop will have the resources placed in his reach by which he can act efficiently for the Church's needs.

DIOCESAN ITEMS.

—The Bishop has recently confirmed as follows: Sedalia, 8; Jefferson City, 2; Cuba, 3; Rolla, 8; Springfield, 6; Carthage, 1; Nevada City, 3; Rich Hill, 1; Butler, 5; Independence, 1; Lee's Summit, 2; Grace, St. Louis (one for St. George's), 14; Eureka, 2.

—In the arrangement of the new Church at Rolla a neat device has been introduced by the gentlemen who has had so much to do with the fitting up of the church, and which he got the suggestion of from a church in the East. It has been recommended before in THE NEWS. A neat little tablet is hung on the Wall, at the head of the church, on each side of the chancel arch. On one, below the word Day, is a ledge, on which movable little blocks can be placed, indicating the day of the month, so that all can know where the psalter for the day is. On the other tablet, below the word Hymns, are ledges on which movable figures can be put, showing what are the hymns for the service, in size so large that they can be read all over the church. It is a good idea.

—They are aroused in Lebanon to the need of a Church building. It is a prerequisite even to their having any Services. The time has become so large that the other places of worship to which they used to resort are occupied all the town; and the court room is altogether too untidy. They have $150 raised for this, and hope to have the present of a lot. On the occasion of the Bishop's recent visit he appointed an efficient committee, who will set to work immediately, securing a lot, and further pledges, and getting a plan and estimates for a small church, and will have it built in a few months.

—The Rev. Wm. B. Bolmer has accepted the call of the vestry of Trinity church, Hannibal, to the rectorship of that parish, and has probably by this time entered upon his duties. He comes from Greeley, Colorado, and his bishop, while reluctantly parting with him, declares him to be one of the strongest men that he has in his jurisdiction,—a good preacher and an indefatigable missionary. He is a young man, and is married. The ladies of the parish there have just completed the putting down of a new carpet, at a cost of nearly $300. Which is nearly paid for.

—One of our clergy, who is thoroughly devoted to his work, and would be one of the last to be thought of as secularized, and yet who, in view of his growing family, saw the need of a home secured for them, recently bought a plot of four lots in a town, which had on it a substantial, but not new, house. He paid $1400 for it, to be paid in one, two, and three years. By himself and his sons he went to work and improved the house, spending $300, and has now a home with eleven rooms, several of which are large. He has sold one lot for $800, and has been offered $800 for another lot, but thinks he will get $1000 for it, and has been offered $2500 for the place, including the three lots and the house. He has no idea of selling. This sturdy, self-help, when it is not at the cost of devotion to one's work, is most praiseworthy.

—Our old friend, Col. Jas. R. Shaler, once Secretary of our Convention, then of Ohio, where he acted as lay reader, and did much toward building a church at Dennison, now in Old Mexico, and a devout, outspoken Churchman everywhere, recently saw a number of THE NEWS, sent him by a friend, and transmitted his subscription to THE NEWS for two years, and $20 to the Bishop to be used at his discretion for the calls made on him. It was like him.

—The Rev. C. E. D. Griffith, of Pittsburgh, Pa., has been called to the Rectorship of Emmanuel Church, St. Louis county, in place of the Rev. Mr. Gauthier, resigned. The ladies are at work furnishing the rectory.

—On the evening of the day in which Col. Ingersoll delivered his infidel lecture in Kansas City, which was attended by two thousand people, and created a great stir, a service of reparation was held in St. Mary's Church by the Rev. Mr. Jardine. It consisted of a penitential hymn, a bidding prayer, which included the following announcement, after each of which there was silent prayer:

First—For the good estate of the Holy Catholic church.

Second—For all who have strayed away from the light of truth into the darkness of error and sin.

Third—For all who are wont to pray "Lead us not into temptation," and yet presumptuously expose themselves thereto.

Fourth—For all who thoughtlessly aid the cause of Satan by countenancing attacks upon the Christian faith.

Fifth—For all who claim the Christian name and yet remain to hear God's justice maligned and his word reviled.

Sixth—For all who have forsaken the God of their youth and have become prayerless and careless regarding their spiritual condition.

Seventh—A prayer for all men.

Then followed another penitential hymn and an address. The congregation on the occasion, which was quite large, included a number other than Church people.

—The debt on the Church at Joplin is all paid and the people are anxious for a clergyman. As they can not take his whole time, there is difficulty in combining this work with another.

—Capt. John W. Luke, having resigned as a member of the Starring Committee, Hon. John D. Pope, of St. George's, has been elected to fill the vacancy.

—There was still a small remainder of debt, and so the consecration of St. Mark's church, Butler, was postponed until the next, it was hoped, a special visit of the Bishop, in less than a twelve-month. A handsome carpet, and altar cloth had just been procured; one of the gentlemen had liberally given beautiful reflectors to the church. At the Service the building was packed with people, and many had to leave. There is a fine opening for Church work there now, and the congregation want the entire time of a clergyman.

—The New York Prayer Book Society has given to the Rev. Mr. Dunn, for Trinity church, Independence, a beautiful large quarto Oxford Bible, and large Prayer Book, both bound in Turkey morocco, for the new church.

—Mr. Wm. H. Goodisson, recently a Presbyterian minister, was admitted to Deacon's Orders in St. James' church, Macon City, on Friday, 1st inst. The candidate was presented by the Rev. E. Talbot, and the sermon was preached by the Bishop. The Rev. Messrs. Robert Talbot, of Monroe, and W. W. Corbyn, were also present and assisted. The Rev. Mr. Goodisson will take charge of Brookfield and Kirksville. A beautiful stained glass memorial window has been recently placed in the chancel, in memory of Mrs. P. M. Wright. It was made in London, and is an exquisite piece of work.

—The Rev. Mr. Silvester and the Rev. Mr. Betts had overcoats taken from their front halls within a few weeks by sneak thieves. It was a dirty, mean business.

—The Rev. G. C. Tucker has been holding Services every Thursday evening at St. James' church, Ellettsville, and the attendance has been very good. Many families are removing out into that quarter of the city. The Sunday-school is maintained under the charge of Dr. Drake. There is an effort now making to secure the services of Mr. Tucker for every Sunday.

—The theatrical venture in behalf of St. Luke's Hospital, St. Louis, netted to its projectors $2000.

—The Rev. Mr. Mann was in St. Louis and held Service in Christ church on the 3d inst., at Kansas City on the 4th, at Fulton on the 5th, and at Louisiana on the 6th. He has had in his seven years work among the deaf mutes 167 baptisms and 134 communicants. He has officiated at 102 different places, and in 118 parishes. He visits each of about fifty places from one to thirty times a year.

—At Rich Hill the number of Church people has very greatly increased, with the large increase of the town. They are contemplating the building of a brick church in the Spring on the valuable lot given by Col. Brown, on the public square. The Bishop has promised them liberal help for this work.

—They have now at the Church of the Holy Communion in this city a Service of the Holy Communion every Thursday morning at ten o'clock. On Sundays, when the Communion is to be celebrated at the 11 o'clock Service, the Rector passes from the sentences to the Lord's Prayer, and after the third collect begins immediately the Communion Office. This obviates the repetition of the Confession, and gives the congregation the benefit of the Morning Prayer and lessons, which are lost if the prayers are said earlier.

—The large pipe organ which has been in the Church of the Good Samaritan in this city, and which, in the probable sale of that property very soon for secular purposes, has to be taken down, is now for sale at a price much reduced below its original cost. It would have to be boxed and stored before it could be used by the congregation of the Good Samaritan, which has as yet no building. To avoid this cost and risk it is offered for sale. For a small amount it could be set up and put in good order. Its original price was over $1,000. It will be sold for $200, cash. Persons thinking of purchasing may write to the Bishop.

—“Famous” is intending to send Santa Claus to the mission Sunday schools of this city to distribute presents.

—It has not been thought best to prosecute further for the present the plan of building up a Church Academy in Springfield. The Congregationalists have built up Drury College there and expended on it $200,000, the most of which has come from the East in large amounts. The Diocese, or the people in Springfield, have not been at any outlay for the property which we have there, which is a larger plot, well located, with a convenient building of thirteen rooms, and for the debt which is on the property there is hardly any chance, in the multitude of claims all the time requiring money in the dioceses, that it can be paid, although it is an admirable property if it could be held. There have been about forty scholars right along, but these do not yield sufficient support for the teachers, with interest to be paid. The Bishop has therefore reluctantly felt compelled to inform the Rev. Mr. Ward, the very efficient head of the schools, that he cannot advise him to press the matter further, and he will accept duty in the Diocese of Springfield. We will lose in Mr. W. a very valuable clergyman.

—On Tuesday, 5th inst., the Bishop, accompanied by the Rev. Mr. Scheetz, of Kirkwood, made a visit to Eureka, in St. Louis county. The day was very rainy and muddy, but at 3 P. M. there was a very fair congregation in the Methodist Church, when, after the services and sermon, the Bishop confirmed two persons. Mr. Scheetz adds to his work, at Kirkwood, regular services at Georgetown and Afton, and also regularly goes to St. Paul and Eureka to minister to the Church's scattered children in these places.

—The new vestry room of Grace Church, Kirkwood, is in progress. It will be of stone and about 16x12 feet. The removal of the old chancel screens gives greater space and light and ventilation to the upper part of the church.

CHRIST CHURCH, ROLLA.

The episcopal appointment for the twenty third Sunday after Trinity, at Rolla, was duly filled, to the great comfort of the little flock at that place. The first service was the consecration of their new building, commenced about a year ago, and first used on Easter day.

The deed of the property to the trustees of the Parochial Trust Fund was read by Prof. Chas. E. Wait, and the request to consecrate by the minister in charge, the Rev. Wm. Johnson, and the sentence of consecration by the Rev. F. B. Scheetz, of Grace church, Kirkwood. After Morning Prayer and the ante communion service, the Bishop preached and then proceeded to celebrate the Holy Communion. In the afternoon the Bishop confirmed an invalid and aged lady in private, and at night after Evening Prayer, seven others received the apostolic laying on of hands.

Thus, after patient and earnest labor, has been brought to a good conclusion the effort to erect a house for the public worship of God, and to have it separated from all unhallowed, worldly and common uses. It is truly an outpost of the Church, being the only building she has on the line of the St. Louis and San Francisco railroad between St. Louis county and Springfield, and nearly midway between the two. It is of wood, thoroughly braced and neatly painted, with substantial stone foundation; extreme length 54 feet, including vestibule 6 feet, nave 40 feet, and chancel 8 feet, and will seat about 150. The plastering is colored with alabastine, on the walls of blue, and on the ceiling with a paler tint of the same color. The ceiling is pointed; the curved braces to the principal rafters, and other inside wood work, as well as the seats, being stained dark. The chancel window is of stained glass, a gift from Prof. Wait. The other windows are frosted with ornamental borders. The lectern, altar, chancel-rail, and lamp-brackets, as well as the ornamental work on the windows, are the joint labor of the Rev. Mr. Johnson and Prof. Wait. The chancel arch is especially well proportioned, while the whole building is chaste and appropriate in all its proportions and finish. It is a beautiful and substantial proof of what can be done under many disadvantages and with limited means where there are even a few determined, but wise, tasteful, and earnest workers. The entire cost, including carpets, lamps and seats, is $1,171 00. Since its first occupation on Easter-day there have been twenty baptisms, and, as was said above, eight were confirmed on the occasion of the Bishop's visitation. Bearing in mind that the last Convention report gives eighteen as the number of communicants, this mission has a present record that will not be surpassed by many other congregations in the diocese. Help, most gratefully acknowledged, was received from friends in St. Louis and elsewhere, among whom were Bishop Robertson, Edwin Harrison, J. Franklin, Simmon's Hardware Co., Cannack, S. Bent, Bridge, Beach & Co., Geo. H. Gill, and J. J. Wilkins.

There are strong indications that the success at Rolla, or some other proper motive, is about to provoke Cuba to a like good work. S.

TRINITY CHURCH, INDEPENDENCE.

It is about three years ago that the slight frame building which had then been but recently erected by the congregation in this old town was blown down by a cyclone and utterly destroyed. This was the first Church building which they had had, although the parish is nominally over twenty years old. They had previously been moving about, borrowing one church or another, worshipping in the Court House, or in halls over stores or the engine house. The loss of their building, therefore, greatly disheartened them, although its location was unfortunate, as being in the extreme rear of a lot in the middle of a block, which had a dwelling house in front. This was done while the Bishop was in Europe.

The Rev. Mr. Dunn, however, who had now become the rector, brought into use his experience in Church building, and having secured plans from an architect in Boston for a brick church, went East to endeavor to secure help. He procured $1,200. Another lot was bought, and a strong foundation costing about $350 was put in for a church with a nave 50x26, having a porch in front of 6x9, with a chancel 20x20, and a south transept 8x20, and a vestry room 10x16, the walls being 14 feet high to the eaves.

Later Mr. Dunn went East again and secured $800 more. The building is now completed except the seating. It is a very handsome building. It has an open roof, which itself cost over $1,000, very strongly framed, and ceiled within in pine in diagonal lines. The roof is about 30 feet high to the comb. The walls are smooth finished in plaster. It will seat from 250 to 300 persons. It is now furnished with chairs. The outlay up to this time, including the lot, is about $4,500, of which about $500 was derived from the selling of the former lot, and $2,000 from the East. There is a debt of $900 on the property.

There are very few of the smaller churches of the diocese which are of such fine interior and exterior effects as this. The chancel is large and wide and high. The transept gives an impression of spaciousness to the building. The vestry is of good size. The arrangement is made for gas and a furnace when they can be put in. The exterior lines are broken; the chancel is lower than the nave, and the vestry and transept give a variety and picturesqueness to the whole building. The work is all of a very substantial character. It is a building which, when finished, the diocese may be proud of. How much of all this result has been due to the energy and correct taste of Mr. Dunn will be apparent. It will not be possible to reproduce all this in many places, because the cost is beyond the ability of most of our smaller congregations, and also because it cannot be anticipated that such large assistance from abroad could be secured by any one less experienced and energetic than Mr. Dunn. Perhaps it is not always the best or safest thing for a congregation to look for a building so much beyond their own ability to construct. Still we can rejoice in this handsome church and congratulate its congregation.

REPORT ON TEMPERANCE.

At the Missionary Conference held in the Church of the Holy Communion, in this city, Sept. 25th, with the bishop of the diocese in the chair, he was requested to appoint a committee of clergymen and laymen to gather and disseminate information as to the matter of temperance in general, and of the Church Temperance Society in particular, as to its scope and methods of action. The committee thus appointed consisted of the Rev. Messrs. Reed, Silvester, Scheetz, Ingraham, D. D., and De Forest, and Messrs. L. E. Alexander, Gains Paddock, M. S. Snow, Henry F. Post and H. H. Denison.

The following report is therefore divided into the two subjects, of temperance in general, and temperance as connected with the Church:

A CONDENSED REPORT ON TEMPERANCE IN GENERAL.

There are in this country 175,266 retail liquor dealers, selling over $700,000,000 worth annually of intoxicating drinks. The direct cost of this enormous traffic to the country is beyond estimate. By statistical exhibit, "two-thirds of the pauperism, one-third of the insanity, and three-fourths of the crime of this country are the result of intemperance." Dr. Hitchcock, President of the Michigan State Board of Health, estimates "that there are continually sick or disabled from the misuse of alcoholic drinks 98,000 persons, and the estimate of 60,000 dying annually with death traceable directly, is below the number. There are not less than 130,000 widows and orphans made such yearly by liquor drinkers. In the year 1870 there were 9,200 cases of insanity directly caused by intemperance. The statistics of crime are even more astounding. In the report of the United States Commissioner of Education for 1871, is this statement: that from 80 to 90 per cent. of our criminals connect their course of crime with intemperance. Of the 14,315 inmates of the Massachusetts prison, 12,396 are reported to have been intemperate, or 84 per cent." Ninety-three per cent. of those confined in the Deer Island house of industry are confined for crimes connected with liquor. "In the New Hampshire prison sixty-five out of ninety one admit themselves to have been intemperate. Reports from every State, county and municipal prison in Connecticut made in 1871 show that more than 90 per cent. had been in habits of drink by their own admission." The warden of the Rhode Island State prison estimates 90 per cent. of his prisoners as drinkers. These relate to those who have been guilty of the more serious offenses, not mere every-day arrests for drunkenness and disorderly conduct.

Judge Allison, in a speech delivered in Philadelphia in 1872, says:

In our criminal courts we can trace four-fifths of the crimes that are committed to the influence of rum. There is not one case in twenty where a man is tried for his life in which rum is not the direct or indirect cause of the murder.

Mr. William J. Mullen, the well known and highly esteemed prison agent, in his report for 1870 says:

An evidence of the bad effects of this unholy business may be seen in the fact that there have been thirty-four murders within this city (Philadelphia) during last year alone, each one of which was traceable to intemperance, and one hundred and twenty one assaults for murder proceeding from the same cause. Of over 38,000 arrests in our city within the year, 75 per cent. were caused by intemperance. Of 18,305 persons committed to our prison within the year, more than two-thirds were the consequence of intemperance.

That this state of the case is not confined to large cities is rendered more apparent by the report of the Citizens' Association of Pennsylvania, to the Legislature, that two-thirds of the pauperism of the State are justly attributable to intemperance.

In the State of Missouri are 6,372 retail dealers in the liquor traffic, and $30,000,000 are spent annually in strong drink. In the city of St. Louis, in round numbers, are 2,000 places where intoxicating liquors are sold.

The report of the Comptroller of the city of St. Louis, for 1881-1882, shows the cost of crime in the city to be $644,288.

According to the determined statistics of States and of other cities, $483,216 are expended on account of liquor. The cost of the city charities, including the Poor House, $91,867, of which $61,244 are due to liquor. The cost of the Insane Asylum, $66,367, of which $22,122 are due to liquor—the entire actual cost of liquor being $566,643 annually.

The city received in revenue from dram shop licenses $196 657.77; subtract this from the gross cost of the liquor traffic to the city, $566,643, and we have $369 986 as the net cost of the liquor traffic to the tax payers of St. Louis.

We close our report from a quotation from an address delivered by Rev. Dr. W. G. Elliott, Chancellor of Washington University, of this city, in St. George's Episcopal church, Sept. 25, 1882. He says: "I have lived in St. Louis forty-eight years, and have seen it grow from 7,000 to nearly 400,000 inhabitants. During these years it has passed through trials of pestilence, of devastating fires, of water floods, and worst of all, from years of civil, fratricidal war. But I here assert in all soberness of mind, and readiness to prove what I say, that all the trials, and losses and sufferings, and calamities and wrong-doings of all these years combined do not equal the ruinous, moral, social, financial evils that I have seen produced during the same period by the one cause—intoxicating drinks." And the same may be said of the United States at large. All the ills that have afflicted our country in the past put together are not so terrible as this one greatest of all ills—Intemperance.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON TEMPERANCE IN CONNEXION WITH THE CHURCH.

The movement of the Protestant Episcopal Church on the subject of Temperance is so intimately connected with the action of the Church of England on the same question, that it is important to state it.

In 1874 Mr. Robert Graham began his work in the Church of England Temperance Society. Through his extraordinary labors and success, he soon became well known on this side of the ocean. The Church of America was just beginning to awake to the extent and evil of intemperance, and some of her prominent clergy and laity invited Mr. Graham to come over and help us. In March, 1881, he delivered an address in Grace Hall, New York, and a result of that meeting was the organization of a Temperance Society in the Protestant Episcopal church, on the same basis as that of the Church of England. Meeting as it did a wide and deeply-felt want, the Society sprang at once into strong life and rapid growth. Though so short a time in existence, it is now approved of by twenty six dioceses, and branch societies are being formed in others. The Church has felt so keenly the extent and evil of intemperance, not only at large but in her own family, that it has warmly welcomed any suggestions that would tend to limit and diminish its power. She realized that as an agency divinely ordained "to seek and to save the lost," she must meet this special evil with special effort. As she had her agencies in mission fields, in educational and eleemosynary institutions, so she must organize a special department, through which she could meet and combat this special form of evil. For the organization of such department she gladly accepted the aid of Mr. Graham, and his ten year's experience in the Church of England.

Your committee, therefore, in the consideration of this subject, had no work of invention before them, but only one of review; and after thorough examination and full reflection, they can suggest no improvement on the principles and mode of action of the Church Temperance Society as now existing in America. They are the more inclined to this judgment because of the remarkable declaration by the President of the National Temperance Society, Mr. Wm. E. Dodge, that nothing had occurred in fifty years which would so forward the cause of temperance as the work of the Church Temperance Society.

They, therefore, with the most cordial endorsement, submit those principles and plans, trusting and believing, when examined carefully, they will meet with a correspondingly cordial adoption throughout the diocese.

The Church Temperance Society was formed March, 1881. The objects are:—(1). Promotion of temperance. (2). The removal of causes which lead to intemperance. (3). The reformation of the Intemperate.

BASIS.

Acknowledging Temperance as the law of the Gospel; and Total Abstinence as necessary in certain cases, and desirable in others; the Society takes as its basis, "A union on perfectly equal terms between those who use moderately, and those who abstain entirely from intoxicating liquors as beverages."

GENERAL OR TEMPERANCE DECLARATION.

I recognize my duty to be always temperate myself, and to do what I can, by the help of God, to keep others from intemperance. Without binding myself to total abstinence, I engage, as a member of this Society, to be watchful of the influence of my example on those in special peril from the temptation to excess, and to discourage, in all ways that commend themselves to my judgment and my conscience, such drinking usages as are plainly at variance with the interest of good morals. This engagement is to bind only so long as I retain my certificate of membership of this Society.

SPECIAL OR TOTAL ABSTINENCE DECLARATION.

I recognize my duty to exert myself for the suppression of intemperance, and will do my utmost in the name of the Lord Jesus, both by examples and precept, to promote the objects of this Society; and in furtherance of this, I hereby agree, with the help of God, which I will seek by prayer, to abstain from all intoxicating drinks, except under medical order or for religious purposes. This pledge of total abstinence is to bind only so long as I retain my card of membership in this Society.

PRINCIPLES.

(1) That it is the duty of all members of the Church, whether clergy or laity, to use their utmost efforts, both by precept and by example, to counteract the great social evil of Intemperance.

(2) That there are cases of inveterate habits of intemperance, in which no remedy short of Total Abstinence can avail for cure.

(3) That there are many devout and conscientious persons, free from any temptation to this vice, who feel that from various causes, whether for the sake of their own health, or for the sake of the example to others, they are bound to "Total Abstinence," but that these are "cases of conscience" by which the liberty of others is not to be judged or fettered.

ULTIMATE OBJECTS.

1. The gradual reduction of the Liquor Saloons until a limited number shall have been reached, which correspond to the wants of a temperate population, inasmuch as any excess of such houses beyond this limit represents so many centres of temptation to intemperance.

2. The enforcement of the laws already in existence prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors.

(a) On Sundays.

(b) To minors.

3. The formation of coffee houses, as a counteractive to the liquor saloons.

4. Formation of reading rooms and benefit societies in connection with parochial branches.

In conclusion, believing this society is greatly needed in our diocese; that it will accomplish a great work in reforming the intemperate and saving from danger those who are now temperate; that it will raise the whole character of the Church of Missouri, and increase her influence everywhere throughout the State; that it will place her in this conflict where, as an Apostolic Church, she belongs—in the fore front in every good work; that she may expect God's blessing as she follows in the footsteps of Him who "went about doing good," we most earnestly appeal through your committee to the clergy and laity of the diocese of Missouri for action, earnest and immediate; and as a means for the furtherance of the cause do recommend:

1. That it be suggested to the Bishop of the diocese to call a general meeting of the clergy and laity of the city at such time and in such place as he may determine, respectfully suggesting the time of the meeting be just before the Lenten season of 1883.

2. That the clergy throughout the diocese be requested to preach on the subject of intemperance some time early in the Lenten season of '83, in order thereby to awaken more general interest against the meeting of the next annual Convention in May next.

3. That copies of this paper, with such other papers as your committee may designate, be sent to the clergy and a number of the laity of the diocese, asking their hearty co operation in the establishment of a diocesan branch of the Church Temperance Society.

REV. BENJ. E. REED, Chairman.

THE NEW ADDITION TO ST. JAMES ACADEMY.

The addition to St. James Academy, now enclosed, is a handsome structure and quite commodious. Its dimensions are 67x43 feet, 3 stories high and estimated value $10,000. It is somewhat larger than the main building and, in connection with it, will furnish accommodations for one hundred boarders. This property is a decided gain to the Diocese, and when completed will greatly increase the facilities of the school. The plastering and inside finishing yet remains to be done, and the work will be pushed as rapidly as funds can be procured for the purpose. It is expected that it will be ready for occupation in the early spring.

The Diocese is to be congratulated on acquiring an educational foundation so creditable. This result has been accomplished mainly through the generosity of a few noble laymen in St. Louis and elsewhere, who, by adding their contributions to what could be raised at Macon, have made it possible. The following amounts have thus far been given by friends in St. Louis. Others who subscribed have not as yet sent their checks but will, no doubt, do so soon. And all moneys sent will be most acceptable at this time and will be promptly acknowledged.

Edwin Harrison, $1,000; Joseph W. Branch, $500; Robert A. Barnes, $500; the Bishop, $250; Jas. O. Broadhead, $200; W. F. Ferguson, $250; Mrs. J. Leete, $100; Jno. W. Harrison, $100; B. W. Lewis, $100; Mrs. J. Lindell, $100; Mrs. A. C. Moore, $100; Mrs. Wm. J. Lewis, $100; Mrs. Agnes Kennet, $100; Jno. M. Gikerson, $100; Geo. S. Edgell, $100; Joseph Franklin, $50; Hugh Rogers, $50; Western Bascom, $50; J. G. W. Steedman, $50; R. M. Wilson, $50; Mrs. Hugh Campbell, $50; Geo. H. Gill, $50; D. E. Garrison, $20; Robert Wade, $25; Robert W. Golson, $20; J. W. Luke, $10; J. J. Mitchell, $100; D. F. Leavitt, $5; L. B. Collins, $5; Ben. S. O'Fallon, $10; S. S. Boyd, $10; L. S. Holden, $10. Total from St. Louis, $4,075. In addition to the above, and at a time when it was sorely needed, Mr. John G. Guthery, of Miami, Saline county, sent me his check for $500. Mr. Guthery has since placed all his sons, three in number, in the school, and is thus still contributing, in the most practical way, to the maintenance of the school which his generosity so greatly assisted in placing upon a sure foundation. There is still room for a few more boys at the Academy, and they will be received at any time. The second half year begins Feb. 3, 1883.

ETHELBERT TALBOT.

We hope soon to furnish, for the CHURCH NEWS, a cut of the school building.

Sunday-School Column.

All communications for these columns, and Sunday-school exchanges, should be addressed to J. J. Wilkins, Editor, Boonville, Mo.

It is a good sign, when there is a new interest in an old subject. And there is hardly any subject on which a reviving of interest is not important every once in a while. Here is a call from the mountains in Virginia, which shows a healthful anxiety over elementary truth in the Sunday school cause. A subscriber writes:

I want something on this subject: "The claims of the Sunday-school upon the church." Please send me something,—a book, or a pamphlet, or something; if you have nothing, please take a little trouble and endeavor to find something on the subject. I am out here in the mountains, and have access to no library, and can get nothing here. I will send the money for the same by return mail.

Why, what more than the Bible do you want? Isn't that something? The Bible is brimful of this subject—as of every other important one. Abraham was a Sunday-school teacher before he was a parent. He had a school of more than three hundred scholars before Ishmael was born. His instructed, or catechised, scholars were a power in the Lord's service. (See Gen. 14: 14-16.) The whole plan of the Jewish Church gave prominence, by the Lord's command, to the Sunday school idea; to the teaching of the Bible to young and to old together in the public assemblings of the church. The family was not deemed sufficient for this Bible teaching work in that day; but all the people were to be brought to the Sunday school that those who had not learned at home might learn there. (See Deut. 31: 11-13.) The Levites were Sunday school teachers. Teaching the law itself was a part of their regular business. [See Deut 33; 10.] When the state of religion was low, in the days of Jehoshaphat, that king sent out the Levites as Sunday-school missionaries all through his country; and they taught in Judah, and had the book of the law of the Lord with them, and went about throughout all the cities of Judah, and taught the people." [See 2 Chron. 17: 8, 9.] In the days of our Lord on earth, the Sunday-school was a power in Jerusalem. It is said in the Jewish Talmud that there were nearly five hundred of the schools in Jerusalem; for the Sunday-school was the regular second service in every synagogue. The only incident of the boyhood of Jesus which is given us in the Gospels, tells of his being at Sunday-school, asking questions and answering questions, as any good scholar in any Sunday-school ought to do. And the boy Jesus was surprised that his parents looked for him anywhere else, when he could be in Sunday school. [See Luke 2: 45 49.] Why, the Sunday-school, or the Bible school—the assembly of young and old for the social study of the Bible through the form of question and answer—was the approved plan of religious instruction long before "the pulpit" as such was a recognized agency of the church. In fact, the only place in the Bible where "a pulpit" is referred to, shows that that pulpit was a superintendent's desk, at a regular old fashioned Sunday-school, where the Bible text was read and explained after the best of modern methods. [See Neh. 8: 1 8.] From Paul's day to ours, the Berean sort of Christians, who look out proof-texts and hunt the Bible together, have been, and they always will be, "more noble" than those who neglect this Sunday-school work. You want "something" to show "the claims of the Sunday-school upon the church." Why, one text ought to be sufficient on that subject. The gist of the whole matter is in it. For your part of the country and for any other: "But if any [man or church] provideth not for his own, and specially his own household, he hath denied the faith, and is worse than an infidel."—Exchange.

Sometimes a truth is all the more pointed for its vagueness. This is illustrated by the familiar story of the preacher who told, in the pulpit, of a recent theft committed in his neighborhood, and said he was now going to throw a stone directly at the thief. As the preacher looked down into the congregation, and swung back his arm with a throwing motion, the rogue, supposing that he was discovered, ducked his head down below the seat rail. Perhaps it will be well to act on this idea, in publishing the following complaint just received from a perplexed Sunday-school worker, who writes in genuine desire for information. If we mentioned even the state from which the inquiry came, it would at once relieve the minds of men in thirty seven other states, who ought to be uneasy at its reading. We shall hurl it right at the head of the guilty teacher. Do we mean you? Yes, thou art the man! Here is the complaint.

A Sunday school teacher, very competent in many ways, and with no lack of talent, has the tobacco habit, and comes to his class with his breath and clothes very much tainted. He has an interesting and important class, who are disgusted with this habit of their teacher, and some have actually left. What should be done in such a case by the superintendent or pastor? How can such teachers be reformed?

It might be a good plan for the superintendent to set a semi circle of small pans containing a solution of chloride of lime, or of carbolic acid, as safe disinfectants, around the back of that teacher's chair; or, possibly, aromatic pastiles would be pleasanter for the remainder of the school and the superintendent could step down from his desk and light these when the teacher took his seat. As an explanation to the teacher himself, the superintendent might gently suggest that the teacher was too good a man to lose entirely when so inexpensive a remedy as this would neutralize his only really obnoxious quality. So much for the protection of the school. As to the other point, "How can such teachers be reformed?" it is not so easy to give an answer. Such a fact as that stated in this letter to us ought to have its influence on conscientious and thoughtful teachers. Few tobacco-users know how offensive their habit makes their persons. The smell of a good cigar while burning is not unpleasant to many who never use tobacco themselves; but the residuum of old tobacco-fumes in the beard and clothing, is one of the most offensive odors which pollute earth's air. The writer of this note knows of a case where a tobacco-smoking physician came to see a sick child, and as he leaned over the little sufferer, the reeking fumes of his tobacco-steeped person caused the child to cough and struggle, and the little one actually died in a struggle with suffocation. Its parents believe that it was stifled to death with tobacco. Another instance might be named, where a delicate lady in her last illness longed for religious council from her pastor, but firmly said that she could not stand another visit from him, because of the tobacco-fumes which he brought with him, but could not take away. No, we don't know how you can cure that teacher; but the disinfectants may protect the school.—[Exchange.]

A real blessing is the Stylographic Pen. It is the neatest writing instrument we have ever seen for the desk and the pocket. and uses any common ink, holding enough to write several days without refilling. It combines all the readiness of a lead pencil and the durability of any pen. For speed and legibility it is marvelous. There is no stopping to dip for ink when a word is half written. The entire material of the pen is non-corrosive. When it is not in use it may be closed up and laid away, or carried in the pocket for weeks, it being perfectly air tight, and then in a moment put to work. In writing, it does the next thing to thinking. Any person who has writing to do, will do himself a never-forgotten favor to get one at first sight. Try it and be convinced.—Editor Religious Telescope, Dayton, Ohio.

MR. BOYD, of the Second Baptist church, in this city, shows his enterprise in leaving about all the houses for many blocks on all sides of his church his parochial paper, which is neatly printed, with twelve pages. It gives an account of the many societies and agencies by which he keeps his people busy. They include old and young, men and women. The energy and system in all this is most praiseworthy.

THERE cannot be much any longer of principle in Presbyterian polity against the idea of an Episcopate, when in this and probably other States they have a chief, directing missionary secretary, who travels about like a bishop, holding services, reviving local interest, and setting in order the things which are wanting. After all, in counting up the real reasons for antagonism, this which figured at the start in such an important manner, must be counted out. The common sense of the thing shows that they must have something corresponding to the Bishop.

THE Methodists of this city are showing their good sense in providing for the erection next spring of a parsonage for their new church up town. It has only been built a year, but it was immediately paid for; and now they propose to spend $10,000 for a parsonage. They know that they can get a better class of minister, and get from him a more single and devoted service, if he is free from the anxiety of renting a house with the danger of removal, or a raising of the rent. Long ago St. George's, and the Church of the Holy Communion, and St. John's should have provided themselves with homes for their rectors.

Now is the time to see to the broken windows and to stopping the wide cracks in doors and sashes, which cause draughts and colds, and keep people away from church all winter. See that the stove is replenished before the sermon begins. Have the fire made in time before morning service to have the church comfortable and not smoky. Already with the first cold snap the accounts begin to come in of the churches catching fire. Look to the rubbish which has accumulated during the summer about the furnace, and the unprotected wood work near the stoves, and the festoons hanging near the pipes. Look also to the insurance policy. The word too often is, "The policy had just run out and we were intending to renew it next week."

DIOCESAN INTEREST.

It does not always seem that the paying of their debts by the churches in this city, and the getting of these troubles out of the way, causes them to be of more service in the general interests and work of the diocese. It looked often as though the debts were not counted in as a cause of anxiety, and the parishes gave, in addition to large amounts for the Orphans' Home and St. Luke's Hospital and diocesan expenses, their hundreds of dollars for diocesan missions. Now one local interest after another crowds on them, the enlargements and improvements of the property, and scarcely is one out of the way before another is found, so that it seems almost that any such standard of giving for our diocesan work, for individuals or the parish, as used to be frequent, is one of the "lost arts." Few persons get to know about the work, or fortunes, or growth of the Church in this vast State. Parochial missionary meetings are no longer held as they used to be; the interests are not spoken of; collectors are not at work. Really, it is the steady coming of one plan after another for parochial adornment and outfit, the mention of the diocese and its needs as entitled to a place in the thoughts and giving of good Churchman or a congregation will be as incongruous as the proposing of family prayers at a party.

Of course the debts ought to have been paid, and of course there is no connexion between their being paid and the deficient interest shown in general work. Naturally, the parishes feeling confident now of the permanence of their work, and the possession of their property, are disposed to spend money for its improvement, as they could not do and were not disposed to do, when the whole outlook seemed so uncertain.

But there ought not to be allowed such a coincidence, if it is only that as the removing of such great burdens of debt, and the shrinking of the steady giving of the congregations for diocesan missions to one-fourth or one-third of what they regularly used to do. There is always a larger call and need now than ever before when the State was smaller; and there is as great inspiration to giving from the results accomplishing as ever. Now is the time for the rectors to call parochial meetings, and prepare themselves, and state the case fairly, and organize efforts, so that all will see the need of steady giving on the part of each, and will have the opportunity to put such good purpose into effect.

SPENCER'S OBSERVATIONS.

Mr. Herbert Spencer uttered a significant commentary on the theory which many are indulging in now that for our safety among the dangers to which in a republic our institutions are exposed, we may depend on education and the diffusion of political knowledge. He thinks the republican government is the highest form of government, and therefore requires the highest type of human nature. But he observes the perils which are coming from the universal absorption in money-making, and the gradual growing up of a class of officials who do the managing, and are robbing the people virtually of their liberties, in the enormous privileges granted to monopolies, in the easy way in which we allow aggressions on personal rights to go unchecked; in the despotism of the political boss system.

And then, when he was asked whether for the cure of this dependence might not be had on education and the spread of political knowledge, he emphatically declared "no," that this was to be essentially a question of character; that it was an utter delusion to think that education was the panacea for all evils. Those who do the controlling are educated men. The cure would only come in putting in a purer character, and better motives, so as to prevent education itself from being a curse.

This is worth thinking about, for those who think that the school, and the college, and the university will cure our troubles. Only those influences which will destroy selfishness, and put in a new heart and better principles, and form godly characters will render any help.

CHILDREN'S COT.

ST. LUKE'S HOSPITAL.

For several years an effort has been making to raise $3,000 from the children, and those who are interested in them, for the perpetual endowment for a cot and a room for a child at our Hospital, where a child not able to be otherwise provided for, may be kindly taken care of when sick or undergoing treatment. By little and little we have gone on so far. Gifts are urgently asked for this purpose, and will be credited in THE NEWS. They may be sent to the Bishop, 2727 Chestnut street, St. Louis.

PERSONAL.

—The Rev. the Earl of Mulgrave is about to resign his parish in England, and go as a missionary to British Columbia.

—The clerical obituary for the month, including the mention of the name of the Rev. Dr. Twing, of whose apprehended demise we spoke in our last number, comprises the names of the Rev. Dr. Henry Olmstead, of Connecticut; the Rev. Wm. S. Walker, D. D., of New Jersey; the Rev. John F. Ernst, of Buffalo, N. Y.; the Rev. Geo. P. Schetky, D. D., of Michigan; the Rev. J. C. Acomb, of the diocese of Springfield, Ill.; C. H. B. Tremaine, of Connecticut.

—The Rev. Wm. H. Vibbert, of Germantown, Penn., son-in-law of the late Wm. Welsh, has been called to St. James' church, Chicago, to succeed the Rev. Mr. Courtney, and has accepted the invitation. It will only now be patient.

—The Rev. R. C. Wall, of Carthage, Mo., has just taken charge of the churches in Tiskilwa and Princeton, in the diocese of Quincy, Ill.

—Bishop Talbot, of Indiana, on account of ill health, has intimated to his Standing Committee his purpose to resign the diocese. When resignations like these are made, the Bishop has also to inform the Presiding Bishop of his desire, and the reasons for it. Then if it be more than six months before the meeting of the General Convention, the Presiding Bishop has to call a meeting of the House of Bishops to decide on the question, and only when a majority of these give their consent to the resignation, is it complete. The policy of the Church has been against the encouragement for small causes of the multiplication of resigned Bishops, and so there have been but few episcopal resignations. Bishop Talbot in Indiana felt the inconvenience of the position of Assistant Bishop, and in his own disability he has long said that he would never call for an assistant, but either favor a division of the diocese or resign outright.

—It has been ascertained that the largest Episcopate of which there is any certain knowledge was that of Bishop Wilson, the saintly Bishop of Sodor and Man, which continued for 57 years, 1 month and 21 days. There are but seven in any branch of the Church, and from the beginning who are known to have been Bishop a greater number of years than those of our presiding Bishop.

—The Convention of Mississippi have unanimously elected the Rev. Dr. Hugh M. Thompson as Assistant Bishop.

—The Bishop of Pennsylvania has deposed from the ministry D. Otis Kellogg, D. D., Presbyter.

—The Missionary Bishop of Cape Palmas, Dr. Penick, has come home to stay because he cannot live in Africa. It looks very much as though we should strive to find among our colored clergymen a fit person able to live in that pestilential climate.

—The Rev. Edward Rainsford, of Toronto, Canada, a young and glowing English clergyman, has accepted the long vacant rectorship of St. George's Church, New York.

—Bishop Steere, of the English Church in Central Africa, for the sake of teaching others and setting an example, shrank from no form of labor and, as a carpenter, a compositor and printer, a bricklayer and architect, and in many other capacities besides that of a philologist, a scholar, a preacher and a bishop, he exercised his various gifts and showed high ability in all.

—Mr. Ralph Talbot, formerly of this city, and who was greatly interested in Sunday School work here, has become the Superintendent at the Cathedral Sunday School in Denver, and the school, from three teachers, and thirty-five scholars, when he took hold of it, has gone up to seventeen teachers and nearly two hundred scholars. He has also organized a Sunday School Missionary Host, after the pattern of ours.

—The Archbishop of Canterbury is dead. He was seventy-one years of age. He was consecrated in 1856 and translated to Canterbury in 1868. He has been ill for months and the spring seems to have gone out of his life since the numerous deaths in his family of late years. He was a man of massive character and of great influence. No such personage has filled the primatial seat for over two hundred years.

—Several of the Bishops are invalided, and others also are visiting in the vicinity of New York. Bishop Paddock, of Washington Territory, is East for the Winter, and has a "fad" in his hospital. It looks as though there were little else to be given for in the jurisdiction. Bishop Penick is in Wheeling. Bishop Elliott is not well and in New York. Bishop Garret is just returned from abroad, and the Bishop of Long Island has just gone over.

Folly in Waiting.

It is the height of folly to wait until you are in bed with disease that may last months, when you can be cured by a timely use of Parker's Ginger Tonic. We have known sickly families made the healthiest by it.—[Observer.]

OWING to sickness at the Orphans' Home the annual reunion of clergy and friends of the Home will not take place the coming Christmas, but the children will have their dinner on Tuesday, 26th inst.

BOONVILLE.

I have just returned from Boonville, where I met Mr. J. J. Wilkins, the untiring Church worker and lay reader of the parish. I administered the Lord's Supper to forty persons, an increase of the previous average attendance of twenty. On the Sunday before Mr. W. read a sermon which he hoped would produce this result. He was accordingly not disappointed. But that which astonished me most was the condition of the Sunday-school. From a very few it has risen to 160 scholars, and that in some three or four weeks. Our good Bishop will hardly believe his own eyes when he sees that nursery of the Church. I have been persuaded in my own mind for many years past that if the clergy in each parish had a special lay assistant, the prosperity of our work would be unbounded. With such men as the late Wm. Welsh and James M. Aertser, of Philadelphia, and J. J. Wilkins of Missouri, who could count the increase that God would give!

BOOK NOTICES.

LITTELL'S LIVING AGE FOR 1883. This standard weekly magazine, now nearly forty years old, continues to afford the most convenient means of keeping informed in the best literature of the day, and abreast with the work of the most eminent writers. It gives an amount of reading unequalled by any other periodical, and is the only satisfactorily complete compilation of a current literature which embraces more and more every year the productions of the ablest writers and thinkers in all departments of literary and scientific work. Hence its importance and value to American readers. It fills the place of many quarterly, monthly and weekly publications, and the reader is thus enabled, at a small expenditure of time and money, to keep pace with the best thought and literature of the time. The prospectus is worthy the attention of all who are selecting their periodicals for the new year. Reduced clubbing rates with other periodicals are given; and to new subscribers remitting now for the year 1883, the intervening numbers are sent gratis. Littell & Co., Boston, are the publishers.

THE NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW for December commands attention no less by the eminence of its contributors than by the value and timeliness of its table of contents. First, there is a symposium on "The Health of American Women," regarded from three distinct points of view: Dr. Dio Lewis considers the question as it is affected by the prevailing style of feminine attire, especially by the practice of tight lacing; Mrs. Elizabeth Cady Stanton points out the many injurious influences of social environment; and Dr. James Read Chadwick sets forth the effects of education, climate and food, and finally discusses the question whether the modification produced in the European human type by the transfer to America lessens the fertility of women. Gov. Buren R. Sherman, of Iowa, writes of the "Constitutional Prohibition" of the liquor traffic in that State. General Grant, in an article entitled "An Undeserved Stigma," states the facts of Gen. Fitz John Porter's case. Richard A. Proctor writes of "The Influence of Food on Civilization," discussing some of the most interesting sociological problems of the present day and of the near future. Prof. Fisher, of Yale College, in defining the causes of "The Decline of Clerical Authority," holds that this decline, which affects the status of church and minister only as a part or function of the secular State, is by no means to be regretted, and that the spiritual influence of the church and its ministry is to-day greater than of old. Finally, there is a symposium upon the conditions of "Success on the Stage," the contributors being six of our most prominent actors—John McCullough, Joseph Jefferson, Madame Modjeska, Lawrence Barrett, Maggie Mitchell, and William Warren.

GEOLOGICAL SKETCHES. By Archibald Geikie. Price 15 cents. J. Fitzgerald & Co., Publishers, 30 Lafayette Place, New York.

This work forms No. 38 of the Humboldt Library of Popular Science Literature, and is one of the most instructive volumes in that valuable series. Its author is Director-General of the Government Survey of Great Britain, and the charming essays here published contain the results of his vacation rambles in both hemispheres, from the Rocky Mountains to the Rhine. The work is a practical demonstration of how scientific knowledge, when, mated with literary tact, can invest the dry facts of natural science with the highest degree of interest for the general reader.

Variety and freshness of illustrations and literary features are claimed for the December CENTURY. John Marshall, the Great Chief-Justice, is the subject of the frontispiece, which, with character sketches and many portraits, belongs to E. V. Smalley's paper on "The Supreme Court of the United States. Besides giving a clear idea of the functions of the Supreme Court, the writer describes picturesquely the routine and the humor of that dignified body, and gives several anecdotes of the chief-justices. "My adventures in Zuni" is Frank H. Cushing's first paper on the remarkable tribe of Pueblo Indians with whom he has been living as an adopted chief for two years or more. William Elliot Griffis explains "The Korean Origin of Japanese Art," and brings to the assistance of the text several striking reproductions of old Korean art. A portrait of the late Dr. John Brown, the author of the inimitable story "Rab and his Friends," which includes a portrait of the mastiff, Rab, and a picture of the author's study, and some amusing grotesques by Dr. Brown, illustrates a charming paper on "Rab's Friend."

Something between a story and a satiric essay is "Henry James, Jr.'s 'Point of View,' which has, as a study of American manners, even more interest than "Daisy Miller." The purpose is, by a series of clever letters by Americans who have lived in Europe, and by an educated Englishman and a French Academician, to show the merits and defects of American life and character as they appear from the different points of view of these critics.

Mary Hallecks Foote's serial, "The Led-Horse Claim," advances to a strong and novel situation in mining experience, a part of the action of the story passing underground. The author's full-page illustration of Cecil in the mine, engraved by Cole, is perhaps the most striking illustration in the number. Mrs. Burnett's "Through one Administration" approaches the focal point of interest; and in second part of "The Christian League of Connecticut," the Rev. Dr. Gladden weaves practical hints for Christian co-operation into his effective New England story.

THE CHRISTMAS ST. NICHOLAS.—The great holiday number comes laden with its seasonable freight of mirth and good cheer; and chiefest among its special features is a Christmas story, by Louisa M. Alcott, entitled "Grand mamma's Pearls."

Other timely features are, first, the bright, colored frontispiece, a snow scene, with children, pony, and dogs, and an unmistakable Christmas flavor. Then there is a graphic account of a long dog-sledge journey on Lake

Winnipeg, capably illustrated; and a clever short story, "The Christmas Fairies," that is a true story as well. Malcolm Douglass contributes a pathetic little Christmas tale; and two pages are given to the words and music of a simple but tuneful "Christmas Carol."

Besides the foregoing, there is much that is not a whit less attractive just because it does not happen to be more appropriate to Christmas than to any and every season. The beginning of "The Story of the field of the Cloth of Gold," for instance; a charming tale, weaving in, most delightfully, the principal incidents of the famous meeting of the Kings in the Golden Valley. "Mary and her Garden," a six-page poem, engrossed, and beautifully illustrated which deals with some little-known adventures of contrary Miss Mary. An amusing "Alphabet of Children," with a jingle and a picture for each letter. A quaint and highly original fairy tale, who also contributes another installment of "The Story of Viteau."

J. T. Trowbridge's series, "The Tinkham Brothers' Tide-mill," is also continued, with three chapters of accumulating interest.

We make this liberal offer because we desire to give a present sufficiently large to induce you to give Dobbin's Electric Soap a trial long enough to know just how good it is. If, after trial, they continue to use the soap for years, we shall be repaid. If they only use the fifteen bars, getting the dollar's worth of music gratis, we shall lose money. This shows our confidence. The Soap can be bought of all grocers—the music can only be got of us. See that our name is on each wrapper.

A box of this Soap contains sixty bars. Any lady buying a box, and sending us sixty pictures of Mrs. Foggy, can select music to the amount of $4.00. This Soap improves with age, and you are not asked to buy a useless article, but one you use every week.

THE INDEPENDENT.

The Independent needs only to be better known to add to its large list of friends. It has been published for thirty-five years and has acquired a world-wide reputation as the best religious and literary newspaper.

The Independent is not denominational. Its creed and fields are broader than any sect. As a Christian journal its aim is to strengthen and extend Evangelical religion and to defend it against the attacks of Materialism, Atheism, and unbelief. It is free to approve or criticize in any of the denominations wha ever it believes is designed to advance or hinder the progress of the Gospel of Christ.

In civil and political affairs The Independent will contend for sound ideas and principles. It fought against slavery and the iniquitous system of the Oneida Community. It is now fighting against Mormonism. It believes in the reform of the civil service and tariff, in the purification of politics and in cheaper postage, and will maintain those principles which the highest ethics and best intelligence requires.

The Independent is designed to suit all tastes and wants. We provide weekly stories by the best magazine writers, poems by the leading poets of America and England (we first published in America Tennyson's last poem,) and for others, who look especially for instruction whether in religious, literary, educational, philosophical, or scientific articles, we furnish what no other periodical does or can. We pay large prices to obtain the most eminent writers. Besides the editorials, there are twenty-two distinct departments, edited by twenty-two specialists which include Biblical Research, Sanitary, Legal Fine Arts, Music, Science, Pebbles, Personalities Ministerial
Register, Hymn Notes, School and College, Literature, Religious Intelligence, Missions, Sunday school, News of the Week, Finance, Commerce, Insurance, Stories,

Offerings will be received at each Service for Diocesan Missions or the Theological Education Fund, of which notice is requested to be given. Some changes may have to be made in the above arrangement, and other places visited also before Convention. Parishes not reached before Convention will be visited after Convention.

THE Bishop reminds the clergy of the diocese and their people that by the canon the annual offertory for the Permanent Episcopal Fund of the diocese is ordered to be taken in all the parishes and stations on the second Sunday in Lent, which, this year, is February 18th, or the Sunday nearest to it. The importance of this object has been often mentioned, and the matter should be fairly presented and responded to.

SOME months ago a charge came upon the Bishop, which properly had nothing to do with him, but which, because of other interests, he felt impelled to recognize. It amounted to $340, which he paid. Some time after the Treasurer of the diocese chanced to hear of this, and he with three other gentlemen of this city, whom he mentioned the matter to, joined in handing a check for the amount to the Bishop. The thing would not be mentioned now, except that the consideration of these gentlemen should be recorded.

THE NEWS comes out too early to tell of the parish missionary meeting at the Church of the Holy Communion on Sunday night, 16th, for which we know that careful preparations are being made. The children are to sing. Mr. Woodruff's letter, in another column, is to be read. Mr. McMaster, the Secretary, will be ready with a statement. The Bishop is to be there with his map of the diocese, and teach some geography. All the rectors in this city and elsewhere are asked to hold such meetings, not waiting for any further asking from the Bishop or the Missionary Board, to inform and quicken interest. The Bishop will be present if possible, and will, if desired, help the rector in making arrangements.

LENT.

The Church's season of abstinence and special prayer comes more than usually early this year, and yet none too soon for any of us. Ash Wednesday comes on the seventh of next month, and the Bishop asks the clergy and their people to strive from the beginning and steadily on to the end, to make it a period of real devotion and greater nearness to God. Let the services be arranged for the convenience of the greatest number; and then let them be attended throughout, unless grave difficulties prevent. Keep the sexton to his duty, that the church be made comfortable. Let the sermons deal with the needs, the strugglings, the temptations of the people who are present, and let them make much of the tender compassion of the dear Lord, whose foot-steps we are daily following. We lose almost the key-stone out of the year, if we do not get large benefit from the dear "Feast of Lent."

HARRY I. BODLEY.

A noble Churchman passed to his rest on Sunday, 7th inst., one who had for many years filled, not simply held, the most responsible positions in the Church. A few years ago it would have seemed impossible that the work of the Church could have gone on without him. But little by little he has been withdrawing, as the infirmities of age have come on, until, from responsibilities which he was no longer strong enough to carry, and which he enjoyed seeing others assume.

He was confirmed in 1842, in Lexington, Ky., under the rectorship of Dr. Berkléy, who was acquainted with him for forty-seven years. He was a deputy to the General Convention from Kentucky in 1844 and 1847. In 1848 he removed St. Louis, and became connected with St. John's church. In 1854, shortly after taking up his residence in Kirkwood he began lay services there, at first in his own house. Six years after, strength having increased, Grace church was built, while as yet they had no rector. It was not until October, 1864, when the debt was all paid off, that they had their first rector. Until within a few years past Mr. Bodley has acted as Lay Reader.

In 1856, and several years since, he has represented the diocese in the General Convention. He was elected to the Standing Committee in 1863, and continued a member of it until last year, when he, at his own request, was allowed to retire. The Convention expressed its appreciation of his long and honorable services in appropriate resolutions. For many years he constantly represented his parish in the Diocesan Convention. From its organization until his death he was Senior Warden of Grace church.

Of all the filling in of these mere outlines, of what he was to his pastor, and to his bishop, above all, what he was in his own home, it would take a volume to say. He was a generous, high-minded, devout, intelligent and loyal Christian and Churchman; and the diocese is the poorer to-day for his loss. Of the honor in which his memory was held, the throngs at his funeral testified. All felt that he had come to his end, nigh on to four score years, as a shock of corn fully ripe; and that after the loss, two years ago, of the one who had so long stood at his side, his heart was no longer here, but that he was awaiting the call for him, in the sure hope of a joyful resurrection.

The end came, after such a beautiful, honored, and useful life, just as the last strokes of the bell ceased, which had for so many years called his steps to God's house.

Where are those who are taking the places of such men? Who are being "baptized for the dead?"

THEODORE FORSTER.

And yet another Churchman, staunch and true, gone before! One modest and retiring, and yet with a keen interest, watching all the Church's fortunes, and ready with constant help to further its interests. One of those sterling merchants whom the prophet described as princes, and the honorable of the earth. Invested with high offices of trust, and faithful to them all. From old St.

Paul's he passed to Christ church, where he has long been a vestry-man. Apparently well, and then in three hours dead. Be we also ready, for in such an hour as we know not the Son of Man cometh.

HENRY M. WOODWARD.

Another one of our older and staunch Churchmen has gone to his rest within the month. He had not lived in St. Louis for ten years last past, and therefore he had dropped out of the knowledge of the younger generation. But twenty years ago he filled a large place in the work of St. John's, and then of Christ church. With imperishable integrity and independence of character, it was always known where he stood, and he would plainly rebuke what he disapproved of. He was a Churchman everywhere, and without flinching, of the old Dr. Hallam type, of New London, Conn. If he went to a new place, there would soon be heard that a church and Sunday-school were being started, for which he gave generously of his means. The Bishop has peculiar reasons for recalling him and his faithful friendship in a domestic sorrow which shadowed the coming of his family to St. Louis, and which is embalmed in the recollection of the kind offices which met a stricken family on their entrance in a city as yet strange.

Mr. Woodward had been lying very ill for a number of weeks, and passed to his rest on the 18th, at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. W. R. Allen. O si sic omnes.

DIOCESAN LIBRARY.

The Diocesan Library has now been placed in one of the smaller rooms in the chapel of Christ church, and is in charge of the Rev. Dr. Schuyler and Mr. Silvester. They are catalogued and numbered, and ready for use or reference. The room has been nicely carpeted, and shelves put up. There are over 600 volumes, the most of which of special interest and value to those who desire to study the scriptures, and church history and doctrine. It is very full and valuable, and some of the works of great rarity. It is the foundation to which, we hope, will hereafter be added by gift and purchase, of such a collection as can be consulted by clergymen and others, who are desirous to have access to works which they have not and cannot procure for their own libraries.

For the present the clergy of Christ church will be glad to loan the books under the rules, on Monday mornings of each week, from nine to eleven o'clock. If some generous person would give to the Bishop, for the library, the sum of one hundred dollars for the purpose, it would serve a most important purpose in binding and putting in shape for use some valuable books.

GENERAL OBJECTS.

Usually, so far as is known, there is a ready disposition to see the need of the benefit of the various collections which the diocesan law puts upon the parishes: They are not needlessly multiplied. Consideration is had for the needs at home. But we evidently need collections for Diocesan Missions, greater than the present, if anything. We need to have a Permanent Episcopal Fund, to ease up the assessments, and certainly to meet the needs now put upon it, of paying taxes on lands held by the diocese, and meeting insurance and repairs on the Episcopal residence. We need a fund to help Candidates for Orders buy books, and meet their expenses while they are studying for the ministry; otherwise the supply of clergymen would soon cease. We ought certainly to have a fund for the relief of clergymen disabled by age, since the Church does not allow them sufficient to make any other provision.

These, and the offerings for general missions, are all of the requisitions made, and not one could be dispensed with. As we said, they are generally cheerfully, albeit inadequately met. But sometimes cases come to us in which a different spirit is shown. One person, in a place of thousands of people, where the church has been helped in its building, and in the yearly support of its services, declares, "It is a shameful imposition to put these outside collections on us." In another church, where the object was stated to be for the Theological Education Fund, with a few words of explanation, in a full congregation, the plates came up with two pieces, ten cents, in them. Another church complains of the assessment, and wonders why, when the parish is vacant, it ought not to be remitted. Another which we have in mind does not see why the receiving of the stipend should be made conditional upon their meeting their canonical collections, and virtually puts upon its minister the task of paying them.

These we believe to be exceptional cases, but they ought not to occur at all. There is not one unnecessary burden imposed. Those who are most disposed to complain are those for whom the most has been and is being done.

THE YEAR'S GROWTH.

By a comparison of the statistics of the diocese for the past year, as given in the almanacs, of which Whittaker's seems to be the fullest, we come to the following results. It is, however, to be noted, that in the footing up of the communion list, Whittaker's makes a mistake of 10,000, so that the gain is 10,308, instead of 308. It will be corrected. Among clergymen the total now is 3,579, the increase being 113. The present number of Candidates for Orders is 396, an increase of 5. There were 132 ordinations to the diaconate, and 116 to the priesthood; a decrease in the first of seven, and in the last of one. There are the deaths of 54 clergymen reported, and there were six clergymen deposed. This ought to make a net clerical gain of 72, instead of 113, as reported. The difference must be made up of clergymen in English orders, who have come to this country and taken duty.

There were 45,817 baptisms reported, an increase over last year of 854. There were 26,091 confirmations, an increase of 690. There are 354,888 communicants, an increase of 10,308. This small net increase, with the number of confirmations, implies a falling away of very many communicants, and a failure of a large number of those confirmed to proceed to the Holy Communion. The contributions for the year amount to $8,066,404 31, an increase of $758,619 40.

Our own growth in the diocese between the last two Conventions was in communicants only 95, and only about this average of increase for the past six years. This is very much less than it ought to have been. The average of confirmations each year has been at least 350, and the removals of our communicants into the State has been quite as great as those going out. The question then comes up, why is the net increase so small? Either many of those confirmed do not become communicants, or are allowed to drop away, or else those who remove into the diocese are not looked up. There ought to be reported with the same number of confirmations, at least twice and three times as great net increase of communicants each year. And the confirmations should be much greater.

DIOCESAN ITEMS.

—The Bishop has recently confirmed as follows: Kansas City, St. Mary's, 14; Grace church, 2; Christ, Lexington, 14; Boonville, 2.

—How comes on the project for the guild-room for St. George's church in this city, of which there was much said last spring, and for which there was a steamboat excursion had, which yielded several hundred dollars? Are the ladies' societies of all the parishes of the city well at work?

—The weekly communion has been established in Grace church, Kansas City, at half past seven in the morning. On the first Sunday in the month it is celebrated after the mid-day service. The attendance is very encouraging.

—If any of the clergy or others in the diocese, know of a Mr. John Lamb, an Englishman, from Newhey, near Rochdale, will they be good enough to communicate with the Bishop. He is 25 years old, 5 feet 7½ inches high, pale, with dark eyes and hair. He was a fulling miller by trade, and had been working as a farm laborer. He left England in April, 1880, and was last heard of in St. Louis, nine months ago, but may have gone to Kansas City. His wife is in distress about him.

—The Rev. Dr. Wainwright, of Palmyra, has begun to give them at Shelby a service every other Sunday. The Rev. R. Talbot served them until his duties at Monroe absorbed all of his time.

—They have again a very excellent choir of men and boys at St. John's church, in this city, in excellent training.

—The Rev. C. E. D. Griffith will enter upon duty at Emmanuel church, St. Louis Co., on the 21st inst. He spent Sunday, 7th, and a few days before in the parish. He was a classmate of the Rev. Mr. Silvester, in the Philadelphia Divinity School.

—The Rev. G. C. Tucker, who recently left this diocese for that of Springfield, has been called to the charge of St. James' church, Ellettsville, and has entered upon his charge.

—Mount Calvary Sunday-school, St. Louis, has left the leaflets for the International series, a course which involves very great risk, unless there is a greater disposition and ability to supplement with Churchly instruction what is wanting in the series than is usually found. Just at Christmas the series was at work on the subject of the Resurrection.

—We regret to hear that on the corner west of St. Luke's Hospital there is about to be erected a stove and sheet iron factory. We fear that this will be disagreeable, both because of the noise and the smoke.

—At Christ church, St. Louis, with the first of the year, the organist is changed, Mr. Pommer taking the place. Mr. McCreery remains as musical director. At St. George's there is a change in the soprano and alto. Miss Carpenter retires on the occasion of her marriage.

—Mr. Wm. Barr gave at Christmas, as usual, $200 to the Orphans' Home, and the like amount to St. Luke's Hospital, and the other charities of the city.

—Mr. Wm. W. Love, of Macon City, has been admitted as a Postulant for Holy Orders. He is a student at St. James' Academy.

—A bazaar was recently held by the ladies in Carthage, for the purpose of increasing the rectory fund. They had several hundred dollars before, and will soon have enough to build.

—The bazaar held at Lebanon for the church building fund netted $100, and it is thought that the church will be ready for use by Easter.

—The Rev. Mr. Chesnutt has resigned his position as missionary in this city under the appointment from the Society for Promoting Christianity among the Jews.

—The Standing Committee of the diocese has given its official consent to the consecration of Dr. Hugh Miller Thompson, Assistant Bishop elect of Mississippi. That of Springfield, Ill., has refused consent, as will probably also Illinois, Wisconsin and Fond du Lac.

—The Rev. Dr. Gierlow, of this city, has at the call of the vestry of the parish, taken charge of Grace church, Jefferson City, which has been vacant for some time.

—The Rev. Mr. Richardson has resigned the charge of Moberly, and spent the first Sunday in January at De Soto.

—Nowhere was Christmas and the Christmas services more heartily enjoyed than at St. Mary's, Fayette. The church looked very pretty in her festal garb, and within all forgot how dreary it was without. Some of the congregation came in, a distance of eight miles, on horse-back, to attend the services. The offering—for the Aged and Infirm Clergy Fund, was very liberal.

—Christ church, Rolla, has just received from Indianapolis a covering for the altar, and one for the lectern, beautifully embroidered, gold on green, one made by Mrs. Love, and the other by Miss Upfold, daughter of the late Bishop.

—The Bishop has appointed, on the nomination of the Hannibal Convocation, the Rev. Dr. Wainwright, of Palmyra, as Dean. The Rev. Robt. Talbot was elected Secretary. The next meeting of the Convocation will be held at Palmyra, in February, probably.

—The church property of the Holy Trinity Mission, St. Joseph, has been neatly fenced in, and its appearance is naturally very much improved. One of the first things should always be to put a fence, even if only a simple one, about the church. It prevents mischievous marauders, and gives the world the impression that we value our Church, and its decency.

BOONVILLE.

Mention was made last month of the marked revival of interest in Christ church. It is shown among the older people as well as in the Sunday-school. A vigorous body of young men have been added to the vestry, who are keenly alive to the welfare of the parish. They met the Bishop on the occasion of his visit on the 24th ult., and made an exhibit of the satisfactory financial condition of the church.

The ladies had worked hard during the week on the Christmas decorations of the church. They were never so elaborate or so pretty. Great numbers called on the Bishop during a reception on Saturday afternoon, and all separately declared their comfort in the hopeful condition of things. The congregation on Sunday morning filled the church, in which was a large proportion of men. The Rev. Mr. Gay was present, and assisted in the services, and the Bishop confirmed two persons.

In the afternoon, at the Sunday-school, the sight, to one who had been familiar to the parish, was amazing. The church fairly swarmed with children, who sang with thrilling effect. The Bishop was present, and spoke to them. He had to leave for a service in Sedalia that night. In the evening Mr. Gay preached. Mr. Wilkins, the Lay Reader, to whom, under God, with the co-operation of a willing people, these results are due, read the Service on Christmas morning. At night at the Christmas tree, the throng of children and their friends was immense. From the chancel rails to the church gates there was room for no more. The generosity of the people showed itself in substantial forms towards Mr. and Mrs. Wilkins, who are so efficiently and disinterestedly serving this parish.

There is life in the old ship yet!

LExINGTON.

A year ago a recess chancel was added on to Christ church, Lexington, by making a large arch, and letting in the vestry room, which was in the rear of the church, raising the walls and roof for the purpose, and changing the windows. It was done at a cost of about $1,000, and had a handsome effect. This, however, left the church without any vestry-room, which was a defect which could not of course be tolerated.

The Rev. E. M. Pecke entered vigorously upon his rectorship at the beginning of last May, and soon after set about a plan for the construction of a guild room, in which the societies of the parish might meet. A building was erected of brick, corresponding with the church, and at right angles with the chancel, and facing on the side street. It is about 30 by 16 feet, and answering in height with the church, lighted with gas, and furnished with moveable benches, and holds about sixty persons.

In this the Sunday night service is held. This is supplementary, as the regular service has long been held in the parish in the afternoon for the convenience of those living in the country. At night the rector gives short, familiar talks on the Church. Here is also held a parish school, at which about twenty attend. The vestry-room is conveniently placed between the guild room and the church, and connects with both. The arrangements are very compact and convenient.

On Tuesday, 12th ult., the Bishop formally opened the guild-room with prayers and a blessing, and made an address. Then proceeding into the church, he consecrated the chancel. This had recently been adorned by two beautiful memorial windows on the north side, one presented by Mrs. Reid in memory of her mother, and the other by the Sunday-school children, for the little ones who had gone before. They were made by Colgate, of New York.

It had been also hoped that for the Holy Communion which was celebrated, the new service of silver, which was made by Cooper of New York, would have arrived and been used. But it was unfortunately delayed. It is made of offerings in silver presented by friends, of pieces valued from association.

At the service in the afternoon the rector presented a class of eleven persons for confirmation, the circumstances with regard to a number of them being especially interesting. At night a reception was given to the Bishop, which was very largely attended. The addition of the guild-room cost about $1,000, and it was built by the guild, who borrowed $600 from the vestry, which they had as the avails of the sale of the parsonage, which was inconveniently located, three years ago. The vestry held the money in order to buy another parsonage, when a proper opportunity should appear. The guild will repay the vestry, so as to keep the trust secure. The parish is in a very flourishing condition.

TRINITY, ST. LOUIS.

The Ladies' Guild recently sent a valuable box of clothing to a missionary of the diocese, which included a new suit for him and for two boys, besides much else. It drew forth a very cordial letter of thanks.

Christmas Eve was observed by a late service. Silence was then kept for a space until after midnight, and then the Holy Communion was celebrated. The attendance was large and the interest deep. After the service all resorted to the chapel, where a lunch was spread and greetings exchanged. The boys and men in the choir were all remembered, and the rector was given a $50 gold certificate, and to Mrs. Betts a sum of money.

The Bishop visited the parish on the morning of the Sunday after Trinity, and confirmed five persons. The Rev. Mr. Alcorn of Arkansas was present and took part in the service.

New and very handsome gas standards have been placed on the outer corners of the choir platform beyond the chancel arch, which add very much to the beauty and brilliancy of that end of the church.

AFTON.

On Sunday morning, 7th inst., the Bishop, having an appointment for service and confirmation at the new church at Afton, in St. Louis county, about ten miles out on the Gravois road, was to have been met at the terminus of the Gravois street cars on Arsenal street, by a wagon to take him to his destination. By some misunderstanding, this failed to meet him. As there was no place to wait in, the Bishop set off to walk. The wagon came in on another road, and did not meet him, and the Bishop walked all the way to the church, immediately took the service and preached. In the afternoon he said the service again, preached, confirmed fourteen, and addressed the candidates, and rode home in the evening. The Rev. Mr. Gauthier was detained at his home parish at Laclede, and only arrived in the afternoon, just as the Bishop had begun the sermon, but in time to present the remarkable class which he had prepared. This is the first confirmation in the church, and a result of Mr. G.'s self-sacrificing work, which has seriously told upon his health. At the service the minister was able to announce that Mr. J. A. Bowles, who had already out of his very moderate means, given several hundred dollars towards the building of the church, had paid off all the remaining debts upon it, amounting to over $150, so that it was now wholly free from debt.

ST. AUGUSTINE CHURCH, KANSAS CITY.

This church, which has been for over a year under way, was finished in time to be formally opened by the Bishop on the occasion of his visit to Kansas City on the 10th ult. It is for the enterprising mission to the colored people, and that it should so soon be erected, and in such excellent taste, is due largely to the energy of the clergyman, the Rev. Chas. E. Cummings. The entire work of starting the mission began with him. The plans were prepared by the Rev. Mr. Scheetz. A year ago the foundation was put in. Then the work rested because of the inadequacy of the funds on hand. The Church people and others of Kansas City gave liberally, but a visit to the East had to be made by Mr. Cummings. From this resulted about $600.

Last spring the contract for a brick church, 45x24, with a front porch, and a chancel 18x12, and a vestry room 10x12, was let for $1,700. The walls are strengthened by buttresses. The contract was only to enclose the building. Then another local effort was made for means to put up partitions, and then another to ceil the roof, which cost $300, then another to plaster the walls, which came to $160, then another to get some pews and the stoves, and matting for the aisle, and carpet for the chancel, and some chancel furniture. The energy of the minister and of the congregation has been something remarkable. There yet remains a debt of about $1,000 on the property, while over $3,000 has actually been raised and spent.

The effect as one enters the church is remarkably good. The walls are rough finished. The open ceiling is of yellow pine, and oiled, the trusses being dark. The chancel rises two steps to the space for the stall and lectern, and then two steps more, there being as yet no chancel rail, while the holy table is raised on a foot pace. The wainscoting and chancel furniture are in excellent taste, and in pine.

On the occasion of the opening in the afternoon the church was crowded. Besides the Bishop and

Rev. Mr. Cummings, the Rev. Mr. Wells was in the chancel, and the Rev. Mr. Mann was in the congregation. The singing was admirable, the responses strong, and the demeanor of the congregation most devout. The Bishop preached, and explained the position of the Church, and the benignant office which it would perform in the vast, throbbing city in which it had been erected. He commended the energy of the people and the zeal and good taste of the pastor. The rectors of the other parishes have all along showed a substantial sympathy with this enterprise. Ten persons were confirmed in the mission last spring, most of them heads of families, and it is expected that another large class will be prepared against the next visit of the Bishop in the spring.

Services will hereafter be held on Sunday mornings, and the Sunday school in the afternoon. Night services will be had so soon as means can be secured for procuring lights. They are not willing to go any further into debt. An envelope was handed to every one that entered, and the minister asked for $100 for their needs. Evidently the offering was a large and generous one. A number of Church people were present from all the other parishes.

Here is an opportunity for generously disposed persons to aid a work which has shown a deservingness of help, by having so evidently and largely helped themselves. It is a pity that it should rest under the incubus of debt, and yet the erection of the church was a necessity, because the only alternative was the holding of cottage services in private houses, at which only a few could attend. Any gifts sent either to the Bishop or to the Rev. Mr. Cummings, Box 1198, Kansas City, would be gratefully acknowledged.

TRINITY CHURCH, DE SOTO.

The corner stone of this church was laid July 24th, 1871. There was little ability, and the main need was for a Sunday school room. Mr. R. Burroughs, the warden, had started this fifteen years ago, when he came to the town, and has maintained it, with lay reading in the vacancies in the rectorship, ever since. The Warden had fallen somewhere upon Dr. Schuyler's little book, the "Pioneer Church," which ought to be more read than it is, and which told him what a single layman, whose heart was all engaged, could do. He came to see Dr. Schuyler, who reassured him by telling him of the case of Grace church, Kirkwood, where they had a stone church built and paid for, before they ever had a minister.

The means of the people would have implied a frame church, but stone was just at hand, and a favorable contract was made. It is 50 feet long by 27 on the outside, with a tower in one corner carried up to the eaves. The vestry-room is cut off from one corner of the nave. The walls are 12 feet high on the outside, and it is 31 feet to the ridge, with a steep roof, finished within with open timbers, and ceiled above. It has cost about $2,700, all but about $500 of which was raised within the parish. Each year a little has been taken off, and last spring the work was completed. The women, as usual, did a large part of the work.

Sunday, 17th ult., was appointed as the day for the consecration. The rectorship was vacant, although the Rev. E. R. Richardson, of Moberly, has now taken charge of this, along with several other places. On account of the day, clergymen could not attend. The Bishop, therefore, along with Rev. Dr. Schuyler, were all who could come; the Bishop had asked the Doctor to be present and preach, on account of his early association with the work. The certificate of the Secretary of the Parochial Trust Fund, showing that the property had been conveyed to that body, was read by Mr. S. G. Hawkins, the Junior Warden; the request for consecration by Mr. R. Burroughs, the Senior Warden, and the Sentence of Consecration by the Rev. Dr. Schuyler. The congregation, which was very attentive, quite filled the church.

In the afternoon the Bishop baptised in church two infants, and at night Dr. Schuyler again preached. The day was bland and spring-like, and the services were greatly enjoyed.

ST. JOSEPH.

After a suspension of seven years, our old friend, The Little Monitor, the parish paper of Christ church, has made its appearance again. It had a useful experience before for three years. We welcome it back again. We rejoice in these parochial leaflets, when they do not shut the whole thought of the parish up to its own home affairs, as though this was the whole of the Church. If the parish paper shuts out the diocesan or the general Church paper, it does harm.

We notice that the Parish Aid Association, during the year ending November 30th, raised $600, which, with the Easter offering of $420, reduced the debt on the church to $4,100. We had hoped that it had become smaller than this. The Ladies' Aid and Dorcas society is actively at work making clothing for the poor, and also this winter aiding in the improvement of the interior of the church by frescoing and filling the windows with stained glass. This society is also at work making a missionary box for a clergyman of the diocese. The Busy Workers is a society of Sunday-school girls, who are working to place in the church a white marble font.

There is a regular Wednesday evening service, and a celebration of the Holy Communion every Sunday morning. The parish is full of busy life.

At a recent meeting of the Fairman Art Circle, Mrs. Runcie read an essay on the life and works of the great musical composer, Mendelssohn. As it was the first of the artistic work of the Club for the winter, the essayist introduced her task by some observations on the importance of a kindly spirit while engaged in promoting an artistic taste in the community. She brought in also a flowing English rendition of the Rondo Capriccioso, which we wish we had the space to insert. She ventures the assertion that the majority of the finest voices which have come before the world have been of Jewish descent; and concludes with a remark of her own teacher in Germany in earlier days, himself a pupil of Moschelles, of a work that she was striving to master: "Ach, liebes Fraulein Constance, you will never play that as it should be rendered, until you have been in love."

The Busy Workers recently had a bazaar, at which they sold what they had made. They entertained a large number of people, and got a large increase on the amount needed with which to buy a font.

A number of improvements in both Christ church and Holy Trinity chapel were made during the year.

COLUMBIA.

Christmas day was properly observed by our Episcopalians with regular services for the day and an unusually fine musical addition; closing with the Holy Communion. The rector, Rev. A. M. Whitten, delivered a sermon from the text: "Glory to God in the Highest, and on earth Peace, Good will Towards Men," St. Luke 2, 14. He has already endeared himself greatly to his people, and he was the recipient of a very handsome Christmas gift. The music was unusually fine, the introduction being Agnus Dei, Gounod. The Christmas chant by Wm. Russell in place of Venite; the Grand Te Deum in F., by H. Kotzchmar; the Jubilate in E. flat by J. Robinson; the Offertory was "Jesus lover of my soul," by Hagan. The choir consisted of Mrs. W. A. Bennett, Soprano; Mrs. G. S. Morse, alto and Mr. R. S. Orear, basso, with Mr. J. Th. Fyfer at the organ. The main body of the church was and is beautifully decorated with evergreens, the font and altar covered with floral crosses and pyramids of rare flowers from the Agricultural Farm, furnished by Miss Parkison. The reading desk and altar were covered with fine satin and linen—white being the prevailing color for this feast. The ladies deserve great praise for their good taste and energy. We are informed the decorations will remain until after Epiphany Sunday, January 7th.

The church is in good condition and we understand the Sunday School is flourishing.

CHRISTMAS.

The day with us in St. Louis was very cloudy, not very cold, but very muddy. When it comes as this year it did, on Monday, it is not perhaps possible to make as much point of the day as though it were further away from Sunday. The greens have to be placed over the Sunday, and that detracts from the day itself.

The St. Louis churches generally, especially the larger ones, are not paying as much attention as they used to do to the festooning. Trees are bought, the greens are massed, and the sexton does most of the work. It is a pity to lose the enjoyment of Christmas which used to come in the work among the greens.

To us, Christ church seemed too dark. The sky was overcast, and the building, therefore, was more sombre than usual. It did not have on any bright, festal appearance. There should be capacity for lighting up the chancel better.

At Mount Calvary there were over sixty persons at work on the greens, and the result was very pleasing.

Most of the schools had Christmas trees for their children, which were largely attended. That at the Church of the Holy Communion was held on Sunday night, and the children sang, as they always do, with great spirit. At the Church of the Good Shepherd it was held on Innocents' night, and the church was packed, with 150 children and their friends. The tree was in the guild-room. At Christ church the festival was also on the evening of Innocents' Day, and was very enjoyable.

At Grace church both the rector and his assistant were presented with purses of money. Several of the other rectors were remembered also.

A RELIGIOUS NEWSPAPER.—We desire to call the attention of our readers to one of the largest, ablest, and most popular religious newspapers published—one that secures the best writers in this country and Europe, regardless of expense; has the best and fullest book reviews of any paper in the country; has able articles upon financial and commercial subjects; has departments edited by specialists and devoted to Fine Arts, Music, Science, Religious Intelligence, Missions, Schools and College, News of the Week, Hymn Notes, the Sunday school, Legal and Sanitary questions, Biblical Research, something that cannot be found in any other newspaper in the United States), Farm and Garden, Insurance, Weekly Market Reports, etc.—in fact a newspaper which with its twenty two distinct departments, is suited to the requirements of every family, containing a fund of information which cannot be had in any other shape, and having a wide circulation all over the country and in Europe. We refer to THE INDEPENDENT, of New York, now called "The largest, the ablest, the best." See advertisement, in another column, and send a postal card for free specimen copy.

WHAT YOUNG MEN HAVE DONE.—As a stimulus to young men we call out the following: Alexander the Great died at thirty-three. Napoleon had achieved all his victories at thirty-seven. Washington was twenty seven when he covered the retreat of the British army under Braddock, and not forty in 1776. At thirty-three, Jefferson wrote the Declaration of Independence. At thirty, Hamilton helped to frame the Constitution of the United States. At twenty-three, Melancthon wrote the Loci Communes, which passed through fifty editions in his lifetime. At thirty-three, he wrote the Augsburg Confession. At twenty-nine, Ursinus wrote the Heidelberg Catechism. Zwingle wrote his chief works before forty, and died at forty-six. At the Disputation of Leipsic, Luther was thirty-five; at the Diet of Worms, thirty-seven. At twenty-seven, Calvin wrote the Institutes.

CHURCH OF THE GOOD SHEPHERD,
ST. LOUIS.

Rev. B. F. Newton, Rector of this Church, which is on Eighth street, between Lynch and Pestalozzi, is making most excellent progress, encouraging to all the members within the Parish, and gratifying to the many friends of the Church throughout the city. The Sunday-school numbers one hundred and twelve children, under an efficient Superintendent and eight teachers, earnestly and heartily devoted to their work. More teachers are wanted, as there are three or four hundred children within the limits of the parish desirous and anxious for Sunday-school instruction. Dr. Tatlock's leaflets are used as the basis of instruction. At the close of the lesson the Rector catechises the whole school upon the entire contents of the leaflet. The library has but few volumes, and more are greatly needed.

The land upon which the church stands has been rented from year to year at a heavy cost to the church. The Warden, Mr. Daniel S. Brown, has made most energetic efforts to purchase the land, that the church may be free from the encumbrance of an annual rent, and has succeeded in doing it so far as to leave but $600 due. He hopes by Easter to raise this sum, when the church for the first time in its history will be able to breathe freely.

During the summer the church was thoroughly renovated outside and in, and made comfortable and pleasant. Regular services have been held since its opening in September, and have been well attended, both by the regular membership of the parish and by many strangers. There has been a steady growth and increase in all the interests of the parish, in the numbers attending the Services, in the more sterling spiritual life and faith of its members, as well as in the self denying activity and generous zeal and organized efforts to carry forward the work that is so much needed in that part of the city. The harmony and cheerfulness in which every difficulty is met and overcome in the parish is one of the signs showing conclusively that work has begun in that earnestness which is itself the early dawn of a brighter day. Whatever errors or misfortunes of the past there may have been to disturb that concerted and united action, absolutely essential to any prosperous work, they have ceased to be considered, and a determination to take hold of the work and do it well, pervades all hearts.

The natural limits of the parish are perhaps the greatest in the city, with a rapidly increasing population. The whole Diocese must necessarily be interested in the efforts now put forth to reach these people, and to lay well the foundations of the Church.

To let such a parish languish in a great and rapidly-growing city, like St. Louis, would be one of those mistakes, sometimes made, that has to be atoned for by the sorrow of all Churchmen afterwards.

By the zeal and energy of its members, and with the kindly co-operation of friends, the parish will not fail to do the great work the Master has long been calling upon it to do, and at no distant day, judging from present activity. Will its strength in every way be equal to its duties. They have evidently heard and answered the great advent call of the apostle reiterated in the ears of every Churchman, as each new Church year begins, to "cast away the works of darkness and put upon us the armor of light."

—Trinity Church, New York, has a house in which its schools meet, and where guilds and societies have their headquarters. Grace House also there is a large structure, where there is a night school, and reading room, and rooms for societies, and an office for the assistant minister, and quarters for him and the janitor. Recently Mr. Flower, member of Congress, has had erected as a memorial a similar structure for St. Thomas' Church there, 45 feet front and seventy feet deep, for all the missionary and charitable organizations of the parish.

TO THE CHILDREN OF THE MISSIONARY HOST.

FROM ONE OF THE MISSIONARIES.

MY DEAR CHILDREN:—A week ago I baptised two little boys, six months old, and they were twins. Once I baptised a little boy up here, four or five years old, and his aunt would not let him go fishing on Sunday, afterwards, and he said, "I want to go, and I am sorry I joined the Church." And I baptised another boy, who was older, and he stood up before the whole congregation, and he was not ashamed; and the tears ran in his eyes when I said, we "do sign him with the sign of the Cross, in token that he shall not be ashamed to confess the faith of Christ crucified, and manfully to fight under his banner." And I have met him since, and he is not any more ashamed now than he was then, of his heavenly faith and his heavenly choice! And I baptised a little baby this week.

I know a good many of you think it is not very easy to be good soldiers of God, and Christ's true followers. I believe you would be glad if some one would tell you an easy way; and you would like to know the best way, whether it was an easy way or not. May be you wonder sometimes, why people don't give up trying to be good, when it seems so much easier not to be good. What do you think made the apostles of old toil, and the martyrs die? What is it that builds the grand churches and keeps the great army of Christ's servants at work to day? The missionaries in the hot countries and cold; among the poor and wretched people in the cities, crowded thick together; and in the new settlements of the great West, scattered far apart? Christ's true servants do a good deal of hard work. Do you think it is just because they think they ought to be brave and unselfish—to toil for others and to die for others? Do you think people like to act that way? Would you like to be one of that kind yourself? Live for nothing but only that? What do you think made St. Paul willing to be stoned when he went to talk to people about God, and made him willing to be "beaten with rods" till the blood came, and to be put in prison—down in a dark dungeon where he might die for all others cared—and not only willing to be put down in such a woful, pitiful place, but to sing hymns—"praises," to the great God up in heaven, for what he had to bear; what made him have such a mind and such a spirit as that? Can you tell? He tell us why? It was not because he thought it was good and kind and brave to act that way. No! Well, then, what? It was because he got to believe, really, in his very heart, that One who lived in Heaven with God and the bright angels, came down from heaven for him; yes, that was the reason—came down from heaven for him, and suffered a great deal more than he ever suffered, and was beaten, too, and died, at last—had his spirit crushed out of his body by the sharp, cruel nails with which He was pierced! Did all this—bore all this, so that the gate of bright heaven itself stood open for him to go into it, and live there with God, and "all the glorious company of heaven," forever and ever! He got to believe that!—that God loved him! loved him so much that He gave that heavenly, radiant One to die for him! That was what made him strong and glad, to do and to bear anything, whether it was on the earth, or under the earth; whether it took hard work or sharp pain; he was willing to do and to suffer anything, so that he could only go here, and go there, and tell men about Heaven, and how any one could go to heaven who chose to be the servant of the loving and heavenly One, who died and was buried, and rose again from His grave, and went up shining to the skies! The angel who stood by Daniel in the lion's den, was not so much to the good prophet of old as this thought was to the Apostle St. Paul! That made St. Paul! That makes the churches! That makes all the bravery and all the patience in the hearts of God's soldiers! You are God's soldiers, signed with the cross-sign on your brows. You are soldiers enrolled under Christ's banner. You want to be good soldiers. Any little child knows how good it is to have some one love him. This is the best love of all. You may not have to do what St. Paul did, and bear all he bore. But when you think of serving God and serving Christ, think how He loved you. That helps. That is how the Apostle did; and that is the way he got his help. He said: I live by Him "who loved me and gave Himself for me." And may God make you good children, and good when you grow up; and, after you have been faithful and true here, take you at last to the heavenly home, for the loving Saviour's sake.

Affectionately, your friend and MISSIONARY.

FORGIVING love never tires. The disciples need not have asked how many times they were bound to forgive one who came seeking forgiveness; for the spirit which could forgive once could not fail of forgiving seventy times seven, if the opportunity were offered. Divine love, and whatever love partakes, of or reflects the divine nature, is as ready at the last as at the first to rejoice over the return of the erring. Good Bishop Ellicott, of Gloucester, speaking, some time ago, of the blessedness of welcoming children into the Church fold, said: "Bishops, like other men, are sometimes tired, and complain that they are overworked; but you never heard a bishop complain of being overworked in the services of confirmation. You never heard a bishop say that he wished there were fewer calls upon him to administer that rite to those who wanted to be counted with the people of God." And so it might be said by every one who is called to watch for souls: bishop, parent, teacher; there may be tiring in every other line but not in the line of forgiving,—not in the mission of welcoming back the wanderer. None need fear at any time to turn with a cry of forgiveness to Christ, or to the Christ-like. This thought is beautiful phrased in these lines from the pages of a contemporary:

"No father's house is full,
E'en though there seems no resting place for more;
Forgiving arms and doors do open wide,
If one repentant child implore
Outside.

"No mother's heart is full,
Unless it be with longing, burning wild—
Heart-throbbings that no cheerful face can hide—
The wish to clasp her sinning child
Outside.

"God's flock is never full;
Fear not to enter boldly at his door,
None ever were refused who there applied;
He hath abiding-place for more Inside." —[Exchange.

—The Oriental Coffee-House Company of Boston are meeting with every success. They have opened new rooms which are large and well lighted, furnished with piano, billiard table, coffee, cigars, tables for lunches and games, and flowers. Men and women frequent it who have been in the habit of visiting the grog-shop, more because it was the only comfortable place to which they had access than from a love for liquor. This place gives comfort and amusement without the temptations of the liquor saloon, and solves one question of the social problem. It gives the visitors new views of life by bringing them in contact with people of refinement, who are interested in their welfare, and one step is taken upward in their lives.

OUR diocese makes a shameful record for its contributions to general missions, which have helped us for so many years. Remember the Advent offering for domestic and the Epiphany offering for foreign missions.

THE Registrar of the diocese of Western Michigan has for distribution large cards for the vestibules of churches, with these words plainly printed: "Please occupy front pews." It would be a good idea to put such placards in many of our churches.

WE are glad to see the movement in favor of make the Public School Library free. It is a great educating force to put at the command of the people, controlled only so far as the safety of the books requires restriction, such a fine selected and large collection of volumes as now constitute the Library.

DO NOT let the question at the Sunday morning breakfast table be, "Well, who is going to church this morning?" as though it were an open question. Some one will be sure to plead off. Take it for granted that Sunday having come, all are going, and are glad to go, and you are going with them.

VERY much can be learned about the grasp and hold of a clergyman on his people by taking a walk with him through the town, if he has been living there long. Some, you notice, are scarcely ever addressed, and evidently very little known, or there is a stiff nod. Others can hardly go a rod without a salutation; the children speak to him; all faces unbend as he approaches. This tells a great lesson.

IT was a sad loss to the whole Church, and not merely to Illinois when St. Mary's School, Knoxville, was wholly destroyed by fire a fortnight ago. The school has been coming steadily up under the wise and energetic management of Dr. Leffingwell. The Diocese had done almost nothing for it, but the gifts of Mr. Knox, local gifts, and the management of Dr. Leffingwell had gotten together a property worth $100,000. All this is gone, including a personal loss to Dr. L. of $35,000. Fortunately, no lives were lost, and only two girls hurt. The School goes on, and the building will be put up again. But the Doctor needs sympathy now.

SOME one, we do not recollect-who, nor does it matter, has recently said of a certain Scotch bishop, that, if he had been less of a man, he would have been more of a bishop. Of course, it was an effort at smart paradox, the motive and the falsity of which were evident. The main thing about any office, clerical or secular, is the man behind it. No padding of ostentation, nor any of the clap-trap of self-assertion can fill out the outlines of a shrunken manliness. Strut, whether mental or physical, is not dignity nor presence. The greater the man, the greater the bishop, or the priest, or the magistrate. The less the man, the less the bishop, or the officer. You cannot make a suit of clothes out of a yard of cloth. There is might in any worthy office which does not depend upon, and which cannot be magnified by the pettiness of the holder of it.

THE FAIR.

THE English Fair is over. We have not heard of the pecuniary results, but fear that they are not large. Many apprehended this months before. The outlay, to begin with, was vastly too great to hope to get much result from it, at least from a week's entertainment, which came to be only five days. It should have gone on two weeks if at all, after all the preparations. The tickets were not put out until one day before the Fair was to have opened. They ought to have been out weeks before. There was not much to sell from which to realize money. The ladies for weeks worked on principle, and in some cases to serious and permanent injury to health, almost sure that they were toiling only to pay off the debts which had been made, and that nothing would come in any case to the Church. It is not easy to make people believe that Christ church should now resort to irregular means to replenish its funds. Before another such large undertaking is entered on, a more general understanding should be had through the parish as to what it is being committed to, and an application had of some familiar principles as to what projects of this kind can possibly have a satisfactory pecuniary result.

REMINDERS.

A study of the subscription list does not give unmitigated pleasure. The absence of some names which one would say would certainly be there, is to be noted. The fact of debts allowed to remain in spite of reminders, and while small singly, aggregating considerable sums, is not pleasant, nor the little interest evidently taken by some clergymen, to whom the paper is sent free, and to whom, as promoting the missionary work, it is of vital advantage. Recently the publisher sent out bills for $100, and some time after had only received $4. It was all due, the paper had not been ordered to be stopped. They had been read, but the subscribers would not pay. In some cases the paper is refused, not after paying up, but with a long account unpaid. Now, no one makes a penny out of the paper. It is sent free to many persons, and does the advertising of the diocese for nothing. It is not a charity.

Those who subscribe get their money's worth. If they do not receive their copies regularly, they are urged to make the fact known to the publisher. No person can keep up with the work or growth of the diocese without taking the NEWS. It is asked that all who care for these things shall take, read, and increase the circulation of the paper. The paper does not want to stand in the way of the larger weeklies. If you can only take one, take the Churchman or the Living Church. Of course, you will not hear as much about the diocese thus, but you will perhaps learn more of the Church at large.

CONTRASTS.

WE have had lately in this city, in an unexpected quarter, the example of the fall of a person in early married life under circumstances which startle us all. It may show how the love of dress can draw a person to lengths undreamed of, and what social temptations lurk even in well guarded homes. The saddest commentary on the case was made by the person who remarked unwittingly, that these persons were no worse than many others, only they had been caught. We speak of this because of a contrasting case which recently came to our knowledge. It was of a young wife who was rejoicing in the coming of her first child. Three days after its birth she became very ill, and in her feebleness and wandering, her words fell frequently in that petition of the Litany: "That it may be please Thee to preserve . . . all women in the perils of child-birth, all sick persons, and young children." She had said it so often during her months of loving waiting, that they came to her lips unconsciously now. Growing weaker, when her memory could no longer catch the words, she asked her mother and the clergyman to prompt her, so that she could say them. The little one went first, but was soon joined by its mother. With the wedding presents yet new, and in the little child's apparel, made largely by the mother's hands, were found many pieces of new, bright money, which from time to time had been received from her husband, and put aside for "things for the baby." These were afterwards consecrated by loving devotion for a handsome appointment for the altar, before which the young mother a year before had plighted her troth.

CHILDREN'S COT

ST. LUKE'S HOSPITAL.

For several years an effort has been making to raise $3,000 from the children, and those who are interested in them, for the perpetual endowment for a cot and a room for a child at our Hospital, where a child not able to be otherwise provided for may be kindly taken care of when sick or undergoing treatment. By little and little we have gone on so far. Gifts are urgently asked for this purpose and will be credited in THE NEWS. They may be sent to the Bishop, 2727 Chestnut street St. Louis.

Again, too, the Cot loses its dividend on $1000 worth of Third National Bank Stock in this city, on account of that miserable defalcation last Spring. This is $60 which that occurrence has cost the Cot. It is hot and indignant over it.

PERSONAL.

—The clerical obituary of the month includes the names of the Rev. A. J. Berger, of Maryland; Alfred Stubbs, D. D., of New Jersey; Joseph D. Philip, of Brooklyn, the Rev. H. R. Peters, D. D., of Ogdensburg, N. Y.; James Moore, D. D., Oberlin, Ohio; Giles H. Deshon, D. D., of Meriden, Conn.

—The archbishopric of Canterbury has been offered to and declined by the Bishop of Winchester, Harold Brown, on account of his advanced years. It was then accepted by the Bishop of Truro, Dr. Benson.

—It seems that the merchants of Chicago chose Bishop Cheney as the representative divine of the city on the occasion of the laying of the cornerstone of their Board of Trade.

—A touching incident is told of the death of the late Dr. Twing, that as his end drew near he received the Holy Communion with entire peace and joy, and that with a mingling of dignity, winsomeness and love; he bade farewell to the loved ones about his bedside, and that almost his last murmurings, in tones so low as to be scarcely intelligible, were the words, "charity! charity!" They are an epitome of his whole life. During his last sickness seventy-five clergymen called in one day, to make inquiries and send messages of love.

—It was the Rev. Dr. Mercer, of Newport, R. I., that left such large bequests to friends, and not Dr. Child.

—Shortly before his death, in the beautiful memorial chapel of St. John's, Cambridge, the poet Longfellow and daughter, her husband, and a few friends, gathered before the flower-decked font to dedicate the poet's grandchild to God in baptism. And there, with solemn vow, Longfellow, whom Ingersoll says was not a Christian, stood sponsor for the babe, and in answer to the minister's demand: "Dost thou believe all the articles of the Christian faith as contained in the Apostles' creed?" replied "I do."

—A sister of the late Bishop Cobbs of Alabama, who recently died, and had fallen into reduced circumstances, was so much attached to the Southern Churchman, that at the age of seventy-seven she with her own hands planted, cultivated and gathered a little patch of tobacco, in order to pay the subscription price.

—Racine College, on the 7th ult., conferred on the Rev. R. A. Holland the degree of S. T. D., Doctor of Sacred Theology. This is another form of the more familiar D. D., Doctor of Divinity.

—President Potter, of Union College, has been elected President of Trinity College, Hartford. This relieves a strain.

—Our old friend, the Rev. H. C. Duncan, formerly of Kansas City, now of Louisiana, is to be married in the latter part of this month to a lady, Miss Cook, in an adjacent parish. He could not stand out any longer.

—The Rev. C. P. K. Coombe, of Louisiana, has been spending some weeks in this city; also the Rev. Mr. Alcorn, of Arkansas, a few days.

—Bishop Dudley recently confirmed the Rev. J. A. Renbelt, D. D., formerly of the Christian church, at Henderson, Ky.; and the Bishop of California the Rev. Geo. C. Whyte, formerly a Presbyterian minister.

—Rev. Dr. Dickey, formerly of the First Presbyterian church of this city, now of Philadelphia, has, along with three other Presbyterian ministers of that city, at the earnest solicitation of some members of their congregations, adopted the use of a gown in the pulpit.

—The last four rectors of Trinity church, New Orleans, have been elected successively bishops—Beckwith, Harris, Galleher, and Thompson. Bishop Polk was also a rector. The position will come to be dreaded.

Some clergymen in New York city have formed an association called the Washburn Memorial Association in memory of Dr. Washburn of Calvary Church, for the purpose of distributing to young clergymen a number of the later and better theological works, with a view to quickening and enlarging thought. Those who give can nominate a beneficiary. The Rev. Dr. T. M. Peters, Bouvland corner of West 101st street, N. Y., is the Treasurer.

—There are six and a half million dollars worth of oil paintings in the private galleries in New York, and most of these have been accumulated within the last ten years. Mr. Vanderbilt has a million dollars worth.

—The Treasurer of the Diocese of Western New York, who was a bank president, has defaulted with all the money which was in the treasury; the Diocese, however, loses nothing. Cause, speculation in oil; he made a large amount, and then as usual had to keep on until he swamped all the money he could lay hands on.

CHRISTMAS at the Orphans' Home is always a joyous time, and this year they were more bountifully remembered than usual. Mr. W. Barr sent a gift of $200, Mr. Henry Shaw $25, and an unknown friend gave a handsome present to each inmate in the Home, beside a good supply of candies, nuts and fruit. We also received a large supply for the Christmas dinner of everything good for the little ones, and it was truly a happy Christmas time; and the board of managers extend their hearty thanks to each and all, for so kindly remembering the orphans committed to their care.

GENERAL NEWS.

—The Bishop of Western New York held a few days of retirement for religious devotions at the end of the Christian year with some of his clergy at St. Andrew's church, Rochester on 21st, 22d and 23d of November last.

—An admirable arrangement has been made at the Mission Rooms, Bible House, New York, which the Church's missionaries can secure the benefit of an admirably selected lending library of about two hundred volumes, by simply paying the postage on the return of the books. A catalogue is published. The books can be kept out three weeks.

—The A. T. Stewart estate at Garden City, Long Island, includes 17,000 acres, on which 6,000 trees have been put out. The town is twelve miles long and four miles wide. For St. Paul's School for boys four million bricks were needed. It will accommodate 300 boys. The copper leaders and pipes for the building cost $26,000. The Cathedral will not be finished for at least another year. Its organ costs $100,000. The building is 192 feet long, and finished in marble and bronzes. The chimes can be played along with the organ, and furnish a chorus. The Episcopal Residence is approaching completion.

—This year witnessed in many parts of the country a much greater appreciation of All Saints' Day, and a wider and more marked observance of it, as a time when the lives and the virtues of those who had departed hence during the year could be commemorated. It is a day which will have steadily increasing honor and observance.

—The census returns show that within the last ten years the number of idiots and insane in the United States has doubled. This witnesses to the rapid and exhausting life that our people lead. The figures also show that where there is the greatest proportion of illiteracy, there is the smallest proportion of the criminal, insane and pauper classes. The education for which we are taxed so enormously, as at present conducted, does not seem, by the cold results of the census, to have an unmixed good. It has some moral defect.

—The redoubtable Western Watchman grants that the average of natural religion is higher among Protestant communicants than among Roman Catholics.

—The Secretary of War has prohibited the use of tobacco to the cadets at West Point.

—The immigration from Europe was not as great in 1882 as it was in 1881, because of the abundant crops in Europe.

—Trinity College, Hartford, was chosen by the astronomical expedition, sent out by the German government to observe the transit of Venus, as the best place for their work. The Board of Fellows of the College have made this the occasion for presented to the Church the strong claims of that institution for endowments and patronage. It has a noble pile of buildings, and has lately received some handsome bequests.

—The installation of the new Warnen of Racine College, the Rev. A. T. Gray, took place on Tuesday, 5th ult., and was a very successful service.

—A building lately opened in Kansas City as a "church," is not only amphitheatrical in its internal structure, but the seats are revolving opera house chairs. Ushers show the audience in, and turn down their seats. The performance soon begins, and it is made as entertaining as possible. The people are not there to worship Almighty God. They have hired the most flowery, elocutionary, and attractive talker to deliver two lovely little orations on Sunday. They have engaged the prettiest and best singer to enchant them with solos. There is no altar of God visible; but there is a platform and a big organ. At the close of a recent entertainment on a Sunday, forms and bouquets of flowers were carried to the singer, after the concert fashion.

—Here is another case. Mr. Rutherford Stuyvesant of New York is building a church in a poor quarter of the city, to cost $120,000, exclusion of the land. It is to have in it a chapel, library, and office, a kindergarten on the upper floor, and Sunday-school room below. Would there not be astonishment if some one or more of our families should do something like this in St. Louis? We could stand the shock.

—A majority of the standing committees having given consent to Dr. Thompson's consecration, the matter now goes to the Bishops to ascertain their consent.

—There has been given by the Pilgrim Congregational Church of this city during the past year, outside of all amounts of parish purposes, over twenty six thousand dollars, of which nearly $1,500 was for foreign missions, and over $10,000 for help to needy churches mainly in this city.

BOOK NOTICES.

THE CHURCH ALMANAC, 1883. This is the old reliable, now in the fifty-third year of its issue, which is put out by the New York Society. Price, including postage, regular edition, 15cts., and with the parish list, 40cts. James Pott, 12 Astor Place, New York.

PERSONAL REMINISCENCES OF LYMAN BEECHER, by Rev. James C. White. This issue of the Standard Series, published by Funk & Wagnalls, in clear style, gives an idea as to where Mr. Ward Beecher got his many sided personality from. It is brightly written and told. 10 cts. paper. 10 & 12 Dey street New York.

The Church Almanac with Parish List has come to hand. As always it is invaluable for those who want to keep up, 25cts. Jas. Pott, 12 Astor Place, New York.

PROHIBITION VS. PERSONAL LIBERTY, by A. M. Collins M. D. In this pamphlet of 160 pages, which is well printed on good paper, is a series of addresses delivered two years ago during the campaign in Iowa, on the popular aspects of the liquor traffic. They advocate prohibition, and deride any other alteration. Of course they present many of those grave dangers and warnings which ought to be and are being heeded now as never before. But it is not wise to depend wholly, in the hope for a cure of the evil of intemperance, upon a prohibition, outside of and unconnected with the will of the individuals. Outward suggestion and opportunity are not the only causes of drunkenness. A more effective and Christian way is to build up purer motives from within, and so overcome and crowd out the lower craving. This is the more lasting and is effective even in the presence of temptation. But it is almost lost sight of in these chapters, in the sole dependence on prohibition. Still a reading of these pages will do good. Paper 35cts., cloth 50 cts. John Burns, St. Louis.

MEYER'S CRITICAL AND EXEGETICAL COMMENTARY ON THE ACTS OF THE APOSTLES.—Thoroughly edited especially for this edition, by William Ormiston, D.D., LL.D. Funk & Wagnalls, 10 & 12 Dey St., New York.

This is a most suggestive commentary; a work that all preachers who lecture or preach on the Sunday school Lessons, and all superintendents and all teachers who wish to get at the actual meanings of scripture, should have. Dr. T. W. Chambers, the well-known biblical scholar and member of the Bible Revision Committee, commends Meyer's work most highly, saying: "He has justly been called the prince of exegetes, being at once acute and learned." It is a work of great authority among scholars throughout Europe and in this country:

THE NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW for January opens with a symposium in which three of the most prominent advocates in this country of the "Revision of Church Creeds," namely Rev. Dr. Newman Smyth, Henry Ward Beecher and Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott, set forth the ground upon which such revision is deemed necessary as a defense of revealed religion against the encroachments of skepticism, and as an adjustment of the relations between faith and science. "University Education for Women," is discussed by Prof. W. Le Conte Stevens, who, though he zealously advocates the measure, commands the attention and respect of its opponents by the eminent fairness with which he states the adverse arguments. Prof. Isaac L. Rice gives a "Definition of Liberty," deduced from a profoundly philosophical study of the phases of political evolution, from the earliest Anglo-Saxon times to the present day. "American English," by Gilbert M. Tucker, is a spirited defense of our cis-Atlantic fashion of English speech against the aspersions of sundry British critics. The Rev. Dr. H. W. Thomas writes an article on "The Responsibilities of Progressive Thinkers." "Bigotry in the Medical Profession," by Dr. David Hunt, is a protest, against the First Commandment of medical ethics, which forbids association with any but regular practitioners. Finally, Charles T. Congdon, under the singularly apt title of "Adulteration of Intelligence," exposes some of the grave evils to be apprehended from the monopolization of telegraph lines, press associations and influential public journals. Published at 30 Lafayette Place, New York.

GEOLOGICAL SKETCHES AT HOME AND ABROAD.—By Achibald Geikie. Price 15 cents. J. Fitzgerald, Publisher, 30 Lafayette Place, New York.
This is the second and concluding part of Professor

Geikie's pleasant "Sketches." It is complete in itself, and contains seven chapters on the Geological Influences which have affected the Course of British History. The last chapter is specially valuable, containing a highly original contribution to the philosophy of history. The publisher has earned the gratitude of all lovers of science, by affording to them at a nominal price this and sundry other popular scientific works.

The third edition of COPP'S SETTLER'S GUIDE, a popular exposition of our public land system, is before us. It is edited by Henry N. Copp, of Washington, D. C. Its price is only 25 cents in paper and 75 cents in cloth: 8vo, 114 pp. The chapter on surveys is illustrated, and shows how to tell township and section corners, &c. The chapters on Homesteads, Pre emptions, and Timber Culture contain the latest rulings and instructions. Every settler and land man should have a copy of this valuable little book.

"A Look into Hawthorne's Workshop" is a most remarkable feature of the January Century, when we consider that the paper consists of the most interesting portions of Nathaniel Hawthorne's own posthumous notes for a romance. The notes are published here for the first time.

Professor Wallace, contributes an important estimate of "The Debt of Science to Darwin," which interprets the theories of Darwin. The frontispiece of the number is a striking portrait of Darwin. Frederick W. H. Myers writes briefly upon the personal and literary influence of the late Dean Stanley.

George W. Cable begins in this number his illustrated historical studies of Old New Orleans, by answering the much-asked question, "Who are the Creoles?" Dr. Eggleston's second paper on colonial history is well illustrated. "The Planting of New England" is the striking title, and the Puritans are treated with keen insight and sympathy.

Two practical subjects, effectively treated and profusely illustrated in this number, are "Hydraulic Mining in California," and "Farming for Feathers."

The January chapters of Mary Halleck Foote's romance of the silver mines, "The Led-Horse Claim," introduce a tragedy underground, and develop a powerful interest. The story will be finished in two more parts. Mrs. Burnett's "Through One Administration" is continued.

ST. NICHOLAS for January contains several notable features, pre eminent among which is the brief biographical sketch of Elizabeth Thompson Butler, written by her sister, which is accompanied by six illustrations from drawings made by the celebrated artist herself, especially for ST. NICHOLAS, her portrait, engraved from a photograph, and several groups from the great picture, "The Roll call."

Then there is the prize Tiger Composition, which was written by Hollis C. Clark aged fifteen years. There is besides, the report of the Committee on Compositions, with a long Roll of Honor.

Some further adventures of "Tinkey," in a story, entitled "Fairy Wishes, Nowadays," with characteristic illustrations, is sure to be welcomed by his old, and equally enjoyed by his new friends.

J. T. Towbridge's serial leaves the "Tinkham Brothers" in an exciting situation, where they must stay until the February number. There are interesting chapters of "The Story of Viteau," by Frank R. Stockton; and "The Field of the Cloth of Gold" has five illustrations, from the stained-glass windows designed by him for the house of Mr. W. K. Vanderbilt of New York.

"Silk Culture for Boys and Girls" is an article which inaugurates a new department, to be known as "Work and Play for Young People."

From the appearance of Vick's Floral Guide; which is on our desk, we should judge that the young Vicks are "chips of the old block," as the Floral Guide with its lithographed cover is handsome enough for the parlor table. Those who send to cents for it cannot be disappointed, as the plates alone are worth the amount. Address, as in past years, James Vick, Rochester, N. Y.

THE HOMILETIC MONTHLY for January contains ten sermons. Among the preachers are Dr. Charles F. Deems, on "Christ's Cure for Trouble"; Dr. Talmage, on "As the Leaf"; the late Dean Stanley, on "The Approaching Dawn"; and Dr. Joseph Parker, on "The Conversion of Saul." There are two valuable articles on the making of sermons; Henry Lansdell, D.D., describes "A Week's Preparation of a Sermon"; and Rev. A. McElroy Wylie has an essay on "Unity in Discourse"; Dr. T. W. Chambers, on "Misquoted Scriptures"; Dr. Howard Crosby's "Light on Important Texts"; Under the head of "Living Issues" there are suggestions for discourses on "The Rights of Inferior Creatures"; "Political Corruption"; "Preachers' Exchanging Views" contains a number of well-selected letters on the practical side of ministerial work. Price, $2.50 per year; single number, 25 cts. Funk & Wagnalls, 10 and 12 Dey Street, New York.

The January WIDE AWAKE is quite worthy to follow even the magnificent Holiday Number. It has no less than seventy beautiful illustrations, and furnishes a wonderful variety of stories, poems and articles, many of them with a gay Christmas echo. The frontispiece and opening poem, "Baby's First Step," will appeal to everybody in every household; and the first story, "A Winter Moon-rise," with its three illustrations, will give universal pleasure. These are followed by the last article in Miss Whitney's popular Old-Time series, "An Old-Fashioned Bee," with its fourteen pictures. Mrs. A. M. Diaz' "John Spicer Lecture" concerns jackknives; and Louis Hall has some sharp and witty things to say about "Speaking Distinctly." There is also a very amusing four-page poem, "The Wolf and the Goslings," and Charles Kingsley's "Three Fishers" has a strong full-page illustration. A brilliant and valuable number surely. Only $2.50 a year. D. Lothrop & Co., Publishers, Boston, Mass.

We make this liberal offer because we desire to give a present sufficiently large to induce every one to give Dobbins' Electric Soap a trial long enough to know just how good it is. If, after trial, they continue to use the soap for years, we shall be repaid. If they only use the fifteen bars, getting the dollar's worth of music gratis, we shall lose money. This shows our confidence. The Soap can be bought of all grocers—the music can only be got of us. See that our name is on each wrapper.

A box of this Soap contains sixty bars. Any lady buying a box, and sending us sixty cuts of Mrs. Foggy, can select music to the amount of $4.50. This Soap improves with age, and you are not asked to buy a useless article, but one you use every week.

Christ Church Vestry Room,

Monday, January 15, 1883.

At a meeting of the Vestry of Christ Church, held this evening, the following resolution was unanimously adopted :

The Vestry of this Church desire to bear its witness to the loss that this Parish, as well as the community, have sustained in the death of Judge Alexander Hamilton.

Judge Hamilton has been connected with this Parish almost from the commencement of its existence. He has seen it expand from small beginnings to the vigor and strength we all see.

For a considerable part of the time he has been to it a trusted counsellor and a member of its Vestry; and from the days of its weakness he was always ready to give to it all the aid and assistance it was in his power to afford. As a lawyer, he was indefatigable and painstaking, leaving no stone unturned that would develop matters beneficial to his client. Always genial, always careful of the feelings of others, conscientious in devoting all his energies to the furtherance of the interests of his clients, full of devotion to the Church, during the whole of his long life he lived in the eye of his Master.

David F. Leggett
Secretary:

Christ Church Vestry Room,
St. Louis, January 16, 1883.

At a Meeting of the Vestry of Christ Church, held January 15th, 1883, the following minute was unanimously adopted:

Whereas, It has pleased Almighty God, in His wise Providence, to call to his rest in Paradise, our dear Brother,

MR. THEODORE FORSTER,

We would make a record in our minutes of our great loss.

Our departed Brother has been associated with us for a long series of years. He became a member of the Parish in the midst of trouble and perplexities, when the question of going forward with the building of the Church was seriously debated; when encouraging words and pecuniary aid was much needed. He had just passed through the ordeal of a failure of St. Paul's Parish, in which he had sacrificed several thousand dollars, and yet, seeing our great need, he came forward manfully with cheering words and generous gifts.

He was elected a Vestryman in A. D. 1868, and has been with us in that capacity until within the past year he felt compelled to resign in consequence of his failing health. When urged to retain his position, he said, in his characteristic way, "I will not hold an office when I cannot regularly and promptly discharge its duties."

And so it was in every relation of life. He was regular in all his habits, and as methodical and prompt in his attendance at Church and in answering every call of religious duty as in the transaction of business. He was, in the highest sense of the word, an HONEST MAN—honest in the discharge of his obligations, as we understand them, to God and man. He was liberal in the bestowal of his alms, giving where he was convinced there was a good claim, with cheerfulness, and with the assurance of his readiness to increase his gifts when needed.

He was retiring in his disposition and by no means demonstrative in his manner, and yet he had a warm heart, and was a true and firm friend.

We shall miss his presence with us, and will cherish his memory with loving affection.

We desire this Minute to be conveyed to the Widow and Son of the Deceased, with the assurance of our sympathy and our prayers that "He who comforteth them that are cast down" may console and sustain them in their bereavement.

David J. Learitt
Secretary.

[OFFICIAL.]
DIOCESE OF MISSOURI,
St. Louis, February 10th, 1883.

TO THE CLERGY OF THE DIOCESE :

Rev. and Dear Brethren:—In the last two Conventions of the diocese the subject of Temperance in its relation to the use of intoxicating drinks, and the duty of the Church in the matter, has come up for consideration. Since the last Convention the subject has been brought prominently before us; and it is being widely considered, both in the Church and in the State. It will probably come before you at the next Convention, in the report of your committee on the subject.

Having in mind the wide and complicated connexion which this matter has with social and personal questions, and the anxious manner in which the evil referred to bears upon many persons and families in the diocese, I do not think that the emphasis laid on the subject has been greater than its importance would justify. But, after all, any lasting relief from the evil must be expected from a personal realization of the sin involved in intemperance, and from a quickening and strengthening of religious purposes in the individual. I therefore request that, on some occasion during this Lenten season, among the other counsels of self-denial and purity which you will press upon your people, you will make the matter of temperance, as related to personal duty, a subject of the sermon.

I am your faithful servant in Christ,
C. F. ROBERTSON,
Bishop of Missouri.

A CLERGYMAN in this city, who has leisure and experience, desires to obtain some private pupils in classics and the mathematics. He is a graduate in arts. A note addressed to the Bishop will secure any desire information.

A CLERGYMAN who is interested in these things, asks for some Church almanacs of former years in order to complete his files. If there are any persons who have copies of any Church almanacs between 1860 and 1880, which they no longer need, and will send them to the Bishop, he can give them a direction where they will be valued.

For the last few years a number of the Sunday-schools have, during the Lenten season, given their offerings for the mission work of the Church. They have either had it collected every Sunday, or saved it until Easter, when the amount was offered at once. The object is an excellent one. We have in the diocese received so much that this is very little we can do in return. Drs. Potter and Schenck are the Acting Secretaries since Dr. Twing's death, and on application to them, 23 Bible House, small paper mite chests will be furnished free of charge. The Missionary Host Sunday may be retained for its object, and its amount forwarded to the treasurer, Mr. E. C. Simmons.

REV. DR. RUSSELL, in his excellent work, recently issued, on the Use of the Voice in Reading and Speaking, a manual which has been principally prepared for clergymen and candidates for Orders, says among other good things: "A very effective reader of the Commandments is said to make murder horrible, adultery vile, and theft mean, by the interpretation of his reading." All who can should read the book. It would give a new sense of the beauty and capacity of our public services. If the simple rules were observed for a while each one could improve in expression.

PAROCHIAL CHANGES.

In his twenty-fifth anniversary sermon in Christ church in this city, in speaking of the changes among clergymen that had in the meantime taken place, Dr. Schuyler put the result of such changes to the practical test. He says: "They have come and gone, leaving their impress, doubtless, upon the several fields in which they have labored, and on the Church in the city; but may we not believe that more would have been accomplished had the relation between pastor and people been more sacredly regarded? The love of change has infected both clergy and people, and they go from place to place, and the people are content to have it so. May it not be the case that one reason for the failure of Christianity to retain its hold on the hearts and consciences of the people, is to be found in the constantly changing character and tone of the teaching, and the want of full and hearty sympathy, which only years of pastoral intercourse can awake and retain?"

These are wise words, and they are on a subject that ought to arrest the attention of many of those who are reflecting gravely on the causes why the Church in their towns does not grow more rapidly. They let in little piques; they grow indifferent; they let the salary go unpaid; vestrymen do not attend meetings, nor give moral support to the minister; the people for small reasons absent themselves from church. They come at length to entertain the notion that things are not going on so well, and that perhaps a change will help them. So, from lack of moral or financial support, the clergyman retires, and a vacancy ensues, perhaps a long one, in which any previous gains are lost. There are divisions in the parish as to the choice of a successor. He comes with freshness for a while. But the deadly habit of restlessness grows; the special friends of the last minister let the others take care of this one; all sense of honor is gone as to the duty of sustaining one who has been called to them from other work.

Bishop Whipple, in his last Convention address, says out of his sad experience: "The people who have left their pastor to labor alone, and make his hard earned salary a grudging charity, hope that a change will send them a minister who can secure success out of their own failures. I can recall very few changes which have not proved injurious to pastor and people. I know of no success that was not won by the united labor of men who knew how to work and wait."

It comes to this. Wonder is often expressed that with a clergyman of such moderate ability the parish goes steadily on, growing all the while. Of course, it is because the tone and helpfulness about him reacts on the minister and people. Another parish has had brilliancy and ability in many ministers, but still does not thrive. With some parishes almost any minister will succeed and cause them to grow; with others none seem ever to please or to induce prosperity. Ministers of standing and established success come to visit these last places, and some affect to laugh at them as preaching so poorly. But wise men say among themselves: "Well, are we any better off for these changes? Would it not have been as well for us to have stood by our first minister, or any one since? Is there not fault in us? Only a perfect parish should expect a perfect minister."

LENT IN ST. LOUIS.

There was no arrangement made this year for a course of Lenten conferences such as have been had for two years last past. This was not on account of their failing to prove useful or interesting. The attendance, and especially of gentlemen, was uniformly remarkably large, and the attention to the very end of prolonged sessions. The reason was because the burden of keeping them up fell upon so few. It was almost impossible to induce by any persuasion a layman to speak. And of the clergymen very few attended, and only two or three with any regularity. Perhaps it was because of more important duties elsewhere. It was a pity to intermit them, as they were upon vital social subjects, in which it was quite as important to hear the lay as the clerical mind.

The down town services for business men are not held, because of the want of a suitable place, convenient to the centre, where they may be held. If this year or any year the gentlemen would find a place, and see that it was furnished with chairs and warmed, and then in any kind of numbers attend, there would never be trouble to arrange for clergymen who would regularly be present and take charge of the services. The trouble is, and this affects almost every form of Church life and work in this city, the laymen are so intensely engaged in business, or else are so indifferent about bestirring themselves when they get home at night, that they will not think that there are certain branches of Church work which can only be done as they will do them themselves. As it is, very few of the men are able to attend any of the Lenten services this year. And it need not be so.

For Holy Week the Bishop has, as he has been always requested to do, arranged the following scheme of united services. These have been found very useful in past years, and it is hoped that an effort will be made by all to attend as many as possible this year. We have too much a habit of knowing only the Church as represented in our parish. It might be well to realize the fact that we are members of a larger family. The subjects are in keeping with the day:

March 19, Monday. Grace church. The Rev

CUSTIS P. JONES. Subject:—Nothing but Leaves.

March 20, Tuesday. Holy Communion. The Rev. C. E. D. GRIFFITH. Subject:—God's Temple desecrated and abandoned.

March 21, Wednesday. Mount Calvary. The Rev. B. F. NEWTON. Subject:—The Forty Pieces of Silver.

March 22, Thursday. Christ church. United celebration of the Holy Communion.

March 23, Good Friday. Good Shepherd. The Rev. THEO. DE FOREST. Subject:—The Lord on the Cross.

The services will begin at a quarter to eight o'clock. The seats in the churches are free. The offerings, as usual, on Thursday night will be for St. Luke's Hospital, and on the other nights for our missionary work in the diocese. Let this Great Week be fitly observed.

WOMEN'S MISSIONARY WORK.

The extent to which in late years increasingly the work of women has been called in by nearly all the denominations of Christians in this country for the prosecution of missionary work, can hardly have escaped the notice of any. So much so that the gifts from this source aggregate hundreds of thousands of dollars annually, and large sections of foreign work are wholly maintained by them. Conventions are holden in great cities, in which representatives appear from all parts of the country, and the business is conducted with entire orderliness, system and energy.

In our own Church the proportions to which this work by women have reached, have compelled corresponding organization. It is not now sporadic and without order. It constitutes a distinct and very important branch of our general missionary work. The report of last year shows that over $51,000 in money was received by the Woman's Auxilliary, and over $112,000 in value in missionary boxes, were dispensed by this agency.

Besides this, without doubt, a very large amount has been received and distributed by women's societies, which has not gone through the general organization, and was not reported. Probably more, rather than less than $200,000 has been gathered by Christian women during the last year, for distribution among the Church's missionaries.

This has not been given in place of money, but in addition to all other giving. The parishes which work in this way are almost without exception those which are liberal in their direct missionary giving. Those parishes which do not have women's missionary work give but little for the object in any other direction. One mode of activity reacts on the other.

This giving in money and clothing is intended for those who, for the love of Christ and His Church, are toiling on inadequate salaries in places where, unless there is external help, the Church can never be established. These ministers are persons of as nice sensibilities as any who occupy any other positions in the Church. The writer knows whereof he speaks, when he says that the giving, in the matter of missionary boxes, is arranged in almost every case with the gentlest considerations for feelings. He knows with what anxiety the needs in each case are striven to be met. No doubt there are sometimes mistakes made, but usually nothing is ever sent, as, of course, there never should be, that those sending would not themselves be glad to wear, or that is not of the best that can be had. It must be confessed that at times there is an exactingness, and a meagreness of acknowledgment that could be improved.

Is there disparagement in tendering and receiving such aid when it is intended to render possible the extension of Christ's work, when it does not take the place of money given, and when the arrangements are conducted with Christian sensibility? The writer thinks not; unless we go further and say that our Lord in consenting to be ministered to by women was unmanly. St. Paul, too, who did manual labor in order that he might not be a charge on those who would misconstrue any dependence on his part, was willing to be helped by women. At the close of nearly every epistle, with loving particularity he sends his greetings and his acknowledgments to those women who had cared for him and helped him. He was not pauperized by such assistance. He would never have received, as no Christian minister would, if it was solely for himself. But he was glad to be indebted to those who were thus helping him stand in hard places, and do the Master's work.

The writer will yield to no one in standing by the honor and the consideration due his brethren. There is scarcely a day in which he is not raising his voice or writing a letter in behalf of those who are laboring where the Church is making its beginnings. It is with this in mind that the Bishop applauds the women's aid societies, and their Christian work wherever it is being prosecuted.

DIOCESAN ITEMS.

—The Rev. Mr. Chesnutt has withdrawn, at the request of Mr. Ellis Stevens, the Secretary, his resignation as missionary in this city for the Society for Promoting Christianity among the Jews, and remains doing duty for it.

—The Rev. Mr. Richardson has declined the work on the Iron Mountain railroad, and has removed to Crete, Nebraska.

—On a recent Sunday, after an appeal for the Irish Church, in one of our St. Louis churches, the organist, probably with a view to the unities, played a lively Irish melody of Tom Moore's.

—The Rev. Mr. Betts has been in Baltimore, holding a mission in the Church of St. Mary the Virgin, and the Rev. C. P. Jones took his duty in his absence.

—The Rev. Benj. R. Phelps, who has for the past eighteen months in a devoted and disinterested spirit, acted as the assistant minister of Grace church in this city, has taken out Letters Dimissory to the diocese of Albany.

—The meeting of the Hannibal Convocation is to begin to-day, 15th, at Monroe, and continued over Sunday, 18th.

—The parochial missionary meeting at the Church of the Holy Communion, St. Louis, on Sunday night, 14th ult., was undoubtedly a great success. The people were there, and were interested. The children sang delightfully. The arrangement was such that the Bishop, who presided, was not at a long distance away, with a long array of empty seats in front. He was near the people. While it seemed almost impossible to induce a layman to say a word, Mr. McMasters spoke admirably. The "Missionary's" letter, in our last number was read, and was touching and simple. Mr. Chesnutt spoke to the point. Several interested laymen came up afterward, and said that the interest should have been put to the proof by a subscription on the spot; that persons would not remember to go to the parish treasurer to put in their names; they did not build railroads that way. There is great force in that. The effective result of such a meeting is in what is done then, or in the efforts of collectors following it right up.

—At the head of one of our Sunday-schools in this city is a gentleman who is the chief of one of the largest business firms in St. Louis. He gives two evenings in the week to preparation for his duty on Sunday, and on a third evening every week has the teachers at his house for a meeting to go over the lesson for the coming Sunday.

—The pitiful litigation over the Troost property in Kansas City, in which St. Mary's church, First Ward, long ago sued for an ejectment against St. Mary's church, and which was met by a demurrer that according to the pleading St. Mary's, First Ward, had no case, has advanced a step. The demurrer of St. Mary's has been overruled, and St. Mary's is now called on to make direct answer. It may be remembered that the proposition for a compromise by which, on the payment by St. Mary's, First Ward, to St. Mary's of the amount which they had expended on the property, it should be given up to them, and all litigation closed, and St. Mary's resume its name of St. Luke's, was refused by the vestry of St. Mary's by a vote of four to three, to be submitted to the congregation.

—The modesty of the rector of Trinity church, of this city, must have been shocked on his return from Baltimore, by the portrait of him in the Spectator of a fortnight ago. It was a very fair likeness. Along with it was a biographical notice, of which we give a portion: "He came here five or six years ago, after having established churches in Omaha and Kansas City, and has succeeded in putting Trinity church on a self-sustaining basis. When he assumed the pastorate it was not believed a church could be maintained so far down town. Dr. Betts has not only been untiring in his efforts for his congregation, but has done much for St. Luke's Hospital, and the Sisterhood. He is an Irishman by birth, and has all the ardor and impulsiveness of his race."

—One of the clergymen of the diocese, who is receiving about the smallest salary of any, has been for years paying a certain part of it to the Society for the Increase of the ministry, with an understanding that when his son, now young, shall become of sufficient age to study for the ministry, he shall be helped by the society. This is a beautiful act of faith. The father has always been a toiler, and he has not had large support, but the joy of his service, and the consciousness of doing good has repaid him, and he wants his son to follow in his steps. How much better this than the words of discouragement which we have known some clergymen to use to dissuade their sons from the ministry, to the spiritual impoverishment of their own work.

—Some gentlemen of the different parishes in Kansas City recently presented the Rev. Chas. E. Cummings with a Waltham watch, which is greatly valued by him in consequence.

—The organ in the old Church of the Good Samaritan, in this city, has been purchased by the parish in Santa Fe, and after having been cleaned and repaired and boxed, will be sent out to them.

—The parishioners of the Good Samaritan Church expect to have raised among themselves by Easter $1,000 towards their building fund. They are becoming very impatient for a building of their own, although they have been shown great consideration and courtesy by the congregation of Trinity church. There are constant accessions of important elements. They are negotiating for a piece of land for their building. If such of the Church people as have not yet contributed to this mission, which is the more deserving as they have so energetically helped themselves, and can do so, will send their pledges or amounts to the Rev. Mr. Mason, 1406 Chestnut street, or the Bishop, they will enable the mission the sooner to set about their work of building their church.

—The meeting of the Hannibal Convocation begins to-night, (15th) in St. Jude's, Monroe City, when the Rev. E. Talbot preaches the opening sermon. The subject at the conference on Friday morning is the Church's Revival; in the afternoon on the Preparation for Candidates for Confirmation. The sermon at night by the Rev. W. H. Goodisson. On Saturday morning the subject for conference is the Clergyman's Course of Reading; in the afternoon the Sunday-school; at night, Temperance. On Sunday sermons will be preached in the morning and at night, with the Holy Communion in the morning. In the afternoon there will be addresses on the subject, "How to make the services and sermons more effective; (a) on the clergyman's part; (b) on the laity's part. The Convocation closes that night. The Bishop is expected to be present on Saturday and Sunday.

—One of our clergy has prepared a calendar for this Lenten season, with a leaf to be detached every day, on which besides the date, is a verse of Scripture and the number of an appropriate psalm, and a blank space to be used for marking the services on that day in the parish church. The whole is most complete, and a good reminder. The harmony of the lessons of each day is also well arranged. Copies ought to have been put-out for sale.

—The Rev. Mr. Talbot, of Macon, is publishing a monthly parish paper, which has reached its 8th number. It is well gotten up. The rector of St. James' was kindly remembered at Christmas time. During the holidays he spent some days in Kansas City, and on Sunday officiated in two of the churches there. A wood engraving has been put out of the Academy in Macon, which gives a good notion of its proportions.

—They are having a series of parlor concerts in Mount Calvary church in this city, and the increase of the fund for a new and larger building is to be the object of the Easter offering.

—The gratifying news comes to us from Kansas City, that a successful effort is being made in Grace church to free the parish from debt. For this purpose $2,700 was needed, and quite that amount has been raised. The debt was created years ago, mostly in building their church. The building will now shortly be consecrated. This is a joyous consummation. It has been greatly improved in its interior.

—A movement is on foot to erect a chapel in North Springfield, on land bought from the railroad company. A mission there has been formed, and officers appointed by the Bishop. This portion of this enterprising city is growing very rapidly, and will require very soon services for itself.

—The season of Lent was begun in St. Joseph with the best Ash Wednesday congregation that they have ever had. The affairs of Holy Trinity mission are in some confusion, and occasion Dr. Runcie considerable embarrassment. From the size of his home congregation, he can give them but little attention. During Lent, however, he gives them a morning and night service.

—The Standing Committee have recommended the Rev. Messrs. C. M. C. Mason, and Chas. E. Cummings, Deacons, to the Bishop for advancement to the Priesthood. They have both passed their examinations creditably. They are both colored clergymen, in charge of congregations in this city and Kansas City respectively. Their ordination will take place in a few days.

—The Rev. Dr. Runcie has been suffering severely for some weeks from his old enemy, rheumatism. He has had to ask the Congregational minister to go out to the cemetery to attend to his funerals there. The parish societies of Christ Church are the Parish Aid Association, Ladies Aid and Dorcas Society, Young People's Missionary Club, Busy Workers, Chancel Guild, and the Monitor Guild. The parish debt which now amounts to $4,000, the Rector hopes will be reduced to $3,000 by the Easter offertory. They are not going to wait for the entire removal of the debt, however, before spending quite an amount on the interior of the church.

—At Christ Church in this city special Easter offerings are called for. (1) deficit in current expenses, (2) New front door and repairing the steps, (3) New iron fence, (4) Re-carpeting the church. It is suggested that 25 persons subscribe $100 each, and $1,000 be raised in smaller sums. The English Fayre did not yield anything over expenses.

—Holy Communion in this city will at Easter endeavor to clear off the remaining $7,500 of its parish debt.

ST. GEORGE'S MISSIONARY MEETING.

This service was so unique in its results that it deserves a separate article. The parish had been doing little for Diocesan missionary work for a good while, and the rector desired that the records should be changed. In old times the church gave one-fourth of all that was given in the Diocese for its missionary work. On conference between the Bishop and Dr. Fulton Sunday night, 11th inst., was settled upon as the time for holding the parish missionary meeting. The rector addressed a circular note to the members of the congregation individually, stating the purpose and specially requesting their attendance, and took other means of bringing the matter to attention. The night was slippery and disagreeable, the congregation was not large, but it had body to it.

After a short service the Bishop made an address, in which he stated the case; the situation past and present of the Diocese, the record of the parish in this regard in the past, and what he conceived that it might do now. Mr. McMaster, the Secretary of the Missionary Board, made a clear statement of its workings and its affairs, and showed how last year we received more from the East than we gave ourselves for our own home work, and that we have less claim than other Dioceses on external resources, and they point to St. Louis, and say that it should help the Diocese out, and so if St. Louis does little it is an incubus. The Rev. Mr. Chestnutt made an address characterized by simplicity and directness, more particularly acknowledging the obligations which his work at the Advent were under to St. George's for helping them get out of their debt.

The Rector in his characteristically incisive way put before his people the unworthy methods of raising money and the inadequate results reached in the past, and pressed for an immediate testing of what could be done.

Mr. M. W. Alexander, one of the original members of the Executive Committee of the Laymen's Missionary Society, sixteen years ago, being called on made an admirable address from a layman's standpoint as to what the claims of the work and the position of the parish called for.

This was clinched by Mr. Branch, the Senior Warden, who with that nervous force and the terseness which marks a man of deeds and not of speech, put before the men of St. George's the folly of having a Bishop and giving him little to work of with, and the stewardship which goes with wealth. He said he would give $100, and asked the pledges be received right then and there.

John C. Orrick, Esq., reinforced this by urging the claims of the Church as well upon citizens for the conservative work which the Church is doing wherever its influence reaches.

Cards and pencils were then distributed down the aisles, and in a few minutes after the wardens received the offerings and pledges, and with a hymn and prayers by the Bishop the service closed. On going over the pledges afterward it was found that about $900 had been pledged for the year for the missionary work and given in money. There were several pledges of $100 each, and others for $50 and $25. It was a noble result, reached in a direct and manly way. It is good for the Diocese, good for the parish; and it ought to spur others to similar work in a similar way. A missionary meeting without offerings and pledges then and is feeble and unreal. It is a legislative bill with the enacting clause left out.

MISUNDERSTOOD SCRIPTURES.

In the Prayer Book version of the ninety-fifth Psalm, the Venite, one verse reads: "In his hand are all the corners of the Earth; and the strength of the hills is his also." It should read, "In his hand are the depths of the Earth, and the heights of the mountains are his also." This brings out the parallelism also. In the 100th Psalm, instead of, "It is He that hath made us, and not ourselves;" it should be, "It is He that hath made us, and we are His, His people, and the sheep of His pasture."

In the 90th Psalm, in the burial service, the verse, "Thou turnest man to destruction; again thou sayest, Come again, ye children of men," is not very intelligible. It should be, "Thou turnest man to dust, and sayest, Return, ye sons of men." The two clauses are parallel and mean the same, and in the last reference is made to "Dust thou art, and unto dust thou shalt return." In the sixth verse of the 130th psalm, the Prayer Book version does not bring out the idea of the sick man longing for the morning light. It should be, "My soul waiteth for the Lord more than they that watch for the morning." In the 67th psalm a favorite verse used often to enforce congregational singing is marred by a reference to the Hebrew, which shows that it means: "Let all the nations praise Thee." It is a missionary psalm; as the metrical selection has it: "Let differing nations join," etc.

The verse in the 9th chapter of the prophecy of Isaiah which occurs in the first lesson for Christmas day always is puzzling: "Thou his multiplied the nation and not increased the joy: they joy before thee," etc. Evidently there is a mistranslation, as these two clauses contradict each other. The solution may be had in one or the other of two ways. The reading of the text in the original quite as well bears the translation of "to him," or "to it," instead of "not." It would then read: "Thou has multiplied the nation, and increased the joy to it; they joy before thee." Or if the varying text of the Hebrew margin is taken, it well bears the changing of the "not," into the expression of interrogation. It would then read: "Thou has multiplied the nation, and will thou not increase the joy? The joy before thee."

Reference is often made to the unfortunate translation in both the earlier and the revised version of Acts XVI: 22: "That in all things ye are too superstitious." The superlative in the Greek quite bears the meaning, "Ye are very religious," and the context and the rhetorical necessity shows this to be evidently the true meaning.

RUBRICAL NOTES AND QUERIES.

V.

CONFIRMATION.

The preface to the office for the Laying on of Hands was originally a rubric, a note of explanation, to show the connexion between baptism, the service for which immediately precedes, and confirmation. It is not adapted for the use to which it is now put, of being read aloud as a preparation for the service that is about to be said. One of the plans of the memorial movement, thirty years ago, in this country, was to urge a substitute for this preface, better fitted for the occasion, and relegate this to its office as a rubric.

There would seem to be needed after the preface, for the completion of the service, when the minister has called up the candidates, who are now standing before the Bishop, some words of statement from the minister to the Bishop, showing that these persons, having been examined and prepared, are now presented to receive the apostolic blessing. Then the Bishop can properly ask them the question which follows. And here, according to the Church's law, the names of those presented should be handed to the Bishop.

In the first prayer book of 1549 the catechism came in here. Those to be confirmed were all children, and therefore were examined before the Bishop as to their sufficiency of knowledge. Traces of this are yet found in the examination immediately before the laying on of hands in the Lutheran churches. For this now is substituted with us the single question, which gathers up all that used to be distributed through a series of inquiries. It is required that the answer be made in an audible voice. It is the personal pledge of faith, and desire, and obedience on the part of each one which the Bishop must hear as a warrant for him to proceed. But it is to be noticed that the answer here given is very often far from being general or audible. In some cases the candidates, who have perhaps brought no book with them, seem surprised that any question should be put to them, and look inquiringly at the Bishop and to the minister, at a loss. Others may nod their heads. But the answer is required to be audibly made, and the persons are to be so instructed.

The persons to be confirmed stand until the directions for kneeling, just before the laying on of hands. The congregation should remain standing, except when prevented by fatigue, until the Lord's Prayer.

In the Roman Church the Bishop while confirming sits, unless on account of the numbers to be confirmed he stands. In the Old Catholic Church the Bishop stands. In both of these the main point of the service is the anointing of the candidates with oil; then the Bishop strikes them lightly on the cheek. In the English Church the Bishop is directed to lay his hand on each of the candidates. With us the more primitive use is preserved of the laying on of hands. The Roman Church has dropped this essential feature out altogether.

CHRIST CHURCH VESTRY ROOM,
ST. LOUIS, January 16, 1883.

At a meeting of the Vestry of Christ church, held Jan. 15, 1883, the following minute was unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, it has pleased Almighty God in His wise providence to call to his rest in Paradise our dear brother, Mr. Theodore Forster, we would make a record in our minutes of our great loss.

Our departed brother has been associated with us for a long series of years. He became a member of the parish in the midst of trouble and perplexities, when the question of going forward with the building of the church was seriously debated, and when encouraging words and pecuniary aid was much needed. He had just passed through the ordeal of a failure of St. Paul's parish, in which he had sacrificed several thousand dollars, and yet seeing our great need, he came forward manfully, with cheering words and generous gifts. He was elected a vestryman in A. D. 1868, and has been with us in that capacity until within the past year he felt compelled to resign, in consequence of his failing health. When urged to retain his position, he said in his characteristic way, "I will not hold an office when I cannot regularly and promptly discharge its duties."

And so it was in every relation of life. He was regular in all his habits, and as methodical and prompt in his attendance at church and in answering every call of religious duty, as in the transactions of business. He was in the highest sense of the word an honest man—honest in the discharge of his obligations as we understand them, to God and man. He was liberal in the bestowal of his alms, giving where he was convinced there was a good claim, with cheerfulness, and with the assurance of his readiness to increase his gifts when needed. He was retiring in his disposition, and by no means demonstrative in his manner, and yet he had a warm heart, and was a true and firm friend.

We shall miss his presence with us, and will cherish his memory with loving affection.

We desire this minute to be conveyed to the widow and son of the deceased, with the assurance of our sympathy and our prayers that "He who comforteth them that are cast down" may console and sustain them in their bereavement.

DAVID F. LEAVITT, Secretary.

At a called meeting of the Vestry of Grace church, Kirkwood, Mo., held to take action upon the death of Mr. Harry I. Bodley, late Senior Warden of that parish, D. M. Grissom, E. H. Lyckett and G. W. Tracy were appointed a committee to draft suitable resolutions, and offered the following, which were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, It has pleased our Heavenly Father to call to his eternal rest and reward, Harry I. Bodley, the venerable and beloved Senior Warden of this parish, who, with an appropriateness that seems providential, fell asleep the 7th day of January, 1883, at the very hour when the bell was calling to morning service in the church which he had done so much to establish, which through the years in which it had no rector he had ministered to, as lay reader and senior warden, so faithfully and successfully, and which even in his last hours on earth lay so near his heart; therefore, be it

Resolved, That in the departure of our venerable brother and friend in the ripeness of his years and works, we recognize a great bereavement and loss, keenly felt throughout this parish and community, but which is not without a large compensation in the enduring influence of his high personal virtues, the bright example of his consistent Christian life, and the works which follow the good man when he rests from his labors; and we recognize this parish and Church, with whatever measure of usefulness may have attended, or may hereafter attend it, as a perpetual shining memorial to the zeal, patience, love and self-sacrifice of our departed brother.

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be presented to the bereaved family, and that publication be made in the CHURCH NEWS, Living Church and Churchman.

F. B. SCHEETZ, Rector.
GEO. W. TRACY, Clerk.

CHRIST CHURCH VESTRY ROOM,
MONDAY, January 15, 1883.

At a meeting of the Vestry of Christ church, held this evening, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

The Vestry of this church desire to bear its witness to the loss that this parish, as well as the community, have sustained in the death of Judge Alexander Hamilton.

Judge Hamilton has been connected with this parish almost from the commencement of its existence. He has seen it expand from small beginnings to the vigor and strength we all see. For a considerable part of the time he has been to it a trusted counsellor, and a member of its vestry; and from the days of its weakness he was always ready to give to it all the aid and assistance it was in his power to afford. As a lawyer he was indefatigable and painstaking, leaving no stone unturned that would develop matters beneficial to his client. Always genial, always careful of the feelings of others, conscientious in devoting all his energies to the furtherance of the interest of his clients, full of devotion to the Church; during the whole of his long life he lived in the eye of his Master.

DAVID F. LEAVITT, Secretary.

A KNABE IN THE WHITE HOUSE.—There was seen yesterday at Messrs. Knabe & Co.'s factory a magnificent concert grand, just finished by them for the presidential mansion. President Arthur, who is a thorough connoisseur of music in selecting a piano for the White House decided in favor of the Knabe Piano as his preference, and ordered accordingly the instrument referred to. It is a concert grand of beautiful finish in a richly carved rosewood case, and of superb tone and action—an instrument worthy in every respect of the place it is to occupy. It was shipped to its destination yesterday.

—The Mayor of New York city refused to license the Passion Play to appear there.

PERSONAL.

—It is stated by one who saw it that the face of the late Archbishop of Canterbury, on the first day after his death was that of a worn soldier, after a well-fought battle; on the second it exactly resembled the face of his mother; on the third, it was the face of a young man,—the appearance who had entered into eternal youth.

—Bishop Huntington, in a recent address, speaking of the objections which some make to the Church Temperance Society as being extra canonical, unchurchly, etc., said, "The Son of Man, who is Lord of the Sabbath, is Lord of rubrics and canons. May we be delivered from the timid counsels of Churchmen, who would rather have the Church a Pharisee, an owl, a snail, a mummy, than that it should do something that it never did before.

—Bishop Talbot, of Indiana, died on the 15th ult., of paralysis, of which recently he had several attacks, the last of which was precipitated by a fall on the ice. Up to within two years he had had the strongest physical health. He was in his sixty-seventh year, having been consecrated February 15th, 1860, as Missionary Bishop of the Northwest, in which office he was singularly efficient, and secured much property for the Church. In 1865 he became Assistant to Bishop Upfold in Indiana, and succeeded him on the death of Bishop Upfold in 1872. Last fall he resigned his jurisdiction on account of failing health, which resignation was never acted on. He was brought up to business pursuits, and was generous, and energetic, and clear-headed. He was brought up a Quaker. His wife died a year ago, and he had no children. His funeral, in Christ Church, Indianapolis, was attended by Bishops Bedell, Wells, McLaren, Jaggar, Dudley, Burgess and Brown. The Governor and his staff led the procession to the grave.

—The clerical obituary of the month includes the names of the Rev. Lucien C. Lance, of Kenosha, Iowa, the Rev. Joseph D. Philip, of Long Island; Wm. N. Pendleton, D.D., of Lexington, Virginia; J. W. Claxton, D.D., of Philadelphia; Samuel E. Smith, Albany, N. Y., and L. N. Voigt, of Philadelphia.

—Dr. Benson, who will be the ninety-third Archbishop of Canterbury since St. Augustine, will be enthroned on the 4th of April.

—Mrs. Hancock, wife of the General, who has been organists at the chapel on Governor's Island for a number of years, recently wrote a Te Deum which has been much praised. For a time the publishers sold a hundred copies a day.

—Mrs. Dunlop was able recently to accompany the Bishop on a trip to Mesilla, and was none the worse for it.

—A son of Mr. George D. Appleton, formerly of Mt. Calvary church in this city, has recently been ordained in Richmond, Virginia. He sails this month as a missionary to China.

—The Rev. Lucius Waterman, of New Hampshire, has been elected Professor of History at Seabury Hall, Faribault, Minn.

—Bishop Clarkson has definitely stated that he will not continue in charge of Dakota after the General Convention of this fall. He is urging four new missionary bishops for the territories not now supplied with bishops: Dakota, Wyoming, Arizona and Idaho.

—Bishop Brown, of Fond du Lac lately stated that there was only $3,000 debt on all the Church property of his Diocese; also, that there were but three Churchmen in the Diocese who could be called drunkards.

—Bishop Lay has been seriously ill recently of heart disease.

—At the recent marriage of the daughter of Bishop Lyman of South Carolina to Congressman Cox, the bride's presents from her father was a set of diamonds and $50,000.

—A noble example of faithfulness to plighted word was recently shown in the Diocese of Western Michigan. The Rev. Samuel Earp, then rector of St. Mark's, Grand Rapids, was earnestly desirous in 1874 for the division of the Diocese, and to aid it subscribed, far beyond his means, $3,000 towards the creation of an Episcopal fund. Hard times came, and he could not meet the payments on the principal, and he resigned his parish. From time to time he paid $2,375 in interest, and a few weeks ago paid the $3,000 principal. He is a simple parish clergyman, with nothing but his honorable name. He had pledged himself beyond his ability, but he was bound that no one should suffer through his fault, and he paid every penny, principal and interest.

—After his death, an account book of Bishop Talbot's was found running back for twenty years and more, in which he kept a debit and credit account with God; balanced from time to time like a bank book. He placed ten per cent of his income to the Lord's credit, and the opposite page shows how it was expended. Besides his books, which he left to the Diocese, all else that was left were insurance policies to the amount of $10,000 or $12,000, which he left to his brother's wife and family. He asked that his old robes in which he had done so much service be mended, and he be buried in them: his new robes be left for his successor. He died in the same house in which his predecessor had lived and died.

INTERESTING TO LADIES.—Our lady readers can hardly fail to have their attention called to the latest combination of improvements in that most useful of all domestic implements, the "sewing machine."

As we understand it, a machine for family use should meet first of all these requirements: It should be simple in its mechanism; it should run easily; it should do a wide range of work; it should be as nearly noiseless as possible; it should be light, handsome, durable, and as cheap as is consistent with excellence throughout.

These conditions the "Light Running New Home, certainly meets. It has also several very important and useful attachments and "notions" of its own, which go far to make good its claims to popular favor.

Now a great many families have been and are still using the old machines—waiting for the times to improve; waiting for the latest improvements in designs and mechanical excellence.

But why delay longer? Considering the low prices at which good machines are now sold, and the improvements that have been made now is a good time to buy, and the "New Home" specially recommends itself to purchasers on account of its superior mechanical construction, ease of management and reasonable price. Nearly half a million have been sold in the last three years, all of which are giving universal satisfaction. This unrivalled machine is manufactured by the New Home Sewing Machine Co., 30 Union Square, New York, who wish us to say that all who will send for their new illustrated catalogue and enclose their advertisement (printed on another page), will receive a set of fancy advertising novelties of value to those collecting cards, &c.

GENERAL NEWS.

—Dean Hart, of Denver, with the Bishop's consent, invited Dr. Jeffrey, a Baptist minister, to preach in the Cathedral on Thanksgiving Day. Just before the service, however, Dean Hart received a formal notice, signed by two clergymen, that in case the person was allowed to preach, he would be proceeded against for violating the canon. Dean Hart thereupon announced to the congregation that Dr. Jeffrey would not preach.

—Mrs. Hancock, the wife of Gen. Hancock, has just written a grand Te Deum for the chapel on Governor's Island, where she has for a long time played the organ.

—Some gentleman in St. Louis gave the church in Sherman, Texas, recently, two beautiful chandeliers.

—The bonuses on the pews at the Pilgrim church, St. Louis, reached this year $14,000; ten years ago they came only to $4,000. The highest price paid was $650.

—Dean Hoffman of the General Theological Seminary has just received $10,000, bequeathed unexpectedly to him to the Seminary by a gentleman who had read his pamphlet recently stating the needs of the Seminary. He has since also received another $10,500, and a new building, "Sherred Hall," is to be begun in the spring.

—Fourteen of the counties of Maryland under the principle of local option have voted for prohibition in the sale of liquor.

"Eight years ago I had an attack of Rheumatism so severe that I could not move from the bed, or dress, without help. I tried several remedies without much if any relief, until I took AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, by the use of two bottles of which I was completely cured. I have not been troubled with the Rheumatism since. Have sold large quantities of your SARSAPARILLA, and it still retains its wonderful popularity. DR. ELLIS, a distinguished Unitarian minister in Boston, recently made publicly this remarkable statement: "Scripture, exegesis, logic and argument are on the side of the orthodox; and the Bible, strictly interpreted, yields what is called the orthodox creed." The dismay which this statement made has not been allayed yet.

It was a startling statement which Father Gleeson recently made at a trial in this city, that he did not put a child at a Roman Catholic institution, because it would there be liable to contract some disease, that not half of the children placed in these institutions live, and that many of them are full of disease.

Look at the other side. If it is hard to meet the insurance premium, see how much harder it would be to have the church burned down without insurance. If you have to stand something in the minister, see how much he has to stand in you, multiplied by a hundred more just like you. If they do not show interest in your sermon, recall whether your thought as you entered the pulpit was: "Am I preaching because I have something to say, or because I must say something?"

SIR CHARLES TREVELYAN recently said that "in England the opening of the civil and military service, in its influence upon national education, was equivalent to a hundred thousand scholarships and exhibitions of the most valuable kind." Something like this will result from the practical enforcement of our civil service law. The whole business was debasing, and there were no inducements to excel, so long as position and promotion depended simply on influence. There will be worthy incentives for application and energy when these tell on a person's advancement.

It may perhaps be worth knowing that, while there is no law of liquor prohibition in this State, there are eighteen counties in which there are no dram shops or beer saloons, and that in some of these there has not been a saloon licensed or unlicensed for years. There are more dramshops in Chicago than in the whole State of Missouri, and four times as many in Ohio as in this State. We are bad enough, but we might be worse. There are twenty-two considerable towns in this State in which no drinking saloons are found. A brewing establishment in this city which recently failed, gave as one of the principal reasons, that the prohibition laws in Iowa and Kansas had cut off a great part of its trade.

—"THE Apostles' Creed," Henry Ward Beecher says, "is the only creed that ever united Christendom, and has come down through the ages without rent or waste, voicing the heart of the orthodox and the heterodox alike; simple, transparent, catholic, sublime. It deserves to be studied by all who would build another creed. It is a brief statement of facts touching the life, death, and resurrection of Christ. It has no theories, no deductions of principles, no hint of a system of moral truth. Yet, like a golden cincture, it clasps and girds together the whole world of Christian believers."

THE use of central offices for the different denominations in this city, for the purposes of a book store and depository for their special publications, for a rendezvous for their people and ministers as they come to town, and for a clerical gathering every week has become very general. On the block on Olive street, between Eleventh and Twelfth, there are three or four of these. Evidently they find their account in having them. We do not know if any deficiency is made up by the local churches. It might well be. The effectiveness of a central office, where approved books and definite directions can be found, is good in many ways. It is needless to say that we have nothing of this kind. Enquiries come to us asking where books and catechisms are to be found; and there is no place where they can certainly be found short of New York. There is no place convenient for any gathering. Years ago the generosity of some book sellers gave for some years the Bishop an office down town, which even then proved to be a matter of great convenience. The building was burned, and the office has never been replaced. We lose in self-respect and general efficiency in being without any place in this great city where our publications cannot be found, and Sunday-school facilities kept on hand.

WORTH TRYING.

The Church of the Holy Communion, New York, is an admirably organized parish, and an examination of its year book shows what can be done to develop the activities of the people. There is little in it which could not be reproduced in our larger parishes. It is not a spasm of work, but a steadily, growing life. There is the Employment Society, which cuts and prepares work, which is furnished to poor women to be returned finished. Then there is the Ladies' Missionary Society, which makes boxes, and has committees, one working for Mexico; another for the Indians; another for a hospital in China, inspired by Dr. Muhlenberg; another for Western work. There is a Workingmen's Club, which has 172 members, and has a benefit feature. They have a library of 1227 volumes, and over $1,000 in the treasury. The entrance fee is $5, and the monthly dues 40 cents. Then there is the Lawrence Club, composed of the older boys of the parish, and the object is to give them a pleasant place of resort in the evening, for social recreation. It is self-sustaining.

These features could be reproduced almost anywhere, and no denunciation of Missouri or St. Louis air or habits should prevent their being started.

There is a Bible-class for workingmen on Thursday night, and one for working women on Sunday afternoon; a Mother's Meeting on Tuesday night. One lady of the parish meets at her home four evenings a week a large number of working girls, whom she instructs in elementary branches, and gives occasional entertainments for. Under this direction also there is a grocery store, at which the poor can buy at wholesale prices; a Rainy Day Fund for small savings; a Coal Saving Fund, and a Fund for nursing and providing for sick women and children.

Besides all this in the parish, there is the Dispensary, the Home for Aged Women, the Shelter for Respectable Girls, and Training School for Servants, the Babies' Shelter, and the Summer Home for the Poor. No one can question the usefulness of that parish. In order that such work could have been kept up quietly for over thirty years under three rectors successively brought up in the parish, there must have been a quiet, loving spirit in the minister, the knowledge that he is a sympathizing friend; that he believes in the good which is in each one, and that he is organizing all the latent good purposes, which so generally are sterile, in the parish, in steady and persistent good deeds. Any clergyman who wants to see what can be done and he should do, and wants to learn and reproduce in his own work such practical results, should try to get from the rector the Year Book of this model parish.

EARLY GENERAL CONVENTIONS.

For those who follow with interest such things, it may be worth knowing that there are no surviving members of our General Convention earlier than 1823. The only member yet living of the Convention of that year is Bishop Green, of Mississippi, who was then a presbyter, and represented North Carolina. If he attends the General Convention this fall, he will have been a member for the extraordinary period of sixty years.

For the convention of 1826 the only survivors are Bishop Smith, then a deputy from Vermont, the Rev. Mr. Green, Mr. (now Dr.) Theodore Edson, of Massachusetts. For 1829 the survivors are the Rev. Mr. (now Bishop) Green, of N. Carolina, Dr. Edson of Massachusetts, Rev. Dr. Wm. Norwood of North Carolina. For 1832, Bishop Green, who had just been consecrated, the Rev. Messrs. Green and Edson are the only surviving members. For 1835, Bishop Smith, the Rev. Mr. Norwood of North Carolina, Mr. F. W. (now the Rev. Dr.) Boyd of Maine, and Mr. C. C. Trowbridge, are the only survivors. For 1838, Bishop Smith, Dr. (late Bishop) McCoskry, the Rev. Messrs. Edson of Massachusetts, and J. T. Wheat, of Tennessee, are the only ones living.

It will be noticed how few persons are yet living who were members of the Conventions before 1841. Mr. Trowbridge is the oldest continuous lay deputy.

There were but 25 lay deputies in the Convention of 1838. Dr. Berkley represented Kentucky in 1841. The following resolution, proposed in 1838, was laid on the table: "Whereas, the surplíce is a most becoming, significant, and ancient ministerial garb, recommended by the usage of the Old Testament Church, by scriptural references, and by the approbation of wise and holy men, as well those who are not, as those who are of our Church, resolved, that the ministers among us who are not yet provided with surplices are hereby requested to conform to the general usage of our Church in this particular, and that vestries, or congregations, are hereby requested to supply them, as is customary, with such surplices." We have grown much since then.

CHILDREN'S COT.

ST. LUKE'S HOSPITAL.

For several years an effort has been making to raise $3,000 from the children, and those who are interested in them, for the perpetual endowment for a cot and a room for a child at our Hospital, where a child not able to be otherwise provided for may be kindly taken care of when sick or undergoing treatment. By little and little we have gone on so far. Gifts are urgently asked for this purpose and will be credited in THE NEWS. They may be sent to the Bishop, 2727 Chestnut street St. Louis.

—The Commercial Gazette of this city in a recent number criticizes the assurances of welcome which are put into the notices of services, and the scant show of welcome which young men and others really get when they do go to the churches. No one knows how far a kindly show of interest will go with one who is struggling on, and has only a hall bed-room to make his home in.

GENERAL NEWS.

—The calling of young Mr. Satterlee to the rectorship of Calvary church, New York, and young Mr. Donald to the old Ascension church, and young Mr. Rainsford to St. George's, and Mr. Van Dyke to the ancient Brick Presbyterian church, and Dr. Ferry to the Reformed Dutch church in New York, is looked upon as significant. All these congregations are strong and old, and the newly chosen ministers are young men, several hardly over thirty, but all of force, and thoroughly trained and equipped.

—The later statement from the Dean about the Thanksgiving service in the Cathedral at Denver, greatly modifies the notice of it which we gave last month. With all the facts before us, the objectionable features disappear.

—A Jewish rabbi in New Orleans lately united his daughter in marriage to a Christian physician.

—The Standing Committees of Springfield and Fond du Lac refused their consent to the consecration of Dr. Thompson, and that of Illinois tabled the credentials, which came to the same thing. Quincy passed the papers.

—The Supreme Court of Iowa has decided against the constitutionality of the prohibition amendment of that State, and so the matter has to go again to the people.

—There are four ladies now in this country, all foreigners, singing and acting who will carry out of this country in May for what they have done since November, fully $350,000. They are Patti, Langtry, Nilsson and Modjeska. How about women not being well paid?

—St. Luke's church, Germantown, Penn., is vacant. Its vestry in the emergency have asked the parishioners to use the following with their daily prayers:

"Almighty and everlasting God, who dost govern all things in heaven and in earth, mercifully hear the supplications of us Thy servants, and of Thy loving kindness grant, we pray Thee, a priest to this parish, who, by faithfulness in teaching, and holiness of life, may be well pleasing unto Thee, and who, by watchfulness and zeal, may promote Thy glory and the salvation of souls; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen."

—It is stated that the special Convention for the election of a Bishop of Indiana has been called for March 6th.

—The Western Watchman is after Dr. Snyder. The latter complains because the Unitarians were left out of the enumeration of Christian bodies in Rand & McNally's census. Mr. Phelan replies by saying that a church that uses the prefix of Mr. when addressing our Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ, should not desire Christian classification. Very few do that, however.

—The consecration of the Rev. Dr. Thompson, Bishop-elect of Mississippi, is to take place in Trinity church, New Orleans, on the 7th inst.

BOOK NOTICES.

THE NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW for February opens with a symposium in which six prominent theologians, representing as many religious denominations, give expression to their views upon the question of the "Revision of Creeds". Prof. Alexander Winchell, in an article entitled "The experiment of Universal Suffrage", institutes a profound inquiry into the essential conditions of stable popular government, which he finds to be, substantially, virtue and intelligence; but these conditions, he maintains, are absolutely unattainable under our existing political system, where an electorate either ignorant or vicious, or both, by the mere force of superior numbers' practically nullifies the suffrage, of the better and wiser portion of the people. "The Political Situation" is the joint title of two articles, the one by Horatio Seymour, the other by Geo. S. Boutwell, who offer their respective views upon the causes of the recent overthrow of the Republican party. An article by Dr. D. A. Sargent, on "Physical Education in Colleges", treats a subject of prime importance to the welfare of the youths in our higher educational institutions. Finally, there are two articles on "The Standard Oil Company". Senator Camden of West Virginia defending that corporation against its assailants, and John C. Welch setting forth the reasons for condemning it as a dangerous monopoly. Published at 30 Lafayette Place, New York.

THE beginning of a new story by W. D. Howells, in the Midwinter (February) CENTURY, is a literary event, whose importance is increased by the discussion, in the past four months, of the characters, ethical purpose and literary qualities of "A Modern Instance." Mr. Howells's audience has been held up to a high notch of curiosity to see the opening chapters of "A Woman's Reason." His readers will not be disappointed. The scene is once more Boston, but the social atmosphere and the purpose have undergone a complete change. Only the style remains the same; but, here, too, the reader will perceive freshness of attitude and a new vivacity. The fourth part of the "Led-Horse Claim," by Mary Hallock Foote, heightens the dramatic interest of this fascinating story, which will end in the March number. Each part is embellished by a picture from the author's pencil. Mrs. Burnett's "Through One Administration" is developing a new interest as it nears the conclusion. The short story of the number is a humorously fanciful tale, entitled "The Spectral Mortgage."

Leading public questions receive unusual attention in this number of the CENTURY, for which reason it is appropriate that the frontpiece should be a portrait of George William Curtis, an autobiographical sketch of the well known essayist and publicist being contributed by S. S. Conant, of "Harper's Weekly." Miss Emma Lazarus discusses "The Jewish Problem." E. V. Smalley, "throws light on several important "Features of the New North-west," and Edward T. Peters explains the "Evils of Our Public Land Policy." A characteristic scene in the White House life of Lincoln is described.

Other illustrated articles in the same number are George W. Cable's second historical paper on "The Creoles in the American Revolution." Frank H. Cushing's second chapter of "My Adventures in Zuni."

St. NICHOLAS for February celebrates St. Valentine's Day in capital style, with an amusing story called "A Queer Valentine," and one has but to read it to see the appropriateness of the title. Anna North contributes "The Mission of Mabel's Valentine," and a there is a funny little poem, "My Valentine," by J. M. Anderson.

A timely and thrilling article is Joaquin Miller's "In the Land of Clouds," which describes an ascent of Mount Hood by a party of tourists, and the loss and rescue of a little dog that insisted on accompanying the climbers.

Of the serial stories, The Tinkham Brothers' Tide-Mill," leaves its young heroes in a still more exciting position than last month. The installment of Frank R. Stockton's "Story of Viteau" is one of vivid interest, describing a journey to Paris an encounter with robbers. Mrs. Clement has an "Art and Artists" paper on the Flemish painters, with two beautiful reproductions of portraits of Rubens and his children, painted by the great artist himself. "The story of the field of the Cloth of Gold" contains an interesting account of a tournament, and is illustrated by the frontpiece.

THE EARLY DAYS OF CHRISTIANITY. By Canon Farrar. This last volume, written by the eloquent author of the "Life of Christ," and the "Life of St. Paul," is a supplement to the others, and carries the narrative in the author's characteristic style through the New Testament. The praise of the book is in the mouth of all who have read it. It embodies wide reading and great labor, and yet the study of it is a pleasure. This edition, gotten out clearly and handsomely, and containing everything that is in the five dollar edition, is put out at the astounding prices of 40 cts. in paper and 75 cts. in cloth. Funk & Wagnalls, 10 Dey St., New York, sold by Walden & Stowe in this city.

YOUNG CHURCHMAN. Weekly. Single subscription, 80 cts. per annum. In packages of ten or more copies 54 cts. Monthly edition, single subscription, 25 cts. In packages of ten or more copies, 16 1-2 cts. The Young Churchman, Milwaukee, Wis.

EVIDENCES OF ORGANIC EVOLUTION. By George J. Romanes. Price 15 cents. J. Fitzgerald, Publisher, 30 Lafayette Place, New York. This is a strictly popular account of Darwin's famous theory of the Origin of Species. Darwinism has brought about a revolution in the world of thought, profoundly affecting every branch of knowledge—history, philosophy, natural science, law, theology, philology, political science, etc.

THE ELZEYR LIBRARY. A unique little semi-weekly magazine under this title has begun publication in New York. Each number is to contain a complete literary gem, a characteristic specimen of the best production of the brain of the author who is represented. The numbers taken together will form a beautiful little cyclopedia of the world's choicest literature. Price only two cents a number, or $2 a year. Number one contains Washington Irving's delightful story of Rip Van Winkle. Number two, Canon Farrar's graphic story of the Burning of Rome, and the persecution of the early Christians under Nero. Other numbers following are "The Sea Serpents of Science," by Dr. Wilson; Tennyson's "Enoch Arden;" Goldsmith's "Deserted Village," "The Traveler," etc. Specimen copy sent free on request. John B. Alden, Publisher, 18 Vesey Street, New York.

THE STANDARD LIBRARY. 1883 Series. Funk & Wagnalls, in their fight to crowd out bad reading for good, in which all good people must sympathize, have begun a fortnightly issue of fresh, standard books, in heavy paper, clear type, and convenient form, in strong, manilla covers handsomely illuminated. The first issue is the "Life of Oliver Cromwell" by Paxton Hood, which sells in this country for $3.50. The price in this shape is 25 cts. Each book stands erect on the shelf, and has its name on the back. The price is $4 a year, of which half is paid in advance, and $2 at the end of six months, after the first thirteen volumes have been received. Funk & Wagnalls, 12 Dey St., N. Y.

CHOICE LITERATURE. This is the title of a monthly magazine of a character somewhat similar to the well-known "Eclectic" and Littell's "Living Age," only at a reduction of cost so startling as to make one marvel—only 25 cents a year, though each number contains nearly one-half as much as one of the four-dollar magazines. The January number contains articles by Prof. Proctor, Samuel Smiles, Count De Falbe, the Bishop of Carlisle and Vernon Lee. Specimen copy sent free on request. John B. Alden, Publisher, 18 Vesey St. New York.

JOHN W. LOVELL & Co., have arranged with the Rev. R. Heber Newton, to publish in their popular "Lovell's Library," the sermons now in the course of delivery, on "The Right and Wrong Uses of the Bible." The whole series of sermons, seven in all, will be issued in one volume, printed from large type, in neat 12mo. form, paper covers, for 20 cents.

THE SANITARIAN has proportionately increased in its usefulness by the issue of weekly, in place of monthly numbers. In the consideration of the questions of the value of food and clothing, of water supply and how it can be best laid on, of drainage and school architecture. No periodical takes the place of this.

The February and March numbers of WIDE AWAKE contain a brace of articles which as the critic of the Boston Budget well remarks, "may be said to mark an era in the history of magazines for youth." This reference is to the papers, "Our Business Boys," by Rev. F. E. Clark, which contain the gist of letters written him on the subject by eighty-three business men of Portland, Me.

THE CELESTIAL SYMBOL INTERPRETED, by the Rev. Herbert W. Morris, D.D., author of Science of the Bible, etc. The alternative title of this work, which more fully describes its purpose is, The Natural Wonders and Spiritual Teachings of the Sun, as revealed by the triumphs of modern science. There is, therefore, two-fold interest in the work, first for what it makes known to us of the amazing force and variety of the Sun's power, as the source of light and heat, as a chemical agent, as a magnetic centre, and centre of gravitation. And then in each of these departments the spiritual analogy is finely drawn out. The chapters are short, the style is clear; the illustrations are beautiful; the make-up and binding are handsome. The work will be a source of profit and delight in the family during these winter evenings. Price, in cloth, $3.50; in leather, $4.50; in morocco, $5.50. J. C. McCurdy, Sixth and Market streets, St. Louis.

AYER'S PILLS.

A large proportion of the diseases which cause human suffering result from derangement of the stomach, bowels, and liver. AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS act directly upon these organs, and are especially designed to cure the diseases caused by their derangement, including Constipation, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Headache, Dysentery, and a host of other ailments, for all of which they are a safe, sure, prompt, and pleasant remedy. The extensive use of these PILLS by eminent physicians in regular practice, shows unmistakably the estimation in which they are held by the medical profession.

These PILLS are compounded of vegetable substances only, and are absolutely free from calomel or any other injurious ingredient.

A Sufferer from Headache writes:

"AYER'S PILLS are invaluable to me, and are my constant companion. I have been a severe sufferer from Headache, and your PILLS are the only thing I could look to for relief. One dose will quickly move my bowels and free my head from pain. They are the most effective and the easiest physic I have ever found. It is a pleasure to me to speak in their praise, and I always do so when occasion offers."

W. L. PAGE, of W. L. Page & Bro., Franklin St., Richmond, Va., June 3, 1882.

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have never known them to fail to accomplish the desired result. We constantly keep them on hand at our home, and prize them as a pleasant, safe, and reliable family medicine. FOR DYSPEPSIA they are invaluable. J. T. HAYES."

Mexia, Texas, June 17, 1882.

THE REV. FRANCIS B. HARLOWE, writing from Atlanta, Ga., says: "For some years past I have been subject to constipation, from which, in spite of the use of medicines of various kinds, I suffered increasing inconvenience, until some months ago I began taking AYER'S PILLS. They have entirely corrected the costive habit, and have vastly improved my general health."

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS correct irregularities of the bowels, stimulate the appetite and digestion, and by their prompt and thorough action give tone and vigor to the whole physical economy.

HOW TO WASH

French Cotton Fabrics.

Prepare a lather of soap and water in the proportions of one-quarter pound of soap to 5 or six gallons of rain-water or any other soft water heated to 72 degrees Fahrenheit—that is to say at a heat at which the hands can be placed in it with comfort.

When the solution is ready plunge therein the articles to be washed, take them out and replunge them for five to ten minutes, being very careful not to rub them, then rinse in pure cold water to clear them of the soap with which they have become impregnated.

Wring each article well and hang up to dry. N. B.—Care should be taken to use no starch in laundering these goods, as you will thereby preserve the original shine and softness.

If the music selected amounts to just $1, send only the 15 pictures, your name and address. If in excess of $1, postage stamps may be enclosed for such excess. We make this liberal offer because we desire to give a present sufficiently large to induce every one to give Dobbin's Electric Soap a trial long enough to know just how good it is. If, after trial, they continue to use the soap for years, we shall be repaid. If they only use the fifteen bars, getting the dollar's worth of music gratis, we shall lose money. This shows our confidence. The Soap can be bought of all grocers—the music can only be got of us. See that our name is on each wrapper.

A box of this Soap contains sixty bars. Any lady buying a box, and sending us sixty cuts of Mrs. Foggy, can select music to the amount of $4.50. This Soap improves with age, and you are not asked to buy a useless article, but one you use every week.

THE Bishop spent the Sundays in January and February, when he was not out of the city, in presenting to the St. Louis churches the urgent needs of our diocesan missionary work. That there was full occasion for such urgency might appear from a note from the Treasurer of our Diocesan Missionary Board two weeks before the time of the payment of the quarterly stipends on the 1st inst., in which he says: "I am now about $125 to $150 short for the stipends due 1st prox."

MARCH TWENTY-NINTH.

In a letter recently received by the Bishop from the Archbishop-elect of Canterbury, he says: "Your assurance of frequent prayer is most dear to me. Do not let anything interrupt it—for great is the need. What a blessing it would be to us if on the day of the enthronization, March 29th, you could have a special communion service, and pray for the Church of England. Anyhow, you will spiritually be with us in Christ."

The Bishop, in accordance with this suggestion, and in view of the vast importance, for all the interests of our Church for years to come, of the blessing of God on the head of the Anglican Communion, that he may have a right judgment in all things, will have a special service of the Holy Communion at Christ church chapel on Friday morning, 29th inst., at 10 o'clock. He earnestly invites to this service his reverend brethren of the clergy, and all others who may be able to attend, to join their prayers with his for God's blessing on the Archbishop of Canterbury, on that day to enter upon his lofty and anxious duties.

SISTER ODEN.

One of the most devoted of the Sisterhood of the Good Shepherd departed this life at the residence of her cousin, near Washington, D. C., on Friday, 2nd inst. She had been sick since the summer, utterly worn out by her work at St. Luke's Hospital. It had been hoped from her previous health and freshness of spirits, that as the fall came on she would gain strength. But she did not rally, nor did remedies render any help. As a last resort a change of scene was proposed, and in December she started for Maryland. No benefit was derived from this, and she desired to return to end her days in the community, and up to within four days of her death had fondly hoped to be able to start back soon.

The funeral was in Christ church, on Tuesday afternoon, 6th, and was attended by the Bishop,

Dr. Schuyler, and Rev. Messrs. Betts, Silvester and Wright. The physicians of the Hospital acted as pall-bearers, and the trustees as honorary pall-bearers. There was a large congregation present. The singing was particularly appropriate. At the Sisters' burial plot at Bellefontaine the Bishop read the service, Dr. Schuyler cast the earth, the physicians covered the grave with beautiful flowers, and the choir sang most sweetly the anthem and hymn.

All was done that affection could suggest in memory of one who for years has quietly been devoting her life, day and night, to the care of the sick. Her singularly bright spirits made her ministrations peculiarly acceptable, and at a distance, and when near her end, she was thinking about its interests. The need of a chapel in the Hospital weighed upon her, as it does upon all who are interested in the work there.

To the band, all too small for the work that it has in hand, and is so bravely doing, the breaking in upon the circle is afflictive. And yet there was nothing that suggested loss at the funeral. The dominant thought was that the Sister who had done her Lord's work well here, had at length entered into her rest. The whole spirit was that of peace, and patience, and hope.

MAUNDY-THURSDAY COMMUNION.

The arrangement for the celebration of the Lord's Supper in the mother church of the diocese on the anniversary of its institution, which the present Bishop found in use on his coming to the diocese, has been continued since, because of its own propriety, and on account of the evident desire of so many to enjoy the privilege. It does not involve the general question of the expediency of evening communions. It is a special question, governed by local circumstances.

Presumptively, there could nothing be said on scriptural grounds against it as to the time of day of its observance. The New Testament mentions no other time for its use than the evening. For those who use literalness in enjoining the use of unleavened bread and the mixing of water with the wine, because of the habit of doing so at first, for them this time of the day should be of binding force. When, later, the usage of the Church in the matter of the general time for its observance changed, it was only on account of local abuses. Doubtless it is well on many grounds that the morning should be the usual time of the celebration of the Holy Communion. If fasting is observed before partaking, this, because it is a much later usage, should remain wholly voluntary, and be among those aids to private devotion which each person shall judge of and decide for himself, as tends most to personal edification. In respect of this we should not seek to bind the conscience, when the Lord hath not bidden us to do so.

But, with regard to the Maundy Thursday communion, all acquainted with the early history of the Church are aware that the usage was special. Even long after the habit of celebrating the communion in the morning, and fasting before receiving became general, on this day the communion was administered in the evening after supper in commemoration of our Lord's institution of the feast on this day. In approval of this use such staunch Churchmen as Dr. Hook of Leeds and Bishop Wordsworth of Lincoln have given their strong endorsement.

For ourselves it has been found, on the testimony of the hundreds who on that night from year to year have gathered about that heavenly feast, to be peculiarly edifying and consoling. The impression of the time and the circumstances of its institution seem never so real and vivid. There is the simple service of the Holy Communion, with nothing else said or done. The paschal full moon often shines without as at the first. On this one time in the year, and most appropriate time, the lines of parochial division are broken down, and in this feast of unity those accustomed to worship in diverse places and perhaps modes, gather all together about the table of a common Lord. If abuses ever operated to discourage the service, they certainly do not obtain here. It does not detract from the Easter celebration. It is a privilege to which we may hope to gather, to show forth the Lord's death until he comes, and by which we may follow in memory the steps which led to the dreadful sufferings of the day after.

DIOCESAN ITEMS.

—One of our clergymen, an unmarried man, who boards at a hotel, was recently very sick. He lives in a remote part of the diocese, and none of his brethren knew of his illness. The kindness which he received shows the esteem in which he was held. For forty-one nights in succession the Odd Fellows set up with him. His people were kind to him. The ministers of the city prayed for his recovery at their services, and came frequently to see him, as did also several of their people, bringing delicacies. The clergyman spoken of has not been sick for thirty years, and was taken down with inflammatory rheumatism without any warning.

—The duty of one of our ministers, and probably that of many is equally as great, is to having Morning Prayer daily at 9 o'clock, teaching in the parish school until 4 P. M., and on Wednesdays having the Litany at 2 P. M., and on Fridays at 4 P. M., following it with a series of meditations on the Lord's Prayer. He also attends the weekly meetings of the Parish Guild and a Children's Guild, and visits his people. On Sunday he has the Holy Communion at 9, and takes charge of his Sunday school at 9.30; has service at 11; Evening Prayer and sermon at 3.30, and at 7 P. M. a brief service and a thirty or forty minutes' instruction on some portion of the Prayer Book. He does not suffer from dyspepsia.

—A recent letter from F. W. Southack, an old Churchman of this city, who has entered on his 74th year, but has been for the last ten years in California, expresses the belief that by the recent death of Judge Hamilton, he remains as the last male survivor of Christ church, on Fifth and Pine, at the time of its consecration in 1840. He was then and for some years after secretary of the vestry. Mrs. Daniel Trowbridge, who also recently died, was also then a member, and her two sons and daughter were members of the Sunday school, of which he and Judge Hamilton were teachers, and Mr. J. P. Doan the superintendent. He also mentions the recent death of Mrs. Branson, who was at one time the chief singer in the choir of Christ church, and whose children were also members of the Sunday-school, where he was a teacher, and he says that he remembers very well the first Sunday that they came.

—On Tuesday, 20th ult., in St. Augustine's church, Kansas City, the Bishop advanced the Rev. Chas. E. Cummings, the minister of the church, to the priesthood. He was presented by the Rev. Cameron Mann, of Grace, who, with the Revs. H. D. Jardine and Albert E. Wells, joined in the laying on of hands. The Bishop preached, and the congregation was very good for a week day. The Rev. H. H. De Garmo was also presented. Three handsome brass chandeliers for oil, and other facilities have been provided, so that services are now also held at night.

—The average attendance at the Lenten services in Boonville is 40, and at Sunday-school 185. The week day services are held in the rectory.

—The Rev. Dr. Gierlow recently delivered a lecture in the Hall of the Representatives in Jefferson City, on Ancient Scandinavia.

—A patron of St. James' Academy, Macon City, who lives in Kansas City, has ordered at his own cost, two fire escapes to be put on the building, one at each end.

—Services are now held in Calvary church, Louisiana, every Sunday morning and night. Lenten services are on Tuesdays and Thursdays at 4.15 P. M., and on Wednesdays and Fridays at 10 A. M.

—The subscriptions handed in afterward increased the amount secured in St. George's church, in this city, for Diocesan Missions, for its recent parochial missionary meeting to $1,073. This is something worthy of the object and worthy of the parish. When the speaking was done, the interest enkindled, was allowed a present opportunity to show itself. That is the only way, if results are to be looked for, and not the harmless diversion of a pleasant missionary talk.

—The Bishop has recently confirmed as follows: Monroe City, 1; St. Paul's, South St. Louis; 8; St. James', Elleardsville, 5; Jefferson City, 2.

Dr. Gierlow's administration of Grace church, Jefferson City, is greatly admired. The congregation are attached to him personally, and are impressed with his learning and eloquence. At a recent service held by the Bishop the church was packed full in every part.

—It is anticipated that there will be no difficulty in beginning this spring the building of a parsonage in Monroe City, to cost $1,500. In the laying out of the town a large plot directly south of the church was reserved for the rectory when it should be built, and another plot of the size of the church and parsonage lots, directly adjacent to the west, was reserved for a public square. This, however, has not yet been enclosed.

—The Sisters' lot at Bellefontaine cemetery is that in which the Rev. Mr. Minard, the father of the Sister Superior, and formerly rector of St. Paul's, in this city, is buried. There have been in it several interments, the last before Sister Oden's having been Miss Jones', an Associate Sister. At the end of the flag-stones, through the middle of the lot, is a monument of red granite, surmounted by a cross, on which is inscribed the name of the Sisterhood.

—The Washburn Memorial Association of New York, a body of clergymen and others organized to give to clergymen throughout the country who need them, presents of valuable books, have asked the Bishop of the diocese to name to them some clergymen who he thinks need and will appreciate the gifts. He has done so, and learns that they will send to the first four clergymen whom he named the choice of $25 in books. They will write to the others when the probable applications from other dioceses have been sent in, and they can see what the calls on them are likely to be. The Bishop knew that others beside those whom he was permitted to name would value such a replenishing of their libraries. He only hopes that those who receive will faithfully use the works.

—The Bishop on Sunday, 11th inst., confirmed at Trinity church, St. Louis, 11 persons; 5 others had been confirmed in January; and also on Sunday night, at St. John's church, 9 persons were confirmed; 7 others had been confirmed there within two months.

—The Rev. Dr. Fulton is preaching on Sunday nights at St. George's, a course of lectures on the English Reformation.

—The Rev. Mr. Newton has written for his Sunday school a Missionary Host hymn of very smooth melody. For the Easter festival the Good Shepherd Sunday school, which has increased ten fold in numbers, is making very great preparations. The programme includes fourteen carols. They hope to realize the entire payment of the amount due on the church lots. We hope they may succeed. It will indeed be a happy day for them in that event.

—An important meeting of the gentlemen of Trinity church has been called for to-morrow night in the chapel, to consider some questions concerning the future interests of the parish.

—The Rev. Mr. Chesnutt has about $350 subscribed towards the new roof very much required for the Church of the Advent. Nearly $450 are required for the object.

—Some of the parishioners in Sedalia are impatient because the vestry does nothing apparently to fill the rectorship of that important parish, which has now for a good while been vacant. Doctor Foster has done all that is in his power, and the results of his work have been most happy. But a strong and energetic rector is needed at this moment.

—The Bishop recently delivered an address before the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, at Dr. Niccoll's Presbyterian church. The other speakers were Dr. Eliot and Dr. Niccolls.

ST. MARY'S, FAYETTE.

The first service in Fayette was held by Bishop Kemper in the fall of 1835. In November, 1836, the Rev. F. F. Peake, then and for two years after in Deacon's Orders, who had on the 9th arrived in Boonville from New York, visited Fayette and held Sunday service. There were, he said, five or six respectable members living there; and having carried prayer books with him, about a dozen joined in the responses. He writes: "It is a pleasant village; as a place of residence I consider it far preferable to Boonville." In January, '37, he deemed it expedient to divide his time equally between the two places, "if the river and roads are not wholly impassable, as is sometimes the case." In June, '37, he removed to Fayette to reside, in order to superintend the Female Academy. At the Bishop's visit five were confirmed. There were then in Fayette two flourishing schools, and a college nearly completed. In May, '38, Mr. P. returned to Boonville, at the expiration of his engagement with the academy. He had charge in Boonville until Oct. '39, when he removed to St. Louis. The mission remained vacant until Sept. 40; the Rev. J. D. Mead, who had just before reached Boonville from New York, held his first service in Fayette, and appointed every alternate Sunday for service. He reports seven or eight communicants of the Church there. In the spring of '41 they pledged $100 towards the support of a missionary. Families 13; communicants 7, on January 1, '41. He only continued in duty eight months, and then went to the Sandwich Islands in pursuit of health. In August, '43, Bishop Kemper reports that in consequence of his having long sought in vain for clergymen, this and several other places has had to be abandoned. The station continued vacant for a number of years after this. On May 9th, 1845, Bishop Hawks held service in the Baptist church. He says there was an earnest desire shown for a resumption of the Church services; that the labors of the missionary settled there several years before were not forgotten, and that they pledged themselves to do their utmost. May 10th, 1846, the Rev. Enoch Reed, recently ordained Deacon, assumed charge.

In May, 1847, the parish of St. Mary's was organized, and admitted into union with the Convention, and the Bishop reports that $900 had been raised for the Church building. They were holding services in an upper room of the Court House. The Rev. Mr. Reed was compelled in June to resign, on account of ill health.

In July, 1847, the Rev. J. W. Dunn, having been just ordained Deacon, entered upon his work in the parish. They began the erection of the church in the spring of '48. It was consecrated Nov. 23d, 1850.

Mr. Dunn reports in May, '53, that he was continuing his monthly services in Glasgow, which he had begun several years before, and that a gentleman in the town had given an eligible lot for the church, and that an amount of money had been raised sufficient to justify the erection of an edifice.

In August, 1855, Mr. Dunn resigned the rectorship of St. Mary's church, and in May, 1856, took charge of the parish in Hannibal. At this time there were 23 communicants reported.

The Rev. Wm R. Pickman entered upon his ministry in St. Mary's Nov. 16th, 1856. He gave a monthly service to Huntsville. In May, 1857, he reported 20 communicants. On Dec. 1, 1858, Mr. Pickman removed to St. Joseph.

The Rev. C. F. Loop entered upon duty in September, 1859, and reported in May, 1860, 23 communicants. He held services also regularly in Columbia and Huntsville. He resigned in the latter part of 1860, and removed to Illinois.

During the war the parish remained vacant, and had only such services as were occasionally given by Bishop Hawks.

The Rev John Portmers entered upon duty as a missionary June 12, 1864, and continued until January 1, 1865. He reported in May, 1865, only 13 communicants.

The Rev. Thos. Greene entered upon his ministry in the parish March 4th, 1866. Shortly after this the church lot was enclosed with the fence, the lamps procured and an organ bought. It was then hoped that they would soon have a bell. He resigned his charge March 31, 1867.

In the summer of 1868 the Rev. Granville C. Waller, of Kentucky, took charge of the parish, retaining it however, only until the close of the year.

In the summer of 1870 Messrs. A. Leonard and E. Talbot, then Lay Readers, read the service in the church.

The Rev. C. J. Hendley assumed the rectorship in January, 1871, and reports in May 24 communicants, also that $300 had been spent during the previous year in repairing the church, and that Mrs. Leonard had given an acre of ground, on which it was proposed to build a rectory, for which $1,350 had been subscribed. In 1872 he reports the rectory as finished and out of debt. Mr. Hendley resigned in March, 1873, and removed to the eastern shore of Maryland.

In the summer of 1874 the Rev J. G. Hamilton took charge of the parish in conjunction with Moberly, where at first he had his residence. He subsequently removed to Fayette, and devoted his entire time to St. Mary's. Mr. Hamilton relinquished the charge of the parish in the spring of 1878, and removed to Texas.

On the first of February, 1879, the Rev. J. L. Gray assumed the charge of the parish, and in May reported 28 communicants. He is still in charge, and is well known through Howard county for his zeal and energy.

THE CRITIC CRITICAL.

MR. EDITOR:—In your last issue under the head "Misunderstood Scriptures," quite a number of passages in the psalter are criticised, and but one passage from the New Testament was thought of—this being called "an unfortunate translation." Now, a question arises in my mind, whether this scholarly person may not have been mistaken in so designating the reading of the common version. The text in controversy is Acts 17th chap., 22d verse: "Men of Athens, I perceive that in all things ye are too superstitious." It is claimed that this should read, "ye are very religious," and that "the superlative of the Greek quite bears out that meaning." And further that, "the context and rhetorical necessity shows this to be the true meaning." Now, these are just the very things that the subscriber feels at liberty to deny. We will, for the present, take no account of the rhetoric as a factor in the disputed points, but will aim to show that the context, as is alleged, will not sustain the innovation sought to be made. The history runs in this wise: As St. Paul passed through Athens for the first time, and saw the city wholly given to idolatry, his spirit was stirred within him, and he at once went into the synagogue and began to dispute with the Jews. Afterwards he proceeded to the open market place and preached openly against these abominations. Thence he was taken to the Areopagus, their highest tribunal, to answer for his conduct. At this turn of affairs it is claimed that Paul changed his tactics, and commenced patronizingly to address this high court—conciliating their pride by telling them why he considered them "superlatively religious." So far from truckling with iniquity in high or low places, Paul, true to himself and his mission, openly condemns their worship as idolatrous, and their practices as founded in ignorance and stupidity. Another mistake is made in the examination of this text by losing sight of the real question in issue. It is not whether the Athenians are religious in any of the three degrees of comparison, that we wish to ascertain but whether Paul accused and condemned them for being superstitious, as he unquestionably believed them to be; or, whether he flatteringly told their judges they were exceedingly religious, a matter of which he well knew they had never been suspected, at least by an apostle.

The true criterion in the translation of the original term will be found in the classics, where the distinction is clearly made between superstition and religion; and that they are not, as is claimed, interchangeable terms. One or two references will only be made in the proof of this. Cicero in his treatise De Nat. Deor. B. I. 42, makes this distinction: "Superstitio est, in qua timor inanis deorum, Religio quae deorum cultu pio continetur." This idea is enlarged upon in B. II. 28, as follows: "The best, the chastest, the most sacred worship of the gods is to reverence them always with a pure, perfect and unpolluted mind and voice; for our ancestors as well as the philosophers have always separated superstition from religion." The same distinction substantially obtains in Christendom to day, both in the State and in the Church, as well. The good citizen obeys the laws of his country from a sense of duty, the bad citizen from fear of being mulct in a fine or being cast into prison. The true Christian obeys God's laws from a sense of his love—the indifferent Christian conforms himself in some measure from fear of shame here, and everlasting ruin hereafter.

To be still better satisfied as to the true sense in which St. Paul should be understood, one would do well to examine a manuscript sermon, of great merit and originality, which the learned and distinguished Bishop of this Diocese is sometimes in the habit of preaching from the text: "May we know what this new doctrine, whereof thou speakest, is?" T. F. C. JAMES.

[The above learned and ingenious article has been shown to the writer of the original paper; and he, while agreeing with the distinction drawn between superstition and religion, and with much else in the article, still is inclined to think that St. Paul's purpose was not to accuse, but to persuade. In order to this he is ready to minimize their fault in the past, and say that they had been committing it in ignorance. He soothes the national pride by quoting on his own behalf one of their poets. He finds the common ground on which he may hope to reach an understanding with them, in the evidence that he sees in the image to the unknown God, that they are deeply religious. French, in his work on the Synonyms of the New Testament, p. 235, while granting that the word has often an unfavorable meaning, declares that here it evidently means "very religious." He says "It was not St. Paul's manner to affront his auditors, least of all at the outset of a discourse. St. Paul selects with finesse tact and skill a word that shaded off from praise to blame, in which he gave to his Athenian hearers the honor which was their due as zealous worshippers of the superior powers, so far as their knowledge reached." So also Bengel in loco. Olshausen translates the clause: "Ye are, as it were, rather too religious."—ED. NEWS.]

CONVOCATION AT MONROE CITY.

The Hannibal Convocation met at St. Jude's, Monroe, on Thursday, the 15th ult. The opening sermon was delivered by the Rev. W. B. Bolmer, of Hannibal, and was an earnest effort to impress upon his hearers the importance of a courageous and manly Christian life.

On Friday morning there was an animated discussion of the subject: "The Preparation of Candidates for Confirmation," in which the Dean and the Rev. Mr. Bolmer took part. In the afternoon of the same day there was a conference upon "The Clergyman's Course of Reading." At night the sermon was preached by the Rev. Mr. Goodisson, missionary at Brookfield and Kirksville, and was a thoughtful presentation of the joys and rewards of the righteous.

On Saturday morning there was a public discussion of the Sunday-school question. The clergy differed somewhat in their views, which only added a little spice to the occasion, and afforded an apt illustration of the breadth and catholicity of the Church. The topic for the conference in the afternoon of Saturday was "The Church's Revival System." Our excellent Dean and the Rev. Mr. Bolmer were compelled to leave at noon, and hence did not share further in the discussions. The Bishop, however, arrived that morning, and contributed largely to the success of the Convocation. He delivered an address on the subject of Lent, and was followed by the Rev. Messrs. Talbot and Goodisson.

In the evening there was prayer and a sermon by the Rev. Ethelbert Talbot of Macon, on St. Luke 18: 35th v., which was listened to with rapt attention.

The services during the week were well attended, considering the terrible state of the roads—many of the congregation of St. Jude's living in the country. Some were kept away by the sickness and death of friends. Two faithful communicants—devoted members of the parish—were during this Convocation called to Paradise. The one, Mrs. McNutt, in the morning of her life; the other, Mrs. Green, as the shadows of the evening were gathering around her. A large gathering of friends filled the beautiful church, and showed their loving appreciation of the departed.

Sunday was the great day of the Feast. The Holy Communion and confirmation were both celebrated. The young and devoted wife of the rector received the apostolic rite of "laying on of hands." It was a most touching and impressive service. The Bishop's sermon was a masterly setting forth of the dangers of materialism and an undue worship of the visible.

In the evening the Temperance question was discussed. The church was crowded, and the deepest interest seemed to pervade the entire congregation. Addresses were delivered by the Bishop and the Rev. E. Talbot of Macon. The following article is clipped from the local paper of Monroe:

The subject of temperance was discussed at the Episcopal church Sunday night. The Rev. E. Talbot, of Macon, delivered a glowing address, which was attentively listened to by the large congregation. The speaker favored prohibition, if it could be made to prohibit. He was followed by Bishop Robertson, who spoke at some length on the subject, and who favored any means by which the cause of intemperance might be driven from the land. He has given the question much thought, and is of the opinion that prohibition is not the remedy, for although it can be made effective in the country and in small towns, experience has proved that it is a failure in cities, where liquor is sold openly in all prohibition States, in defiance of the law, and without contributing anything to the revenue. The Bishop thinks if our present laws were strictly enforced the evil would be greatly lessened.

Thus closed a most interesting session, and one that will no doubt result in a quickening of the spiritual life of the parish.

The hospitality of the good people of Monroe was unbounded. AN OBSERVER.

LETTER FROM BISHOP DUNLOP.

EDITOR CHURCH NEWS:—I read with intense interest and pleasure, in the Living Church, the report of the missionary meeting held in St. George's on the night of the 11th ult.; I saw also in the Guardian a notice of a somewhat similar meeting in the Church of the Holy Communion. The results were not given, but I trust they were equally satisfactory. I will wait anxiously for the coming number of the CHURCH NEWS for further details, in the hope too, that the other St. Louis parishes have followed the good example. I always look anxiously for the coming of the CHURCH NEWS, and read it carefully, like a personal letter, then ponder a suggestion, as if I was still one of you. The St. George's plan for the West, for St. Louis particularly, of striking on the spot, is the right one. I never had any confidence in the five cent plan, except in old communities, and among people of small means. A man like Mr. Branch, and there are dozens such in St. Louis, would rather give $100 in a lump, than waste his time on a collector, who came round once a week for 25 cents. The diocese of Missouri ought to raise at least $5,000 annually, for Diocesan Missions and half that amount for Domestic Missions. And even more than this could be done, if once a year a rousing missionary meeting, like that in St. George's, was held in every parish. This would gladden the heart and strengthen the hands of your hard working Bishop in starting and sustaining missions in all the waste places of Missouri. But greater blessings still would come to the contributing parishes. A broadened sympathy would kill the canker of selfishness, and keep their spiritual life green and fresh.

I feel sure your readers will be glad to learn that the work in this jurisdiction is making solid and satisfactory progress. This is the more encouraging, as we get very little outside assistance, compared with other mission fields. In the last six months I have only received $46, and more than half of that came from my old parish. Previous to this date I have more than once been remembered by Mr. Gill, and Mr. Edwin Harrison sent me $100 for the rectory in Las Vegas. Still, we have built handsome churches in Santa Fe, Albuquerque and Tombstone, and we expect to build a $10,000 church this summer in Silver City. In nearly every place we have touched the Church has advanced rapidly to the front, and in every instance I have been able to secure for our missionary a larger salary than is given to any protestant minister in the town. But then, to offset this, the other ministers generally get a larger missionary stipend, and most of them have parsonages free of rent.

GEO. K. DUNLOP.

—A lady at the South writes as follows in reference to the Church at her home: "In our town we have a Ladies' Aid Society, who by their efforts alone have paid off, with the exception of a very small sum, a debt of several hundred dollars which was due on the building. One old lady of eighty knit over three hundred pairs of gloves herself for the church basket.

BIBLE QUESTION.

To whom did angels first announce the birth. Of the young child, the Lord of all the earth? What wicked king had all the infants slain, And hoped to kill the Saviour, but in vain? Where to escape from this, their dreaded foe, Did Joseph, Mary, and the Infant go? Who was so cruel to deny his Lord, And treat with such contempt his warning word? What animals with Pharaoh's host were found, When in the deep Red Sea they all were drowned?

What was the name of that sad, weeping mother, Whose son, so base and cruel, slew his brother? Who met with Abram's servant at the well, And heard the pleasant tale he had to tell? Who from the ways of God soon turned away, Because he loved the trifles of a day? Who at his house the Saviour asked to meet, But did not offer water for his feet?

ONE day a gentleman gave to his nephew—a little boy—a gold coin. "Now, you must keep that," said the gentleman.

"O no," said the boy. "I shall halve it first. May be I shall keep my half."

"Your half?" said the uncle; "why, it is all yours."

"No," answered the child, with an earnest shake of the head; "no, it is not all mine. I always go halves with God. Half I shall keep, and the other half I shall give to him."

"God owns the world; he does not need it. The gold and silver, and the cattle on a thousand hills, belong to him."

The little boy looked puzzled for a moment. He had never thought of this. Presently he said: "Anyhow, God goes halves with us. He lets us share with him, and don't you think we ought to give back to him his part?"

That was the right feeling. That little boy felt grateful to God for all the good things that he had given to him, and it was the gratitude he felt that made him desire to go halves with God.—[Child's Recorder.

THE true measure of one's friendship is what it secures to one's friend. What one can give by his friendship, not what one can get by it, shows its real value. He who can ask, What is this friendship worth to me? can never be a friend. He who is a friend will only ask, What is this friendship worth to my friend? Selfishness and friendship are absolutely incompatible.

—The Catholic Telegraph declares that the honor of their church is concerned in their making good the $4,000,000, of defalcations which the poor people had suffered from who put their savings into Archbishop Purcell's hands. It recommends a grand lottery to pay off the debt with.

DEEDS OF KINDNESS.—Little Ellie found a thirsty flower by the side of her path. She thought it needed water, and so she went with a big pitcher and poured a little stream gently upon it. It was very little thing to do, and yet it was a very good thing. If the flower had not had some water, it might have drooped and died; but when the water fell upon it, it revived and grew, and all the summer long it sent out sweet perfume, and showed bright blossoms that pleased everybody that looked at it. A great many good deeds are just as simple as this. Kind words and bright smiles make people happy.

SCROFULA

and all scrofulous diseases, Sores, Erysipelas, Eczema, Eruptions, Ringworm, Tumors, Carbuncles, Boils, and Eruptions of the Skin, are the direct result of an impure state of the blood.

To cure these diseases the blood must be purified, and restored to a healthy and natural condition. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA has for over forty years been recognized by eminent medical authorities as the most powerful blood purifier in existence. It frees the system from all foul humors, enriches and strengthens the blood, removes all traces of mercurial treatment, and proves itself a complete master of all scrofulous diseases.

A Recent Cure of Scrofulous Sores.

"Some months ago I was troubled with scrofulous sores (ulcers) on my legs. The limbs were badly swollen and inflamed, and the sores discharged large quantities of offensive matter. Every remedy I tried failed, until I used AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, of which I have now taken three bottles, with the result that the sores are healed, and my general health greatly improved. I feel very grateful for the good your medicine has done me. Yours respectfully, MRS. ANN O'BRIAN." 148 Sullivan St., New York, June 24, 1882.

All persons interested are invited to call on Mrs. O'Brian; also upon the Rev. Z. P. Wilds of 78 East 54th Street, New York City, who will take pleasure in testifying to the wonderful efficacy of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, not only in the cure of this lady, but in his own case and many others within his knowledge.

The well-known writer on the Boston Herald, B. W. BALL, of Rochester, N.H., writes, June 7, 1882:

"Having suffered severely for some years with Eczema, and having failed to find relief from other remedies, I have made use, during the past three months, of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, which has effected a complete cure. I consider it a magnificent remedy for all blood diseases."

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

stimulates and regulates the action of the digestive and assimilative organs, renews and strengthens the vital forces, and speedily cures Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Rheumatic Gout, Catarrh, General Debility, and all diseases arising from an impoverished or corrupted condition of the blood, and a weakened vitality.

It is incomparably the cheapest blood medicine, on account of its concentrated strength, and great power over disease.

MISCELLANY.

—Dr. Cuyler says: "Disagreeable Sundays sift churches as honestly as the test of lapping water sifted the ten thousand troops under Gideon. Those who really want to get to God's house on a wet or wintry Sunday, usually get there. For one, I honestly confess that all the trash of the skeptics, from Renan down to Ingersoll, does not inspire such misgivings of Christianity as are awakened by the spectacle of delinquent Christians in unfavorable weather."

—Soon after the great Edmond Burke had been making one of his powerful speeches in Parliament, his brother Richard was found sitting silent in reverie; and when asked by a friend what he was thinking about he replied: I have been wondering how Ned has contrived to monopolize all the talents of our family. But then I remember that when we were doing nothing or at play, he was always at work." And the force of the anecdote is increased by the fact that Richard Burke was always considered, by those who knew him best, to be superior in natural talent to his brother; yet the one rose to greatness, while the other lived and died in comparative obscurity.

—Dr. Austin Phelps makes a distinction of ministers that is not obvious to him alone. He says, "There are two classes of men in the clerical profession; there are the men who sustain the pulpit, and the men whom the pulpit sustains."

—We frequently hear those who are not in communion with the Church say, in excuse of their position. "We are just as good as you are; look at our Churches, Hospitals," etc. A Bishop of the Church said to one of these self-satisfied souls. "If you steal a bushel of wheat from my granary and sow it, what will it bring forth?" "Wheat," was the prompt reply. "Yes," said the Bishop, "and because the grain brings forth fruit after its kind, is that any justification for your theft?"

—A religious paper professes to see in the Egyptian war an indication of the divine disapproval of the action of the United Presbyterians in favor of instrumental music in public worship, which only shows that you can prove anything from anything.

—On a certain occasion a company at which the Bishop of Rhode Island was present, were speaking of the able clergy of former days and intimating that we, now, have none worthy to be compared with them. Bishop Clark dissented, saying in effect, "You are mistaken, gentlemen. Our present standard is a higher one. There are any number of parish priests, to-day, filling unimportant places, who would have been accounted eminent forty years ago. We have plenty of able men still. The popular demand is far higher in our day and the average of excellence greater. Good preaching is the rule now. It used to be exception; and so hundreds of good preachers rise to no eminence; they simply do what is expected of them."

—A Philadelphia boy was asked if he ever prayed in church and answered. "Oh, I always say a prayer like all the rest do, just before the sermon begins." "Indeed!" responded the astonished querist. "What do you say?" "Now I lay me down to sleep."

—Dr. McAnnally of this city says, wisely: "Fault finding is a business that may be carried on extensively on a very small capital."

BOOK NOTICES.

THE NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW for March opens with an article on "Money in Elections," by Henry George, who brings to the discussion of that hackneyed subject a contribution full of originality, freshness and keen insight. Robert S. Taylor writes of the "Subjugation of the Mississippi," a work which, in his opinion, and in that of the Mississippi Commission, of which he is a member, can be accomplished only by employing, for the purpose of deepening and straightening the channel, the forces developed by the river itself. Moncure D. Conway contributes a very striking study of Gladstone, showing how the moral and intellectual traits of his nature, quite as much as his pre-eminent native force and elevation of character, conspire to make him the foremost Englishman of his time. Hon. George W. Julian's "Railway Influence in the Land Office" is a grave, judicial exposure of the practices which, against the manifest intent of the law and the determinations of the highest courts, have won for corporations millions upon millions of acres of the public domain. Prof. W. G. Sumner of "Protective Taxes and Wages"; Elizur Wright of "Some Aspects of Life Insurance"; and finally, there is a symposium on "Educational Needs," by Prof. G. Stanley Hall, Prof. Felix Adler, President Thomas Hunter, and Dr. Mary Putnam Jacobi. Published at 30 Lafayette Place, New York, and for sale by booksellers generally.

ST. NICHOLAS for March has a notable list of contributors. Archibald Forbes, furnishes a vividly interesting story of the Turco-Russian War, entitled "Where was Villiers?" Rose Terry Cooke contributes a capital story of the Michigan fires of 1881, called "The Wrong Coast."

Lucretia P. Hale gives us the latest particulars from the Peterkins, and tells how "Mrs. Peterkin Faints on the Great Pyramid." "That Sly Old Woodchuck" is a characteristic American boy story by W. O. Stoddard.

E. S. Brooks finishes his four-part story of "The Field of the Cloth of Gold," Frank R. Stockton contributes a picturesque and thrilling installment of the "The Story of Viteau," and J. T. Trowbridge tells how the "Tinkham Brothers" took a firm stand in defense of their "Tide-mill."

H. R. Haweis, the author of AMERICAN HUMORISTS, the third book of the 1883 Series. Standard Library, is a distinguished clergyman of the Church of England, and the author of several literary works. No writer in England was, in all respects, better qualified to write a book on American humorists than he. He presents, in a fine setting, the wit and wisdom of Washington Irving, Oliver W. Holmes, James R. Lowell, Artemus Ward, Mark Twain and Bret Harte. The book is printed in the Standard Library in large, leaded type, on laid paper, and sold at the very low price of 15 cents.

The frontispiece portrait of Gambetta in the MARCH CENTURY, and the accompanying article by a writer who was intimately acquainted with Gambetta, appear now with a timeliness, which, a foot-note explains, is not to be credited to editorial haste or energy, since they were both in preparation for the MARCH CENTURY before Gambetta's illness. A short biographical sketch of the late Dr. Leonard Bacon, with portrait, is contributed under the appropriate title, "A Good Fight Finished."

John Burroughs, in "Signs and Seasons," chats charmingly and instructively of country life and Nature; and Elbridge Kingsley has illustrated the paper with several striking engravings. "The Architectural League of New York" is the title of a profusely illustrated paper by Roger Riordan, describing a club of young architects in the metropolis. Mr. Cable continues his illustrated historical series with "The End of Foreign Dominion in Louisiana"; and Dr. Edward Eggleston, in his third historical paper, treats of "The Migrations of American Colonists." Mr. Howells, in his second part of "A Woman's Reason," which has already made a strong impression, introduces a catastrophe that changes the whole tenor of the heroine's life; Mrs. Burnett's "Through one Administration" is nearly finished, and Mrs. Mary Hallock Foote's striking story, "The Led-Horse Claim," is brought to an effective conclusion.

CURRENT DISCUSSION IN SCIENCE. By W. M. Williams. J. Fitzgerald, Publisher, 30 Lafayette Place, New York. Price 15 cents.

This forms Number 41 of the Humboldt Library of Science. It contains 16 chapters on a variety of scientific topics, such as "The Fuel of the Sun," "Sun Spots and Climate," "Lunar Volcanoes," &c., all treated in strictly popular style. The book is sent by the Publisher to any address on receipt of the price in postage stamps.

The MARCH WIDE AWAKE will be eagerly snapped up by boys of ambition and vim, in order to finish what the "Eighty-three Business Men" have to say about "Our Business Boys." Part II. of this important contribution to young folks' literature is entitled "Rocks of Danger," and is as vigorous and to the point as "Secrets of Success" in the February number. From this article the boys will probably turn to Fred Ober's Yucatan serial, "The Silver City," or to Rev. Irving L. Beman's story of "Evan Cogswell's Ice Fort," or to Edward Everett Hale's To-Day Talk about the dead French statesman, Gambetta, or to "A Boy's Workshop," or to Prof. Sargent's "Health and Strength Paper,"—for all these contributions, interesting to everybody, are of peculiar interest to boys. Act II. of the White Mountain Comedy, "More than They Bargained for," is as full of fun as it is of delicate characterization; and a fine humor too prevades "Old Caravan Days," and Mrs. Diaz's John Spicer Lecture on "Clothes." The Next Neighbor writes, in "Anna Maria's Housekeeping," of "Two Teakettles."

LIVES OF ILLUSTRIOUS SHOEMAKERS. By William Edward Winks. In Standard Library. Price 25 cents. This is a most interesting book, written in a very popular style. Mr. Winks has written what everybody will love to read. The shoemakers of England have always been remarkable for two things: first, they have always been in advance of other tradespeople in their love for religious and political freedom. The Shoemakers of England have also been remarkable for their intelligence, humor, love of honesty, and their hatred of all affectation and shams.

THE HOMILETIC MONTHLY for March contains its round dozen of sermons, and among the preachers are: Dr. Thos. Armitage, of New York; Dean Bradley (the successor of Dean Stanley); Canon Liddon, of England; and the Rev. E. P. Williams, (Disciples' Church), of Cincinnati. The installation sermon of Dr. Edward P. Ingersoll, recently settled over the Puritan Church, Brooklyn, is given in full. Among the articles are: one on "Saving Tramps, by an Educated Tramp;" and Dr. Howard Crosby's "Light on Important Texts." A new series of interviews is begun in this number, on "The Best Methods of Preaching and Sermonizing." The March number gives "The Episcopalian View," by Drs. Chas. H. Hall, N. H. Schenck, and J. H. Rylanre. The series will give the most recent views of extempore and manuscript preaching. The editorial departments maintain their interest. $2.50 a year. AYER'S Cherry Pectoral.

No other complaints are so insidious in their attack as those affecting the throat and lungs: none so trifled with by the majority of sufferers. The ordinary cough or cold, resulting perhaps from a trifling or unconscious exposure, is often but the beginning of a fatal sickness. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL has well proven its efficacy in a forty years' fight with throat and lung diseases, and should be taken in all cases without delay.

A Terrible Cough Cured.

"In 1857 I took a severe cold, which affected my lungs. I had a terrible cough, and passed night after night without sleep. The doctors gave me up. I tried AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, which relieved my lungs, induced sleep, and afforded me the rest necessary for the recovery of my strength. By the continued use of the PECTORAL a permanent cure was effected. I am now 62 years old, hale and hearty, and am satisfied your CHERRY PECTORAL saved me. HORACE FAIRBROTHER." Rockingham, Vt., July 15, 1882.

Croup. — A Mother's Tribute.

"While in the country last winter my little boy, three years old, was taken ill with croup; it seemed as if he would die from strangulation. One of the family suggested the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, a bottle of which was always kept in the house. This was tried in small and frequent doses, and to our delight in less than half an hour the little patient was breathing easily. The doctor said that the CHERRY PECTORAL had saved my darling's life. Can you wonder at our gratitude? Sincerely yours,

MRS. EMMA GEDNEY."

159 West 128th St., New York, May 16, 1882.
"I have used AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL in my family for several years, and do not hesitate to pronounce it the most effectual remedy for coughs and colds we have ever tried. A. J. CRANE." Lake Crystal, Minn., March 13, 1882.

"I suffered for eight years from Bronchitis, and after trying many remedies with no success, I was cured by the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. JOSEPH WALDEN."

Byhalia, Miss., April 5, 1882.
"I cannot say enough in praise of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, believing as I do that but for its use I should long since have died from lung troubles. E. BRAGDON." Palestine, Texas, April 22, 1882.

No case of an affection of the throat or lungs exists which cannot be greatly relieved by the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, and it will always cure when the disease is not already beyond the control of medicine.

WOULD any body kindly make a present to St. Luke's Hospital of a copy of Webster's or Worcester's dictionary, and also from time to time any periodicals for the patients?

IS IT quite necessary and the best thing, for the Sunday-school children to begin practicing their Easter hymns at the beginning of the Lenten season? It interferes with lessons, and gives a sense of unreality to all the teachings about the Lenten season.

At a Diocesan Missionary meeting in Chicago some years ago, when after urgent applications for missionaries and appropriations, the treasurer had reported that so far from doing more, he had not the money then due, Bishop Whitehouse, having listened patiently, at last arose, and remarked that he knew of a plan by which all the indebtedness of the Board could be paid and ample provision made for all the new stations that the Board would recommend. "It is this," said he, "if all the Churchmen in Illinois, who smoke, will give me the value of one cigar a day." That brings the thing right down from being a question of possibility to one of will, and that on the part of Christian persons.

TEMPERANCE METHODS.

The difference between the spirit and policy of temperance methods in the Church and those of an average prohibition meeting consists largely in this: The Church, no less than the platformer, urges personal purity, and it may be entire abstinence. But the Churchman sees that there is very much more required for a cure or for relief than a mere vote that the local manufacture and sale shall be prohibited. The person who has been through the dissipation of attending many crude temperance meetings wants only the urgency repeated in many rhetorical forms, that the one all-important thing to do is to pass the prohibition measure, and the millennium will have come.

The Churchman remembers that very much else besides this is required, and is impatient that the whole stress shall be laid upon one point and others quite as important be ignored. The American habit of intense work has to be moderated, and healthful rest taken by employer and employed. The absence of all sense of brotherhood among employers of established position and the churches, in not thinking about or providing for the social needs of those who are homeless in great cities, has to be taken into account. The rapacity of capital in herding families into tenement houses where cleanliness and ventilation and decency are not possible, in order to get a better interest on money, has to be thought of. No surer blow can be struck at intemperance than to use a part of the energy which now goes to getting up prohibition meetings, inducing men of wealth to study how better tenement houses can be put up, and to buy land on which single houses with bits of land about them, can be built and rented or sold to working men. Philanthropy can do no wiser thing than to study how coffee houses, bright, warm and cheerful, where a cup of coffee and a roll, and the papers, and a game of dominoes or checkers, can be had for a trifle. This, which has been done without pecuniary loss in other cities, can be done here. Those who ask for more stringent laws should have shown their right to demand them by standing up bravely, and showing that they have worked out all the possibilities of the present law, and found them inadequate.

These are some of the lines in which the Churchman's thoughts goes in this matter. And they have induced those multitudes of practical charities which in our older cities have started up by the efforts largely of Churchmen. But because these are urged, and the need after all of spending large strength upon building up individual character, rather than reposing all hope for help in the passage of sumptuary laws, Churchmen are often said to be cold and indifferent to the need. They are not. On the testimony of eminent persons today outside of our communion, nothing has for fifty years done as much to put forward on practicable, common-sense lines the work of temperance, as that which is now doing within our Church.

If anything could make us despair, it would be the senseless railing of strolling fanatics at those whose names are venerable, because they cannot take up their cheap hue and cry, and make the whole subject ridiculous by declaring that if impossible things shall not be done, nothing shall be done. By personal purity, by the brave carrying out of the laws which we have, by a firm pressure to make the liquor traffic pay for the costs which it puts upon the community, and by a practical realization of our brotherhood with each other, the work of temperance in the individual and the community will make a vast and solid advance.

CHILDREN'S COT.

ST. LUKE'S HOSPITAL.

For several years an effort has been making to raise $3,000 from the children, and those who are interested in them, for the perpetual endowment for a cot and a room for a child at our Hospital, where a child not able to be otherwise provided for may be kindly taken care of when sick or undergoing treatment. By little and little we have gone on so far. Gifts are urgently asked for this purpose and will be credited in THE NEWS. They may be sent to the Bishop, 2727 Chestnut street St. Louis.

PERSONAL.

—Bishop Coxe thinks that the whole service is killed, if the Te Deum takes more than six or seven minutes. He says that several of the hymns, "Nearer my God to Thee," "O Paradise," "Lead Kindly Light," and "Pilgrims of the Night," have been worked to death, because they have such pretty tunes, and that they ought to be allowed to rest.

—The obituary list of the clergy this month includes the Rev. R. J. Germain, of Buffalo, N. Y.; the Rev. Edward Ingersoll, D. D., also of Buffalo; the Rev. Robert Mackie, of Philadelphia; Rev. Henry T. Lee, of Maryland; Wm. Suddard, D. D., of Philadelphia; Rev. Wm. Jarrett, of Holmeville, Pa.

—Dr. Ingersoll, after officiating at a funeral, came home, sat down in a chair and died.

—The Bishop of Lichfield, England, in a pastoral letter, says he is sometimes surprised and pained to hear clergymen state that they never ask their young people to be confirmed, but allow them to offer themselves of their own free will. Perhaps other bishops have felt in the same way.

—It has been estimated that there have been years when the benevolence of the late Wm. E. Dodge, of New York, reached $1,000 a day, while frequently the sum given away amounted to $250,000, and at no time did he give less than $200,000 a year.

—The sad announcement is made of the death of Gen. J. H. Simpson, of the regular army. He died in St. Paul, on the 1st, of pneumonia. During the six years of his residence in this city, from 1873 to 1879, he was foremost in all good works. He had hardly taken up his residence before he gave $1,000 towards the debt of Christ church. He was for years treasurer of St. Luke's Hospital, and no one was so constant in his duties as trustee. He represented the diocese in General Convention in 1877. His faith was that of a child; and he gave to the Church, in every position to which he was chosen, those exact habits and that scrupulous attention to which his profession had wonted him. He died in St. Paul, to which place he removed from St. Louis.

—At a recent confirmation in Virginia the bishop and six preachers of the Zion Union (colored) denomination were confirmed, and are now preparing for the ministry.

—"I belong," said Christine Nilsson to a St. Louis reporter, "to the old Lutheran church, and I never leave my room to give a concert or go on the stage for an opera, without dropping down on my knees and praying to God to help me in my effort to please the people. It gives me strength and confidence to successfully go through my performance."

—The Indiana Convention, which met on the 7th inst., to choose a successor to Bishop Talbot, elected the Rev. Isaac L. Nicholson, rector of St. Mark's church, Philadelphia. He was a classmate in college of Rev. Messrs. Talbot and Leonard, and a clergyman of fine executive abilities.

His year book shows a great deal of good work being well done. The clergy first chose Rev. Dr. Francis Harison, of Troy, N. Y., and the laity Bishop Garrett, of Northern Texas; and they united at length on Mr. Nicholson, who will symbolize with the Bishop of Springfield in the matter of Churchmanship. Bishop Seymour preached the Convention sermon in memory of Bishop Talbot.

—The Rev. Mr. Holland has resigned the rectorship of Trinity church, Chicago, and proposes to pay a visit to his old congregation of St. George's on the first Sunday after Easter.

—The Rev. Mr. Knickerbocker spent the fifth Sunday in Lent in St. Louis, and preached at St. George's church. He was on his way North from a vacation for his health in the South.

GENERAL NEWS.

—The decrease in the consumption of wine and spirits in Great Britain steadily for the past three years is most marked. The Queen in her recent address to Parliament, finds consolation in the reduction of the national revenue from excise in the fact that it marks a lessened use of spirits. There is a corresponding increase marked in the consumption of tea and cocoa in England.

—The Church clergymen of New Haven, Conn., have decided not to allow the programmes of the musical part of the services in their churches on special occasions, such as Christmas and Easter, to be printed beforehand. The churches in San Francisco have recently voted to discontinue advertising their services in the Sunday papers.

—Bishop Talbot left his theological library to trustees for the diocese, and his successors in office. He directed that he be buried in a wooden coffin, that his funeral be as small as would be consistent with what he had professed and taught—economy in expenditure and the avoidance of all ostentation.

—The Church Sunday-school Lessons are now used by over 200,000 children in every diocese and missionary jurisdiction. They can be had from Roper & Burge, 27 Rose street, New York; T. Whittaker, 2 Bible House, New York, and the Standard of the Cross, Cleveland, Ohio.

—For the colored church recently consecrated in Chicago, one person paid for the whole cost of the building; to the efforts of another mainly was due the purchase of the lot, and two others gave memorial windows for the chancel.

—The last act of public significance performed by the late Archbishop of Canterbury was to settle the fourteen years' old strife in St. Alban's church, London, which had arisen on ritual questions.

—In the Convention of South Carolina some years ago a question which excited interest was as to the place where the Bishop should vote, whether first, or last in order.

—A son of Bishop Huntington and two other clergymen have founded in New York city the order of the Holy Cross, for the purpose of ministering in the most utterly poor and desperate part of the city. They have for over a year occupied a tenement in the lowest and most populous quarters and have between six and seven hundred persons in attendance. They are vowed to poverty, and depend upon alms for their support.

—Mr. Fawcett, the British Postmaster-General, states that in exact proportion as the government has lost revenue from the tax on drink, it has been gained in the Postal Savings Bank.

—The land in Wall street, on which the Drexel building stands, was sold at the rate of $14,000,000 per acre. Forty-two years ago it was occupied by a hat store. A lot, on the corner of Broad street and Exchange place, was sold at the rate of $15,000,000 an acre. In the best part of Broadway land is valued at $2,000,000 per acre.

—The Rector of Dayton, Ohio, was compelled recently to change his residence, and pay greater rent, of which the Vestry hearing, they met and voted to increase his salary $250, a year, and also to send him a $50 check. This last was put into a note with these words:

My Dear Sir:—It seems to me just at this time you could use the amount of money for which the enclosed check calls. If you can, and will, it will give me more pleasure than anything I can do with it. Respectfully yours, —. —.

Could not something like this be reproduced in several places in this Diocese?

—The late Stewart Brown of New York left a large sum of money with which to rescue and rebuild in a poor part of that city a Church and Mission House, which will contain a reading room, hall for meetings and accommodations for a few homeless women and children.

—A private meeting of very wealthy Churchmen of New York recently took in hand very vigorously the matter of raising the $1,000,000 for the American Church Building Fund.

—The bank exchanges show a shrinkage of business for the whole country last year of 4.3 per cent. The most notable gain was that of Kansas City, of 43. per cent.; that of St. Louis was 3.7 per cent.; that of Chicago was 0.7. New York, Boston, New Orleans, Baltimore and other cities show a decrease.

—The man who complained of paying ten dollars a year to the Church went to Barnum's show, and took his wife and five children, paying a dollar apiece for all except the two youngest for reserved seats. He is going to take a cheaper pew, and is in favor of reducing the minister's salary.

—Sir Garnet Wolseley, the famous general who routed Arabi Pasha in Egypt, never touches intoxicating liquors. On one occasion he said: "The cause of temperance is the cause of social advancement. Temperance means less crime and more thrift, and more of comfort and prosperity for the people. Nearly all the crime in our army can be traced to intoxication. I have always found that when there is no issue of spirits to troops in the field the health and conduct of the men is all that can be wished for."

GENERAL NEWS.

—They have bought for Bishop Thompson at Natchez, Mississippi, a palatial residence, and fitted it up in handsome style, and also purchased a carriage and horses for him.

—The Bishop of Iowa wants to secure half a dozen clergymen past middle life, and with private means, to settle in as many towns which have ceased to grow, and where the church's strength is reduced, but where much good work can still be done.

—Mr. J. B. Howe of Indiana, recently deceased, left $50,000 for Nashotah to be paid when $450,000 had been subscribed. Bishop Thompson is the first alumnus of Nashotah who has received the purple.

—Another case of Roman Catholics confidence banking, like that of Archbishop Purcell of Cincinnati has just come to similar grief in Lawrence, Mass. Poor people committed to the priests as bankers over $400,000, for which they were to receive interest. The priests put the money in churches and school houses, and when called on for it could not produce it. The people have to take a general continuance for it. No solution has been reached in Cincinnati: Various devices have been proposed, a general collection through the country, an appeal to the Pope, a huge lottery. Every one knows that the churches and school houses built for the last twenty-five years so profusely in Cincinnati represent the four millions short; but the priests and others do not want to give up the property to repay the simple depositors.

—The Board of Managers of the Church Society for Promoting Christianity Amongst the Jews, met at Emmanuel chapel (the society's new mission house), New York, on Thursday, February 8th. Reports were presented from the missionaries in New York, Chicago, Cleveland, Louisville, New Orleans, St. Louis and San Francisco, and the missionary and industrial schools for Jewish children in New York, Chicago, New Orleans and Baltimore. A committee was appointed to issue a special appeal to the Church for offerings in support of Jewish Missions on the approaching Good Friday. New local secretaries were appointed on nomination of the Bishops of Connecticut, Arkansas, and Springfield.

—It has been decided, we are very glad to see, to give out without delay the contract for re-building St. Mary's School, Knoxville. The trustees have, besides the insurance, about $10,000 subscribed for the building. They need much more, which they naturally hope to receive while the building is in progress.

—The New York Times says "The matter of fact is the charitable work of the Episcopal Church is greater than is done by all the other protestant denominations put together. The Episcopal Church has the reputation of being exclusive; but it is equally true that in no other denomination is there an equal expression of personal concern of the welfare of the community. Let the lady be ever so fine, and her position ever so high, if she belong to an Episcopal Church it will be found that she is associated actively with one or more branches of benevolent work, and usually of the kind where she is brought into personal contact with the poor and needy.

—The General Theological Seminary of New York will shortly receive a bequest of $10,000, the income of which is to be used to secure a competent teacher to instruct the students in the proper reading of the Church service, and especially the Holy Scriptures.

—The Press Club of Chicago had recently a grand banquet, and the remarkable feature about it was that on the menu no wine or other liquor appeared. It showed that a brilliant and successful social occasion can occur even without the stimulus of spirits.

—It is stated that Bishop Penick's health is quite re-established, but it is not known whether he is going back to his work.

—It seems that the bequest to Nashotah by Mr. Howe of Indiana was of $50,000, that it goes absolutely to the Institution, but is not to be used, principal or interest until the accumulation by interest, or other gifts amounts to $500,000. This is a handsome gift, and made in a sensible way.

—Mr. Cheney says of the Reformed Episcopal body that all of their congregations except one in New York, two in Philadelphia, two in Chicago, and one in Newark, are such as can barely support a man; and that support must be hard to bear. The same gentleman says they have utterly lost the land given them near Chicago for a college.

—The Lutherans of this country, and especially the Swedes, are discussing very much the question of an Episcopate for themselves.

A PROFESSIONAL CONFESSION.

The Unusual Experience of a Prominent Man Made Public.

The following article from the Democrat and Chronicle, of Rochester, N. Y., is of so striking a nature, and emanates from so reliable a source that it is herewith re-published entire. In addition to the valuable matter it contains, it will be found exceedingly interesting.

To the Editor of the Democrat and Chronicle:

SIR:—My motives for the publication of the most unusual statements which follow are, first, gratitude for the fact that I have been saved from a most horrible death, and, secondly, a desire to warn all who read this statement against some of the most deceptive influences by which they have ever been surrounded. It is a fact that to day thousands of people are within a foot of the grave and they do not know it. To tell how I was caught away from just this position and to warn others against nearing it, are my objects in this communication.

On the first day of June 1881, I lay at my residence in this city surrounded by my friends and waiting for my death. Heaven only knows the agony I then endured, for words can never describe it. And yet, if a few years previous, any one had told me that I was to be brought so low, and by so terrible a disease, I should have scoffed at the idea. I had always been uncommonly strong and healthy, had weighed over 200 pounds and hardly knew, in my own experience, what pain or sickness were. Very many people who will read this statement realize at times that they are unusually tired and cannot account for it. They feel dull and indefinite pains in various parts of the body and do not understand it. Or they are exceedingly hungry one day and entirely without appetite the next. This was just the way I felt when the relentless malady which had fastened itself upon me first began. Still I thought it was nothing; that probably I had taken a cold which would soon pass away. Shortly after this I noticed a dull, and at times a neuralgic, pain in my head, but as it would come one day and be gone the next, I paid but little attention to it. However, my stomach was out of order and my food often failed to digest, causing at times great inconvenience. Yet I had no idea, even as a physician, that these things meant anything serious or that a monstrous disease was becoming fixed upon me. Candidly, I thought I was suffering from Malaria and so doctored myself accordingly. But I got no better. I next noticed a peculiar color and odor about the fluids I was passing—also that there were large quantities one day and very little the next, and that a persistent froth and scum appeared upon the surface, and a sediment settled in the bottom. And yet I did not realize my danger, for, indeed, seeing these symptoms continually, I finally became accustomed to them, and my suspicion was wholly disarmed by the fact that I had no pain in the affected organs or in their vicinity. Why I should have been so blind I cannot understand.

There is a terrible future for all physical neglect, and impending danger always brings a person to his senses even though it may then be too late. I realized, at last, my critical condition and aroused myself to overcome it. And, Oh! how hard I tried! I consulted the best medical skill in the land. I visited all the prominent mineral springs in America and traveled from Maine to California. Still I grew worse. No two physicians agreed as to my malady. One said I was troubled with spinal irritation; another nervous prostration; another, malaria; another, dyspepsia; another, heart disease; another, general debility; another, congestion of the base of the brain; and so on through a long list of common diseases, the symptoms of all of which I really had. In this way several years passed during all of which time I was steadily growing worse. My condition had really become pitiable. The slight symptoms I at first experienced were developed into terrible and constant disorders—the little twigs of pain had grown to oaks of agony. My weight had been reduced from 207 to 130 pounds. My life was a torture to myself and friends. I could retain no food upon my stomach, and lived wholly by injections. I was a living mass of pain. My pulse was uncontrollable. In my agony I frequently fell upon the floor, convulsively clutched the carpet, and prayed for death. Morphine had little or no effect in deadening the pain. For six days and nights I had the death premonitory hiccoughs constantly. My urine was filled with tube casts and albumen. I was struggling with Bright's Disease of the Kidneys in its last stages.

While suffering thus I received a call from my pastor, the Rev. Dr. Foote, rector of St. Paul's Church, of this city. I felt that it was our last interview, but in the course of conversation he mentioned a remedy of which I had heard much but had never used. Dr. Foote detailed to me the many remarkable cures which had come under his observation, by means of this remedy, and urged me to try it. As a practicing physician and a graduate of the schools, I cherished the prejudice both natural and common with all regular practitioners, and derided the idea of any medicine outside the regular channels being the least beneficial. So solicitous, however, was Dr. Foote, that I finally promised I would waive my prejudice and try the remedy he so highly recommended. I began its use on the 1st day of June and took it according to directions. At first it sickened me; but this I thought was a good sign for me in my debilitated condition I continued to take it; the sickening sensation departed and I was able to retain food upon my stomach. In a few days I noticed a decided change for the better as also did my wife and friends. My hiccough ceased and I experienced less pain than formerly. I was so rejoiced at this improved condition that, upon what I had believed but a few days before was my dying bed, I vowed, in the presence of my family and friends, should I recover I would both publicly and privately make known this remedy for the good of humanity, wherever and whenever I had an opportunity. I also determined that I would give a course of lectures in the Corinthian Academy of Music of this city, stating in full the symptoms and almost hopelessness of my disease and the remarkable means by which I have been saved. My improvement was constant from that time, and in less than three months I had gained 26 pounds in flesh, became entirely free from pain and I believe I owe my life and present condition wholly to Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, the remedy which I used.

Since my recovery I have thoroughly re-investigated the subject of kidney difficulties and Bright's disease, and the truths developed are astounding. I therefore state, deliberately, and as a physician, that I believe that more than one-half the deaths which occur in America are caused by Bright's disease of the kidneys. This may sound like a rash statement, but I am prepared to fully verify it. Bright's disease has no distinctive symptoms of its own, (it often develops without any pain whatever in the kidneys or their vicinity), but has the symptoms of nearly every other known complaint. Hundreds of people die daily, whose burials are authorized by a physician's certificate of "Heart Disease," "Apoplexy," "Paralysis," "Spinal Complaint," "Rheumatism," "Pneumonia," and other complaints, when in reality it was Bright's Disease of Kidneys. Few physicians, and fewer people, realize the extent of this disease or its dangerous and insidious nature. It steals into the system like a thief, manifests its presence by the commonest symptoms, and fastens itself upon the constitution before the victim is aware. It is nearly as hereditary as consumption, quite as common and fully as fatal. Entire families, inheriting it from their ancestors, have died, and yet none of the number knew or realized the power which was removing them. Instead of common symptoms it often shows none whatever, but brings death suddenly, and as such is usually supposed to be heart disease. As one who has suffered, and knows by bitter experience what he says, I implore every one who reads these words not to neglect the slightest symptoms of kidney difficulty. Certain agony and possible death will be the sure result of such neglect, and no one can afford to hazard such chances. I am aware that such an unqualified statement as this, coming from me, known as I am throughout the entire land as a practitioner and lecturer, will arouse surprise and possible animosity of the medical profession and as to him with whom I am acquainted, but I make the foregoing statements based upon facts which I am prepared to produce and truths which I can substantiate to the letter. The welfare of those who may possibly be sufferers such as I was, is an ample inducement for me to take the step I have, and if I can successfully warn others from the dangerous path in which I once walked, I am willing to endure all professional and personal consequences.

If the music selected amounts to just $1, send only the 15 pictures, your name and address. If in excess of $1, postage stamps may be enclosed for such excess. We make this liberal offer because we desire to give a present sufficiently large to induce every one to give Dobbins' Electric Soap a trial long enough to know just how good it is. If, after trial, they continue to use the soap for years, we shall be repaid. If they only use the fifteen bars, getting the dollar's worth of music gratis, we shall lose money. This shows our confidence. The Soap can be bought of all grocers—the music can only be got of us. See that our name is on each wrapper. A box of this Soap contains sixty bars. Any lady buying a box, and sending us sixty cuts of Mrs. Foggy, can select music to the amount of $4.50. This Soap improves with age, and you are not asked to buy a useless article, but one you use every week.

$150,000 GIVEN AWAY!

THE PRACTICAL FARMER, OF PHILADELPHIA, from an intimate acquaintance with its readers, has found there is a general desire to possess Farms and Homes in the West. Now, in order to give each of our Subscribers an opportunity to obtain an Improved Farm, a well-known, reliable real estate man has carefully selected for us 100 FARMS, to be offered as Premiums to our paper. We also offer, in connection with the Farm property, as Premiums, fine Steel-Plate Engravings, superb reproductions of the works of the greatest masters. These are alone worth the price of the paper, and when we give, in addition, the opportunity to obtain an Improved Farm, we are making The most splendid offer yet! Every Subscriber will receive a Premium. The PRACTICAL FARMER was founded by Paschall Morris in 1855, and is one of the oldest Agricultural, Literary and Family Journals published. Its character and reputation are of the highest, and Subscribers rarely drop from our lists. It has 16 pages, published weekly at $2.00 per annum. We want 10,000 new subscribers in two months, and offer as Premiums the Steel-Plate Engravings and 100 GOOD IMPROVED FARMS Located in the States of Kansas, Missouri, Iowa, Nebraska and Dakota, aggregating 16,630 ACRES AND WORTH $140,000.

Farms are all in good condition, and are in size from 80 to 960 acres, and worth from $500 to $10,000 each. The Farms will be conveyed by Warranty Deed, and a clear and perfect Title shown from the United States down. They are all ready to occupy, and will be productive homes from the start. As high as 80 BUSHELS OF WHEAT per acre was harvested from some of these Farms last year. All of these lands are just as good, and will produce as much under like circumstances. The tenancies are such that possession can be given at once. How you may obtain one of the Farms. Subscribe for the PRACTICAL FARMER. Immediately upon receiving the Subscription price—$2.00, a receipt and the current number of the FARMER will be mailed to the sender, his name entered upon our subscription list, and the paper continued for one year. As soon as we have 10,000 new Subscribers registered on our books, or in ten days from date, we will award to each of them a premium, aggregating in value $10,000, in such a manner that each subscriber will have a fair and equal opportunity to obtain one of the Farms and Engravings. In the same way the second and following series of 10,000 Subscribers will receive their Premiums until the entire $150,000 worth of property is given away. These Farms and Engravings are intended as premiums to our Subscribers. The distribution of these is entirely gratuitous upon our part, and is intended by us as a means of dividing with our Subscribers the profits of the year. The name and address of those securing the valuable Premiums will be published in the PRACTICAL FARMER. Having made up our mind to secure, at any cost, the largest circulation of any Agricultural Paper in the World, we have resolved to forego all profits and give our Subscribers the Farms and Engravings for the benefit derived from the present and future large circulation. A sample Paper containing description of the Engravings and of the 100 Farms, with a description of the improvements, dimensions of houses, etc., will be sent free.

CLUB RATES. In order that your name and your friends names may be among the first series of 10,000 subscribers, whom the first $10,000 worth of property will be awarded, subscribe at once and get up Clubs in your neighborhood immediately. Go to work at once. Show the paper containing the list of Farms and description of improvements. If you will get to subscribers and send $50, we will give the getter-up of the Club a subscription for himself FREE, which will give him equal right with other subscribers to obtain one of the Farms. For 20 subscribers and $50, we will give two extra subscriptions; for 25 subscribers and $50, three extra subscriptions; for 30 subscribers, four extra subscriptions; for 35 subscribers and $50, five extra subscriptions; for 40 subscribers and $50, six extra subscriptions; for 45 subscribers, seven extra subscriptions; and for 50 subscribers and $100, we will give eight extra subscriptions. The extra subscriptions can be sent to any one to whom the getter-up of the Club desires. Each of whom will have an equal opportunity to obtain one of the Farms. By this means you may get the 960 acre Farm. Let every reader of this advertisement send at least one name with his own, and we will get the 75,000 subscribers and will distribute the $150,000 worth of property at once. Remember you may get a Farm worth $5,000 or $10,000, free of every cent's cost.

IMPORTANT!—As a matter of security to our Subscribers, the Deeds and Abstracts of Title to all the Farms have been deposited with the Union Trust Company of Philadelphia, Pa. Address PRACTICAL FARMER, Philadelphia, Pa. 5000 MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN Wanted to secure Subscribers to the PRACTICAL FARMER. Offerings will be received at each Service for Diocesan Missions or the Theological Education Fund, of which notice is requested to be given. Some changes may have to be made in the above arrangement, and other places visited also before Convention. Parishes not reached before Convention will be visited after Convention.

THE Bishop would give the reminder that Convention meets on the 22d of next month in St. George's church, St. Louis. He hopes that the clergy will remember that the diocesan law enjoins their attendance; that the lay delegates will be chosen as well in view of fitness as of their disposition to attend; that in St. Louis due arrangements will be made for hospitality and be made known; that committees appointed for certain duties will have their reports ready; and that parishes will, by compliance with Article V. section 4th, put their delegates in a position that they may promptly take their seats.

THINGS SPECIALLY REMEMBERED.

There were a number of things to make this Easter to be especially remembered by the Bishop; the freeing of the churches from debt, witnessing as this did to the appreciation of the people of their privileges and their desire to make them secure; the unusual number of offerings made by children this year to the Cot; the relish with which the united services for Holy Week were engaged in. Perhaps, however, one of the most pleasing incidents of the season was the receipt by the Bishop of the following letter a few days after Easter:

WEBSTER GROVES, MO., March 26, 1883.

DEAR BISHOP ROBERTSON:—I send you to-day the results of the Easter offering of Emmanuel church, St. Louis Co., for what I do hope may be the foundation of a "Bishop's Purse;" I am quite sure that if the matter is properly presented to the Convention it will at once approve itself as a good and necessary thing to have in the diocese.

I shall not be entitled to a seat and a vote in the next Convention; if I were I should offer a resolution something to this effect, after a preamble reciting the need, &c.: "Resolved, that this Convention recommend to the parishes and mission stations of the diocese to devote the offering made in their respective churches at the time of the Bishop's official visitation to the maintenance of a fund in the hands of the Bishop to be used by him at his discretion for the relief of any clergyman in his jurisdiction holding a cure or missionary appointment." The amount is, I think, very fair for this church; and the people have entered into the matter heartily. Mr. Bowles will bring you the amount collected at Afton for the same purpose; it is small, but I think it very fair for that small station; on Thursday evening they meet to organize as a regular mission station, and to make formal application to you to be admitted as such.

Sincerely yours,

C. E. D. GRIFFITH.

Accompanying this letter was a beautiful, large purse, containing $34 08, the droppings of the congregation of Emmanuel during Lent of their own accord into an alms chest in the church, at their rector's suggestion, and for the purpose expressed above. Mr. Griffith had in his mind a similar plan in extensive use in his old diocese in Pennsylvania.

On the purse was engraved:

"THE BISHOP'S PURSE,

IN MEMORY OF

which associated the gift with the memory of a fair young girl who, as stated in a card in the purse, "for sixteen years had brightened Emmanuel parish by her lovely presence."

It need hardly be said that the Bishop with emotions of gratitude accepted the trust for the sacred uses for which it was designed.

P. S.—There has since been added to the above $2 62 from Emmanuel Church, and $3 38 from Christ Church, Afton.

HOME WORK IN MISSOURI.

Perhaps such letters as the following would show the need and the extent of the work to be done in our own State. They are specimens of such letters as the Bishop is frequently receiving. The first is from the county seat of Camden county, a little south of the middle of the State, and is a reply to a letter written by the Bishop because of a note received from New York, asking whether services could not be held in that county.

The gentleman writes: "There are but two families belonging to the Episcopal church in this county, and three communicants. All the children have been baptized but one, and the elder ones have been taught the catechism. We read part of the Church Service every Sunday evening in our family, and the children read in their Bibles every day. We live from seven to ten miles from Linn Creek, over a very bad, hilly road, and are thirty miles from Lebanon, where the Rev. Mr. Johnson lived, to which town from Linn Creek there is neither stage nor any other public conveyance. There is no place of worship of any kind in Linn Creek. Our families have lived here since 1871."

The next is from a gentleman who lives in Ralls county, in the eastern part of the State: "Enclosed please find $5 for the children's cot, St. Luke's Hospital. We are isolated from the Church, and have been for a number of years; yet we have a deep and heartfelt longing for her blessed services, and we sometimes envy our more favored brethren who can attend divine worship. We are about twenty-three miles from Mexico and twenty-one from Monroe City, our nearest Church points. The Rev. Messrs. Wager and Allen held services here; the last held the first Church service ever celebrated here, and baptized my wife, who awaits confirmation. Since I have been in this country, now nearly twelve years, I have never lived nearer our Church than I do at present. For years I have not had the blessed privilege of the Communion. I have personally defrayed the expenses of the services held here, and think I could raise $80 a year for occasional services a this point. We know there are other points all over this great State that claim your time more than we three or four Church people do, yet we would esteem it a great favor if you could arrange it so as to visit us."

The next writes from Boonville: "I am a poor travelling man, commonly called a drummer; yet, strange as it may appear, am a Churchman, and fond of my Church. I should like to attend Church every Sunday when away from home. I live in Illinois. It is a bright spot in my wandering life to go and hear the dear old hymns and chants, and feel that I am once more at home. Yet in Missouri how seldom can I do so. I sometimes go twenty miles out of my way to spend Sunday at some county seat, thinking I shall find a Church there surely. Why cannot we have services in every town in Missouri? Surely our grand old service would in a little time draw a congregation. It can be done at small expense by finding laymen to do it, and such men can be found. You can imagine my pleasure at finding one to-day here, and I do not believe I ever saw our service better conducted than Mr. Wilkins conducted it. The music, the whole service was beautiful; and what a pleasure to see a large congregation to hear a young man conduct such a service. I also went to Sunday school, and I never saw more children together (or seldom), even in our cathedral, and the little ones as attentive as their superintendent. Now, why cannot there be just such service in all towns in the State? In some towns where there is a church there is but one service a day. I have traveled half a night, and got in a town, say, at ten or eleven o'clock in the morning, hoping to go in the evening, only to find the church dark and closed. Will the day ever come when the only Church handed down from our Saviour will have a church and congregation in every town in America? This is the first Sunday (March 11th) I have been able to attend service since the first of January, yet I tried every Sunday. Please excuse this perhaps foolish letter, but I have felt so much over it that I was determined to write to you about it."

There are such persons all through the diocese, longing for such occasional services as may be rendered, and in work for the Church of our dear Lord we cannot possibly be too much engaged. The Bishop is always ready to license as Lay Readers, in places where services otherwise can only be had irregularly, worthy persons to read the service and a sermon, and gather the children for instruction. Such work has not merely been sufficient at times to retain our own people, but even to kindle an interest sufficient to cause the building of a church.

DIOCESAN ITEMS.

—On Sunday, February 25th, in Trinity church in this city, the Bishop advanced to the Priesthood the Rev. Cassius M. C. Mason. The sermon on the office of the priesthood was preached by the rector, Rev. Mr. Betts, and the Revs. Dr. Schuyler and C. P. Jones joined in the laying on of hands. At the conclusion of the service in the chapel the members of Mr. Mason's congregation of the Good Samaritan gathered in large numbers, and in their behalf Albert Burgess, Esq., presented the newly ordained priest a beautiful silver gilt chalice and paten, with a most gracefully expressed address, witnessing to the regard and reverence with which they esteemed him. Mr. Mason then gave them all his blessing, and the throngs gave him their good wishes.

—The few Church people at Eureka, St. Louis county, to whom Mr. Scheetz has been ministering, are taking steps to put up a modest church building. They were inconvenienced by having no place of worship.

—There was an error in the last number of the News, in the mention of the Church property in Monroe. It was all bought and paid for by the parish, and the square to the west is but little more than one-third of the size of the parish property.

—The Rev. Mr. Bolmer has begun services in South Hannibal, a growing suburb of the city. The Church people who live there are at a considerable distance from Trinity. This was a matter about which the Rev. Messrs. Hopkins and Ringgold during their rectorships were much interested in. We hope that the work will be supported and kept up.

—Grace church in this city has its land now almost at a grade level with the street, and the contractor is bound to make it even and smooth. They have the material and cost for putting a substantial fence also about the large property, which will greatly add to its appearance. There have been also several hundred dollars pledged for the building of a rectory. When this is accomplished, the work will indeed have an appearance of permanence.

—The Bishop has recently had the following confirmations: Christ, St. Louis, (in all) 32; St. John's, (in all) 20; Holy Communion, 23; Good Samaritan, 15; Grace, Kansas City, 5; St. Augustine's, 5; St. Mary's, 11; Mount Calvary, St. Louis, 22; Mission to Deaf Mutes, 3; Good Shepherd, 6.

—In the music at St. John's in this city on Easter Day the Anthem, Te Deum and Jubilate were sung to music composed by the rector. The programme put forth was not quite to our taste; it seems to imply that the main point of the service is the music. It mentions nothing else; and the words, "Commence promptly at 10.45," suggests the rising of a curtain.

—In the Legislature a bill has been passed which relieves churches and charitable institutions from the taxes due at the time the constitution of 1876 went into effect which now exempts them from taxation. Those of our churches which are helped by it in this city are: Church of the Good Samaritan, $152.16; Mount Calvary, $137.83; Orphans' Home, $64.50; St. George's, $303.98. The Roman Catholics were relieved of tens of thousands of taxes, and they were the main ones to move for the relief.

—At Cuba the new church has its frame up, and work will be pushed so soon as the weather renders it possible. The children of the town are raising funds to put in a stained glass window. The land was given by a Churchman, Mr. Hollow, and is deeded to the Parochial Trust Fund of the Diocese.

—When at length church debts are paid, then the urgency of repairs, which the congregation had no heart to engage in while the encumbrance lasted, begins to be seen. So at Trinity, the Church of the Holy Communion, and St. John's there will have to be spent very soon several hundreds of dollars for freshening and repairing the fabric.

—The Rev. J. M. Curtis, of Louisiana, has resigned his parish, and removed to the diocese of Pittsburg.

—In Trinity church, St. Louis, between Easter and Easter they raised $11,200, of which $7,500 was on indebtedness on the property and the balance was for current expenses. The property was leased from Dec. 31st, 1856, for forty years, with a rental which was to increase every tenth year. It is now about $1,120 a year, of which Mrs. Lindell gives a receipt on the payment of the half. After three years and a half the rental is $1,725 a year for the remaining ten years. There is no disposition to remain at the present location to be inferred from the payment of the debt. This leaves the parish at liberty to adopt any policy which is seen to be best.

—The Easter services at Boonville were a great success. The offerings reached the sum of $122.40; of which $8.45 went to the Children's Cot, $23.30 to the Sunday school Missionary Host, $5 to Indian Missions, $4 to Faribault, and some for the poor and some for the Sunday-school. This was largely the result of real Lenten self-sacrifice.

—At Grace, Kirkwood, they had a very bright service, in spite of the bad roads and walking. The new vestry room is finished so far that it can be used, and the chancel end, being more bright and spacious now, gave great effect to the adornments. The offering, as has been the custom of the parish, went to the Society for the Increase of the Ministry.

—The Easter Monday statement of the treasurer of Emmanuel church, St. Louis county, shows that besides the usual outlays, there was paid last year for repairs on the church, and rectory and labor, $561.35, and for heaters $130. The total payments were $1,445.48, and there was $15.48 left in the treasury. They are contemplating the possibility of doing without the missionary stipend.

—In Christ church, St. Joseph, on Easter day, in spite of the stormy day, there was a full congregation, and the offerings amounted to $500, for the reduction of the debt. Six hundred dollars had just before been subscribed to fresco the church. The Easter offering of the Sunday-school was $67. At Holy Trinity mission the church was crowded, and the treasurer's report showed $70 in the treasury, with all bills paid. At the parish meeting of Christ church the treasurer reported the receipts of the year at $4,423.21. Four hundred dollars had been paid on the principal, and $320 for interest on the debt. The debt is $4,000.

—At the children's Easter service in Carthage carols were sung, offerings presented and eggs distributed. The church was beautifully decorated with flowers.

—Judge Emerson, of Ironton, has been called into a discussion on the historical aspects of the English reformation. He shows up the unhistorical character of Macauley's rhetoric, and puts an accumulation of historical evidence against those who had asserted that the origin of the English Church was in the time of Henry VIII., which must have staggered his opponents. There are few laymen who have made Church history more profoundly a matter of study than Judge Emerson. He recently delivered in Caledonia an address on Forces and Phenomena, which was highly spoken of.

—Application has been made to the Bishop and Standing Committee for permission to organize a new parish in the eastern part of Kansas City, which has been granted. The movement is said to represent fifty families.

—The Rev. C. Mann has been called to the rectorship of Holy Trinity church, Middletown, Conn., and has gone on to visit the parish. It is greatly to be hoped that he may not be induced to leave the parish where he is doing so much good.

—On the first Sunday after Easter the Rev. Mr. Jardine, of St. Mary's, Kansas City, admitted as novices into a sisterhood which he has formed in his parish, of the Holy Cross, two ladies of his congregation, Miss Brock and Miss Ferero. They are engaged in teaching a young ladies' school, for which he has rented a residence near the church, and the attendance at which is increasing.

—The local paper states that Easter was a very marked and bright day in Calvary church, Columbia; that the church was beautifully and tastefully adorned with flowers, that the congregations were large, and that the children had their Easter service in the afternoon.

—The service in Christ church, Sunday afternoon, 8th inst., for the congregation for deaf mutes was particularly interesting. There were sixty or seventy mutes present, besides others. The service was read by the Rev. Mr. Silvester, and interpreted by the Rev. Mr. Mann. The congregation was absolutely held. Mr. Mann preached by signs, and the stillness in the vast edifice was impressive, a restless baby made the only noise, and this disturbed no one. The candidates, three in number, were then called up, and while the Bishop read the service, Mr. Mann following it as Mr. Silvester pointed it out, interpreted it throughout to the candidates who looked at him. The Bishop's special address, which had been written out, was read by him, while Mr. Mann, looking over, interpreted it. The mutes, always glad to get together, remained for a good while after the service, talking in a most animated way to the clergymen and to each other. The Rev. Mr. Reed was also present.

—The giving of the prizes, handsome prayer-books, to the nine scholars in the Sunday-school of Good Shepherd who had recited the catechism perfectly, was deferred until the Bishop could be present, on the night of the 2nd Sunday after Easter. This he did, and also in an address congratulated the congregation on the happy consummation of the entire freeing of the church property from debt, a great thing done by that not strong mission. The congregation on the occasion was so large that a number had to go away, unable to get seats. The Rev. Mr. De Forest assisted the rector in the services.

—The offering at Mount Calvary church on Easter Day was $800. At the Easter meeting the rector's salary was increased.

—St. Paul's church, Mexico, which has cost since it was built more to stiffen and strengthen it than it originally cost, and which was thought at last to be pretty secure, received a twist in a storm six weeks ago, which will almost compel the erection of a new building. If this can be done it will allay the fears which have been always expressed by many at the creaking of the old frame during any high wind, and which has affected always the congregation.

—At Christ church, Lexington, on Good Friday, they had the three hours service with meditations on the words of our Lord. The impression made was deep and tender, and none left until the close. At Easter they used for the first time the new white vestings of the altar. The Lamb of God in the centre of the front, and the Easter lilies on the stoles at the sides were beautifully painted on white satin, by two ladies in the parish. The condition of the parish is most satisfactory, although the Rev. Mr. Pecke is too closely confined with the duties of the parish school.

—The united services of the St. Louis churches in Holy Week were very largely attended, and evidently greatly appreciated. A number of the clergymen of the city met at them for the first time; and many of the congregations were then first in a number of the churches not their own. The sermons were carefully prepared, and were admirable in their different lines of thought.

—Mr. F. W. Southack, of California, writes that on reflection he sees that he has made a mistake in supposing that he was the last male survivor of Christ church in 1839. He has sent to the Bishop a list of the congregation at that time. He says that the consecration took place in 1839, and not in 1840, as he before stated.

—At All Saints', Nevada City, the local paper says the Easter services were attended morning and night by a congregation which crowded the building. The church was beautifully decorated with flowers; a handsomely embroidered lectern cover, made by Mrs. Birdseye, was first used; the music was especially good.

—The Rev. Mr. Gauthier, who has been at St. Luke's Hospital for the past six weeks, has been invited by the vestry of St. Peter's church, in this city, to assist Dr. Berkley, and has signified his consent.

—The Rev. Dr. Holland has just paid a visit of ten days to his old people at St. George's, from whom he received a joyous ovation. His whole time was filled up with feasting. He preached on Sunday, 1st inst., and the church was so full that many had to stand. It was a noble defense of the Christian faith.

—Permission has been granted by the Bishop and Standing Committee for the organization of a parish at Afton, St. Louis county.

—Mr. Chas. H. Bohn has been recommended to the Bishop for ordination to the diaconate. He is now at Faribault.

—Among the older clergy of this diocese, one was ordained to the diaconate in 1834; two in 1837, one in 1838, one in 1841 and two in 1843. So there are some who have completed, or nearly completed, forty or more years of service in the sacred ministry of the Church. All of these except one, are still at work.

EASTER IN ST. LOUIS.

The day for which so many preparations had been made was a dark and rainy one. Coming so early, perhaps anything else could hardly have been expected. The day was to be marked by the extrication of several of the parishes from their long indebtedness, and to this they had been bending themselves. There was perhaps less elaboration and profusion in the arrangement of the flowers, while in respect of this and the music there was the evidence of thoughtfulness and good taste. In no year so much as this has Easter taken such hold of the public mind both religious and secular. The daily papers devoted leading editorials to the subject, and the notices of Easter sermons and music came from all the denominations.

At Trinity there were two celebrations of the Holy Communion, with the same elaboration in each. At the second service the announcement was officially made by the rector from the vestry that the entire amount of the indebtedness on the parish had been provided for, that the mortgage would be cancelled on the morrow, full report of which would be made at the parish meeting. Besides this, several hundred dollars was given in the offertory for general purposes. This was the result of a general movement energetically pushed for only ten days before. The debt which had once been $17,000, originally contracted for the erection of the chapel, had been gradually reduced to $5,500. Of this the vestry who were on the note agreed to pay $3,000 if the congregation at large raised the remaining $2,500, with the handsome result as above. It is doubtful whether the parish has ever before been out of debt for the twenty five years of its existence.

At the Church of the Holy Communion, three years ago there was paid off $7,500 of their debt, created in the building of their church; and then certain members of the vestry agreed to carry the interest themselves for three years. At the beginning of the service on Easter there was still nearly $1,000 not pledged, and the rector made a strong appeal to his people. After the offerings were made they were taken to the vestry room by the wardens and counted; and at the oblation they reported that the entire $8,000 and one dollar over was on the alms basin. The rejoicings were deep and sincere. There was, as always, the large self-forgetting liberality from many from whom so much had not been looked for, and the absence of it in others from whom more had naturally been expected. The Sunday-school festival at night was crowded, as usual, and very hearty.

At St. George's the offerings were made for the bringing up of some old floating arrearages amounting to over $2,600, and which now are all provided for, as well as any possible shortage of the next year. At the Sunday-school festival at night the report was made of a membership, including teachers, of 366, and an average attendance of 166. The sum of $484 65 had been collected for the purposes of the school.

The morning service of the Church of the Good Samaritan is held at Trinity church at 9 o'clock. On Easter night at the confirmation service the large and devout congregation showed the deep hold on the best sections of our colored people which the work of the Rev. Mr. Mason has taken. The singing was wondrously sweet; we doubt whether there was any more beautiful during the day anywhere. The congregation have now by themselves raised $1,000 towards the building fund of their church; of which $300 came from the self-sacrifices of this Lenten season. Such a disposition of self help out of their poverty is a strong warrant for hoping that the gifts of the Church at large in this city will not be withheld when they make their move for their own building soon. The church on Sixth street while now in the changes of population unavailable for their own use, is a property which, if it can be held for a little time longer, will be of considerable value. Mr. Mason is not at all well. The confirmation service was intensely interesting.

Christ church was never more beautiful, and the offerings which had been called for by circular of $3,500 for improving the entrance to the church, for an iron railing, for a new carpet, and for deficiencies, was about all given. The Sunday school festival was held in the afternoon.

At the Church of the Good Shepherd the day was a very bright one. The communication in another column shows what a strong life has manifested itself there. It was hard to have in a moment to confront the need of raising the purchase money at the close of the lease, when portions of it should have been raised earlier. But while the extinction of the debt leaves the congregation exhausted, yet is a joy for them to be free. Now they can care for other interests.

EASTER MONDAY ELECTIONS.

In Christ church, St. Louis, there were only two changes, Mr. Forster, deceased, and Mr. Crane declined election. Messrs. Dexter Tiffany and J. A. Waterworth take their places. The present vestry consists of the following gentlemen: John R. Shepley, M. S. Snow, J. S. Fullerton, J. B. Gazzam, B. W. Lewis, W. S. Pope, Chas. Parsons, B. B. Graham, C. S. Freeborn, D. F. Leavitt, W. R. Allen, Jas. A. Waterworth and Dexter Tiffany. The treasurer's report showed receipts of $11,743.44, and expenditures, $11,513.90.

The vestry of St. George's is as follows: Edwin Harrison, Joseph W. Branch, D. E. Garrison, H. T. Simon, M. W. Alexander, H. H. Curtis, J. G. Wells, I. M. Mason, W. Bascombe, R. B. Wade, Wallace Delafield, Hugh Rogers, and John C. Orrick. Judge Pope retires and Mr. Delafield comes on as treasurer in place of Mr. Alexander, who becomes secretary. The report showed about $16,000 expended, a small balance on hand and no debts.

At St. John's the following were elected vestrymen for the ensuing year: W. F. Ferguson, Chas. Hofman, Jerome Hill, D. M. Houser, Henry Pitcher, F. N. Judson, Dr. H. H. Bickford, W. R. Donaldson, George D. Reynolds, A. R. Donaldson, Chas. H. Alexander, Chas. E. Pearce, and R. F. Phillips. The treasurer's report was satisfactory, and showed an increase in receipts over those of last year. C. Hofman is Senior, and H. Pitcher Junior Warden; A. R. Donaldson treasurer, and C. H. Alexander secretary.

At Trinity there were extensive changes in the vestry, several retiring who had been in office since the organization of the parish. The present vestry is as follows: R. P. Johnson, John A. Harrison, Wm. H. Thomson, D. R. Barclay, Wm. B. Potter, Heber Livermore, T. Ewing White, B. M. Crow, Arthur T. Metcalfe, H. G. Hagey and Jas. Page. The treasurer's report showed the parish free from debt.

At the Church of the Holy Communion the following gentlemen were elected: Messrs. L. E. Alexander, R. H. Allen Jr., Frank Carter, W. C. Day, L. H. Garnett, C. Miller, G. Paddock, F. W. Risque, E. C. Simmons, John H. Tennent, R.

M. Wilson, L. W. Post and D. P. Dyer. Messrs. Alexander and Post take the places of Briggs and Talbot. The treasurer's report showed the congregation out of debt, and a small balance in the treasury.

In Grace church the following were elected, there being no change this year: Arthur Kemp-land, Dr. Geo. Case, F. H. Jacobs, J. H. Wilson, A. C. Fiske, Christopher Branch, W. H. Woodward, Chas. B. Woodward, Moses Deakin, Julius Moulton and F. F. Hilder. The report of the treasurer, Mr. Moulton, showed a good condition of affairs in church and Sunday school.

At Mount Calvary the election of vestrymen resulted in the choice of the following gentlemen: Joseph Franklin, Lewis Lipman, Geo. M. Wright, C. H. Albers, D. M. Edgerton, D. H. MacAdam, S. H. Hewlett, A. G. Cochran, and R. L. Downton. Mr. S. H. Hewlett was elected secretary. The receipts for the year had been $5,781.71, and the expenditures $5,779.62.

At St. Peter's the following were elected vestrymen: E. H. Lindley, C. R. Blake, W. H. Webster, G. H. Goddard, Martin Collins, Frank A. Lane, J. L. Benson, J. Percival Smith, Geo. D. Barnard. For the first time in nine years the treasurer's report showed all debts paid and a balance on hand.

At the Church of the Advent Messrs. Dana Mansfield, Randall Slack, John N. Ward, S. B. Brady and Thomas Buck were elected vestrymen, the two first being senior and junior wardens. The parish was reported as out of debt and in a flourishing condition.

At Grace, Kirkwood, the vestry of last year remains the same, except that in place of Mr. Harry I. Bodley, deceased, Mr. W. S. Bodley was elected, and in place of Mr. Hamilton removed, Mr. Goode was elected.

At Christ church, St. Joseph, the vestry remains as last year, except that Mr. Marney retires and Mr. James Hull takes his place. In Holy Trinity Mission Mr. Isaac Wilkins is warden, Wm. E. Cockfield treasurer and Mr. Thos. Brown clerk.

The annual meeting of Trinity church, Hannibal, resulted in the election of the following vestrymen: G. Porter, A. Toll, G. W. Storrs, L. P. Munger, L. P. Jackson, C. W. Winslow, J. W. Elliott, R. W. Glading, W. A. Munger, G. W. Hawes, C. H. Carnahan.

At Grace church, Carthage, the election for vestrymen resulted in the choice of the following gentlemen: A. H. Caffee, W. K. Caffee, Thos. N. Davy, T. C. Canaday, D. A. Smith, Francis Matthews, H. H. Harding, A. M. Baldwin, and S. S. Wells.

In St. Mary's church, Kansas City, there was an extensive change in the vestry, several old members, among others, Messrs. Lathrop, McDonald and Haslop being dropped, and the number enlarged mainly with young men.

In Grace church, Kansas City, Messrs. Haff, Ferry and Coatsworth gave place to Messrs. Ogilbay, Paret and Frank Foster. Col. Grimes was made senior warden.

In St. Paul's church, Mexico, Messrs. Llewellyn, N. Lackland, Wright, Richards and Paul were elected vestrymen.

In Christ church, Lexington, the vestry is the same as last year, except that Mr. Geo. K. Smith takes the place of Mr. Lilburn Shields. Mr. W. F. Kerdoiff is senior warden, Capt. A. A. Le Sueur junior warden, Mr. J. O. Le Sueur secretary, and Mr. I. Chalmers Wood is the treasurer.

ORPHANS' HOME.

The annual meeting of the Orphans' Home took place on Tuesday, 27th ult., at Christ church chapel. After religious services the Bishop took the chair, and the Rev. Mr. Silvester was elected secretary. The report of the Secretary, Mrs. McLean, showed a year of prosperity for the Home. They had suffered from diphtheria and scarlet fever, but there had been only one death. Fifty-seven children had been received during the year; nineteen had been restored to parents and friends; two adopted; one died; two bound out; five left being of age, and the present number in the Home is seventy-nine.

The treasurer's report showed that the receipts for the year had been $6,912.12, of which from Christ church there had been $983; Mount Calvary, $338; St. George's, $305.50; Holy Communion, $195.45; Trinity, $95; St. John's, $79; St. Peter's, $76; Kirkwood, $50; Emmanuel, Webster, $40; Grace, $26.56; St. Paul's, $25; booth at the fair, $1,234.20. The outlays had been $7,112.35; all the bills were paid, and there was $186.55 in the treasury.

Mrs. Western Bascome was re-elected first directress; Mrs. Moore second directress, Mrs. J. McLean secretary, and Mrs. M. E. O'Dell treasurer. For managers from the different parishes the following ladies were elected:

Christ church—Mesdames Hugh Campbell, T. T. Gantt, John R. Shepley and Jas. Howard.

St. John's—Mesdames S. D. Bailow, R. F. Phillips, Romaine and Fred Wellman.

Trinity—Mesdames L. Levering, Isaac Cook, and Chas. McLaren.

Grace—Mesdames Dr. Heacock, F. H. Jacobs, W. H. Woodward and T. H. Wilson.

St. Peter's—Mesdames C. R. Blake, Frank Lane and W. H. Webster, and Miss Benson.

Mount Calvary—Mesdames Roger Hayne, Beers and Draper, and Miss Sands.

Holy Communion—Mesdames E. C. Simmons, W. C. Day, J. F. Aglar and R. M. Wilson.

St. Paul's—Mesdames Joseph De Forest, I. C. Terry, H. B. Robinson, and A. H. Blaisdell.

A fact interesting to the friends of the Home was stated by the Bishop, that, during the thirty-nine years that the Home had been in existence it had cared for 2,455 children, and that in this entire period there had only been 84 deaths among the children; in other words, that while the Home had sheltered on an average over sixty three children each year, the deaths had only been on an average a trifle over two each year; which, considering the tender age at which many of the children were taken, the homes from which they come, and the absence of nursing care, and the occasional occurrence of epidemics, showed a remarkable degree of health, and the evidence of tender care during the whole history of the institution. This showing is in extraordinary contrast with the statement recently made by a Roman priest in this city, that of the children which entered their asylums one-half of them died.

GRACE CHURCH, KANSAS CITY.

The consecration of this church took place on Sunday, 1st. The building was erected in 1874, enlarged in 1880, and again in 1881, but the indebtedness has only been paid off within the last month or two. It is of frame, with a seating capacity of 600, and a large chancel. The interior is handsomely furnished. Recently beautiful gas chandeliers of brass, a cherry wainscotting for the chancel, a fine chancel window, brass book rest and alms basin, and other appointments have added greatly to the attractiveness of the interior. The congregation has become very large and strong.

On the day appointed the wardens and vestry met the Bishop and other clergy at the door and preceded them up the main aisle, reciting the Psalm. The deed of the property was read by Mr. R. J. O. Hunter, the secretary of the vestry; the request for consecration by Col. W. B. Grimes, the senior warden, the vestry standing in the space in front of the chancel. The Bishop then proceeded with the consecration service, and the rector, the Rev. Cameron Mann, read the sentence of consecration, and assisting at the Holy Communion.

The other clergy present and who took part in the service were the Rev. Messrs. Wells, of Kansas City, Hahn of Quincy, and West of Cameron. The congregation was very large, filling the church. The Bishop's sermon was on the early days of the Church in Kansas City and western Missouri. It recalled the history for the past forty years, when the Church was struggling on the frontier. It had great interest, especially to the older members and settlers, and was reported in full in the local papers, and will be published in pamphlet form.

The Bishop had at an earlier hour held the confirmation service.

ROLLA.

MR. EDITOR:—I can hardly think that anything about our little church would be of such interest to your readers, as to warrant my laying it before them; yet, if you will pardon my obtrusion, I will at least acknowledge what the church has received from friends. Since the receipt of the beautiful presents already noticed by you, we have just received from friends in St. Louis, unknown personally to me, through Miss Triplett, linen for the altar, which arrived just in time to be first used at the Easter celebration, yesterday.

The day was unfavorable to the gathering of a full congregation, but notwithstanding, the collection taken for finishing the exterior painting of the church amounted to twenty six dollars, of which sum the Sunday school scholars contributed six dollars. Their maximum number does not exceed twenty.

The floral decorations were beautiful, the more appropriate to Easter, inasmuch as the flowers were in the vigor of life, not severed from the root and stem. If less money were spent in benefitting the sellers of cut flowers, there would be more for use in furthering objects which demand money, and will take no substitute for it. Then, too, would more attention be paid to use the living plants in such a way as to obviate even the most trivial objection to their use.

WM. JOHNSON.

GOOD SHEPHERD, ST. LOUIS.

The Church of the Good Shepherd makes its Easter report free from debt, although it has taken no small effort to do it. A deed of the land upon which the church stands was obtained in January, by payment of two-thirds, a note of three trustees being given for the other third. This was covered by the Easter offerings of the parish, and friends in the city, who have given us much kindly help. Freed from this burden, the work will go on rapidly. The Easter Service of Song in the afternoon by the children was very interesting. Nine classes recited Easter texts, and the fourteen carols were sweetly sung. At the close each child's teacher received a flower pot with "Easter, 1883." beautifully painted on one side, into which was set a choice young plant, most of them in bloom, from Mr. Daniel S. Brown's green-house.

ONE little girl whom we know of, who was accustomed to receive a piece of candy every night on saying her prayers and going to bed, made up her mind that during Lent she would not eat her candy, but would save it, and take it to some little child at St. Luke's Hospital at Easter. This may not seem to older persons a very hard privation, yet it meant a good deal to be persisted in to the end, when the other children made no scruple of eating their candy. At a birth-day gathering next door, where there was a candy pulling, the steadfastness was sorely tried; but the child held firm, and at Easter took her box of candy to a little girl at the Hospital who had just had her feet taken off.

THE Sunday school of Trinity church, Chicago, has 700 scholars, and an average attendance of over 500. It is always held in the afternoon, with the idea that aggressive work beyond the congregation requires an afternoon school. The names of absentees are immediately looked up, and notice sent to parents, and printed form of inquiry as to cause, with postal card inside for reply to cause. If it comes from sickness the teacher visits the scholar, and if the absence from sickness extends over two Sundays the rector is notified. If teachers are absent twice successively without good cause, their classes are forfeited. This works out careless teachers. The parish is not so large as any of our three large congregations in this city. System has brought and keeps the school up to this efficiency.

BOOK NOTICES.

In the NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW for April, the scriptural and the legal aspects of Divorce are presented respectively by the Rev. Dr. Theodore D. Woolsey, well known for his insistence on the indissolubility of the marriage tie, and by Judge John A. Jameson, a jurist whose long experience with divorce cases in Chicago, both on the judicial bench and at the bar, lends to his observations a very special value. Dr. P. Bender, a Canadian who has studied to some purpose the political, social and economic conditions of his country, under the title, "A Canadian view of Annexation", makes a forcible presentation of the reasons which incline many citizens of the Dominion to regard with favor the idea of absorption by the United States. Senator John A. Logan sets forth the need which exists for "National Aid to Public Schools" in the several States and territories. The Rev. Dr. Howard Crosby writes of "The Dangerous Classes" that menace the perpetuity of civil order and the peace of the community, meaning the manipulators of corporation stocks and the men who, having amassed enormous wealth, use it for nefarious purposes. "The Water Supply of Cities" is discussed by Charles F. Wingate, "Ethical Systems" by Prof. F. H. Hedge, "Street Begging" by Rev. Dr. Charles F. Deems, and "Criticism and Christianity" by O. B. Frothingham. Published at 30 Lafayette Place, New York, and for sale by book-sellers generally.

FLOTSAM AND JETSAM.—By Thomas Gibson Bowles. This master mariner evidently launched his yacht with his eyes in his head—just where they ought to be. He has used them well, and succeeded in gathering much valuable flotsam, and in fishing up from the deep, strange specimens of jetsam. While sailing in his yacht he meets with varied experiences, and notes down in graphic pictures facts, and the lessons he gathers from them. His strongest characteristic is his deep knowledge of human nature, and sometimes he gives us such pictures of it that, we cannot lay the book down until it is all read, and even then intelligent readers will return to it and read it again. Published in the Standard Library No. 85 (New Series, 1883). Price, 25 cents. Funk & Wagnalls, 10 & 12 Dey Street, New York.

Mrs. Burnett's story, "Through One Administration," which has steadily grown in interest, reaches an effective and tragic conclusion in the April CENTURY, which completes Volume XXV. of the magazine. The third part of "A Woman's Reason," Mr. Howells's new and striking story, reveals the heroine Helen reduced almost to poverty after the settlement of her father's estate. A short story, entitled "Anastasia," with an Italian heroine and an American hero, is contributed by H. H. Boyesen.

Stedman's essay on "Emerson," the most important article in the number, reaches the high-water mark of literary criticism. It is appreciative and discriminating, and deals mainly with Emerson as a poet. Accompanying the article, as frontispiece, is a fine engraving from a photograph of a daguerreotype of Emerson in the prime of life, which is instinct with ideality. "At Sea" is a study of the realism and grandeur of the ocean as observed by John Burroughs from the deck of a steamship, and described in his fresh and picturesque way.

Most conspicuous among several profusely illustrated articles is Ben Perley Poore's description of "The Capitol at Washington," including anecdotes of famous men who have been leaders in Congress. In "Plotlers and Pirates of Louisiana," Mr. Cable offers the most fascinating chapters yet printed of his Creole papers; An article with curious illustrations, appealing not alone to sportsmen, is Barnet Phillips's account of "The Primitive Fish book."

In "Topics of the Time" are editorials entitled "A Great Metropolitan University," "Slave or Master?" and "The Press and the New Reform," meaning civil service.

HUMBOLDT LIBRARY.—The History of the Science of Politics by Fredrick Pollock. After adjusting the theory of politics into its place in human knowledge, the author states clearly the progress of this branch of social science from the classical period, through that of the middle ages, of Montesquieu and Burke to the times of Maine, and Mill, and Spencer. pp. 50. 15cts.: J. Fitzgerald, 30 Lafayette Place, New York.

ST. NICHOLAS FOR APRIL opens in a very seasonable fashion with a frontispiece illustration of George H. Boughton's beautiful picture, "Snow in Spring-time," and some charming springtime verses called "The Summons," which are followed by an April Fool story, entitled "Louis's Little Joke."

Edgar Fawcett tells in delightful style a fanciful story, called "The Sad Little Prince."

St. Nicholas's numerous Agassiz associates will eagerly read Professor Holder's article on "Flying Without Wings," which describes some of the curious ways in which certain gifted animals laugh at Sir Isaac Newton and his attraction of gravitation.

By the author of the "Peterkin Papers," but in a very different style, is "Alone in Rome," a true story of an American mother and her son left without friends in the Eternal City.

Of the serial stories, Frank R. Stockton's "Story of Viteau" comes all too soon to its conclusion; while J. T. Trowbridge's "The Tinkham Brothers' Tide-mill" gets the young heroes into a serious predicament.

HYMN WRITERS OF THE CHURCH.—By Rev. R. I. Barrett. A very interesting little pamphlet giving the names and a biographical sketch of the writers of the hymns in our Hymnal, written in an appreciative spirit. J. Whittaker, 2 Bible House, 15cts.

IN A NUTSHELL.—Suggestions to American College Students, by Dio Lewis. Clarke Brothers, New York.

THE HOMILETIC MONTHLY for April contains the usual collection of Sermons—twelve in all—and the authors of the discourses are mostly the men from whom the clergy like to hear. Among them are Bishop Simpson, Canon Farrar, Dr. John R. Paxton, Dr. R. S. Storrs, Dr. H. W. Thomas, Dr. Ormiston, Dr. Joseph Parker and Mr. Spurgeon. Dr. Howard Crosby continues his series on "Important Texts." The editorial departments contain outlines for sermons, sermon criticisms, bits of discussion from preachers, "Homiletic Materials in the Rough," and other useful reading. $2.50 a year; 25 cents a single copy. Funk & Wagnalls, 10 and 12 Dey Street, New York.

TIMES-DEMOCRAT ALMANAC, 1883.—New Orleans. Largest circulation in the South West. Daily $12. Weekly $1.50.

CHOICE LITERATURE has begun a new and enlarged series. The last number had eleven other good articles, and another especially good one "The Charities of the Church," from the London Quarterly. The Elzevir Library has reached its twenty first number. Each number has a choice piece entire. Price from two to ten cents. Choice Literature, 1000 large pages a year, $1. J. B. Alden, 18 Vesey St., N. Y.

—A man of tact always manages to get out of difficulty. The clerk of a parish, whose business was to read the "first lesson," came across the chapter in Daniel in which the names Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego occur twelve times, and finding it extremely difficult to pronounce these names, he went through the chapter referring to them as "the aforesaid gentlemen."

AMERICAN ENTERPRISE.

No invention of the nineteenth century has worked a greater revolution in household economy or conferred more of a benefit on humanity than the sewing machine.

The first productions were crude and uncouth in the extreme, and it was reserved for American skill and ingenuity to bring forth a machine of any practical value.

In order to appreciate the great advancement which has taken place it is only necessary to compare one of the machines built during the infancy of the invention with one of the latest improved "Light Running New Home."

All the really good points contained in other machines have been utilized in its construction. Many new improvements and devices have also been added, the result of which is a machine as nearly perfect as it is possible to make one.

For simplicity, durability, ease of management and capacity for work, the "Light-Running New Home" has no rival, and the happy possessor of one may rest assured that he or she has the very best the world affords.

All who send for the company's new illustrated catalogue, and inclose their advertisement (printed on another page) will receive a set of advertising novelties, of value to card collectors. Their address is, NEW HOME SEWING MACHINE CO., 30 Union Square, New York.

A Necessity of the Day.

Few minor inventions have been so readily appreciated and come so quickly into general use as the stylographic pen. None who have used one will ever be contented with any less convenient apparatus for writing, and in a short time there will be few who have occasions to write at all who have not adopted it. The general principle of the stylographic pen is so familiar as to require no explanation. We have made trial of various kinds, but have found none to equal the improved Livermore Stylographic Pen which combines all the advantages of other makes. It is convenient to use, writes with any kind or good ink, and is practically indestructible. Sold at first for $3 each, the price has recently been reduced to $2 for plain pens, with fifty cents extra for gold mounted. By sending that amount to Louis E. Dunlap, Manager Stylographic Pen Company, 290 Washington Street, Boston, a pen, together with a package of superior ink, will be sent by return mail, and the money will be at once refunded if they do not prove to be perfect in every respect.—Morning Mail, Lowell Mass.

DEATHS.

GLASGOW—March 31, at Minoma, the residence of her son-in-law, Mr. Jefferson Clark, in this county, Mrs. SARAH GLASGOW, in the 82d year of her age.

Thus another of the aged communicants of Christ church in this city has gone to her rest in paradise. Within the past three months four of the oldest and most exemplary and beloved members, Mrs. Maria Trowbridge, Judge A. Hamilton, Mr. Theodore Forster and now Mrs. Glasgow have passed away from earth. To the pastor who has been intimately associated with them for more than a quarter of a century with whom he has often taken sweet counsel and on whom he had been accustomed to lean with confidence, this is a sad bereavement. It is a reminder that the shades of evening are gathering about him and that the light of a brighter day cannot be far distant.

There was much in the disposition and character of the departed to make fragrant the memory of her many virtues. Though she had lived to an advanced age she had lost none of her interest in the passing events of daily life. She was still the careful, loving mother to her children, to whom they looked for maternal counsel, watching their welfare and happiness with anxious solicitude and sharing also in the hopes and joys of her grandchildren and great-grandchildren. She had lost none of the natural sprightliness of disposition that had always made her society to be sought for by the young as well as the old. She had retained her faculties in a remarkable degree, her memory being but little impaired, and her judgment as clear and well-balanced as in the maturity of middle age. While in the experience of life, her memory went back to many years beyond the present generation, and the lessons of her teaching were not forgotten, she still took a lively interest in what was passing about her, as well in tending to the cultivation of the flowers, which had lost none of their charm for her, as in cherishing "the young olive plants round about her table." Her warmth of manner was sure to win the love and confidence of the young and in her presence there was no restraint upon the exuberance of their spirits. She will be greatly missed in the wide circle of her friends and there are few left to supply her place in the affections of her pastor.

She bore her last illness with uncomplaining patience; not a cloud obscured the vision of her faith, and she passed to her last sleep as sweetly as the infant in its slumbers. We doubt not she rests in the paradise of the blessed in the presence of her Lord and with the friends of her youth.

"And ever near us, though unseen,
The dear immortal spirits tread:
For, all the boundless universe
Is life—there are no dead."

IT WAS an interesting circumstance that the concurrence of Annunciation and Easter this year had not taken place before since 1745, and that the Hebrew feast of Purim and Good Friday came on the same day.

IT is a double pleasure to lend books when they are returned promptly and do not subject the lender to the inconvenience and annoyance of seeking for them. Nothing so effectually deters many persons from the impulse to have others share the keen pleasure and impulse they have gotten from some fresh book, as the fear that they will have to seek about for it, and perhaps lose it.

WE learn that a copy of the list of books recommended for Sunday-school and parish libraries by the Church Library Association of Cambridge, Mass., has been sent to all the diocesan clergy. It is evidently put out with scrupulous care and after examination. It will be a great help to those far away from books who want to form or add to their libraries. Confidence can be felt in following these suggestions.

SOMETHING has been said at times as to the inconvenience of Easter parish elections coming immediately after Holy Week, because of the disturbance this often causes, and the dissipation of better impressions. This would be better worth consideration if the standing and expected quantity at an Easter meeting was a struggle, but this is not to be counted on as the rule by which the Church is to regulate its action. On the other hand, something may be said of the calming influences which may be expected upon any questions which may arise from the hallowing spiritual effect of the Holy Week and Easter services which have just been had. Many an issue which would have grown wide and exasperating in the undevout habits of some other seasons of the year, has been quieted and healed because all the people felt better and gentler for the impressions they had just received.

FAYETTE is one of the parishes in this diocese—Mr. Franklin's statement for April may show others—that has paid up its assessment in full. It has also taken up and forwarded all the canonical collections, and also one for the Jews. The frequent acknowledgments of sums—small indeed, contributed by this parish during the past year have been noticeable. This commendable showing is mainly due to its excellent treasurer, who has ever been ready to suggest when offerings are to be taken, and promptly forwards them. O si sic omnes.

THE weakness of the blatant scepticism which makes its parade every week in the Liberal and Century Clubs, is never more apparent than at the Christmas and the Easter seasons, when the whole community is stirred to think of and sing a new-born and a risen Christ. The others may bawl out their not believing, and the blessings of a general negation, but the world sees the compacted power and efficiency of spiritual realities and healthful beliefs. And when other agencies flag, the children sing the old faith and hopes back to the front again.

OUT OF DEBT.

Easter this year will be marked as bringing out of debt about all the remaining parishes, except Grace, in this city which were in this plight. Year by year we have been getting deliverance; first Christ, then St. George's, then St. John's, then St. Peter's, then the Advent, and now Trinity, Holy Communion and the Good Shepherd—all these are freed. Grace, too, has gotten down on firm ground, and has taken a new lease of life, Mount Calvary and St. James' were never in debt much, and St. Paul's was delivered some years ago. There is very much to be thankful for in all this.

To be back where we were in this city, with over $200,000 of debt, bearing ten per cent interest, would be something appalling. Humanly speaking, it seems as though we could not longer bear up under such a burden. There is much more for us to do, but it is a matter of devout thankfulness that we have had the grace to be honest with God and pay for what we enjoy.

CHILDREN'S COT.

ST. LUKE'S HOSPITAL.

For several years an effort has been making to raise $3,000 from the children, and those who are interested in them, for the perpetual endowment for a cot and a room for a child at our Hospital, where a child not able to be otherwise provided for may be kindly taken care of when sick or undergoing treatment. By little and little we have gone on so far. Gifts are urgently asked for this purpose and will be credited in THE NEWS. They may be sent to the Bishop, 2727 Chestnut street St. Louis.

PERSONAL.

—The statement made in the last number of the NEWS that the Rev. R. A. Holland had resigned the rectorship of Trinity church, Chicago, was incorrect, and an annoying mistake.

—The Rev. Cornelius L. Twing has been appointed by the General Missionary Society of New York as Immigrants' Chaplain at the port of New York to act in connexion with a chaplain, appointed by the English church, in Liverpool in giving information to those coming to this country as to suitable locations, &c. They propose to put forth in a hand-book a brief statement of facts which may be furnished them concerning the religious and educational advantages of various parts of this country. The Archbishop of Canterbury put forth a circular calling the attention of the clergy in England to the great need that, for the vast numbers who were coming to this country, they should be advised where to go, and commended to the care of clergymen when they got here.

—The Bishop of Albany in protesting against the "ludicrous culmination" of a silk hat on a surpliced minister, finds difficulties also with the Oxford cap and the biretta, and favors a black velvet skull cap for cases when a head covering is needed out of doors when clergymen are vested.

—The fathers of Bishops McLaren, of Illinois and Tennessee, have recently died. The latter, aged 89 years, died in Stamford, Connecticut, in the house in which he was born.

—There was a desire expressed by the Board of Missions to elect the Rev. Dr. George Leeds as Secretary and General Agent of the Domestic Committee, to succeed Dr. Twing, but he declined the use of his name.

—The clerical obituary for the month includes the names of the Rev. Jas. S. Purdy, D. D., of Maine; the Rev. Henry M. Stuart, of Brooklyn, N. Y.; the Rev. Edward D. Peck, of Minnesota; the Rev. Wm. F. Lockwood, of Baltimore; and the Rev. A. H. Partridge, D. D., of Brooklyn, New York.

—The Rev. Dr. Nicholson, of Philadelphia, has declined the election to the Episcopate of Indiana. This will bring the next choice within six months of the meeting of the General Convention, and prevent the consecration of any person as Bishop until after October next.

—Bishop Williams, of Connecticut, says that the Puritans in land ng, first fell on their knees, and then fell on the aborigines.

—Mr. Charles C. Trowbridge, the senior lay deputy in the General Convention, died a few days ago in Detroit.

—Dr. Marquis, the Presbyterian minister of this city, gave up the gown in the pulpit on which he had set his heart, at the instance of two ladies; but the matter has culminated in his resigning in order to go to Chicago.

—Rev. Dr. Deems says: "Commodore Vanderbilt was very much afraid that he should be ranked with infidels, because of his irreligious life. He said to me in private more than once, that he asked nothing of me but to protect his memory from that charge. He did not care to have any other allegation answered. 'Let the fools believe it if they will,' he would say; but on this point he was emphatic. I have seen his face glow and his eye flash while talking about it. Once he held my hand in his, and his voice was tender as he said to me in substance that he should rely on me to do him the service of saving him from ever being such a fool as not to believe in the Bible, miserably as he might have let it govern his life. This was before his last sickness. On another point he was sensitive; he was afraid that it would be thought that his intercourse with me and other ministers had produced this belief. He said that he should be mortified to be thought such a fool as to need ministers to tell him that."

—A few moments after the death of Alexander H. Stephens some one asked a friend about his religious belief. He said: "I was with Mr. Stephens several years ago when he was very low—he thought he was dying, and I was very fearful. I was going to Augusta for the night, when he stopped me. He said, 'Doctor, I want you with me when I die.' I agreed to stay with him. Shortly afterward Dr. Irvine came in. He said: 'Mr. Stephens, I will go out and see Harry and his family, and when I come back, if you have no objection, I will read a chapter in the Bible, and we will have a prayer.' Mr. Stephens said quickly: 'I do object, and most decidedly. I have no objection to prayer, for I believe in it, but I do object to death bed repentance. I have made it the rule of my life to live each day as if it were going to be my last. In the heat of politics I may have sometimes forgotten myself, but I am no better to-day on my death bed than I have tried to be every day of my life, and I have no special preparations to make and no special pleas to offer.'" —The Bishop of Albany in his late Address speaks of the two special torments of a Bishop—sudden change of time-tables, and the caboose car of a freight train. Bishop Gillespie adds to this the slippery memory of omnibus and hack drivers.

Portable Electric Light.

At last we can have the electric light where it can do the most good. That is to say we can put it now on our desks, on our tables, on our mantel pieces, anywhere in fact where a clear, bright, safe lighter is wanted. Here is a lamp, so called, occupying only the space of five square inches, which can be carried anywhere, and is besides an ornament. By simply pressing upon the knob to the full extent of the spring (which connects with the battery) an electric current is produced by which the spiral of platinum is heated to incandescence and the light is instantaneous. The material lasts about two months and can then be renewed at a small cost through any chemist. It will not be long before everybody will have a portable electric lighter. The Price, $5, is so low that it cannot fail to become popular at once. The principal office is at 22 Water street, Boston, where all applications for this most novel lamp should be sent.

GENERAL NEWS.

—Bishop Gillespie, speaking of a church in his diocese with a high and open roof says that in his region of severe winters, they must learn to forego them, he never knew a church constructed comfortable in winter.

—Recently a Churchman in Brooklyn wanting to help Faribault, and get provided during their life time for his two children, gave to Seabury Divinity School $50,000, subject during these two lives to a charge of four per cent, afterward becoming the property of the school.

—The Rev. J. W. Haskins of Alton has inaugurated a plan by which what is left of the property of old Jubilee College near Peoria, founded by Bishop Chase, shall be utilized in the way of a school and industrial purposes. A company has been founded, with the approval of the Bishop of Quincy, and the Trustees, called the Jubilee Industrial Company, with Mr Haskins at the head, to which has been leased the land and the buildings. The original domain of 3220 acres has diminished to 400; and for many years past nothing has been done with it. Bishop Whitehouse used to think that the land should be leased, and the work transferred to Chicago.

—Mr. George Peabody, in his gifts for the benefit of education in the South, gave state bonds of Mississippi, valued at $1,100,000, to the trustees to be realized on and the interest expended. Shortly after, however, an amendment of the Constitution was passed positively prohibiting the payment of these bonds; the State the same year drawing $10,000 in cash from the Peabody fund for their school children. An effort was made by the Trustees to induce the State, which in the meanwhile is drawing large amounts, to honor its bonds, but they get angry at the idea, and no public man dares bring forward a bill on the subject.

—The manager of the Madison Square Theatre companies, which were scattered over the country, gave directions that none of them should give performances on Good Friday.

—Bishop Whipple in his recent visitation administered the Communion to 247 Chippewa Indians. There are eight full blooded Indian clergymen in his Diocese.

—There are some strange things. Seats at the front of the Roman Catholic Cathedral were reserved for Gen. Diaz in this city a few weeks ago. He came with his suite only when the Bishop's sermon was half through, paid his respects after the service to the Archbishop, and in an hour after in full hunting costume went with two friends with gun and game bag over into Illinois to shoot ducks. He gave the slip to a committee waiting to take him to the Fair Grounds and other places to drive and drink. The committee went nevertheless. A young society lady went into retreat one day during Lent, but left it the next morning, and went to the theatre that night. Two pugilists in Chicago had a bloody affray in a drinking place. One desperately hurt at length was thrown, and moaned out, "I am done for: send for a priest." He was dead before the priest came. A priest of the Church that proclaims its record as maintaining the indissolubility of marriages publicly marries in Washington a Senator and a woman, both of whom had just been divorced notoriously, with the former husband and wife yet living, and who had put them away by a bargain, and who had had doubtful relations long before the assumed marriage.

—At a meeting of the Board of Managers of the Missionary Society in New York last month, the matter of the successor to Dr. Twing was discussed, but no one was elected.

—The Republican of this city showed but an indifferent knowledge of topography a few days ago. It announced at the head of the column that Westminster Abbey had been threatened with explosion, while the paragraph below stated that it was the Deanery at Canterbury, many miles away, and a very different place that was in danger.

—The temperance movement is making gigantic strides in the Church of England. In twenty dioceses there are over 220,000 laymen in the temperance association connected with the Church, with upwards of 3,000 abstaining clergy, including five bishops.

THE FLOWER CITY FURORE.

The Commotion Caused by the Statement of a Physician.

An unusual article from the Rochester, N. Y., Democrat and Chronicle, was published in this paper recently and has been the subject of much conversation both in professional circles and on the street. Apparently it caused more commotion in Rochester, as the following from the same paper shows:

Dr J. B. Henion, who is well known not only in Rochester, but in nearly every part of America, sent an extended article to this paper, a few days since, which was duly published, detailing his remarkable experience and rescue from what seemed to be certain death. It would be impossible to enumerate the personal inquiries which have been made at our office as to the validity of the article, but they have been so numerous that further investigation of the subject was deemed an editorial necessity.

With this end in view a representative of this paper called on Dr. Henion, at his residence on St. Paul street, when the following interview occurred: "That article of yours, Doctor, has created quite a whirlwind. Are the statements about the terrible condition you were in, and the way you were rescued such as you can sustain?"

"Every one of them and many additional ones. Few people ever get so near the grave as I did and then return, and I am not surprised that the public think it marvelous. It was marvelous.

"How in the world did you, a physician, come to be brought so low?"

"By neglecting the first and most simple symptoms. I did not think I was sick. It is true I had frequent headaches; I felt tired most of the time; could eat nothing one day and was ravenous the next; felt dull indefinite pains and my stomach was out of order, but I did not think it meant anything serious."

"But have these common ailments anything to do with the fearful Bright's disease which took so firm a hold on you?"

"Anything? Why, they are the sure indications of the first stages of that dreadful malady. The fact is, few people know or realize what ails them, and I am sorry to say that too few physicians do either."

"That is a strange statement, Doctor."

"But it is a true one. The medical profession have been treating symptoms instead of diseases for years, and it is high time it ceased. We doctors have been clipping off the twigs when we should strike at the root. The symptoms I have just mentioned or any unusual action or irritation of the water channels indicate the approach of Bright's disease even more than a cough announces the coming of consumption. We do not treat the cough, but try to help the lungs. We should not waste our time trying to relieve the headache, stomach, pains about the body or other symptoms, but go directly to the kidneys, the source of most of these ailments."

"This, then, is what you meant when you said that more than one-half the deaths which occur arises from Bright's disease, is it doctor?"

"Precisely. Thousands of so called diseases are torturing people to day, when in reality it is Bright's disease in some one of its many forms. It is a Hydra-headed monster, and the slightest symptoms should strike terror to every one who has them. I can look back and recall hundreds of deaths which physicians declared at the time were caused by paralysis, apoplexy, heart disease, pneumonia, malarial fever and other common complaints which I see now were caused by Bright's disease."

"And did all these cases have simple symptoms at first?"

"Every one of them, and might have been cured as I was by the timely use of the same remedy—Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure. I am getting my eyes thoroughly opened in this matter, and think I am helping others to see the facts and their possible danger also. Why, there are no end of truths bearing on this subject. If you want to know more about it go and see Mr. Warner himself. He was sick the same as I, and is the healthiest man in Rochester to-day. He has made a study of this subject and can give you more facts than I can. Go, too, and see Dr. Lattimore, the chemist at the University. If you want facts there are any quantity of them showing the alarming increase of Bright's disease, its simple and deceptive symptoms, and that there is but one way by which it can be escaped."

Fully satisfied of the truth and force of the Doctor's words, the reporter bade him good day and called on Mr. Warner at his establishment on Exchange street. At first Mr. Warner was inclined to be reticent, but learning that the information desired was about alarming increase of Bright's disease, his manner changed instantly and he spoke very earnestly:

"It is true that Bright's disease has increased wonderfully, and we find, by reliable statistics, that in the past ten years its growth has been 250 per cent. Look at the prominent men it has carried off: Everett, Sumner, Chase, Wilson, Carpenter, Bishop Haven and others. This is terrible, and shows a greater growth than that of any other known complaint. It should be plain to every one that something must be done to check this increase, or there is no knowing where it may end."

"Do you think many people are afflicted with it to day who do not realize it, Mr. Warner?"

"Hundreds of thousands. I have a striking example of this truth which has just come to my notice. A prominent professor in a New Orleans medical college was lecturing before his class on the subject of Bright's disease. He had various fluids under microscopic analysis, and was showing the students what the indications of this terrible malady were. 'And now, gentlemen,' he said, 'as we have seen the unhealthy indications, I will show you how it appears in a state of perfect health, and he submitted his own fluid to the usual test. As he watched the results his countenance suddenly changed—his color and command both left him, and in a trembling voice he said: "Gentlemen, I have made a painful discovery; I have Bright's disease of the kidneys," and in less than a year he was dead."

"You believe, then, that it has no symptoms of its own, and is frequently unknown even by the person who is afflicted with it?"

"It has no symptoms of its own and very often none at all. Usually no two people have the same symptoms, and frequently death is the first symptom. The slightest indications of any kidney difficulty should be enough to strike terror to any one. I know what I am talking about, for I have been through all the stages of kidney disease."

"You know of Dr. Henion's case?"

"Yes, I have both read and heard of it."

"It is very wonderful, is it not?"

"A very prominent case, but no more so than a great many others that have come to my notice as having been cured by the same means."

"You believe then that Bright's disease can be cured?"

"I know it can. I know it from the experience of hundreds of prominent persons who were given up to die by both their physicians and friends."

"You speak of your own experience, what was it?"

"A fearful one. I had felt languid and unfitted for business for years. But I did not know what ailed me. When, however, I found it was kidney difficulty I thought there was little hope, and so did the doctors. I have since learned that one of the physicians of this city pointed me out to a gentleman on the street one day, saying: 'There goes a man who will be dead within a year.' I believe his words would have proven true if I had not fortunately secured and used the remedy now known as Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure."

"And this caused you to manufacture it?"

"No it caused me to investigate. I went to the principal cities, saw physicians prescribing and using it, and I therefore determined, as a duty I owed humanity and the suffering, to bring it within their reach, and now it is known in every part of America, is sold in every drug store, and has become a household necessity."

The reporter left Mr. Warner, much impressed with the earnestness and sincerity of his statements, and next paid a visit to Dr. S. A. Lattimore at his residence on Prince street. Dr. Lattimore, although busily engaged upon some matters connected with the State Board of Health, of which he is one of the analysts, courteously answered the questions that were propounded him:

"Did you make a chemical analysis of the case of Mr. H. H. Warner some three years ago, Doctor?"

"Yes, sir."

"What did this analysis show you?"

"The presence of albumen and tube casts in great abundance."

"And what did the symptoms indicate?"

"A serious disease of the kidneys."

"Did you think Mr. Warner could recover?"

"No, sir, I did not think it possible. It was seldom, indeed, that so pronounced a case had, up to that time, ever been cured."

"Do you know anything about the remedy which cured him?"

"Yes, I have chemically analyzed it and upon critical examination, find it entirely free from any poisonous or deleterious substances."

We publish the foregoing statements in view of the commotion which the publicity of Dr. Henion's article has caused, and to meet the protestations which have been made. The standing of Dr. Henion, Mr. Warner and Dr. Lattimore in the community is beyond question and the statements they make cannot for a moment be doubted. They conclusively show that Bright's disease of the kidneys is one of the most deceptive and dangerous of all diseases, that it is exceedingly common, alarmingly increasing and that it can be cured.

ONLY CATARRH!

Many thousands fully believe they or their friends are being hurried toward the grave by that terrible disease Consumption, and are being treated for that disease when they have only CATARRH in some of its many forms. We do not claim to cure Consumption, but fully believe from the results of our daily practice that we can save many who feel their case hopeless.

More Than 100,000 Die Every Year.

More than 100,000 die annually from Consumption in these United States, and a careful classification has revealed the startling fact that fully 50,000 of these cases were caused by Catarrh in the head, and had no known connection with hereditary causes. A large share of these cases might have been cured.

Danger Signals

Have you a cold in the head that does not get better? Are you troubled by hawking, spitting, weak and inflamed eyes frequent sores of the throat, ringing or roaring or other noise in the ears, more or less impairment of the hearing, loss of smell, memory impaired, dullness or dizziness of the head, dryness and heat of the nose? Have you lost all sense of smell? Have you pain in the chest, lungs or bowels? Have you a hacking cough? Have you dyspepsia? Have you liver complaint? Is your breath foul?

If so, You Have Catarrh.

Some have all these symptoms others only a part. The leading symptom of ordinary cases of Catarrh is increased secretion of mucus of yellow or greenish colored matter.

Catarrh is a Dangerous Disease.

and should not be trifled with; care should be taken to look for the first indications, and cure them promptly. If your case is a bad one, affecting the throat and Bronchial tubes, producing tickling, coughing and an almost constant effort to clear the passages, with tough, vile phlegm in the throat on getting up in the morning, which is hard to eject, and other plain symptoms that the disease is stealing into the lungs, it should be attended to promptly and thoroughly.

Do Not Procrastinate.

Thousands of sufferers have applied to me for relief. Many thousands more are waiting, fearful it would be an experiment that would only end in failure. Do not trifle away your opportunity. You may be sure that Catarrh takes no backward step. Your case may be daily growing beyond the reach of human aid. The statements of others who have found Child's Catarrh Specific the only certain sure cure should have weight, and convince you of the hopefulness of your own case.

Fifteen Years Ago

Catarrh was considered an incurable disease. I had then suffered for fifteen years in a manner only known to those who have had this disease in some of its worst forms. My professional duties made exposure a necessity, and I was first attacked by a slight cold; terrible headaches, which could not be cured followed, with deafness and ringing in the ears, soreness of the throat, weak, inflamed eyes, hawking, coughing, with great soreness of the lungs. The liver and stomach were polluted with the mass of diseased matter running from the head, until dyspepsia, indigestion, and liver complaint made me a wreck and incapacitated me from my professional duties and confined me to my bed. Compelled to resign my vocation, and feeling that my end was near, in desperation I gave up the physicians and compounded my Catarrh Specific, and wrought upon myself a wonderful cure. Now, at the age of sixty-nine, I am wholly restored, can speak for hours with no difficulty, and never have had, in the whole fifteen years, the slightest return of the disease.

Every Physician who has examined my specific, says it is certain, thorough, and perfect!

T. P. CHILDS.

Child's Catarrh Specific

will effectually and permanently cure any case of Catarrh, no matter how desperate. The treatment is local as well as constitutional, and can only be obtained at Troy, Ohio. We especially desire to treat those who have tried other remedies without success.

Our Letter Box:

Below we give a few of the thousands of letters we are constantly receiving. The record is a guarantee that CHILDS' CATARRH SPECIFIC is no new, untried cure, but a positive and certain remedy. We, above all things, desire to establish confidence in our treatment, so that every sufferer from Catarrh and Bronchitis may feel certain of success in its use.

Catarrhal cases have applied to me for relief. Many thousands have received my Specific, and are cured. We deem it only fair that every one who wishes should have the opportunity to ascertain whether we are able to accomplish all that we claim; and for this purpose we add a few of the many hundreds of unsolicited certificates which have been sent to us by grateful patients—as well as the addresses of some who have been successfully treated, almost any of whom will doubtless respond to any inquiry by letter, if accompanied by a stamp to pay postage. Having been cured themselves, they doubtless will be willing to let the afflicted know where they can find certain relief. We have thousands of these certificates from all classes—physicians, clergymen, lawyers, judges, merchants, bankers and business men.

I write to tell you that I am perfectly cured of Catarrh. O. P. WISE, Magnolia, Ark.

The catarrhal cough has entirely left me. I am well again. J. A. HULL, Cleveland, O.

I would not take a farm for your Specific if it could not be replaced.

J. P. ROBERTS, Chicago, Ill.

I would not take a thousand dollars for your inhalers. I am completely cured.

G. J. MCKNIGHT, Cleveland, O.

Your treatment has cured my daughter of Catarrh induced by a severe attack of measles.

John W. Riley, U. S. Express Agent, Troy, O.

My health is fully restored. The horrid and loathsome disease is all gone. My lungs feel all right. [Mrs. W. D. Lincoln, York, Neb.]

Your treatment did me great good. I have not lost a day by sickness this year.

ABNER GRAHAM, Biddle Uni'ty, Charlotte, N. C.

I am glad to say that I found your medicine all that can be claimed for it. I am full restored. J. H. SIGFRIED, Pottsville, Pa.

I do not regret the money it cost in using your medicine. I can heartily recommend your treatment. [E. J. LIPPINCOTT, Clarksboro, Gloucester Co., N. J.]

I have used your Catarrh treatment and am cured. A thousand thanks to you for so sure remedy. [Fannie Dement, Dyer Station, Tenn.]

I am much pleased to say that I have used the treatment faithfully, with the happiest and best results. [John A. Pratt, Goffs, Falls N. H.]

Your treatment cured me; your inhalers are excellent. This is the only radical cure I have ever found. [E. S. Martin, Pastor M. E. Church, Port Carbon, Pa.]

No amount of money could induce me to be placed in the misery I was in when I commenced using your medicine. [J. C. McIntire, Fulton, Mo.]

I am so far recovered that I am able to attend church, can walk half a mile. Have a good appetite, am gaining all the time. [Mrs. N. A. Munger, Detroit, Mich.]

Now I am cured: head free; air all open, and breathing natural. A thousand thanks to you for so sure a remedy. [Judge J. Collett, Lima, Ohio.]

Your Cold Air Inhaler Balm has proved a great benefit to Mrs. Marble as well as myself. I can heartily recommend it to others. [E. Marble, Concord, Mich.]

It affords me great pleasure to notify you that I have, as I sincerely believe, entirely recovered from that loathsome disease, catarrh through your very beneficial treatment. [B. Benedict, Baltimore, Md.]

Passages of the head began to open, throat and bronchial tubes grew better, cough ceased, and now I can see to write. I owe my life to your treatment. [Thos. J. Daily, Troy, O.]

I received your Catarrh Specific some time ago, and used as directed. It acted like a charm. It cured my cough and stopped that wheezing I had in my throat. [James W. Sanders, Five Mile, Mason Co., W. Va.]

I am cured, another formidable case at last yielded to our treatment. [W. B. Morse, Bryan, Texas.]

I am now entirely cured. When I had used it three months I felt like a different woman. Too much cannot be said in favor of your Catarrh treatment. It has saved my life. [Mrs. E. G. Mitchell, Fairbury, Ill.]

Mrs. Mitchell lives near me and has used your treatment with perfect success, and is now well and hearty. This I am witness to. [John G. Steers, Fairbury, Ill.]

Mr. J. C. Wilmoth of Oxford, Ind., writes: You can say to whoever you like that your Catarrh medicine has done me wonders; it has driven the disease out of my system.

For fifteen years I have been under the care of physicians for Consumption. In a letter dated four months latter she says: I am almost cured. [Mary J. Holley, Mountain Park, Ellis Co., Tex.]

My wife continues in the best of health, and has no cough. It is with great pleasure we are able to recommend so wonderful a medicine as yours has proved to be to us. [J. H. Bullard, Springfield, Mass.]

Mr. Z. Z. Lee of Grangeville St. Helena Par. La., writes: I cannot speak too highly in praise of your valuable remedies which act like a charm in relieving the loathsome disease for which they are recommended. And I also authorize the use of my name in public.

I have been permanently cured of Catarrh in the head by the use of your Catarrh Specific. I will answer all letters addressed to me, in regard to this subject. Yours with thanks. [E. Powell, Heath, Burke Co., N. C.]

You may use my name as a reference, as I have been cured by your treatment. I shall be pleased to answer any inquiries in regard to your remedies. Yours truly. [Harry Truesdell, Rock Dale Mills, Mass.]

Dear Sir: You are at liberty to use my name as a reference in favor of the healing qualities of your remedy. It has not only cured my wife of Catarrh in the head and throat, but has cured her of dyspepsia. Yours truly. [B. S. Dunkin, Carroll, Ind. Colorado Springs, Col., Aug 8, 1882.]

Dear Sir:—You may use my name, also that of my wife; we have both been cured by your treatment. We recommend your remedies to all we hear saying they have Catarrh. We can do it with pleasure and conscientiously, for we know of what we speak. [L. W. Spayd.]

I was thought to have had consumption, and had suffered many years with what was really Catarrh, before I procured your treatment. I have had no return of the disease. [Miss Louise James, Crab Orchard, Ky.]

We make this liberal offer because we desire to give a present sufficiently large to induce every one to give Dobbins' Electric Soap a trial long enough to know just how good it is. If, after trial, they continue to use the soap for years, we shall be repaid, if they only use the fifteen bars, getting the dollar's worth of music gratis, we shall lose money. This shows our confidence. The Soap can be bought of all grocers—the music can only be got of us. See that our name is on each wrapper.

A box of this Soap contains sixty bars. Any lady buying a box, and sending us sixty cuts of Mrs. Foggy, can select music to the amount of $4.50. This Soap improves with age, and you are not asked to buy a useless article, but one you use every week.

Offerings will be received at each Service for Diocesan Missions or the Theological Education Fund, of which notice is requested to be given. Some changes may have to be made in the above arrangement, and other places visited also before Convention. Parishes not reached before Convention will be visited after Convention.

THE Bishop will be glad to see the members of Convention and the Church people of the city generally at his residence, No. 2727 Chestnut street, only a few steps from St. George's church, where the Convention meets, on Tuesday evening, as usual, after the reading of the Bishop's Address.

THE Bishop requests that the Convention reports of parishes and of clergymen without charge be handed him on the first day of the session, and that they be accurately drawn out before coming to the city by a reference to the parish registers, which should be kept accurately written up. If they are not personally presented, he requests that they be mailed to him so that he may receive them by the 22nd inst.

IT HAS been a gracious and equitable custom for us for many years past in the diocese to make common stock with the offerings from all the congregations, great and small, on the Sunday next before Convention, for the travelling expenses to and from Convention of those missionaries and stations which are little able to bear the charge. It is very desirable on many accounts that they should not be prevented from coming. It is quite as certain that they cannot come without the extension of this common help all round. Those congregations that cannot do much should do their best, as on this would be conditioned their having benefit from the fund.

DIOCESAN ITEMS.

—The vestry of St. Paul's church, Mexico, have determined that it is inexpedient to secure the services of a rector, as they are engaged in the effort to raise means to rebuild the church edifice, about fifteen hundred dollars, and think that the additional burden would be greater than they can bear. Some parishes have found that the surest way to grapple with such a work as building a church is to secure leadership. Perhaps, however, St. Paul's will in the need develop leadership within itself. We hope so. They are at work very vigorously. We have known parishes that after losing six months or a year in discussions found that a clergyman on the ground and services maintained furnished the most economical and quickest way to get the church built.

—The Bishop has recently confirmed as follows: St. Charles, 3; Hannibal, 6; Palmyra, 1; Monroe City, 18; Shelby, 1; Macon, 7; Chillicothe, 3; Utica, 2; Cameron, 1; St. Joseph, Christ, 28; Holy Trinity, 10.

—The vestry at Hannibal offered their Church property to the Government for a public building, but it is not likely that it will be taken. The location is made not quite so desirable for the church by the putting up of a large hotel close to its south side. Still it is not badly placed, and as the Government would tear away the church if it bought it, it is hardly likely to pay for the lot what the property has cost. A large part of the money for its erection was solicited in the East by Mr. Dunn, then rector. The parish, if it lost this church, would hardly get a better one.

—We mentioned last month that the Rev. Cameron Mann, of Grace church, Kansas City, has been called to the rectorship of Holy Trinity church, Middletown, Conn. He went on to see the parish, and was at first inclined to accept, and so announced to his congregation on the 15th ult. There is naturally very great regret felt by the severance of a tie which has become close and dear. The relief was consequently great when he afterwards determined to decline the overture and remain in Kansas City. The Connecticut parish was strong and wealthy, and has a handsome stone church and rectory, worth $150,000. It is the seat of the Berkey Theological Seminary, and the residence of Bishop Williams. The inducement to Mr. Mann was that he desired to study more, and this seat of learning presented an admirable opportunity for that. The salary offered was $2,500 and the rectory; which salary was the same that he was receiving in Kansas City, without the rectory.

—During the Bishop's visit to Shelby, a meeting of the congregation was held, at which it was determined to build a church to cost from $1,200 to $1,500. Collecting and building committees were appointed, and steps taken to secure plans. There is a very decided feeling that on the lot which the mission has now held for eighteen years in a town growing now so rapidly, there can now, and there should without further delay be a church erected.

—The congregation at St. Jude's church, Monroe City, at the annual confirmation a few weeks ago, was larger than had ever been known, as it was known that the number to be confirmed, and the position of many of them in the community, created a wide interest. The church was filled; chairs were placed in the aisles, the vestry room was packed, persons were sitting on the chancel steps, many stood throughout, the open windows were filled on the outside, and still many had to go away. It was a time of remarkable interest. The new parsonage is enclosed, and will be finished in two months. It will be a most convenient building of seven rooms, on the lot just south of the church.

—Because of the extinction of the debt on Trinity church, St. Louis, there is no idea necessarily that they are to remain for always in their present location. The lease of the land runs for something over thirteen years yet. They are looking about for a site on which shortly they can build. The wiping out of the debt gives the parish freedom to act and the right to choose alternatives. The younger element in the congregation among the men is very active.

—A second edition of Dr. Fulton's work, Index Canonum, published a few years ago, has been called for. It is a collection of the canons of the undisputed General Councils, with notes and an index by which they are classified and may be referred to. It is a work of authority, and of great learning and labor. In this edition Dr. Fulton has dedicated the work to the Bishop of this Diocese, in terms of great kindness and partiality.

—The Bishop of Mississippi, the senior bishop of the Southern dioceses, has addressed a note to the bishops of the dioceses in the former slave holding states, asking them to meet him in conference at Sewanee, Tennessee, at the seat of the University of the South, in the latter part of July, just before the Commencement, for the purpose of consulting, in view of the approaching General Convention, as to the measures that it may be desirable to institute and recommend for a more thorough institution of Church work among the colored people of the South. He also suggested that the bishops be accompanied by a presbyter, who had experience in this work. The Bishop of Missouri wrote that he hoped that he might be present, and has invited the Rev. P. G. Robert, of this city, to accompany him, or, if the bishop is unable to go, to represent him at the gathering. Mr. Robert has signified his acceptance.

—The Bishop has recently visited the following places and held services where there were no confirmations: Montgomery, Louisiana, Brookfield, Hamilton and Plattsburg.

—The Church people in Chillicothe have long been thinking about securing for themselves a rectory. They know that naturally the missionary stipend cannot be much longer continued to them, and that they can secure the more constant services of their rector if they can give him a home. For various reasons Mr. Waterman's family have during a considerable portion of his incumbency had their home on his farm near Hamilton. This arrangement is satisfactory to no one, but can only be terminated by the securing of a rectory. Mr. Benjamin Smith, of New York, who has business relations with the place, has made the vestry a liberal offer, of lending them $1,200 at 5 per cent. interest, to enable them to secure a house. They will no doubt avail themselves of it, and either purchase, or, better yet, build.

—The Rev. Mr. Talbot, of Macon, has formed his boys into a choir and vested them in surplices, to take the service at night. There are now fifteen, who sing, under the direction of the Rev. Mr. Corbyn, the assistant minister, admirably. The boys are greatly interested in their duty, and their help could now be ill spared in rendering the worship.

—The Convention sermon will this year be preached by the Bishop.

—The Sunday night services at Christ church, in this city, have been discontinued, the congregation not being such, it was thought, as to warrant them. The second service is at 4 P. M. The Sunday school has greatly increased, and very much neighborhood work is being done in connexion with it, under the leadership of Mrs. Ernst and a number of the teachers. In the removal of Mr. Post, the Superintendent, to Chicago, Mr. Davis has the charge of the Sunday school, and he has already proven his signal efficiency. Recently a social gathering was had in one of the rooms under the chapel, of those in the neighborhood who had children in the Sunday school. About forty were there, and sixty children, the idea having been worked up by the Rev. Mr. Silvester and others. It was what in England would be called a "penny reading," or a "parish tea." Some simple refreshments had been contributed. Prof. Snow added to the interest of the occasion by the presentation of some pictures by a stereopticon. We believe that it is proposed to have other similar entertainments. They are sure to be useful. A number of those recently confirmed were the result of missionary work in the vicinity of the church and through the Sunday school.

—Bishop Robertson has been invited to deliver the Baccalaureate sermon at the State University at Columbia, on the 3rd prox. At first he was inclined to think that in view of Convention and his duties in connexion therewith, before and afterwards, he would not be able to undertake the duty. He has, however, accepted the invitation.

—Rev. Alexander Thompson, for twelve years a Presbyterian minister of standing, and recently of Troy, Kansas, has made his preliminary application to receive Orders in the Church in this diocese.

—On the — of — in Christ church, St. Joseph, the Bishop admitted to Deacon's Orders Mr. Loren Fuller Minturn, who for a number of years has been the faithful lay reader in Amazonia, and who has as such, in the absence of a clergyman, been often called on to visit the sick and bury the dead. He, in the midst of crowding secular duty, has held and will continue to maintain services in the little church in Amazonia. A steady progress is making, although it has to be slow, towards forming a fund for building a better church.

—Permission has been given by the Bishop and Standing Committee for the organization of a new church in the eastern part of Kansas City, to which, from the start, a considerable number of families will adhere. It will be at least half a mile southeast of St. Mary's church, and nearest to the colored church of St. Augustine, which has been kindly tendered to the congregation in which to hold its preliminary services and proceedings for organization. It will be called Trinity church, and apply for union with Convention.

—The services in St. Joseph during the Bishop's visit on Sunday, 29th ult., had peculiar interest. It was evident that there was a wider and deeper religious interest than usual, and that the influence for good for all these years of the beloved rector was reaching a still wider circle of persons. Morning Prayer, the administration of infant and adult baptism, and the Holy Communion were had at nine o'clock. The Litany was said at the usual hour for service, the congregation was very large; the Bishop preached, and confirmed 28 persons, most of them being persons of mature years. From the heat or nervous tension three or four persons fainted. In the afternoon the Bishop and Mr. Thompson, who is applying for Orders in the Church, addressed the Sunday school. At night the services were at Holy Trinity chapel, in south St. Joseph, which is now under the pastoral care of Dr. Runcie. He had asked the people of the parish church not to come down to the chapel at night, as the capacity, of about two hundred, would be insufficient. And so it turned out; numbers stood, and many had to go away, unable to get in. Ten persons were confirmed by the Bishop after his sermon. The case of one of these persons, a child of 16 years, was interesting as bringing to mind the extending years of the Bishop's administration. Nearly fifteen years ago, on his first visit to St. Joseph, he baptized in his arms this person, now fully grown.

—The new church at Lebanon, was, after dis-appointments and delays before, to have been opened for service on the 29th ult., and the Rev. Mr. Scheetz was to have held the service, he having furnished the plans for the building. At the last moment, however, it was discovered that the workmen would not be ready, and the opening had to be postponed.

—The children of the Good Shepherd Sunday school, St. Louis, thoroughly enjoyed the picnic on the fresh green lawn around Captain Martin's house at the Arsenal, Saturday, April 28. The Captain strung a cable rope through a dozen or more massive locust trees, about twenty feet from the ground. From this strong line he dropped twenty eight swings, so that platoons of at least twenty eight children, often more, could fly in the air at one time. It was suggestive of the winged days of the future, when steam is to be outdone.

—In reference to the new parish in Kansas City, the following item appeared in the local papers of the 6th inst.: "Articles of association in the matter of the incorporation of the rector, church wardens and vestrymen of Trinity church were filed with the recorder yesterday. The present vestry of Trinity church compose the first board of trustees. They are as follows: J. C. Ranson, C. H. Conover, W. E. Winner, Robt. Salisbury, Geo. J. Kimball, J. H. Ashley, C. A. Danaker, M. D. J. Walmsley, John B. Green, W. P. Delaplaine, Walter Harwood, C. W. Freeman and W. S. Whiting. Services for the present are held by the Rev. A. E. Wells, on Sunday afternoons at St. Augustine's church, which is in the general vicinity.

—The Rev. E. Talbot delivered an address on Ascension Day to the Knights Templar in their assemblage at Cameron from a number of towns. While not a Knight, he has been in requisition for a number of years in various places for this purpose. Mr. Talbot was also in Atchison on the 27th to deliver a literary address before a ladies' seminary, and on the 29th presented the interests of St. James' Academy in Trinity church in that city.

—The statement is made in the St. Louis papers of the 6th, apparently by authority, that the Rev. Mr. Gauthier has accepted an invitation to locate in Colorado City, Texas, in charge of work under the direction of the Congregational denomination.

—The historical sermon on Early Days of the Church in Kansas City, preached by the Bishop, at the consecration of Grace church, has been published neatly in pamphlet form by the vestry.

—The Chapter of St. Louis a week or two ago ordered a committee to be appointed to express its sense of the great desirableness of the relief of Grace church, the only remaining parish of the city now in debt, of its burden before the meeting of Convention, and of the hope that the more fortunate and stronger parishes of the city would come to its relief. This would be a graceful act. The debt was largely incurred in consequence and during the time of the letting down of the building, and the removal of the mound. Now that it is on grade it is gaining strength, although often what it gains at one end it loses in wealthier families removing to the west end of the city. It gratefully remembers the generous benefaction of the Senior Warden of St. George's church, which made the letting down and removal and renovation of the church possible.

—Our old young friend, Mr. James A. Brownell, who will be remembered by many St. Louisians of a dozen years ago as in Hendricks & Chittenden's Church book store on Fifth street, in the days when the Church had headquarters and the Bishop an office there, is in town. He has for several years past been in Leadville, successfully prosecuting the book and stationery business there. He has been urged by some of his friends to return to this city and set up a Church book store, where fine stationary and fancy articles could be had. We hope that he may, and that thus our people can have a place where they can certainly find Church and Sunday school requisites. If he does come, with his energy and tact, and politeness, he will win many friends, and call back those who knew him in earlier years.

—It is worth remembering that $100 was lost to the News last year by persons receiving the paper and not paying for it, having ordered it. They remove or order it stopped, and take no thought of paying what is owing.

—The Rev. Mr. Whitten, of Columbia, received recently a call from Marshall, Texas, but his people took the necessary steps, and did not let him go.

—Saline county has sent $100 towards the Dr. Twing memorial for the endowment of the Missionary Episcopate, as suggested by Bishop Clarkson. This was a large and generous offering for them to such a distant and unrelated object.

ALL SAINTS' HOSPITAL, KANSAS CITY

More than two years ago an effort was deemed necessary in Kansas City to erect a hospital which should have the comforts of a private establishment, and be open to all. The administration of the Roman Catholic hospital was not deemed satisfactory. While others were talking, the Rev. Mr. Jardine took hold of the work with energy, secured to the project adherents who represented interests of all kinds, and set on foot a canvass for money with which to purchase property. A lot 100 feet front on Campbell street, near Tenth, in an elevated location in the eastern part of the city, was bought for $2,500, and plans drawn by Mr. Codrington, a local architect. They call for when completed a building of brick of four stories, with two wings, 86 feet front, the wings being joined by a middle portion in which is a tower, and also an entrance for an ambulance into a court yard, from which patients can be readily taken by an elevator to the floor on which their rooms are. The plans are drawn with full consideration for the latest knowledge of sanitary laws. The completed building would cost about $30,000. Of this only one wing will be erected at present, at a cost of $10,000, without the furniture. Of this amount about half is in hand, after paying for the lot. Great energy has been shown by Miss Fitzgerald, in Kansas City and Boston, in securing what has been given.

The corner stone of this building was laid on Sunday, 6th inst., by the Bishop of the diocese. The procession was formed at St. Augustine's church, two squares away, led by the vested choristers of St. Mary's church, followed by the clergy, the Rev. Messrs. Jardine, Wells, Cummings and Bennett, and the Bishop. Then came the Board of Directors and Trustees of the Church Charity Association, by whom the building is erected, and the invited guests. Arrived at the location, the service for laying the corner stone was said, it being that which was used at the laying of the corner stone of St. Luke's Hospital, in this city, with a few modifications. A platform had been erected, on which the officers took their places. Mr. Wimbush read the list of deposits in the stone; while it was being lowered to its place the choir sang the hymn, "To this temple, where we call Thee." The President, Mr. P. L. G. Atkinson, then formally requested the Bishop to lay the stone, which he did, striking the stone and saying:

We, Charles Franklin Robertson, Doctor in Divinity, of the grace of God, Bishop of the Diocese of Missouri, do lay the corner stone of an edifice, to be here erected, by the name of All Saints' Hospital, to the glory of Almighty God, in honor of all His saints, and for the care and relief of His sick and suffering ones. In the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost. Amen.

Here let the true faith, and fear of God with brotherly love ever abide; and be this place dedicated with prayers, and with the invocation and praise of His holy name, through Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

Other foundation can no man lay than that which is laid, even Jesus Christ, who is God over all, blessed for evermore. Amen.

His Honor, Mayor Gibson, then delivered an address; Mr. A. N. Sadler, the Vice President, and a Hebrew, read a statement of the financial condition of the hospital, and formally delivered over a deed of the property to the trustees. An admirable speech was made by J. L. Peake, Esq., who was followed by the Bishop. There was a large assemblage present. The procession then returned to the church.

The association has no qualifications, religious or otherwise, as to membership, but requires the payment of $5 and election by those already members. The vacancies in the directory are filled by the Association; vacancies in it only occur from removal or death. The body has as such no connexion with the Church; but its results have come from the energy of the rector and some of the members of St. Mary's church. It is likely to be an important institution in Kansas City.

ORDINATION.

On the feast of St. Philip and St. James, at St. George's church, St. Louis, the Bishop admitted Mr. Chas. H. Bohn to the order of Deacons. He was presented by the Rev. Dr. Fulton, and the Rev. Messrs. Robert, Chesnutt, Newton and Tucker were present and took part in the service. The Rev. Mr. Griffith also was present in the congregation.

The Rev. Mr. Bohn was previously a Southern Methodist minister, and has done duty in Arkansas. He is about 35 years of age, unmarried, and is likely to be of great value in the Church. He has spent the period of his Candidateship at the seminary in Faribault. The thoughtfulness of Dr. Fulton provided the Candidate with a handsome surplice, which was measured and fitted. He has taken charge of St. Mark's church, Butler, Bates Co., in the western part of the diocese, where last year a new church was built and is paid for. He is the first resident minister we have had in this beautiful town and growing county. The mission has previously had services every other Sunday by the Rev. Mr. Brittain, living in Nevada. It had, however, grown to the point when it needed constant attention.

It is hoped that Mr. Bohn will also be able to do somewhat to set Church work in Rich Hill, eleven miles south in the same county, on foot. This is that wonderful outgrowth from the famous coal deposits, where now is a city of four or five thousand people.

A clergyman present at the ordination wrote out afterwards, at his own instance, from memory, some portions of the Bishop's sermon, which we add:

The Bishop, in his address at the ordination of Mr. Bohn, drew a very clear, strong picture of what the Christian ministry is and of what character and manhood is needed, such as left a lasting impression upon the mind of all who were present. In plain and earnest words he spoke of the Order first constituted by the Apostles, that of Deacons. As the infant Church grew in numbers, the spirit of charity and beneficence shown in the life of Christ grew rapidly and bore abundant fruit in the large offerings of the faithful, made for every kind of human want and necessity. To wisely distribute these offerings, and to minister to the suffering and needy, the deacons were appointed—faithful men, who would care for these interests, now grown too great for the apostles' personal supervision. To do this work is the special office of the deacon, although the Church is compelled at the present to require much more of him.

The Christian minister, as he goes forth from his ordination unto the work to which the Holy Ghost has called him, will often find it painful and burdensome, opposed by the prejudices and ignorance of "unreasonable and wicked men," but he can go forth bearing the message of Another, and in the strength of that commission to which he has been lawfully and rightly ordained. He does not send himself. Faithfulness to the God-given charge he has received is all there is about it that is his. The rest comes from Him who has called him to the work. Herein is his office, a sacred one, in that it is not self taken, but given. It comes not from below but from above, and can only come through those channels ordained by Him whose work and Church was honored by a voice from the invisible presence, "This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased," and again from the Mount of Transfiguration, "This is My beloved Son, hear him." What a privilege, what an office, what a burden of duty and responsibility is this! What manner of man should he seek to be who takes it? Such a man cannot afford to be petty and mean. Narrowness of mind, which might be allowed in some, has little apology for its existence here. Moreover, the power of the office is intensified and applied largely by the manhood and personal character of the person who is back of it. Manly patience, tender sympathies, tireless energy, tact to meet the unforeseen exigencies that the future is ever bringing into parish life, in an endless stream, can find in the office and work of the ministry their noblest exercise.

Again, not to advance by careful and diligent study in the ministry is surely to go back. What may be thorough equipment in learning at the time of ordination will not be sufficient a few years hence. Every year should bring its wealth of fresh-learned lessons. There is no height of learning to which we can attain and sit down, which the advancing tides of investigation and discovery will not wash over. Continuous study throughout our whole life is the only thing that will keep us abreast of that current of thought that is ever shifting, even though it may not be always progressing.

And yet while this is a duty, let us never forget or neglect the still greater one of following the steps of Him who "went about doing good," in the personal care and interest we take in all around us. From house to house, under roofs both lofty and low, wherever there was suffering and sorrow, wherever sickness worked its ravages or death its ruin, there was He the great High Priest, the pathway of whose blessed steps we have entered. To make thorough preparation to meet them within the sacred walls of God's house is a great duty. But in personal contact, in words of loving sympathy and kindly interest there is also quite as great a duty. Then in our work shall the strong currents of spiritual life flow richly, and "God, even our own God, shall give us His blessing; God shall bless us, and all the ends of the world shall fear Him."

ST. PETER'S, ST. LOUIS.

EDITOR CHURCH NEWS:—I should have sent you an account of the Easter festival of the Sunday school of St. Peter's church, for your last number; although somewhat late in the season, permit me to recur to it in a few words.

The children were out in full force for this joyous occasion, and seemed to sing their hymns and carols with pious earnestness. The rector examined the school in the catechism, and was gratified, as were the large number of adult persons present, at the promptness and clearness with which the questions were answered.

The chancel and its surroundings were beautifully decorated with plants and flowers. Indeed, the elegance of the display was scarcely ever so perfect. And while the atmosphere was loaded with the rich and delicate odors they emitted, Mrs. Mary B. Childs, formerly long connected with the school, and a daughter of the rector, read an original poem, entitled, "The Mission of the Flowers."

The offerings of the classes were large, and aggregated a considerable sum. Each class as it approached the chancel with its offering bearing its appropriate banner, presented a bouquet, each of which being inserted in a perforated cross, set up for the purpose, made it a gorgeous cross of flowers. At the close of the exercises, these floral offerings were sent to St. Luke's Hospital, to refresh the sick and weary ones in that merciful house.

Three prizes alone were given, each consisting of an elegantly bound prayer-book and hymnal, enclosed in a substantial leather case. The first was for punctuality in attending the school. The second was for a recitation of the Collect for each Sunday in the year; and the third was for perfection in reciting the catechism.

After this, the children moved by classes to the chancel, where each one received an Easter card, which seemed to fill their hearts as it filled their faces with gladness.

The superintendent reported 125 scholars on the rolls and 12 teachers, with an average attendance of 80 scholars.

Too much praise cannot be awarded the faithful and efficient superintendent, Mr. Roger Hayne, and his equally interested assistant, Mr. Charlie Thaw, for the excellence which this school has attained.

Permit me to add to this hurried recital of the doings at our Sunday school celebration, this statement: that at the meeting of the congregation on Easter Monday night, for the purpose of electing a vestry, the treasurer having read his report, and stated that he had a balance in the treasury of $354, the outgoing vestry unanimously voted that sum to the rector. ST. LUKE'S HOSPITAL.

From May 1st, 1882, to May 1st, 1883, the number of patients received was 339; of these 15 have died, 310 were discharged, and there were remaining in the hospital on the first of May 26 patients.

In computing the number of charity patients who are cared for at the Hospital, four weeks is the time allowed for a patient, as this is the ordinary length of time of their stay. For every additional four weeks that he may be obliged to remain beyond the first, he counts as a new patient. The same method is followed in regard to those patients for those who are able only to meet a portion of the regular charges. There have been received in the Hospital during the year ending 1st inst., 90 full charity patients and 53 partial charity patients. This is over one-third of the entire number.

In several instances the charity patients, both full and partial, have been placed in private rooms during the time required for the performance of and recovery from critical operations, and at other times.

The Rev. A. W. Mann, the missionary to the deaf mutes, is a guest at St. Luke's, whenever he is in the city performing his clerical duties.

THE Ladies' Guild of Christ church parish, Springfield, Mo., held their annual fair the 25th and 26th of April. It consisted of a flower show and fancy fair; the former was the principal feature, and received great praise from the local papers. In the latter department many handsome articles were displayed; conspicuous amongst them were a greatly admired carriage afghan, the joint work of Mesdames John Coombs, James Smith, Wade Burden, John White, Sam. Moore, and Miss Matt French; also a silk autograph quilt, Japanese style (crazy), to which most of the members had contributed one or more blocks; this quilt was voted to the most popular lady, and was awarded to Mrs. Wade Burden, the pioneer Church woman; it netted $65 in votes and autographs. Besides these were a beautiful opera cloak embroidered by Mrs. Wade Burden, a white cashmere baby cloak, the work of Mrs. Geo. McCann, numerous cushions and other hand-painted articles by Mrs. Jim Smith, also table scarf by same; two lovely infant robes made by Mrs. Haymakeme; a handsome sofa pillow by Mrs. Jim Smith and Mrs. John White; exquisite crocheted sacques and worked cushions by Mrs. Frank Massey; a lovely crib quilt and other articles by Mrs. Col. Thomas, and various other articles, in all a grand display. In the flower show department, under the management of Mrs. Wade Burden, were several collections, both greenhouse and amateur, of pot plants, to which were awarded premiums, (the latter which were donated by the merchants) were exhibited in this department, and made a fine display.

The fancy department was under the charge of Mrs. Bert Dire and John White, and was a grand success; Mrs. Frank Massey, the president of the guild, superintended the refreshments, and the tables were bountifully spread with all the delicacies of the season, including strawberries and cream. The net proceeds were $350.

THE BAPTISTS AND IMMERSION.—“Let no Baptist henceforth risk his reputation for scholarship and fair dealing by denying that John Smith's baptism (and we may add that of Roger Williams) was, as regards its form, an effusion.”

The above is the utterance of that able representative of the Baptist denomination, Professor Newman of the Baptist Theological Seminary, Toronto, Canada. It is well known that the Baptists in this country derive the rite as it exists among them, from Roger Williams. It has been always an unanswerable difficulty in the way of the validity of Roger Williams' baptism, according to the Baptist platform, that Ezekiel Holliday, who is said to have immersed Roger Williams, had not himself been immersed, until Roger Williams returned the compliment by immersing Ezekiel Holliday. But now we learn from Professor Newman that there was no immersion in the case of Roger Williams, only “effusion.” If the Baptist theory be true, that valid immersion can only be administered by an immersed immerser, then there is no baptism among them. And it follows from this, on the Baptist axiom that “the Church of Christ is the body of immersed believers,” that there is no Baptist Church in existence. The religious society, calling itself the Baptist Church, claims to be such on the ground that immersion is the only valid mode of baptism. Pouring or sprinkling cannot make a member of the Church. Nothing but immersion. But there is the honest avowal of a learned and trusted leader of their own, that the founder of the Baptist Church was baptized by effusion. On their principles, how can they then claim to be a Church?

ST. JAMES' ACADEMY, MACON.

The cut found in this number of the News conveys a correct idea of the building as seen from the west. That portion along which the porch extends is the addition just erected, which, when entirely completed, will give us excellent facilities for the accommodation of our boys. The dimensions of the addition are 67x43. It communicates on each floor with the main building. The addition will be used exclusively for the living purposes of the school, the recitation rooms being in the older main building. The first floor is divided by a hall running east and west, the entrance to which is the door as seen in the cut. At right angles with this hall, and extending the entire length of the building north and south, is another hall, on the west side of which in the new building is a parlor 20x14, a library 18x14, and a bedroom 15x14. On the east side is a dining-room 38x19, and north of this a kitchen 15x16, with store-room 15x4, and also a pantry. There is a china closet connecting with the dining-room. Underneath the kitchen is a cellar, well drained, 18x25. The second floor has one hall running the entire length of the building, on either side of which are rooms for the older boys belonging to the fifth and sixth forms, and for such of the masters as may be placed there. The third floor is divided up into two large dormitories, with alcoves for beds, with bath rooms adjoining. The building is an exceedingly substantial one, the workmanship and material being of the best quality. The stories range from 12 to 14 feet high, and the ventilation is unusually good. This addition, taken in connection with the main building, which contains the large study hall and recitation rooms, etc., as well as two dormitories on the third floor, will enable us to accommodate one hundred boys.

The hall, and indeed all parts of the addition, have been made to conform to the main building. The original cost of the older part—erected only a few years ago, was $11,000. The church was able, however, to become possessed of it at a much less cost.

A gentleman from St. Louis, some time ago, having occasion to visit Macon, met one of our business men, not a Churchman, who said, pointing out St. James' Academy, “that is the one bright spot in our city.” The building is now enclosed. It yet remains to finish it inside before it can be used. Altogether $5,000 will be required to complete the work.

To our friends everywhere who may read this, we would say that if you can help us, now is the critical juncture, when every dollar will count. The lower floor is now ready for the plasterers. We contract the work only as we have the money to pay for it. The building once finished, we must move on to the possession of the entire block on which the school is located. Gradually the claims of the school and the character of the work being done, are getting squarely before the minds and hearts of the Church people of the State. As this is the ONLY Boarding School for boys in the entire diocese, and so much has been done, let all help to push it on to completion. The carpenters are now at work. Let us keep them going. One dollar from every communicant in the State would go far toward accomplishing the end. The rector will be glad to send catalogues containing full particulars, or write to any parents who may have sons to educate. The fall term commences the first Monday in September.

ETHELBERT TALBOT.

PLEASANT EVENINGS.—Make the evenings pleasant, mothers, if you wish to keep your husband and children at home. A lively game, an interesting book read aloud, or, in musical families, a new song to be practised will furnish pastime that will make an evening pass pleasantly. A little forethought during the day, a little pulling of wires that need not appear, will make the whole thing easy; and different ways and means may be provided for making the evening hours pass pleasantly and a time to be looked forward to with pleasant anticipations. We visited once in a large family where it was the duty of each sister, in turn, to provide the evening's occupation and there was a pleasant rivalry between them as to whose evenings should be the most enjoyable. As a natural consequence, the brothers were rarely absent from home.

—Bishop Clarkson truly says: “If every clergyman would fix his work and purpose on some one mission station near his own home, where there may be the prospects of a Church and congregation in the near future, and give that station services as often as possible, and look after it and after the people there who desire the ministrations of the Church, and work up the field gradually, he would very soon be rewarded by seeing large results for his labor and sacrifice.”

SCROFULA

and all scrofulous diseases, Sores, Erysipelas, Eczema, Blotches, Ringworm, Tumors, Carbuncles, Boils, and Eruptions of the Skin, are the direct result of an impure state of the blood.

To cure these diseases the blood must be purified, and restored to a healthy and natural condition. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA has for over forty years been recognized by eminent medical authorities as the most powerful blood purifier in existence. It frees the system from all foul humors, enriches and strengthens the blood, removes all traces of mercurial treatment, and proves itself a complete master of all scrofulous diseases.

A Recent Cure of Scrofulous Sores.

“Some months ago I was troubled with scrofulous sores (ulcers) on my legs. The limbs were badly swollen and inflamed, and the sores discharged large quantities of offensive matter. Every remedy I tried failed, until I used AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, of which I have now taken three bottles, with the result that the sores are healed, and my general health greatly improved. I feel very grateful for the good your medicine has done me. Yours respectfully, MRS. ANN O'BRIAN.”

148 Sullivan St., New York, June 24, 1882.

“All persons interested are invited to call on Mrs. O'Brian; also upon the Rev. Z. P. Wilds of 78 East 54th Street, New York City, who will take pleasure in testifying to the wonderful efficacy of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, not only in the cure of this lady, but in his own case and many others within his knowledge.”

The well-known writer on the Boston Herald, B. W. BALE, of Rochester, N.H., writes, June 7, 1882:

“Having suffered severely for some years with Eczema, and having failed to find relief from other remedies, I have made use, during the past three months, of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, which has effected a complete cure. I consider it a magnificent remedy for all blood diseases.”

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

stimulates and regulates the action of the digestive and assimilative organs, renews and strengthens the vital forces, and speedily cures Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Rheumatic Gout, Catarrh, General Debility, and all diseases arising from an impoverished or corrupted condition of the blood, and a weakened vitality.

It is incomparably the cheapest blood medicine, on account of its concentrated strength, and great power over disease.

GENERAL NEWS.

—The affairs of the cathedral in Denver seem to be prospering, and the financial exhibit at Easter did not indicate any poverty. The receipts of the congregation for the year from pew rents, &c., were $20,413.22, and the expenditures $17,881.72, leaving $2,531.50 on hand. There is a debt on the cathedral of $15,000, and the offertory at Easter was $5,000. The salary of the dean is $6,000, and the musical director and organist $3,000.

—The Fowlers, the proprietors of the enormous packing houses in Kansas City, following the example of some railroads, have forbidden their employees to buy or use any intoxicating drinks while in their service. They pay for a man's time at his best, and do not, it seems, propose to be defrauded by the disability produced by drink. This order is based on hard business principles, and not on theoretical considerations. It will be the line that many employers of labor will take.

—It is stated on good authority, that the employees in one of our manufacturing towns were paid on Saturday $700 in bills which were secretly marked. On Monday $450 of the $700 were deposited in the bank by the saloon men. This was told the workmen, and it so impressed them that at the next election they voted no license.

—It tells the story of the stronger work which the Church of England is now doing and the consequently stronger hold which it has on the country, the different manner in which the Archbishop of Canterbury was treated by the local authorities at his enthronement. Fifty years ago Archbishop Howley, a gentle, good man, was hooted. The other day the authorities vied in doing honor to Archbishop Benson.

—St. James' church, Chicago, is to be consecrated on St. James' Day, July 25th, when among others expected to be present will be all its living ex-rectors, of whom are Bishops Clarkson of Nebraska, Harris of Michigan, and Thompson of Mississippi.

—Bishop Peterkin is filling appointments for Bishop Whittle in Virginia, who is sick, and going to Europe for a rest.

—Two presbyters of New York have presented to Bishop Potter formal charges against Rev. Heber Newton for his alleged unsoundness as to the Word of God. The Bishop will examine the charges, and then refer them to a committee of five clergymen, to report as to their cogency, and whether or not the matter will go to trial, will largely depend upon the report of this committee.

—While the Church's strength in Philadelphia has greatly increased, it is a curious fact that there are fewer self-supporting parishes now in that city than there were thirty years ago. Wealth is concentrated in fewer parishes.

—On an urgent request to him in a letter signed by a number of clergymen and laymen of Indiana, the Rev. Mr. Nicholson has withdrawn his declination of the Episcopate. He has made a visit to Indianapolis by invitation to look at the ground, and have personal conferences. Probably the matter will be settled at the approaching convention of the diocese. The case is a good deal like that of the Bishop of Springfield. After he was elected, he declined; then he relented, and said to some friends that he was not sure that he had done right in declining. Acting on this at the Convention soon after he was re-elected, and a telegram sent on to inform him, and state that the body would adjourn over night, and hoped that he would give his answer in the morning. Dr. Seymour went to consult the Presiding Bishop, who was in New York, and on his advice sent a dispatch that night accepting the office, and naming the day and place for the consecration. A letter, expressing similar doubt, from the Rev. Mr. Nicholson has been published, and it may be followed by a similar result.

—The Diocesan Conventions now taking place are several of them discussing division and additional episcopal oversight. Virginia will divide or elect an assistant. North Carolina will probably vote to divide. Kentucky and Tennessee will discuss the matter of division, and so also will Central Pennsylvania.

—Our old friend, the Rev. Mr. Wickens, is publishing a parish paper in Palestine, Texas, the first number of which we have received. He is, as usual, pushing the work of building the Church up on a solid foundation.

—Bishop Dunlop and Bishop J. A. Paddock were consecrated about the same time. The first went to his work and stayed there, seeking to draw from those to whom he was sent, and who had plenty of money for other purposes, the means to enable them to build churches, aiding them from abroad who were first disposed to help themselves. The latter had hardly gotten West before he went East, where he has been for the greater part of a year, asking for money, and leaving his people to care for themselves. He may get more, but those will enjoy their privileges more, and be in a healthier spiritual condition, who have first paid what they can themselves.

—There is considerable talk in Methodist circles in Baltimore over a new departure made by the Mount Vernon church, the most fashionable and the wealthiest congregation of that city. The Rev. Dr. Felton, formerly of St. Louis, has led a new movement, which has resulted in the introduction of a ritual somewhat on the Episcopalian order. This ritual was used for the first time at the service recently. It includes the chant of the "Gloria Patri," the Psalter, and the recital by the congregation of the Apostles' Creed. Although printed cards were placed in the pews giving the order of service, yet there was some slight hitches, and at one point the pastor was obliged to ask the congregation to rise to continue the service.

—Mr. W. J. Quinlan, in the diocese of Springfield, has placed in the hands of a third party $10,000 to be applied to the Episcopal Endowment Fund when the additional sum of $9,000 shall be raised.

—At the semi-centennial of the St. Vincent de Paul Society in this city, on the 6th inst., the orator referred to St. Louis as being the Rome of America.

—They are to have in Santa Fe, beginning on the 2nd of July, and continuing for one month, an anniversary of the 333d year of the settlement of that city by the Europeans. The programme includes all sorts of entertainments.

—It is stated that the expenses to the Archbishop of Canterbury attending his introduction to office reached the extraordinary sum of $150,000.

—Bishop Williams, from the Commission on Liturgical Enrichment of the General Convention, has put forth a formal statement, by which it appears that no report will appear until the matter comes before the Convention itself. He gives, however, a sketch of the line of the report, gives assurance that the results to be reported were reached almost unanimously; that the general principles of construction and use as shown in the Prayer Book now have been retained; that no change has been made in the statements or standards of doctrine; that the recommendations as to shortening the service affect the person conducting the service rather than the congregation; and that with all the changes and additions, the bulk of the Prayer Book will not be increased.

—St. George's church, New York, Dr. Tyng's old church, has begun in it a choral service, with a surpliced choir, and this by a pronounced low church rector, and with the approval of the vestry, with the Holy Communion every Sunday, and four services every Sunday. It was clearly seen that this was not opposed to the old evangelical position of the parish, but that it was required for the changed condition of the neighborhood. The church is putting on new life.

—Shake hands with somebody as you go out of church. The more of it the better, if it is expressive of real interest and feeling. There may be a great deal of the spirit of the gospel put into a hearty shake of the hand. Think of St. Paul, four times repeated request, "Greet one another"—after the custom then in common use, and one which is expressive of even warmer feeling than our common one of handshaking. Why not give your neighbors the benefit of the warm Christain feeling that fills you to your finger tips, and receive the like from them in return? You will both be benefited by it; and the stranger will go away feeling that the church is not, after all, so cold as he had thought it to be.

"We had a real good time in our Sunday school last Sunday," says a Superintendent. "Teachers and scholars were in tears during the closing address." Such is not an unusual way of estimating the value of a Sunday-school session; but it is a very poor way. The Superintendent who gauges the value of his school by the number present, the amount of money spent for prizes, the display made on Christmas or Easter, or even by the tears that may be shed, is certainly not in his proper place, nor sensible of the sacred responsibilities resting upon him. Tears are by no means a test of the quality of instruction, nor of religious conviction, however much they may indicate momentary feeling. The question is not whether the scholars sung or wept, but what they determined on doing when their voices were hushed and tears dry. Better that one person should unreservedly commit himself to the Saviour than that fifty persons should cry over an affecting illustration—and be satisfied simply to cry.

HALL'S Vegetable Sicilian HAIR RENEWER

was the first preparation perfectly adapted to cure diseases of the scalp, and the first successful restorer of faded or gray hair to its natural color, growth, and youthful beauty. It has had many imitators, but none have so fully met all the requirements needful for the proper treatment of the hair and scalp. HALL'S HAIR RENEWER has steadily grown in favor, and spread its fame and usefulness to every quarter of the globe. Its unparalleled success can be attributed to but one cause: the entire fulfilment of its promises.

The proprietors have often been surprised at the receipt of orders from remote countries, where they had never made an effort for its introduction.

The use for a short time of HALL'S HAIR RENEWER wonderfully improves the personal appearance. It cleanses the scalp from all impurities, cures all humors, fever, and dryness, and thus prevents baldness. It stimulates the weakened glands, and enables them to push forward a new and vigorous growth. The effects of this article are not transient, like those of alcoholic preparations, but remain a long time, which makes its use a matter of economy.

DIOCESAN CONVENTION.

The Forty-fourth Annual Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the Diocese of Missouri will be held in St. George's church, St. Louis, on the fourth Tuesday in May, 22nd inst., 1883, at 10 o'clock, A. M.

The clergy and lay delegates are requested to assemble in the chapel adjoining St. George's church, Beaumont and Chestnut streets, at half past 9 o'clock A. M., promptly; the clergy will please bring their surplices with them; a full attendance is desired. The form of certificate of the election of lay delegates will be found on the inside of the cover of the Journal of 1882.

The following committees to report to the Forty-fourth Annual Convention:

Committee on "Revision of Rules of Order," to report at the opening of Convention; Rev. Geo. C. Betts, Chairman. See page 18, Journal 1882.

Committee on "Permanent Fund," Mr. Silas Bent, Chairman. See page 18, Journal 1882.

The Bishop of the diocese desires that all parochial and personal reports be forwarded so as to reach him not later than Monday, 21st inst.

JOHN R. TRIPLETT,
Secretary Diocesan Convention.

AT A meeting of the Chapter of St. Louis recently, arrangements were made for the hospitable entertainment of all the clergy and lay delegates attending the Convention. Doubtless, long before this paragraph meets the eye, the courteous circular from the rector of St. George's has been received. But often those on hospitable thoughts intent are balked because of the tardy replies received to notes sent. Those able to entertain should immediately inform their rectors, and they notify Dr. Fulton. Those receiving the circulars should immediately reply as to whether or not they and others from the parish are coming; if they are, who, how many, and when will they come, and if they have made any other arrangement for entertainment. All will be done for the comfort of the Convention that can possibly be done.

THE Spectator of this city is nothing, if it is not critical. At the beginning of the Lenten season it decreed Lent was a "social fetish or superstition, an idol to which we bow down and do reverence without knowing why, about which if it is unkind to speak lightly, it is in the most possible taste to speak seriously." And the sweet young man smiled at the pretty sentence as though he had now settled it, and with his six-inch plummet had sounded all the depths, and declared what Lent was and ought to be to everybody. Last week its correspondent took in Christ church choir, and the lady could not for the life of her see how, in the morning service, the Gloria patri was sung instead of the Gloria in excelsis, and aunts, "It was possibly caused by some Church necessity for the omission of the better piece."

As a help to remind one's self of the important duties which are assumed in accepting the position of sponsor, the work which has been prepared by the Rev. C. S. Percival, of Iowa, on Sponsorship, will be found most acceptable. It has received a remarkable number of expressions of satisfaction from bishops and others, for the task which the author so well performed. It may be had of Church booksellers.

THE CONVENTION.

Great interest gathers naturally every year about the business of our diocesan assemblage. It is the occasion for summing up the business of the past year, and for laying out work for the next. It is the time for marking out lines of diocesan policy on great questions, and for harmonizing plans of parochial with plans for diocesan and general duty. It is the gathering point for those to meet many of whom have toiled by themselves all through the year. Half of our clergy are unacquainted personally with those whose names they frequently see in the diocesan journal. The remotest missionary station receives an impulse in all its work by the attendance of its minister on a busy, hearty convention. He is wiser and stronger for it; and they ultimately get the benefit of this larger vision that he has had.

Our law positively enjoins the attendance of all the clergymen in the diocese on Convention, and makes it the duty of the parishes to pay the charges. Our custom for many years has been to pay the travelling expenses of the missionaries from a fund largely made up by the stronger parishes. This takes away all pecuniary reason for absence. The notes which have been already received in the parishes indicate that cordial hospitality is offered to clergymen and laymen.

Clergymen engaged in ministerial work, and having been for six months in the diocese, have seats in Convention. Every parish and mission station has a right to one lay delegate, and one more for each fifty communicants above the first fifty. Delegates from mission stations are no longer necessarily the wardens. These must be baptized persons, and for one year stated worshippers in the parishes represented, and entitled there to vote for vestrymen. Before representation is allowed, the parishes must have paid their assessments in full, unless the Convention dispenses with this. A receipt from the treasurer of the diocese should therefore be produced by delegates showing that payment has been paid in full.

The Convention meets on Tuesday morning. After divine service, the roll of clergy and of the parishes is called, and credentials of membership are referred to a committee. After recess the organization of the Convention is proceeded with, a portion of the Bishop's address is read, and committees appointed. At night the rest of the address is presented, and the Convention reception held at the Bishop's residence. The afternoon of the second day is, by canon, devoted to the missionary work of the diocese, to receiving and acting on the reports, and looking over the field and its needs.

St. George's parish, in which the Convention is held, proposes generously to offer to the members the courtesy of a lunch, to be served in the chapel. This greatly facilitates the business of the body.

The work that comes before an assemblage as great as the Convention has now become is always interesting and important. Its trusts are becoming every year larger and more complicated. This year, along with other matters, referred to this Convention for settlement will be the election of deputies to the General Convention this fall.

CHILDREN'S COT.

ST. LUKE'S HOSPITAL.

For several years an effort has been making to raise $3,000 from the children, and those who are interested in them, for the perpetual endowment for a cot and a room for a child at our Hospital, where a child not able to be otherwise provided for may be kindly taken care of when sick or undergoing treatment. By little and little we have gone on so far. Gifts are urgently asked for this purpose and will be credited in THE NEWS. They may be sent to the Bishop, 2727 Chestnut street St. Louis.

PERSONAL.

—Bishop Penicke has tendered his resignation of his jurisdiction of Cape Palmas and parts adjacent, to the Presiding Bishop. To become final it must be assented to by a majority of the House of Bishops.

—The clerical obituary for the month includes the names of Revs. Richard Hines, D.D., of Tennessee; Wm. W. Farr, D.D., of Philadelphia; J. H. George, of Georgia; David P. —Two quite prominent Methodist ministers in New York city have just applied to become candidates for Orders in the Episcopal church, Messrs. W. H. Simonson and Lindsay Taylor.

—Nearly 200 members of two of the Roman Catholic congregations in Cincinnati have suddenly become spiritualists.

—Bishop Johns of Virginia never used any manuscript in preaching, but always preached from memory or extemporaneously. A farmer from the interior of the State heard him for the first time, and was very greatly pleased. His way of expressing himself, however, was peculiar. He said: "I like that man; he is the only one of those petticoat preachers that I ever saw shoot without a rest."

—The Rev. Mr. Sharpe, who went from this diocese last spring to the diocese of Albany, is now in Rochester, N. Y.

—Bishop Lay is telling the story of the return of the Confederate Church to the General Convention after the civil war in a most interesting way in the Churchman.

—The Rev. C. Ellis Stevens, General Secretary of the Society for Promoting Christianity among the Jews, should be addressed to the new office, (room 37, instead of room 32,) Bible House, New York.

—The Rev. Dr. Holland has been called to the Rectorship of Trinity church, New Orleans.

—Canon Farrar has been made Archdeacon of Westminster.

THE USUAL RESULT.

It is not to be denied that a good sewing machine is one of the most important appurtenances of the modern household.

We thought we had a good machine in our household until one day the agent of the New Home presented himself at our door and proceeded to deliver an oration upon its characteristic merits.

"But," we answered, "our machine serves us nicely and suits us well, and we do not care for another."

The agent, however, begged the privilege of leaving one of his machines with us, "for the ladies to try."

The request was not unreasonable, so we granted it—but more to oblige the agent than anything else; for we really did not want the machine, and had not the remotest idea of buying it.

The machine once in the house, it was natural that the ladies should look it over; they did so, and as a consequence fell in love with it. They say that without the slightest wish to decry or disparage any other machine, this, all things considered, is, in their opinion, the most desirable one to be had.

The upshot of the whole matter was that the old machine was disposed of, and the "Light Running New Home" installed in our household. It is pronounced a genuine beauty and a real comfort, and "our folks" wanted us to tell other folks about it.

This unrivalled machine is manufactured by the NEW HOME SEWING MACHINE CO., 30 Union Square, New York, who wish us to say that all who will send for their new illustrated catalogue and enclose their advertisement (printed on another page), will receive a set of fancy advertising novelties, of value to those collecting cards, &c.

During the past year two rooms for parish work have been finished in the church edifice, and another for the assistant minister's study.

Two rooms have been furnished at St. Luke's Hospital, named respectively the "Schuyler Room," and the "Forster Room." The latter is the entire gift of one member of the Society. A set of furniture was given to the Hospital by another member.

Valuable donations of clothing to the Aid Society were made by Mr. Pratt, Capt. Swon, Mrs. Bronson and others. Two sewing schools have met weekly at the Parish rooms during the past four months, for the benefit of white and colored mission children. Gifts of money and materials for sewing have been received from Nugent Bros., Mesdames Boyd, Campbell, Davis, Floyd-Jones, Hesser, O'Dell, Peters Peckham, Whittemore and others.

Numerous poor families brought to the notice of the society have been faithfully visited by the President, Mrs. Peters, and Mrs. Ernst, Supt. of the Mission School, and when found deserving, their wants relieved.

Respectfully submitted,
CECILIA LORD AMELUNG,
Secretary.

EARLY DAYS IN KANSAS CITY.

I.

At the consecration of Grace church, Kansas City, the Bishop gave in his sermon an account of the earlier struggles of the Church in the western part of the State. It may be of interest to place this statement of record in the News.

* * * * *

I propose to make use of this occasion, and I trust not unfitly, to go over with you some of the earlier days of our Church in this western part of Missouri, and especially in Kansas City, by which we may see through what experiences its present measure of growth has been reached. I do this the more, because in the changing character of our western population, only few remain in the congregations of this city who took part in the early history of the Church here.

The General Convention of 1835 elected the Rev. Dr. Kemper to be Missionary Bishop of the States of Indiana and Missouri. In that same year the diocese of Illinois had been organized under the care of Bishop Chase. There was no provision made for the territories. The Church had not accepted responsibility for them yet. When, before the next General Convention, Bishop Kemper visited the territory of Wisconsin for inspection, there arose some question as to whether he or Bishop McCoskry of Michigan had the rightful jurisdiction in that country.

Bishop Kemper took up his residence in St. Louis in the fall of 1835. On account of the extent of territory in his charge as well as the care of a parish for a portion of the time, it was a matter of difficulty and time for him to push the work of the Church westward into the interior of the State. There were very few Church people, and the means and number of clergymen at his disposal were exceedingly scanty. The Platte Purchase had not yet been acquired, and the Indians were still on the eastern side of the Missouri river. As the settlements had mainly followed the water courses, so the Bishop generally in his journeys used the steamboats. Each year found the Bishop pushing his work further up the Missouri river, but it was not until May, 1844, that Bishop Kemper made his way up to Independence and held services there. He describes it then as a border town, and the place from whence the Santa Fe traders and the Oregon emigrants start. That was as near as he, or any other clergyman for some time after, came to this place. Of course this city did not exist then, but was only the landing for Westport, which had a large trade as the starting point for overland trains.

The diocese of Missouri had been organized in 1840, and Bishop Hawks was consecrated in October, 1844. At this time there was no stationed clergymen nearer to this place than the one at Jefferson City. For nearly ten years after his consecration Bishop Hawks was also the rector of Christ church, St. Louis, and this very materially restricted his ability to travel or to extend the Church's lines in the more distant part of the diocese. In May, 1845, the Bishop came to the western part of the State and proceeded as far as Weston, which had come to be a place of 10,000 inhabitants, the second town of size in the State, and in the amount of its commerce greater than St. Louis, as its county, Platte, had become the second county in the State. After this it was several years before he came up the river so far again.

While Indian traders and mountain trappers had in early years come to the mouth of the Kansas river to traffic for provisions and exchange, the town had only been regularly laid off in 1846. The Santa Fe and Oregon trade, which had contributed so largely to build up this city, began at Franklin, Howard county, whence trains were fitted out which crossed the Missouri river at Weston. With the increase of steamboat travel, goods and trade came up to within a few miles of Independence, which, forty years ago was an immensely active place. Later on advantage was taken of the rock landing here, at the westernmost point at which boats could come for the Santa Fe trade, and of the fact that travel from here westward would have easier streams to cross, as soon as the place began to grow.

That is a good collection of sermons with which the May number of the HOMILETIC MONTHLY opens. Among the preachers are Drs. Wm. M. Taylor, Joseph Parker, Mr. Spurgeon, Professor Swing, Stopford Brooke, and Dean Vaughan. A new series of critical essays is begun by Rev. Dr. John A. Broadus, on Distinguished Preachers. But the most striking and timely paper is Dr. Funk's editorial article on "The Gospel Among the Poor and the Rich," garnished with a map and served up on statistical tables. The article and its figures ought to arrest general attention to the fact that in New York Catholics and Protestants alike preach to people, or do not preach to them, according to the people's worldly means. The other essays and editorial matter will be found interesting and useful by Preachers and Bible Students.—$2.50 a year, 25 cents a single copy. Funk & Wagnalls, 10 and 12 Dey Street, New York.

The May CENTURY makes appeal to a large variety of tastes. By way of history and adventure there are three illustrated papers: "The Aborigines and the Colonists," by Edward Eggleston, who has made the study of American Indians a specialty, and who brings to light many curious and interesting facts; the first on the Spanish Missions of Southern California, entitled "Father Junipero and his Work"—and, thirdly, a paper of great readability and ethnological value, by Frank H. Cushing, on his "Adventures in Zuni." The illustrations of all these papers have made with the strictest regard for historical accuracy. By way of personal interest there are three sketches: One of Cardinal Manning (with a portrait which is printed as a frontispiece), a second, an exposition of Salvini's King Lear, by Emma Lazarus, with a drawing of the great tragedian in this character, made from life and third, a charming light essay on du Maurier's caricatures in "Punch," and on the artist's relations to London society. With the last are reproduced a number of du Maurier's best drawings engraved anew in America from the original cartoons for "Punch," by permission of its publishers.

In fiction there is an installment of Mr. Howells's serial "A Woman's Reason," and the first half of a story of much freshness and humor by Joel Chandler Harris ("Uncle Remus"), namely, "At Teague Potects."

The announcement of "A New Departure" in the make-up of THE CENTURY is made. The change consists in the discontinuance of the departments of "Home and Society," "Literature," and "The World's Work," the places of which are taken by a new department entitled "Open Letters," which this month contains articles by Oliver Johnson (in reply to Leonard W. Bacon's attack on the Garrison Abolitionists), by Mrs. Dorr ("On Culture in New England Villages"), by Abram S. Isaacs ("Will the Jews Return to Palestine?"), and a humorous letter by F. Benedict Herzog, in the character of Miss Pinkie Rosebud, "On the Higher Education of Women."

ST. NICHOLAS FOR May has a woodsy, spring flavor, and opens the second part of the volume with a strong table of contents, important features of which are the opening chapters of "Swept Away," a new serial story of the Mississippi floods, by Edward S. Ellis, some time editor of Golden Days; and the first part of "The Story of Robin Hood," by Maurice Thompson, the distinguished toxophilite. "Swept Away" is vividly illustrated by J. Wells Champney, whose pictures of Southern life are familiar to readers of The Century; and the drawings for "Robin Hood" are by the clever pencil of R. B. Birch.

"The Tinkham Brothers' Tide-Mill," J. T. Trowbridge's fine serial, continues to increase in interest with each succeeding number.

Lucy Larcom has a seasonable out-of-door sketch, quaintly called "Among the Polly-dancers"; and there is a profusely illustrated article on curiosities of bird-life, queer nests, and clever expedients.

The May WIDE AWAKE, closing Volume xvi., opens with a lovely Isle of Wight frontispiece designed by Garrett, for Joaquin Miller's piquant sketch, "Mr. Tennyson's Fairies." Next, Mr. Hayden celebrates apple blossom time in a delicious orchard picture, illustrating Miss Wilkins' poem; the same author has another pretty poem, "Come into the Garden" with Mr. Barnes' beautiful Decorative Plaque. The long "short story" of the number is "Caryl's Plum," with four illustrations and Rev. F. E. Clark represents the business men of Portland in his third and last paper on "Our Business Boys." Colonel Hayne follows this excellent article with "Old Geoffrey's Relic," a long dramatic poem, illustrated by Barnes. The artistic charm of the number, however, centres in Hovenden's full-page drawing for Burns' famous lines "A Man's a Man for a' that," and in Bodfish's Picture Serial, "Through Spain on Donkey-Back," which this month comprises five pages of fresh strong drawings direct from Spanish folk-life. "Health and Strength Papers" of "Running and Jumping."

THE BIOGRAPHER.—Monthly, $3.00 a year. 23 Park Row, New York. The series of remarkable sermons delivered by the Rev. W. H. Fremantle, the rector of St. Mary's Church, London, protesting against the tendency towards Ritualism and the withdrawing of the Church from the spheres and interests of secular life, have been gathered together and published in a volume under the title THE GOSPEL OF SECULAR LIFE. The book attained at once a very wide circulation in England, and has become the subject of much serious discussion. Messrs. Scribners will issue immediately an American edition of the work.

THE ESSAYS OF GEORGE ELIOT.—By Nathan Shepard, 25 cents. These three numbers of Standard Library fully bear up the reputation which these volumes have gained. The first gives direction for pursuing different branches of reading to the best advantage. The second tells in easy style facts about the flowers and plants and birds which one meets with in a summer's ramble through the country. The last gives a complete collection of Geo. Eliot's Essays, now gathered and arranged for the first time in book form, either in England or America.

NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW.—May. The leading articles in this interesting number are "Mexico" by Senator Morgan; "The Disintegration of Romanism" by Dr. Wm. Kirkus, in reply to Bishop McQuaid's article on the Decay of Protestantism; "A secular view of Moral Training," by Felix Adler; "Communism in the United States; Woman as an Inventor, and College Endowments. 30 Lafayette Place, $5 a year.

GENERAL NEWS.

—It is sometimes said that the reason why there are not more great men among the clergy is because of the help rendered in their preparation which attracts to it persons of lower qualifications. The fact itself may be doubted to exist. There is not such exceptional ability in the legal profession. It is hard to find successors of Webster and Choate. But as to the cause, President Woolley of Yale College says that the American Education Society had aided in thirty years in Yale College 249 students preparing for the ministry. Had they been average scholars there ought to have been 83 honor men among them, but there were actually 157 honor men among them.

—Of the 716 employes travelling with Barnum's show every one is pledged to total abstinence from all intoxicants during his or her engagement. The proprietors says he hires the brains as well the muscles of those whom he engages.

—Bishop Green of Mississippi has invited the Bishop of this Diocese, along with all the bishops of the late slave states to meet in council at on the last Thursday in July 1, to confer, in view of the next General Convention, as to the best means that can be adopted for the religious benefit of the large colored population in these States, and the action which the Church should take concerning them.

—An appeal has been issued by the Trustees of the General Theological Seminary of New York for $110,000 to erect large and suitable buildings on their grounds. Of this $40,000, has been subscribed. Bishop Cox has put out a letter objecting to the plan.

—A correspondent of the S. C. Church Herald writes that being in Jerusalem on Maundy Thursday, 1882, along with two English Bishops and Dean Howson, they assembled together "after supper, and meditated upon the 17th Chapter of St. John's Gospel, and then partook of the Lord's Supper, near the spot where it had been instituted. They then went out of the gate of the city, descended the valley of Jehoshaphat, and then ascended on the other side to the probable site of Gethsemane, under whose trees they sang the hymn, "When I survey the wondrous cross." As they ascended the hill, the paschal morn arose from the East in front of them. The old trees are many of them very old. Jerusalem arose on the other side of the valley, standing aloft, and presenting substantially the same view that it did to our Lord on the night in which he was betrayed.

—The American Church Review which has become a monthly at the low price of $2 a year, should be taken by all clergymen and intelligent Church laymen. It has excellent papers and gives to thoughtful persons a fair reflexion of the best thought in the Church in all its phases. The office of the American Church Review Association is Box 1839 P. O. New York City.

—Senator Voorhees thought he had asked a poser in a recent speech in Indiana, when he inquired: "My farmer friends, what is to become of your great corn crop in this country, if Prohibition is adopted?" There was a brief pause, and then an old farmer spoke up, saying, "Do I understand, that you really want an answer to that question?" "Yes, my friend," said the Senator, straightening himself up to his full height; "I am seeking for information." "Well, then," replied the farmer, "I will tell you what we will do with our corn crop. We will raise more pork and less hell." The Senator had asked the question at several meetings before, but he has omitted it since, not caring to listen again to the laughter that greeted his discomfiture.

Thurlow Weed said:—"I once killed birds in my wantonness—God forgive me—merely to test my skill with the rifle. While once passing through a woods I carelessly fired at a bird, caring only to discharge my gun, so as to make my next fire sure. I wounded a bird which sat upon the fence. I felt guilt-stricken at once, and tried to catch it. Failing in that, I thought it would be humanity to shoot it. Before I could load my rifle it fluttered across the field, where I followed it, and found the panting sufferer at its nest, and the blood dripping upon its young! My cruelty flashed upon me in all its nakedness, and I cringed under my reflections like a guilty butcher as I was."

THE DISMISSAL OF A RECTOR.—We commend the following extract from an official opinion of Bishop Clarkson, of Nebraska, as good sense and good law:

In reply to a letter from the Secretary of the Vestry informing the Bishop that the Vestry had dismissed the Rector, and asking whether this action was Canonical, the Bishop replied:

"The contract between a Rector and a Vestry cannot be terminated by one party alone—the other objecting—without the concurrence of the Bishop with the advice of the Standing Committee.

If the Rector protests against his dismissal by the Vestry, the matter must be referred to the Bishop for adjudication. The cause for the action of the Vestry must be fully and clearly stated. If, in the opinion of the Bishop and the Standing Committee, the causes for dismissal are sufficient, the Rector must go; if, on the other hand, the causes for dismissal do not seem to the Bishop and the Standing Committee to be sufficient, the Rector's rights remain, and he is entitled to his salary according to the original contract. So the Courts have determined.

Nor can a Vestry starve out a Rector who cannot be dismissed Canonically, by reducing his salary. So the Courts have also decided; because they would be doing by indirection what they had failed to do directly.

On Christmas Eve, as the night express on the Erie Railroad left New York city, there were seated in a car a poor woman and her two little children, aged about four and five years, going to the far West. A conversation between the mother and children in which Santa Claus was talked of, was listened to by the passengers. The mother told her little blue-eyed girl that as they were in the cars Santa Claus could not give them any presents, because the train was running too fast for him to get on. This statement cast a shade of gloom over the bright faced children. They sat for some time in meditative silence. It was soon observed that the little travelers were growing sleepy. Tears gathered in many eyes as the little ones knelt on the cushions to lisp their evening prayers. The little girl said:

"Please tell good Santa Claus that we are on this train, going to see papa, and if he can to put some presents in little Joey and Maggie's stocking hanging up on the car window. Amen."

The children then hung up their tiny stockings by the car window. In a few minutes more they were sound asleep in the arms of their mother. After a pause, a gentleman in front of them spoke to the passengers as follows:

"You have heard the prayers of these two little children. Now I will give one dollar towards making them happy when they wake up in the morning." He then passed his hat around the car, and collected five dollars and seventy-five cents. He next bought some candy, oranges and figs, and a picture book for each, which, with two more silver dollars, he placed in the little stockings.

When they awakened in the morning and saw their stockings full, the little girl exclaimed:

"Oh, mamma, see what Santa Claus has found us because we prayed."

GIVING, AN ACT OF WORSHIP.—A Presbyterian paper boldly teaches a truth the Church has ever preached, but which people were slow to believe, because we taught it. This paper says that giving money at the time of service is "an act of worship." It further says that "it should form a regular, decorous and solemn part of the public service," and suggests that a custom, now widely used, should become universal—that when the minister receives the gathered collection, the congregation should rise and sing the doxology. It sums up its article thus:

"No one can doubt that these results ought to be reached, viz:

1. Christian congregations should be taught to give money as an act of worship in their public services.
2. They should give as giving to God, and not to the trustees of the Church, or as a matter of ordinary business.
3. The reception or collection of the gifts of the people in public worship should be as solemn and as much a part of the service as any other act of worship.
4. Pastors and people should unite everywhere to make this part of the service, what it ought to be."

CANON ELLISON, the founder of the Church Temperance Society, refers enthusiastically to the mention in the Queen's Speech of the diminished revenue from alcoholic liquors as "the first official recognition" of the temperance reform in England. It will be remembered, however, that Mr. Gladstone made a similar statement not long ago.

A STRANGE REMINISCENCE.

The Escape of a Well known ex-Army Surgeon from an Unforeseen Danger.

(Baltimore American.)

Messrs. Editors:

I seldom appear publicly in print, the facts connected with my experience, which follow are so striking, and bear so closely upon the experience of others, that I venture to reproduce them entire:

In the month of September, 1879, I was practicing medicine in New Orleans. The summer had been excessively hot and everybody was complaining of being exhausted and feeling tired. It was not an unfrequent occurrence to have patients ask for something to relieve this weary sensation, and that I should also partake of the same universal lassitude or weakness, did not alarm me. I supposed that over work and exposure had produced a temporary physical prostration; therefore I made a trip to St. Paul, Minn., thinking that a rest of a few weeks in a cooler climate would soon reinvigorate me. Little did I dream, however, what was in store for me. After getting settled in my new quarters I took a short walk every day, and patiently awaited a return of strength, but in spite of all my efforts I seemed to be losing strength; and even any slight exercise became laborious and tiresome. During this time I had frequent dull aching pains in my head, and through my back and hips, occasional shooting pains in various parts of the body, with soreness of breath, and palpitation of the heart. My feet and hands would be like ice one day, and burn with heat the next. I had no desire for food, and what I did eat distressed me; my sleep became disturbed with the frequent desire to urinate. My debility gradually increased. My eyelids were puffed out; my bowels were alternately torpid and too active. The pains in my head, back, chest, joints, bowels and bones were horrible in the extreme. I went in vain from place to place and consulted the best medical authorities the country affords; I would have a chill one day and a burning fever the next. I suffered excruciatingly with a numbness of my feet and hands, and at the base of the brain and between my shoulders; at times my limbs and body would bloat at physicians said I was suffering from the dropsy and could not recover.

How I could be so blind to the terrible trouble that was devouring me, I do not know; but there are thousands to-day who are suffering from the same cause and are as ignorant of its nature as I was. My skin was the color of marble at one time, and then again it would be like saffron, and this terrible restlessness, and I might say wildness, was followed by a dull, heavy, drowsy sensation. I was wasted to a mere skeleton except when the dropsical bloat occurred. I tried all the celebrated mineral waters of this country and Europe; all kinds of medicine and all kinds of doctors. Still no help came. I lay at my hotel in Philadelphia, where I was temporarily sojourning, given up to die by friends and physicians alike, when there providentially came into my hands a little pamphlet, which I carefully read and from which I got a view of my real condition, which no other agency had revealed. Acting on its advice, I had my water analyzed at once, and to my surprise, albumen and tube casts were found in large quantities. A skillful physician was sent for and appraised of the fact. He said I had Bright's Disease, and that death was certain. My friends importuned me to take a remedy which had won a great reputation for the cure of all forms of kidney diseases, and I therefore laid aside my prejudice and commenced its use. At first my stomach rejected it and I had to use small quantities; but after the first five days my stomach retained full doses. This was one year ago last October, and my improvement was rapid and permanent. I have regained 50 of the 65 pounds of flesh I lost during my illness, and I feel as well to-day as I ever did, and I can unreservedly state that my life was saved by Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, the remedy I used.

It may seem strange that I, being a physician and an ex-army surgeon, did not have the water analyzed before; but such is the fact. I had the symptoms of every other disease, and I did not suspect that my kidneys were in the least particular out of order; and here is just where I was in the greatest danger, and where most people who read this article are in danger. I find that I am only one of thousands who are suffering from kidney disorders, which, neglected, surely terminate in Bright's disease. I also know that physicians may treat these disorders for months without knowing clearly what the trouble is, and even after ascertaining the cause, be unable to prevent it. When death, however, finally overtakes the helpless victim they disguise its real cause, attributing it to heart disease, convulsions, apoplexy, vertigo, paralysis, spinal meningitis, blood and uremic poisoning, etc., etc.

Words, of course, fail to express my thanks to H. H. Warner & Co., of Rochester, N. Y., for giving the world such a needed and certain specific as the Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, but such as they are I gladly give them; while to the thousands to whom I have lectured upon the laws of health and hygiene I commend this letter most cordially, and warn them to beware of the insidious nature of a disease over which physicians confess they have no control and which in one form or another, is carrying more people to untimely graves than any other malady.

J. M. PORTER, M. D.,
Baltimore, Md., 94 Saratoga street.

A PRIEST of our acquaintance was called not long ago to go to a neighboring town to bury a child that had suddenly died. The day and hour of the funeral had been determined on by the family without consulting the clergyman or having the smallest reference to his convenience or inconvenience. Of course he complied with the request of the afflicted family, and went to comfort them. It took him away from pressing parochial work in his own parish for a whole day. In going and returning, in traveling and waiting at the railway stations and other places, he was obliged to spend two whole nights without taking off his clothes. He paid his own railway fares with money which he was obliged to borrow for the purpose, and he received from the family, whose dead he had taken all this trouble to bury, and who were in comfortable circumstances, not so much as—"Thank you!"

SIT ALONG.—Having entered a pew at church, move along. Do not block up the end of a pew as if you did not intend to have any one else enter it, or as if you were holding it for special friends. Do not rise to let others in, but move along and leave the pew invitingly open, so that they will know that they are welcome. If a pew holding six has five already in it, do not file out in formal procession to let one poor, scared woman go to the farthest end, but move along, and let her sit down at the end next to the aisle. It is not necessary now for a man to sit at the end ready to rush out and kill Indians, as possibly it was once.

If, after trial, they continue to use the soap for years, we shall be repaid. If they only use the fifteen bars, getting the dollar's worth of music gratis, we shall lose money. This shows our confidence. The Soap can be bought of all grocers—the music can only be got of us. See that our name is on each wrapper.

BEATTY'S {27} BEETHOVEN ORGANS $65.00

Regular Price $125.00 without Bench, Book and Music.

The Beethoven is beyond a doubt the most popular Cabinet Organ ever placed upon the market. During the past 119 working days 6,434 were manufactured and shipped to all parts of the civilized world. The factory is taxed to its utmost capacity to supply the demand, working nights by Edison's Electric Light to fill orders promptly. If you are about to purchase a Cabinet Organ or to buy one as an investment to sell again you should avail yourself of the special limited offer as below. (Be sure to read Description of Stops 26 and 27, see below.)

A BRIEF DESCRIPTION OF THE INSTRUMENT.

There are TEN FULL SETS OF GOLDEN TONGUE REEDS built upon an entirely new and scientific plan, producing music equal to an organ costing four times its value of other makes. The Reeds are arranged in the Reed Board as follows:

- | | | |
|------------------------------------|---|-----------------------------|
| 1st. Set Charming Saxophone Reeds. | 6th. Set Sweet Voix Celeste Reeds. | 17 VOX CELESTE, 8 ft. tone |
| 2d. Set Famous French Horn Reeds. | 7th. Set of Soft Cello Reeds. | 18 Violina, 4 ft. tone |
| 3d. Set Beautiful Piccolo Reeds. | 8th. Set of Dulciana Reeds. | 19 Vox Jubilante, 8 & 4 ft. |
| 4th. Set Jubilante Violina Reeds. | 9th. Set of Diapason Reeds. | 20 Piccolo, 2 ft. tone |
| 5th. Set Powerful Sub-Bass Reeds. | 10th. Set of Clarinet or Celeste Reeds. | 21 Octave COUPLER. |

Special attention is called to the number of stops used in this famous instrument. With the above 10 sets Golden Tongue Reeds and the following Stops fourteen (14) distinct combinations are produced, THIS MAKING THIS ORGAN EQUAL TO 14 ORGANS OF ORDINARY MAKES COMBINED.

27 STOPS, as follows:

- | | | |
|------------------------------|-----------------------------|--|
| 1 CELLO, 8 ft. tone. | 11 French Horn, 3 ft. tone. | 23 Grand Organ Stop. |
| 2 Melodia. | 12 Harp Solian. | 24 Right Knee Stop. |
| 3 Clarabella. | 13 VOX HUMANA. | 25 Automatic Valve Stop. |
| 4 SUB-BASS, 16 ft. tone. | 14 Echo, 1 ft. tone. | 26 MEZZO KNEE SWELL. |

| 6 SAXAPHONE, 8 ft. tone. | 16 Clarinet, 8 ft. tone. | Compass or Regulator, showing at a glance the amount of pressure upon the instrument, same as a compass to the ship so is this new improvement to the Organ. (See cut shown under the lamp or side of case.) |
| 7 VIOL DI GAMBA, 8 ft. tone. | 17 VOX CELESTE, 8 ft. tone. | |

Latest Improvements: 26 MEZZO KNEE SWELL.

Patented Combination Swell. To which is added the AEROSTATIC EXPRESSION Compass or Regulator, showing at a glance the amount of pressure upon the instrument, same as a compass to the ship so is this new improvement to the Organ. (See cut shown under the lamp or side of case.)

THERE was reason for regret at the careless go-by which the matter of Temperance received at Convention. The report was brought in on the first day, almost before the organization was completed, with the remark from the chairman that he wanted to be through with it. This reduced the importance of the business; the resolutions were passed before it was hardly known what they contained, and the subject was not referred to afterward during Convention. It would have been better, after a vigorous debate, such as the matter deserved, to have had the motions defeated, than to have them passed in this heedless way. They took no hold on the attention, and scarcely a person now knows what he voted for. There is no matter to which more earnest, personal heed at this moment should be taken, by minister and people, than this of the personal duty of temperance, and very often of absolute abstinence, as the only measure of safety.

THE CONVENTION.

The Convention began its sessions in St. George's church in this city, on Tuesday morning, 22nd ult., at 10 o'clock. The clergy vested in the chapel, and headed by the lay delegates, marched into chapel to the number of about thirty. The Bishop of Ohio was also present, but was able to take no part in the service. The Morning Prayer was said by the Revs. C. Mann, E. M. Pecke, and A. M. Whitten; and the Communion Service by the Bishop, Drs. Schuyler, Berkley Fulton, and Mr. Scheetz.

The Bishop preached the sermon, from Acts xv: 28. It has been published by authority of the Convention.

The service being completed, the Bishop took the chair, and called the Convention to order. Mr. John R. Triplett, Secretary of the last Convention, called the roll of the clergy, and the following were found to be present:

Bishop—Rt. Rev. C. F. Robertson, D. D.

Priests—Revs. Ed. F. Berkley, D. D., Geo. C. Betts, Wm. B. Bolmer, Wm. Page Case, John W. Chesnutt, Joseph S. Colton, Chas. E. Cummings, Joseph De Forest, John Fulton, D. D., L. L. D., John L. Gay, John Gierlow, Ph. D., C. E. D. Griffith, Wm. A. Hatch, J. P. T. Ingraham, D. D., H. D. Jardine, Cameron Mann, B. F. Newton, P. G. Robert, James Runcie, D. D., F. B. Scheetz, Montgomery Schuyler, D. D., W. W. Silvester, Ethelbert Talbot, Robert Talbot, Gardiner C. Tucker, J. H. Waterman, Albert E. Wells, A. M. Whitten, M. S. Woodruff, Joseph T. Wright.

Deacons—Revs. Wm. H. Goodisson, Floyd E. West.

The Bishop appointed Rev. M. S. Woodruff, Judge Gilchrist Porter and H. H. Dennison a committee on lay credentials.

At 1.45 an hour's recess was taken, and the clergy and delegates practically discussed an excellent luncheon prepared by the ladies in the chapel.

On re-assembling a quorum of the lay delegates was found to be present, and John R. Triplett was re-elected Secretary, and, having power granted him, appointed F. J. McMaster his assistant. A resolution heartily welcoming Bishop Bedell of Ohio, and requesting him to sit at Bishop Robertson's right hand any time he might wish to attend was adopted, and then rules of order were adopted after much debate.

BISHOP ROBERTSON'S ANNUAL ADDRESS.

Bishop Robertson read part of his annual address. The number of clergy, he said, had been diminished by the removal of several to other fields of labor; only one had died—the Rev. D. E. Barr. Several staunch, true and devout laymen had passed away. He paid a grand tribute to Harry I. Bodley, then to Alexander Hamilton, who long was the sole survivor of those who forty-three years ago organized the diocese and shortly after elected their bishop; also to Henry M. Woodward and Theodore Forster. He noticed that of late years the charities of the Church were little remembered in wills; the Episcopal Fund was steadily diminished by reason of taxes, etc., and $1,200 was now gone from the capital.

During the year, on ninety-eight occasions, he confirmed 465 persons in Missouri, and 65 persons in Minnesota, the latter at the request of the Bishop, who was sick; delivered 280 sermons and addresses; administered holy communion 45 times; made 3 catechizings; baptized 2 adults and 23 infants; solemnized 2 marriages, attended 6 funerals.

The state of the diocese was as follows: Lay readers licensed 12; permission given to organize 3 parishes; parishes in union with Convention 45; mission stations in good standing, 33; candidates for priest's orders, 2; postulants, 3; ordinations to diaconate, 4; to priesthood 3; corner stone (of hospital at Kansas City) laid, 1; churches consecrated, 6; clergymen received from other dioceses, 8; transferred to other dioceses, 14; deceased 1.

Present number in diocese: Bishop, 1; presbyters, 51; deacons, 9; total, 61; engaged in teaching, 5; receiving missionary stipends, 25; entitled to seats in Convention, 41; residing in, but not canonically transferred, 2.

That portion of the Bishop's address referring to the impairment of the Permanent Episcopal Fund was referred to a committee consisting of Rev. E. Talbot, Dr. I. G. W. Steadman and W. S. Pope.

Dr. Fulton read the report of the Committee on the Marriage Question, and it was made the order of the next morning.

Dr. Schuyler, of the Committee for raising money for missions, read a report, which was laid over.

Dr. Ingraham read a report on Sunday-schools, deploring the conduct of parents in laying their obligations on the teachers' shoulders, the absence of the scholars from public worship, and the consequent want of increase of Church membership.

Dr. Runcie's report on temperance embodied a mention of the visit of the Lord Bishop of Rochester and Mr. Graham, and advised that the Bishop appoint an organizing secretary for the establishment of branches of the Church Temperance Society. It was adopted, and after some routine business recess was taken.

At night, after service said by the Rev. Mr. Betts and Dr. Runcie, the Bishop read his address; after which the remainder of the evening was spent at the Episcopal Residence, where the Bishop's reception took place. The house was thronged.

On the next morning after service the Bishop of Ohio took his seat at the right of the President, while the Convention rose to receive him.

Rev. P. G. Robert read the report of the Committee on the Admission of New Parishes, and the Church of the Advent, St. Louis, and that of the Trinity, Kansas City, were admitted into union with the Convention.

Capt. Bent read a report showing that the assets of the permanent fund for the Episcopate were $6,911.40.

The trustees of the parochial trust fund, who have charge of land for churches, parsonages, etc., reported that fourteen conveyances had been made to them during the year, making the total number nineteen.

The committee on that portion of the Bishop's address referring to the impairment of the permanent fund because of payments of taxes, &c., for the episcopal residence, after having their report sent back to them, recommended that an assessment of $500 be made on the parishes for a current expense fund, to pay repairs, taxes, etc. Rev. Mr. Jardine raised the point that there was a canon calling on the parishes to take up a collection the second Sunday in Lent. The Bishop said it was true that many parishes absolutely neglected this, and others gave as little as 25 or 40 cents, and instead of being a permanent it was a dissolving fund. People who were willing to make large gifts for a permanent fund were not willing to give under such circumstances. The figures were changed to $300, and the resolution then carried.

Rev. Mr. Robert, Secretary, read the report of the Standing Committee.

Hon. Wm. F. Ferguson, Registrar of the Diocese, made a brief report and was re-elected.

Joseph Franklin, Treasurer of the Diocese, read his report.

The Rev. W. W. Silvester read the report of the Committee on Marriage, which concluded with the following:

Resolved, That 500 copies of this report be printed separately from the journal, that the Secretary send a copy to every member of the House of Bishops, and that the senior member of the clerical deputation of this diocese to the General Convention present a copy of the same to every member of the House of Deputies.

Resolved further, That the deputation of this Convention to the General Convention be and are hereby instructed to memorialize the General Convention on the matters named in this report, using such form or style of memorial as they shall deem best for the occasion. Which were carried.

A petition from Miss Barr was presented by Mr. John A. Harrison, and was made the order for the next day.

Mr. Reynolds moved for a committee to report on the facts of the case; such committee to report the next meeting.

Dr. Fulton objected that the committee to be appointed might be biased, and moved to lay the proposition for the appointment of a committee on the table, which was carried.

The greater part of the afternoon was devoted to the interests of Missions. The Secretary's report of Mr. McMaster showed that the greater number of the clergy of the diocese in active duty are sustained by missionary help, but that a large number of stations were vacant. Mr. Leavitt, in the treasurer's report, gave a detailed statement of what each parish had given. St. George's was first, then Kirkwood, then Christ church, then the Holy Communion, and then Trinity. The receipts were an advance of 130 per cent beyond those of last year, being about $2,700. The Revs. C. E. Cummings, of Kansas City, and C. M. C. Mason, and Mr. Albert Burgess, of this city, gave interesting statements of the work among the colored people.

The following were elected the Missionary Board: Revs. Geo. C. Betts, F. B. Scheetz, and B. E. Reed; Messrs. D. F. Leavitt, L. E. Alexander, and E. H. Lycett.

When the missionary business was concluded, general matters were resumed. The Finance Committee reported that $6,050 would be needed for the coming year, and offered a compromise to the parishes at Sedalia and Carthage, provided that they would pay about one third of what they owed. The Bishop's sermon was ordered published in the Journal, and 500 extra copies printed on motion of Mr. Betts. Dr. Runcie, from the Committee on Christian Education, in reporting, offered resolutions strongly endorsing the Sisters' school for girls, and St. James' Academy, Macon.

The Standing Committee was elected: Rev. Drs. Schuyler and Fulton, and Rev. P. G. Robert; Messrs. Silas Bent, R. M. Wilson and Geo. H. Gill.

Hon. John Wickham was re-elected Chancellor by acclamation.

Revs. Cameron Mann and E. M. Pecke were elected Trustees of the General Theological Seminary, to fill vacancies.

Deputies to the General Convention, to be held in October, at Philadelphia, were elected as follows, after several ballots on this and the next day: Drs. Schuyler, Runcie and Fulton, and the Rev. P. G. Robert; and Messrs. Gilchrist Porter, Gardiner Lathrop, Western Bascome and Frank Carter. Alternates: Rev. Messrs. Scheetz, E. Talbot, C. Mann, and Geo. C. Betts, and Messrs.

W. B. Potter, John R. Triplett, W. D. B. Motter and C. S. Freeborn.

The Rev. Dr. Runcie was elected a member of the Ecclesiastical Court, and the Rev. C. Mann as alternate.

At the night session the report of the Committee on that part of the Bishop's address which referred to the lack of Candidates for Orders, was read by the Rev. Mr. Pecke, who supported it with some statements. The discussion, which was prolonged to a late hour, was engaged in by Revs. Dr. Fulton, and Messrs. Betts, Wright, Waterman, Silvester and Robert, and Messrs. Snow, Wilson and Pope.

On the third day, while elections were being engaged in, Judge Ferguson read the report of the Committee on the Increase of the Episcopate Fund. It was resolved that in case of division of the diocese any contributions made to the permanent fund should revert or inure to the sections of the present diocese from which they came. The Committee was continued.

Dr. Ingraham read the report of the Committee on Sunday-schools. It mentioned the fact that too many considered and treated the Sunday-school as really a substitute for the church. In it, too, were frequently taught doctrines contrary to and ignoring that of the Church. The committee recommended that the teaching be at such hours and of such reasonable length as not to interfere with the Church service, and that the prayer book be used in it as much as possible.

The Rev. Mr. Betts, from the Committee on the State of the Church, made an approximate report. The Church of the Holy Communion was resolved upon as the place for holding the next Convention, and votes of thanks were passed to the authorities of St. George's church and to the Church people of the city.

Rev. Ethelbert Talbot took the floor, and said that a few of the clergy had assembled that morning in an informal way and he and others had been chosen a committee to draw up the following:

Whereas, The Right Reverend the Bishop of the diocese, in his address last year, expressed in strong terms his conviction that the question of division must at an early day be met by the diocese. And whereas, again in his address this year he refers to the marvelous growth of the State and the springing up of commercial centers in various parts and his consequent inability to cover efficiently the large and growing field, we deem it wise to take the preliminary steps looking to such division. And inasmuch as it is desirable that by the assembling of another General Convention three years hence this diocese be in a condition to ask the consent of that body to a division; therefore, be it

Resolved, That a committee of three clergymen and three laymen be appointed by the Chair to take under advisement the whole question, and to report to the next Convention, both as to the financial feasibility of a division of the diocese and the most desirable geographical lines of such division.

Dr. Fulton spoke of the division as inevitable and desirable on account of the magnitude of the diocese, but there had been no difference of sentiment, no element of party; brotherly love, mutual respect and personal loyalty had been most conspicuous. St. Louis would bear any additional burden that the division might necessitate.

Dr. Runcie, on behalf of the Western brethren, spoke in a similar strain, and paid a tribute of affection and respect to the Bishop.

The resolutions were adopted, and Rev. Dr. Runcie and Rev. Messrs. Talbot and Jardine, clerical, and W. B. Grimes, W. B. Motter and Judge Turney, laymen, were appointed the committee contemplated.

On resolution, Judge Wickham, Mr. Reynolds and Mr. Dennison were appointed a committee to institute quo warranto or other proceedings against the parochial trust fund, to test the legality of their charter, and their right to hold church property.

Joseph Franklin was unanimously re-elected Treasurer of the diocese.

F. J. McMaster and the Rev. Geo. C. Betts were appointed to assist the Secretary in preparing the journal for publication.

The petition of Miss Barr was brought up again, and Mr. Edwin Harrison offered the following substitute, which was accepted by the mover, Mr. J. A. Harrison.

Whereas, Questions have arisen, involving the propriety on the part of this Convention and of the Missionary Board of this diocese, of receiving the interest on the sum of $5,000 as bequeathed by Rev. D. E. Barr in the second clause of his will;

Resolved, That said board be and is hereby instructed to decline to receive said interest on said sum unless and until hereafter so instructed by this Convention; and further, to withdraw from all defense of the case now pending in this city involving the contest of said will.

Silas Bent presented the following substitute for Mr. Harrison's resolution:

Resolved, That this Convention is disposed to give the petition of Miss Barr the most careful consideration when the proper time arrives for such action; but inasmuch as the will of her father, which involves her case, is now before the courts for judicial action, it would be clearly improper for this Convention to take any action whatever in the premises until said courts may decide that the diocese has some legal interest in the funds disposed of by said will; therefore, be it further

Resolved, That action upon said petition be indefinitely postponed.

The debate, which was prolonged and animated, was engaged in by Mr. Harrison, Rev. Drs. Berkley, Fulton, Ingraham, and James, and Rev. Messrs. Betts and Robert, and Messrs. Wickham, Reynolds, M. W. Alexander and Dennison. The vote being called for by orders the substitute was lost by a non-concurrence of orders, there being 10 clerical and 13 lay votes for, and 16 clerical and 10 votes against it. The original motion was also lost for the same cause, and by the same vote as above reversed.

The Convention then after prayers by the Bishop, at a little past six on the third day, adjourned sine die.

MISSIONARY HOST.

The fourteenth anniversary of the Sunday-school Missionary Host was again greeted with a beautiful day, bright, and not too warm. It took place as usual at Christ church, on the Sunday after Convention, 27th ult. Prof. M. S. Snow acted as marshal, as he has done for the past ten years. Upon him fell the assignment of the seats in the church; a larger number, 1850, were bespoken than ever before, and as the day was fine the number present overran the expectation. Indeed, it became a matter of the utmost difficulty to find place for the great throngs of children who overflowed the places assigned for them.

The whole space in church was retained except the organ and the north galleries, which last had to be cleared for St. Peter's school. The schools began to come in at 3 o'clock, with their clergymen and superintendents, with banners and processional hymns. A few were accompanied by the organ, but this was too far off. The most were headed by two cornets, and sang well, although the hymns were not all equally fitted for marching. It was fully an hour before they all got in and placed. The chancel floor had to be filled with benches, which were filled with the children from the Orphans' Home. The chancel steps and the space in front were also filled. There never was a throng so vast in the church. Many persons stood all up the side aisles. All the schools were present except St. Paul's, South St. Louis. St. James', Elleadsville, was present in good numbers, for the first time. Mt. Calvary had the largest number, but the Holy Communion was found to have given the most.

Besides the Bishop of the Diocese, Bishop Bedell of Ohio, and more than a dozen clergymen in surplices were present in the chancel, including several from the interior of the diocese, who had stayed over. The service was said by the Rev. Mr. Robert. The singing of the Gloria in Excelsis, and the saying of the Creed and Lord's Prayer were overwhelming, as was indeed the whole service. The children kept together remarkably. The Secretary reported that the following had been elected as officers for the ensuing year: Wallace Delafield, President; J. J. Wilkins, Vice President; E. C. Simmons, Treasurer; W. P. Nelson, Secretary, and G. Paddock, Assistant Secretary. The Treasurer reported receipts as follows:

Grace church, Jefferson City	$1 00
Trinity church, Hannibal	4 50
St. Paul's, Mexico	5 20
Holy Comforter, Montgomery City	6 60
St. James', Elleadswille	8 10
Christ, Springfield	8 25
Grace, Kirkwood	36 02
Christ, Boonville	38 10
Advent, St. Louis	15 75
Good Shepherd, St. Louis	10 25
Grace, St. Louis	12 00
Good Samaritan, St. Louis	10 00
St. John's, St. Louis	34 55
St. Peter's, St. Louis	25 50
Trinity, St. Louis	25 55
Mt. Calvary, St. Louis	50 00
St. George's, St. Louis	66 11
Christ, St. Louis	118 65
Holy Communion, St. Louis	180 08
Interest	100 00
Total	$756 21
Balance from last year	539 11
Total	$1,295 32
Expenditures	270 65
Balance on hand	$1,024 67

He expressed the hope that, as the amount this year was largely in excess of the amount raised last, or any preceding year, that next year it would reach the sum of $1,000.

The Bishop made an address, in which he stated that the total gifts from the Host from the beginning had been over $7,000, and that it was now sustaining two missionaries in the diocese, one in St. Louis and the other in the interior.

The hymns sung were, The Church's One Foundation, Jesus Shall Reign, We the Reapers, Work for the Night is Coming, Old Hundred; and the recessional sung by all the schools was Pleasant are Thy Courts Above.

No words can possibly express the grandeur and beauty of the scene when the children thronged every part of the church. Bishop Bedell expressed again and again strongly his surprise and delight at the sight before him, and wished that he had the voice to speak to the children. It was in every way the largest and most successful anniversary that was ever held. It will soon be a question what shall be done with the increasing numbers. It was nearly six before the last scholars had marched out of the church.

ST. LUKE'S HOSPITAL.

The seventeenth annual meeting of St. Luke's Hospital association was held in the chapel of St. George's church on the 25th ult. Bishop Robertson presided and opened the meeting with prayer. The secretary, Mr. S. S. Hutchins, read the minutes of the last meeting, which were received and approved.

Mr. Wm. H. Thomson, on behalf of Mr. Henry Shaw, president of the association, read the report, of which the following is a synopsis:

On Whitsunday, May 28, 1882, the benediction service was held in the new edifice, corner of Nineteenth street and Washington avenue, and from that day the hospital seems to have entered upon a new era of fresh life and success. The brightness of the new building has shown its effect upon patients and attendants alike.

From May 1, 1882, to May 1, 1883, 339 patients were received; of these 15 have died, 310 were discharged, and on May 1, 1883, there remained 26 patients. During the corresponding period in the previous year, 234 patients were admitted, an increase for the period of twelve months of 105 patients. Of the past year's patients, 90 were received as "full charity" and 53 "partial charity," showing more than one-third of the work to have been charity. The hospital has accommodations for 60 patients. There are four wards, three of ten beds each and one of three beds; twelve private rooms for patients, a dispensary and two clinic rooms.

For other than charity patients the charges are $7 per week in the wards and from $12 to $18 per week in private rooms. These charges include medical attendance, where the regular hospital service is accepted without request for any particular physician; board and medicine are also included in these fixed charges, except in extraordinary cases. There are but two endowed beds in the hospital—"the Little Harry cot," and one from the sanitary commission.

Much pleasure has been afforded patients by the offerings of flowers and reading matter made by the Flower Mission.

Besides three Sisters, with an assistant worker, who reside in the hospital, and another Sister who is in daily service for office duty, there are required an apothecary, a clerk, housekeeper, laundress, cook, two male attendants and eight or ten additional servants.

In the absence of a regular chaplain, the Rev. Dr. Schuyler and the Rev. Mr. Silvester have acted in that capacity.

The medical staff is composed of the best surgeons and physicians in St. Louis, and includes Dr. Henry H. Mudd, chief; Dr. John Green, Dr. Wm. Porter, Dr. M. H. Post, Dr. Geo. F. Gill, Dr. E. S. Lamoine, Dr. J. S. B. Alleyne, Dr. W. E. Fischel Dr. R. H. Kealhofer.

On March 2 of this year Sister Oden died. Her special charge was in the male department of the hospital, including the eye ward. She was greatly beloved and her loss is deeply felt.

A chapel is needed, and funds are also in demand for other purposes. The hospital's debt of $15,000 has been incurred in addition to the amount of $28,464 72, expended on the new building, which has cost to date $43,464 72, exclusive of the ground, which was a gift to the association. This debt is bonded, bears interest at 6 per cent., and is payable in part or whole, at the pleasure of the association. The annual expenses are about $14,000, and the receipts from patients and other sources about $10,000, leaving an annual deficiency of $4,000, which has hitherto been supplied from the proceeds of annual theatrical entertainments.

It is thought that with additional buildings the annual deficiency will be greatly reduced. The grounds are provided, the plans are ready, and nothing is needed save the money with which to build. It is proposed to add to the present buildings as rapidly as means at hand will allow.

Two worthy friends and active co-laborers have died during the past year—Jesse L. January and Gen. J. H. Simpson. In each of them was recognized real worth and genuine manliness.

The report of C. S. Freeborn, treasurer, showed a balance in the treasury of $589 78.

The chaplain's report was submitted by the Rev. M. Schuyler, D. D., who said that since the opening of the new hospital on May 28, 1882, Holy Communion has been celebrated every Thursday, and prayers offered in one of the rooms of the hospital every Wednesday and Friday. Five adults and three children have been baptized and there have been five burials. The report strongly urges the need of a new chapel, and alludes to the death of Jesse L. January in a most touching manner.

Dr. Green made a few remarks on behalf of the medical staff. He said that the great want of the hospital has been the absence of suitable accommodations for persons of means. In the new hospital many persons have been received who have been treated by physicians not on the hospital staff. He wished to correct an impression which prevailed in some circles that the hospital was run for the benefit of friends of the medical staff. This was not true. Many applicants for admission were refused, but this was solely because the capacity of the hospital was limited.

On motion of Mr. Wilkins, the secretary was empowered to cast the vote of the meeting for the following named gentlemen to act as directors of the association for the ensuing year: Henry Shaw, E. C. Simmons, Edwin Harrison, Wm. S. Pope, W. B. Potter, C. S. Freeborn, D. R. Barclay, W. H. Thomson, S. S. Hutchins, Newton Crane and L. W. Post.

Mr. Edwin Harrison said that a gentleman known to him had declined to assist the hospital because he had been informed that a certain class of physicians were not permitted to practice there. This was not true; all patients have the privilege of selecting their own physicians. With some difficulty Mr. Harrison explained the matter to the gentleman, who thereupon renewed his friendly relations with the hospital.

Subsequently the directors met, and organized for the year as follows: Henry Shaw, President; W. H. Thomson, Vice President; S. S. Hutchins, Secretary; C. S. Freeborn, Treasurer. The Acting President appointed the following committees: Finance, E. C. Simmons, W. S. Pope, L. W. Post; Executive Committee, W. B. Potter, C. S. Freeborn, D. Robert Barclay; Auditing, Newton Crane, Edwin Harrison, E. C. Simmons.

CHURCH OF THE GOOD SAMARITAN.

Negotiations have been pending for the past month for the purchase of the brick church building on the corner of Twenty-third street and Washington avenue for the Mission of the Good Samaritan. For more than a year they have been worshipping with Trinity church, their old church on Sixth near Cerre having, in the changes of population, become untenable.

This building was erected about seven years ago, and is about 45 by 85 feet, on a lot 60 by 137, which fronts on three streets. It is well located on a broad avenue, and near the Jefferson avenue cars, which render communication with the northern and southern parts of the city easy. It contains a basement for Sunday-school purposes, for which there is external as well as internal approaches, with two furnaces for the church, a coal cellar, and a kitchen, and closets of all kind. Above there is an auditorium holding over three hundred persons, a large gallery at the end, and platform for organ at the side. In the rear of the church and across the end is a chapel holding 75 persons; and above this and of the same size is a large room, 20 by 45, which may be used for a study or guild room. All the arrangements are most complete. It will be one of the best equipped churches in the city. There was yielded also all the carpets, cushions, pews, gas fixtures, pulpit chairs and much else.

The property had cost $26,000, and the price at length fixed on and agreed to was $12,000, $9,000 of which was and may remain on bond and mortgage at 6 per cent. for six years. The great difficulty was to secure at least the $3,000 required to make the purchase, and on this the Rev. Mr. Mason has been most strenuously engaged. Much more than this ought to be secured, to make the burden of interest lighter and more easy to be borne. The Chapter, however, and the committee of laymen, Messrs. Bent, Gilkeson, Ferguson, Gill, Branch and Simmons, appointed by the Bishop, advised that the purchase be completed if $3,000 could be secured, and pledged that the city churches would pro rata meet all excess of interest beyond $300, which the mission thought itself able to carry. At last accounts Mr. Mason was short of the needed amount about $300, with only four days more to raise it in.

If the congregation comes into possession of this property, they will immediately set about improving it for their use. This movement will greatly strengthen the mission. They are greatly delighted over the prospects now brightening before them.

DIOCESAN ITEMS.

—The Bishop has recently confirmed as follows: Kirkwood, 9; Advent, St. Louis, 10; Columbia, 18; St. George's, St. Louis, 9; St. Peter's, 4.

—The members of St. Barnabas Mission, in North Springfield, will proceed to build a chapel on their lot as soon as possible.

—Calvary church, Columbia, was organized May 25, 1855, with the following members: Rev. John W. Dunn (missionary), E. N. O. Clough, Rebecca N. Clough, Thomas C. Phillips, Margaret Phillips, Robert Willis and Margaret Willis. The church building was erected in 1872, and cost about $3,000. The first service in it was that of consecration. The pastors have been: Revs. J. W. Dunn, W. R. Pickman, C. F. Loop, F. R. Holeman, J. C. Jackson, R. C. Wall, Dr. C. P. Jennings, W. H. Hopkins, Wm. C. Dawson, A. T. Sharpe, Jos. R. Grey and A. M. Whitten. The Bishop of the diocese visited Calvary church, Columbia, on the evening of the 16th ult., and confirmed 18 persons, presented by the rector, the Rev. A. M. Whitten. The class was the largest ever presented for confirmation in the parish. The occasion was one of the deepest interest to the large congregation that crowded every part of the church. The sermon by the Bishop was all that could be desired.

—Mr. George Robinson, Jr., maintains, as he has done for a year past, a Sunday-school within a couple of miles of Emmanuel church, St. Louis county.

—The plastering of the first floor of the addition to St. James' Academy, Macon, is about completed, and the rector expects to remove into the building during the summer. Several hundred dollars are yet needed very much even to get to this point.

—The new Christ church, Cuba, has been completed except plastering and furnishing, and this it is hoped will soon be done. It has required a great effort to accomplish this excellent result.

—A new pipe organ has been purchased for Emmanuel church, St. Louis county, and also a horse and buggy for the use of the rector in reaching Afton, and his parishioners generally. A horse had previously been given to each of the last two ministers, but these were not permanently of benefit to the parish. One gentleman has been especially liberal in the effort to secure these gains.

—The Rev. Mr. Brittain has resigned the charge of All Saints' church, Nevada, and has removed to Kansas.

—The Bishop had to decline an invitation from the Bishop of Ohio to give a ten days' visitation to his diocese during his disability; and also a request to preside at an important meeting in New Haven on the 27th inst., on account of duties in the diocese.

—The Rev. W. W. Silvester held the opening service in the new Trinity church, Lebanon, on Sunday, 27th ult.

—It is estimated that the new church of brick proposed to be built in Mexico, of the same size as the present frame church, will cost about $1,400, much of the lumber in the old building to be used in the new. With the money subscribed, they will be able to build without debt provided they sell one of the church lots, but we earnestly hope they will not sell this, but reserve it for what it was originally intended for, a rectory. At his recent visit to the parish the Bishop could not hold the service in the church, but only in a place of worship kindly loaned for the occasion. Two ardent Churchmen came 25 miles overland to attend the service. They reported that they were holding lay services every Sunday at Perry, Ralls county, and that several were waiting for confirmation. The Bishop will make a visit there soon.

—The Bishop of Pennsylvania and a committee of the Sunday school Association of Philadelphia propose to hold a conference of Sunday-school workers, clerical and lay, in that city, during the sessions of the General Convention in October, and have asked the Bishop of this diocese to appoint representatives from this diocese. The purpose is that of consulting as to the various methods and helps in the work, and for mutual benefit and encouragement in its prosecution. The Bishop has appointed the Rev. Dr. Runcie and Mr. J. J. Wilkins as such representatives.

—The Rev. M. C. Brown, who has been for years engaged in a successful work in East London, England, for which he is still wanted, but who has desired to come to work in the West, has taken charge of Nevada City, in place of the Rev. Mr. Brittain. He is a gentleman of devotion, and learning and ability and strong health.

—A layman in New York city, who had received a copy of the Bishop's Convention sermon, immediately after reading it sent him a warm letter and a check of $50, for the "necessary things."

—Trinity church, Kansas City, is beginning its work very vigorously. It is in treaty for one of two lots, both eligibly situated for a church, one, 50 by 150, on the corner of Tenth and Lydia, costing $2,500; the other on the corner of Twelfth and Tracy, 125 by 125, which will cost $5,625. If they succeed in securing the last, their effort will be to build a brick church, costing $15,000.

—On Sunday, 3rd inst., the Bishop preached the Baccalaureate sermon in the chapel of the State University, Columbia. There was an immense throng present, probably over a thousand persons. Very great pleasure was expressed at the sermon, which was published afterwards.

—The Rev. Floyd E. West, of Cameron, has gone East on a visit. He probably will be gone for some time. The town is fast filling up with people, among whom are many Churchmen.

—The Rev. H. H. Goodisson has relinquished the charge of Trinity church, Kirksville, while still remaining minister of Grace church, Brookfield.

—The closing exercises of St. James' Academy, Macon, took place on the evenings of Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, 5th, 6th and 7th inst. Examinations were conducted during the days. The younger scholars had the first evening. The prize speaking for the boys, and compositions for the girls, took place on the second evening. The contest was sharp, and was witnessed by an attendance which filled the hall. The judges at length awarded the prizes to Gideon C. Lyda, of Atlanta, and to Miss Maud Dysart, of Macon. On the last evening, after most interesting musical exercises, including some capital choruses by the boys, the Bishop conferred diplomas of graduation to Misses Glaze and Shortridge, and Mr. Wm. W. Love, who enters the State University this fall, to study for Holy Orders. The Bishop also conferred the medals for the prizes. Mr. Lyda took the composition, Edward Smith the Latin prizes, and Laurence Weakley, of St. Joseph, the prize for general excellence through the year. The Rev. Messrs. Waterman and R. Talbot were present, as well as many patrons of the school from a distance. The exercises were the event of the town for the week, and the hall was not near large enough. Mrs. Talbot gave a delightful reception on the last night. Mr. Talbot expects to enter into the new building with a great increase of scholars at the beginning of the fall term, September 3rd.

—The Rev. Mr. Cummings has gone to a few of the Lake cities to endeavor to secure $300, to pay on a pressing claim on his church, which is now due. They owe about $1,000 on their property.

—The Rev. Mr. Silvester, of Christ church, is East, on a three weeks' vacation.

—The State University at Columbia recently conferred on the Bishop of the Diocese the degree of LL. D.

—The Rev. Dr. Fulton has arranged with the Rev. Mr. Spiers, of this year's graduating class at Nashotah, to become his assistant at St. George's in September. Mr. S. is the son of a clergyman of the Diocese of Indiana, who died two or three years ago, and was himself admitted to Deacon's orders a year ago.

—The Columbia Statesman thus speaks of the Bishop's Baccalaureate sermon before the graduating class of the University:

"The Baccalaureate Sermon in the University Chapel on Sunday afternoon by the Rt. Rev. Bishop Robertson of St. Louis—Gal. V., 13, 'Ye have been called unto liberty; only use not liberty for an occasion to the flesh'—was listened to by a large audience, the chapel proving inadequate to accommodate those who came to listen.

"The special theme of the discourse was the 'opportunity and danger of American scholarship, viewed from its religious side,' and most fitly and cogently, and we might add most opportunely, was it presented. No similar discourse for many years was listened to with more marked attention or profit, and its truths and lessons deserve to be treasured in the memory and to influence American life.

"We had prepared a synopsis of it, that the thousands of our readers who did not hear it might to a degree receive the benefit of its reasonings and conclusions, all of which challenge the profoundest thought and the widest approval; but no synopsis can do justice to such an address, and therefore in our next issue it will be presented entire."

—Col. Scharff's History of St. Louis, in two large volumes, on which he and many others have been at work for two years, has recently been issued. It is valuable and generally very reliable. With much else it gives at considerable length the history of the Church in this city from the earliest times, and of all the parishes. This was largely prepared by Bishop Robertson from materials in his hands. With it is also a steel engraving of the Bishop, which was executed at the instance of some gentlemen, who said that it ought to be there.

—Grace church, Jefferson City, is undergoing extensive repairs and improvements, consisting of a new roof, arched ceiling and gothic windows. The pews are being embellished, and the whole building painted inside and out. This long-needed work is due to the zeal and endurance of the ladies of the parish, who are so well known for their indomitable perseverance.

INTERESTING TO LADIES.—Our lady readers can hardly fail to have their attention called to the latest combination of improvements in that most useful of all domestic implements, the "sewing machine."

As we understand it, a machine for family use should meet first of all these requirements: It should be simple in its mechanism; it should run easily; it should do a wide range of work; it should be as nearly noiseless as possible; it should be light, handsome, durable, and as cheap as is consistent with excellence throughout.

These conditions the "Light Running New Home, certainly meets. It has also several very important and useful attachments and "notions" of its own, which go far to make good its claims to popular favor.

Now a great many families have been and are still using the old machines waiting for the times to improve; waiting for the latest improvements in designs and mechanical excellence:

But why delay longer? Considering the low prices at which good machines are now sold, and the improvements that have been made now is a good time to buy, and the "New Home" specially recommends itself to purchasers on account of its superior mechanical construction, ease of management and reasonable price. Nearly half a million have been sold in the last three years, all of which are giving universal satisfaction. This unrivalled machine is manufactured by the New Home Sewing Machine Co., 30 Union Square, New York, who wish us to say that all who will send for their new illustrated catalogue and enclose their advertisement (printed on another page), will receive a set of fancy advertising novelties of value to those collecting cards, &c.

KIRKWOOD.

The Bishop made his accustomed visit on Whitsunday to Grace church, Kirkwood, the festival day of the parish. It is always the season of flowers, and the church is always made beautiful by the offerings of the many gardens. It was, as always, tastefully adorned this year, some of the ladies being there at sunrise to place the garlands. It was only the week before that the improvements on the church had been finished. These consisted of a large vestry room, of stone, like the rest of the church, on the side at the chancel end, of which before the church had stood in great need. This was neatly furnished. The chancel had been made larger by the taking away of the screens previously there, and thereby giving more light and air. A reredos had been made of oak polished, and divided into panels by walnut arches in gothic traces. Below this, across the chancel wall, was a wainscoting of tiles in appropriate figures. The walls throughout the church had been renovated and colored, and hooks placed, so that hereafter there would be no need for the use of tacks in dressing the church. The richness and the brightness of the interior along with its characteristic chasteness, must be seen to be fully understood.

A year ago the ladies placed over her accustomed seat a memorial window in stained glass for Mrs. Bodley, whose influence was so great in the founding of the parish. A year after this, on Whitsunday, the memorial window to Mr. Bodley was uncovered, just opposite, placed by the vestry. Both of them tell eloquently of the devotion which laid the foundations of the Church in the parish. In these windows had been placed appropriate flowers, in memory of the honored saints of God, who had so recently and near to each other been taken to their rest.

Some insurance gentlemen had handsomely upholstered in leather the large black walnut chair which Mr. Bodley had long used in his office, and placed it in the vestry room.

The Holy Communion was celebrated at 9 A. M., and at 11 the Morning Prayer was said, and after the sermon the Bishop confirmed a class of nine, presented by the Rev. Mr. Scheetz, the rector, whose judgment and taste were evident in the renovation of the church. About $1,000 was spent on the improvements, of which one of the parishioners paid a large proportion. At night, as usual, the rector made an anniversary address.

The parish has become the mother of others. Emmanuel church and the Afton parish had their start from the services of Bishop Dunlop, the former rector; and Mr. Scheetz hopes very soon to have the chapel at Eureka, and he gives services at St. Paul's, where Mr. Cuddy a few years ago built a neat chapel.

JESSE LINDELL JANUARY.

Jesse Lindell January entered into the rest of Paradise May 9th, 1883, aged 33 years.

The last year has been remarkable in the history of the parish of Christ church in this city, by reason of the number of prominent, and in most cases aged communicants who have died. While the parish register shows since the report at the last Convention the unusually large number of seventy-two burials, ten of these are from among the communicants. The last one of this sad record is the subject of this present notice. The loss of such as he to the parish is greatly to be lamented, as he was in the prime of life; and giving promise of being one of its prominent supports in the future. To the city the loss is also great, as one of its enterprising, growing, business young men; but to his immediate family circle it is irreparable.

The writer of this knew him from his childhood, and has watched with interest his intellectual, moral and religious development. He was for years under the watchful, skillful training of the lamented Dr. De Koven, at Racine College, where he was graduated. To that training he was indebted doubtless for his intelligent attachment to the Church, for his interest in Her institutions of learning and charity, as well as for the manly, consistent Christian character, which he was enabled to maintain, amid the temptations of the world and the distractions of business. He took a lively interest in St. Luke's Hospital, having been of late one of its Board of Directors, and contributing by his faithful personal service, as well as by his pecuniary means to its support.

From a child he was remarkable for his amiable and unselfish disposition. It was his delight to minister to the comfort and pleasure of those with whom he was associated, winning their affection and lasting regard by his kindly attention. Generous and forgiving, he avoided the many entanglements which so frequently interrupt the peace and harmony of social intercourse.

But it was in the circle of his more intimate associates, and in his own family, that the lovely traits of his character were manifested, and there he has left "a great gap in the feast of love" which can never be filled.

When told by his pastor that in all human probability he had but a brief time to live, he received the message with perfect composure and resignation. He remarked that no doubt the physician had told his wife, and he saw no reason why he should not have been told also, as he was well aware himself, "that it was but a matter of a few weeks, and it might be a few days." And he then said after a moment's pause, "I am willing to die, if it is God's will." He had not been taken by surprise at the sad announcement. It had evidently been with him a matter of much prayerful thought, and it furnishes a striking evidence of the power of Christianity to support His disciples in the dying hour, that with so much in the world to live for—with all the endearments of a loving home, and in the very prime of manhood, he could yet lie down without a murmur, and wait for the last summons in hope of a blissful immortality. His closing hours were painless and peaceful. Though lying evidently in great weakness of body during the day, there were no symptoms of his sinking rapidly until the early part of the evening, and he passed away at 10 P. M. He retained the full possession of his faculties till the last, receiving the Holy Communion but little more than an hour before his death, responding to the benediction with a loud "Amen." Shortly after this he expressed a desire to sleep, and ere long he fell into a sweet slumber, from which he awoke, as we have reason to believe, in the Bowers of Paradise.

"Tis sweet—

As year by year we lose
Friends out of sight, in faith to muse
How grows in Paradise our store."

EDITOR CHURCH NEWS:—As it has been several times intimated to me that the offering of the Holy Communion Sunday-school to the Missionary Host had been increased by the generosity of laymen of the parish, the misapprehension may be wide-spread.

The school should not be robbed of its honor. Mr. Millard F. Watts, the efficient superintendent, continually reminds the scholars of the privilege of membership in the Host. The band of teachers in their several classes heartily second the superintendent's suggestions. The treasurer, Mr. Max Reber, has been a close and systematic collector. If the pupil forgets his Host money on the first Sunday of the month, Mr. Reber had the most courteous and insinuating way of reminding the deficient that he was especially anxious for that particular piece of money, and it generally came into the treasury the next Sunday.

The day the money is collected the school treasurer pays it over to me, and every two months I pay it to Mr. E. C. Simmons, treasurer of the Host. Hence I am able to testify to the fact that, except $1 of the amount, it was collected from the teachers and scholars, and is their own gift,—is their own study in systematic offering.

If every teacher and scholar of the school belonged to the Host the payments would range from $250 to $270 per annum. For good and sufficient reasons many are not enrolled, and hence the amount given fell below $200.

I make this statement, and give these figures, because "I am jealous for Jerusalem and for Zion, with a great jealousy," and think the school should receive the credit that is its due. Perhaps too, it may prove suggestive of a method of increasing school offerings.

cures Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Rheumatic Gout, General Debility, Catarrh, and all disorders caused by a thin and impoverished, or corrupted, condition of the blood; expelling the blood-poisons from the system, enriching and renewing the blood, and restoring its vitalizing power.

During a long period of unparalleled usefulness, AYER'S SARSAPARILLA has proven its perfect adaptation to the cure of all diseases originating in poor blood and a weakened vitality. It is a highly concentrated extract of Sarsaparilla and other blood-purifying roots, combined with Iodide of Potassium and Iron, and is the safest, most reliable, and most economical blood-purifier and blood-food that can be used.

Inflammatory Rheumatism Cured.

"AYER'S SARSAPARILLA has cured me of the Inflammatory Rheumatism, with which I have suffered for many years. W. H. MOORE."
Durham, Ia., March 2, 1882.

"Eight years ago I had an attack of Rheumatism so severe that I could not move from the bed, or dress, without help. I tried several remedies without much if any relief, until I took AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, by the use of two bottles of which I was completely cured. I have not been troubled with the Rheumatism since. Have sold large quantities of your SARSAPARILLA, and it still retains its wonderful popularity. The many notable cures it has effected in this vicinity convince me that it is the best blood medicine ever offered to the public. E. F. HARRIS."
River St., Buckland, Mass., May 13, 1882.

"Last March I was so weak from general debility that I could not walk without help. Following the advice of a friend, I commenced taking AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, and before I had used three bottles I felt as well as I ever did in my life. I have been at work now for two months, and think your SARSAPARILLA the greatest blood medicine in the world. JAMES MAYNARD."

WE have received an admirable letter from a most intelligent layman, delegate at our late Convention, suggested by the debate on the question of the lack of clergymen and Candidates for Orders. We will have to reserve it, and much else for our next number, on account of the crowded condition of our columns.

CONVENTION NOTES.

The weather for Convention was bright and delightfully cool. There was a fire in church, which was far from uncomfortable. There was a larger attendance of the clergy especially, than was ever before present at Convention, 39 of those resident in the diocese being present, besides the Bishop of Ohio, and three other clergymen from other dioceses. There were delegates present from 21 parishes and missions.

For the first time the article of the Constitution excluding from representation those parishes which had not paid up their assessments went into effect, and several parishes suffered by it, although as a general thing the assessments were met more closely than they had been for years. The Finance Committee recommended partial remission to Carthage and Sedalia, provided that they paid the remainder. The arrearages generally accumulate when the parishes are vacant.

The arrangements for the clergy and delegates were more prompt and complete than they had ever been before; and the stay of the clergymen in many instances was made more pleasant by drives and visits made to pleasant objects about the city.

The lunch was a delightful feature of the Convention, and the kindness of the ladies in serving it was most marked. The clergymen seemed loth to resume business, even after the hour and a half allowed for the recess; almost as loth as they seemed to be to assemble for the morning service before the Convention each day.

A number of clergymen stayed over Sunday, and preached in the churches; the Rev. Messrs. Browne and Case at Trinity, West at St. George's, Goodisson at St. Peter's, and Gay at Kirkwood.

What rendered the debate on the Barr petition specially interesting to the Bishop of Ohio, who was present, was the fact that in his diocese there was coming up a question precisely similar; an heir appealing to the Convention in advance of the decision of the civil court. Miss Barr's attorney had previously asked another lay member of the Convention, an older gentleman, to present the matter, but he declined to do so.

Remark was frequently made how completely all differences seemed to be merged, and how entirely antagonisms were obliterated. This was true in some of the votes to an extent that was very interesting, and would have been scarcely credited.

The question of the division of the diocese has taken a step forward. The committee was moved for after a caucus of representatives from the western counties; and the committee is made up of those who will, a year from now, bring in a report of all that can be said on the subject. The very agitation of the question has an educating influence; but of course before the Convention will see its way clear to take decisive action it will need to have before it some evidence of practical desire more substantial than pledges or resolutions.

The cordiality of expression in which the notes of invitation were couched had an excellent effect, and induced the attendance of many who would not otherwise have come.

Some of those from a distance, who are accustomed to adorn their churches with flowers, especially on any extraordinary occasion, have wondered at the bareness of ornament of the church at the opening service. This, which not alone characterized this year, comes probably from the fact that the people of the parish seem to regard the Convention as a vague, general something, of which they know little, and a matter which scarcely touching them.

A very sharp letter from the larger parish in Kansas City claims that St. Louis was very selfish; after getting the whole Standing Committee, to take three-fourths of the deputation to the General Convention, and that of the single lay deputy elected from there, no idea was had that he could go. It declares vigorously: "The sole effective argument was the narrow selfishness of the St. Louis men. They have the power and they will use it. All they want of us is that we should pay our assessments, and at considerable trouble and expense, swell the size of a convention where we have no influence."

PERSONAL.

—The wife of the Rev. Mr. Goddard, of Jersey City, was recently instantly killed by a pistol in the hands of her husband. They were cleaning out a dark closet, and this pistol was found on a high shelf, and in a jar accidentally went off with the above result. When will persons ever learn? This gentleman, who is a clergyman of rare intelligence, has his whole future made wretched by this pitiful accident.

—Our old friend, Col. David R. Risley, is one of the alternate deputies to the General Convention from California. A son of Bishop Stevens of Pennsylvania, who married Bishop Pierce's daughter, has been elected from Arkansas.

—The Rev. Mr. Nicholson has finally declined the Episcopate of Indiana.

—Bishop Bedell lost his voice from over-exertion at the multiplied visitations about Easter, and took a complete rest for a month. He went down the Ohio and up the Mississippi, and at length found himself with Mrs. Bedell in St. Louis, which they found so pleasant that they stayed here, under medical care. He was unable to use his voice, but being otherwise well, attended the Convention, and service at several of the churches with great interest. He stayed more than a fortnight, and we hope derived benefit from the rest, as many others derived great pleasure from his sojourn in St. Louis.

—The Rev. D. Hinsdale has resigned the presidency of Hobart College, Geneva, N. Y., and the Rev. Dr. Geo. W. Smith has accepted an election to the presidency of Trinity College, Hartford, Conn.

—The clerical obituary of the month includes the names of the Revs. Henry Green of Wisconsin, and D. H. Deacon of Kentucky. There has also died this month the Revs. W. W. N. Stewart, LL. D., of Philadelphia, and Jas. E. Meredith, of Texas.

—Bishop Dudley, in his recent Convention address, gave the following rather involved and ingenious comment on a quartette choir: "A fashionable choir seems to me like the quarternian of soldiers set to guard St. Peter in Herod's dungeon; the vigilance is so unceasing that only an angel from heaven is equal to rouse up the slumbering spirit of devotion and speed its steps toward the Jerusalem where they would exclude him."

—In view of the recent celebration of the centennial of Bishop Seabury's election in Connecticut, Bishop Williams requested the rector to ask the family which now lived in the house where the election took place, whether they could let them have the use of it for a clerical collation on the day. The good woman replied: "Oh yes, but bein' I'm a Methodist, I could not have any dancing." She confounded collation and cotillon.

—The story is told of Bishop Hawks, that arriving on his visitation one day at a place which was not remarkable for its generosity or its disposition to do much, on walking to his house the warden said, "Now, Bishop, will you give us a good evangelical sermon to-night?" "Evangelical! evangelical! let me see; that is faith without works, isn't it?" They did not afterward venture to define what kind of sermons he should preach.

—The last surviving daughter of Bishop Hobart of New York, and the mother of Bishop Hare, has just died.

—The Rev. Dr. Knickerbacker of Minnesota, has been elected Bishop of Indiana; the clergy had previously elected Dr. Worthington of Detroit. The choice is an admirable one, and it is to be hoped that Dr. Knickerbacker will be induced to accept. He has been for twenty-five years in his parish, and is known all through the Northwest for his earnest missionary spirit. He is gentle and considerate and wise, of firm health and in the prime of his days.

CHILLICOTHE.

The communication below touches an important interest now stirring the parish at Chillicothe, the building of a rectory. The memorial gift is in remembrance of Mrs. Waterman's mother, who was a sister of Mr. Harry I. Bodley, of Kirkwood, and died a few months ago. This gift and the evident necessity of the case ought to spur the church to immediate and effective work. The health of the rector and the best interests of the parish have long suffered because of the want of a fixed clerical home. Benjamin Smith, Esq., of Elizabeth, N. J., but well known in this city and Fayette, has generously offered to loan the parish $1,000 at five per cent. for the purpose, but the church ought not to borrow the whole of the amount. Five hundred dollars at least should be raised at once, while the project is fresh. There are three or four there who could and should give $100 each for a work of such instant and critical importance. Enough then will be left to the ladies with their strawberries. But at least $500 could and should be raised and given now. Mr.

Waterman's stay in the parish will be impossible without a rectory, and the same would be true of any minister.

To the Wardens and Vestrymen of Grace church, Chillicothe, Mo.

Gentlemen, I give in trust to you fifty dollars for the rectory fund—a memorial offering to God for the beautiful and lovely Christian example and character of Mrs. Maria Innis Church, who was for many years a faithful and conscientious worker in God's ever-living Church, and whose servant and steward she always, and in all places, seemed herself to be, and who, by her lively faith in Him, "Being dead yet speaketh."

CHILDREN'S COT.

ST. LUKE'S HOSPITAL.

For several years an effort has been making to raise $3,000 from the children, and those who are interested in them, for the perpetual endowment for a cot and a room for a child at our Hospital, where a child not able to be otherwise provided for may be kindly taken care of when sick or undergoing treatment. By little and little we have gone on so far. Gifts are urgently asked for this purpose and will be credited in THE NEWS. They may be sent to the Bishop, 2727 Chestnut street St. Louis.

A PHASE OF CLERICAL EXPERIENCE.—A priest of our acquaintance was called not long ago to go to a neighboring town to bury a child that had suddenly died. The day and hour of the funeral had been determined on by the family without consulting the clergyman, or having the smallest reference to his convenience or inconvenience. Of course he complied with the request of the afflicted family, and went to comfort them. It took him away from pressing parochial work in his own parish for a whole day. In going and returning, in traveling and waiting at the railway stations and other places, he was obliged to spend two whole nights without taking off his clothes. He paid his own railway fares with money which he was obliged to borrow for the purpose, and he received from the family, whose dead he had taken all this trouble to bury, and who were in comfortable circumstances, not so much as—"Thank you!"—[Ex.

In the first temperance address, delivered fifty years ago by Dr. Justin Edwards, the speaker said: "The person who never drinks liquor can never become a drunkard." This is as true now as when spoken, and contains the pith of the whole matter.

"SPECULATION," says the Rochester Union, "differs from peculation by only a single letter, and how naturally the one suggests the other!"

—During the last fifteen months in New York city enough houses have been lived in by the pauper and criminal classes to make a continuous street thirty-two and three-quarter miles in length. That is, a community large enough to make a good sized city exists there which only works by compulsion and is supported by others.

TO THOSE IN HEALTH.

"Let him (the sick person) be admonished to make his will, and to declare his debts, what he oweth, and what is owing unto him, for the better discharging of his conscience, and the quietness of his executors. But men should often be put in remembrance to take order for the settling of their temporal estates, whilst they are in health."—[Rubric in Visitation of the Sick.

For those who are minded to give back to God a portion of that with which he has entrusted to them as stewards, by which a blessing may be invoked on them and their memories when they are in their graves, the following directions may be of use:

Real estate and personal property may be given, deeded or devised to the Orphans' Home and St. Luke's Hospital, St. Louis, as they are incorporated bodies. The legal name of the former is "The Orphans' Home, of St. Louis, incorporated in February, 1845;" and of the latter, "St. Luke's Hospital, of St. Louis, incorporated in 1872".

Real estate for a church, parsonage, a burial ground in any particular place, may be given or devised to "The Parochial Trust Fund of the Diocese of Missouri, a body incorporated under the laws of the State of Missouri," in trust for the place. Real estate also for the above purposes may be given or devised to any Church which is properly incorporated.

Real estate for any other purpose, and personal property may be given or devised for the benefit of any church, or any of our charities by naming trustees in the will or deed, and providing how their successors in the trust may be appointed, who can receive and dispense the trust as directed. Such objects may be suggested as "Permanent Fund for the support of the Episcopate of the Diocese of Missouri," "The Theological Education Fund," "The Fund for Aged and Infirm Clergymen, and for the Widows and Orphans of Clergymen," "The Laymen's Co-operating Missionary Society," "The Sisterhood of the Good Shepherd of the Protestant Episcopal Church," "St. James Academy, Macon," "School of Good Shepherd, St. Louis."

Accuracy as to the description of property, and the designation of the trust should be specially observed.

EARLY DAYS IN KANSAS CITY.

II.

At the consecration of Grace church, Kansas City, the Bishop gave in his sermon an account of the earlier struggles of the Church in the western part of the State. It may be of interest to place this statement of record in the News.

In October, 1855, when the town numbered only about 1,000 inhabitants, we find the first mention of the bishop passing through this city on his way from Westport to Parkville and above. It was not, however, until two years after, the third of September, 1857, that he held his first, which was no doubt the first Church service had in the city. In his journal, speaking of this occasion, the bishop says that he preached to a large congregation, and visited a sick man, and received from Mr. Joseph C. Ranson three lots whereon to build a church edifice. These lots, which were each 25x160 feet, were located on the corner of Eighth and Campbell streets, but were not occupied because of the preference given to Mr. Gillis' people. By this time, with the opening of the territory of Kansas for settlement, this city had a great increase of business and population.

From the interest induced by this visit, the bishop sent the Rev. J. I. Corby, then in deacon's orders, in November, to undertake this work. He made his residence in Independence, and came over to Kansas City for the first time on a mule. His first service was held November 15, in the old Methodist church on Fifth street. The services were held on every other Sunday between this city and Independence, and in the afternoons, as no place could be had in which to hold morning service. On the 14th of December, 1857, St. Luke's church was organized, this name having been chosen at the special request of Bishop Hawks. Among the members of the first vestry were Messrs. Joseph C. Ranson, John Q. Watkins, Wm. Gillis, S. H. Calhoun, W. Boyer and R. Everingham.

In the following spring Mr. Corby removed to Kansas City, still keeping up his services in Independence, and sometimes walking between the places. The population of the city was then estimated at 6,000. In May of this year, 1858, St. Luke's church was admitted into union with the Convention of the diocese of Missouri, the delegates being Messrs. Ranson, Watkins and Dr. G. W. Tindall. The Easter service was held at the court house, and Mr. Corby could at this time only find five communicants to report; his first baptisms were in February of this year.

Mr. William Gillis gave a lot on the northeast corner of Fifth and High, now Locust, streets, for a church, and a subscription of over $4,000 was secured for the building. The stone foundation for a church 35 by 60 feet was laid, the brick was furnished and hauled on the ground, but subsequent difficulties caused the project to stop at this point. The first confirmation and the first celebration of the Holy Communion was had by Bishop Hawks, October 11th, 1858, in the Methodist church. There was no organ at this time in Kansas City, and often in the service there was no music, or only the few hymns, which were started by the clergyman. That fall a small Sunday school was opened in a little building in the eastern part of the city, put up by Mr. Corby for a residence in which to hold a day school. This was the first school house put up in Kansas City, and two ladies, communicants of this faith, were teachers. One Sunday morning while they were engaged in morning service in this building, two clergymen entered, one of whom he recognized as the rector who had settled at Wyandotte a few months before. The other was a stranger, but a venerable looking person. When Mr. Corby had finished Morning Prayer he handed his prayer book to this elderly gentleman, and pointed to the ante-communion service, which the other then read. At the conclusion of the service he found that the stranger was Bishop Kemper, who was in charge of the Church in Kansas and of the Southwest. He resigned this duty when, in 1854, he accepted the episcopate of Wisconsin, and the charge of Kansas then devolved upon Bishop Lee, who had in this year been elected to the diocese of Iowa, and who held it until 1864, when the diocese of Kansas, which had been organized in 1859, chose Dr. Vail as its first bishop.

BOOK NOTICES.

AN HOUR WITH CHARLOTTE BRONTE, or Flowers from a Yorkshire Moor. There was but one Charlotte Bronte, as there was but one William Shakespeare. She was a passionate, fire-winged genius, whose life and history form one of the most interesting and exciting stories ever told. No one who has read "Jane Eyre" or pored over the pages of "Villette" could be indifferent to the personal history of the Yorkshire girl who wrote them. Her strange existence in the little hamlet of Haworth reads, as her biographer tells us, "like an olden tragedy turned into English fact." To write her life acceptably, one must have made it the study of years, have studied it in the integrity of all its relations, and considered it from the broadest as well as from the narrowest aspect. This is what Mrs. Holloway has done. It is a fascinating biography, told in a charming style. Published in Funk & Wagnall's Standard Library. Price: 15c.

THE DAWN OF HISTORY: An introduction to Prehistoric Study. Edited by C. F. Keary, of the British Museum. In two parts. Part I. Price 15 cents. J. Fitzgerald, Publisher, 20 Lafayette Place, New York.

This is the only work in the English language which attempts to give a full account of the results of scientific research with respect to the life of man upon the earth in the times preceding "history." The evidence drawn from existing and dead languages: from human remains found in caves. The result is a book that will be read with interest by every one. In short it is a book for the general reader, and not for the scientist.

THE ELZEVIR LIBRARY—Among the recent issues of this unique, and in some respect to cheapness and beauty of form and typography, really remarkable publication, are the following: "Aristotle," by Sir Alexander Grant; "Plato," by C. W. Collins; "Horace," by Theodore Martin. These are in the famous and excellent "Ancient Classics for English Readers" series, heretofore obtainable only at the price of $1 each, but now published in this handsome form for 15 cents each. These publications are not sold by dealers generally, but only direct, by the publisher, John B. Alden, 18 Vesey street, New York.

The June number of the NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW opens with an article by Joseph Nimmo, Jr., Chief of the Treasury Bureau of Statistics, on "American Manufacturing Interests," in which is given a singularly full and instructive historical sketch of the rise and progress of manufactures in the United States. D. C. Gilman, President of John Hopkins University, writes of the "Present Aspects of College Training," as affected by the increase of wealth and luxury, the development of natural science, and the influence of a larger religious liberty. Edward Self presents some weighty considerations on the "Abuse of Citizenship." Prof. Isaac L. Rice criticizes some of "Herbert Spencer's Facts and Inferences" in social and political science, and Christine Nilsson contributes "A Few Words about Public Singing." Finally, there is a symposium on "The Moral Influence of the Drama," the participants being on the one side, the Rev. Dr. J. M. Buckley, well-known as an opponent of the stage, and on the other, John Gilbert, the actor; A. M. Palmer, theatrical manager; and William Winter, dramatic critic. 50 cents a number; $5 a year. Published at 30 Lafayette Place, New York.

ST. NICHOLAS for June is crowded with pictures. The frontispiece is a charming picture, illustrating Miss Mary J. Jacques' verses, "Great-grandmother's Garden," and there is a Decoration Day poem by Celia Thaxter, Harry M. Keiffer's popular "Drummer-Boy" sketches are revived in this number with an entertaining paper entitled, First Days in Camp. Frank R. Stockton writes an exciting boy story On the Refuge Sands, with a shipwreck and a rescue. J. T. Trowbridge leaves The Tinkham Brothers in his capital serial, involved in a concretion of disaster, from which all the pluck and energy of the Tide millers and all the ingenuity of the author will be required to extricate them; and the second installment of Swept Away, by Edward S. Ellis, is full of characteristic incident, description, and pictures.

Several of the leading features of the June CENTURY are of uncommon interest, like the frontispiece portrait of Tennyson, after Woolner's bust, and the other full-page pictures in the profusely illustrated paper by Edmund W. Gosse on Living English Sculptors; also Severn's sketch of Keats in his last illness. Most readers will probably turn with a lively interest to the three or four papers by authoritative writers, on subjects which now lead in the current of public discussion. What Professor Bryce has to say about the relations of England and Ireland is of first importance, both from his point of view as a Liberal commoner and as a student of political history. He sets Irish idiosyncracies over against English pride and stubbornness, and weighs the past causes and the future outlook of the Anglo-Irish situation with admirable fairness and attractive fullness of knowledge. Mr. Howells, in the sixth part of "A Woman's Reason," assists the hero and heroine to make up their quarrel, and introduces a shipwreck, perhaps to show that "moving accidents by flood and field" are not incompatible with his view of novel writing. A raucy story, by Professor Beers of Yale, called "Split Zephyr," contrasts the aims of a party of students on leaving college with their views and conditions fifteen years later.

Thomas Whittaker is preparing a fourth edition of his "Fifty Volume Library for the Children of the Church." The popularity of this set shows how successful has been the publisher's venture to issue really good books at an uniformly low price.

The June WIDE AWAKE, opening the Seventeenth Volume of the Magazine, shows a dainty frontispiece, illustrating a poem as dainty, "A Belated Little Maid." This same graceful writer, further on, accompanies a beautiful Decorative Plaque with beautiful verse. There are two excellent stories: "Robette," and "Kitty's Birthday," by Sarah Orne Jewett: the picturesque realism of Miss Jewett's style is as effective in a child's story as in her Atlantic Monthly work. Both stories are well illustrated. The serials are delightful—"Cacique John," the Yucatan story and "On Indiana Roads," while everybody will enjoy the Fourth Act of Mr. Talbot's White Mountain Comedy, "More Than They Bargained For." Only $2.50 a year.

COALS FROM THE ALTAR, by the Rev. Joseph Cross, D. D., LL. D. This is the fourth volume which this eminent preacher has published within three years. These sermons for the Christian year are in two volumes, which may be had together or separately at $1.50 a volume. Volume I, from Advent to Ascension; Vol. II, from Ascension to Advent; beautifully bound in cloth in three styles, brown, green and blue. T. Whittaker, 2 Bible House, New York.

SAM HOBART, the Locomotive Engineer; A Working-man's Solution of the Labor Problem. This No. 89 of the Standard Library, by the Rev. Justin D. Fulton, D. D., is a biography, written like and as attractive as a romance, and on the all absorbing question of the relation of capital to labor. Funk & Wagnall, 10 and 12 Dey street, New York.

CHOICE LITERATURE. May. In this monthly an immense amount of the best reading from the foreign magazines is given in each number, and at the low rate of $1 a year. At this price the pick of the quarterlies is given at a nominal price. J. B. Alden, 18 Vesey street, New York.

THE HOMILETIC MONTHLY for June presents its readers with thirteen sermons and outlines under the head of "Sermonic." The foreign preachers are Canon Boyd Carpenter, and Mr. Spurgeon of London; the American pulpit is well represented by Drs. Duryea, Cuvler, Howard, Talmage, and by Revs. Mr. Beecher, and others. Among the fresh things may be noticed the opinions of Drs. Talmage, H. S. Van Dyke and Chas. S. Robinson on the Use of Manuscript in Preaching; and some suggestions by Dr. Schaff on the Homiletic Value of the Revised Testament. The editorial departments are full of suggestions and helps for preachers and other Bible students. $2 50 a year, 25 cents a single copy. Funk & Wagnall, 10 and 12 Dey street, New York.

AYER'S PILLS.

A large proportion of the diseases which cause human suffering result from derangement of the stomach, bowels, and liver. AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS act directly upon these organs, and are especially designed to cure the diseases caused by their derangement, including Constipation, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Headache, Dysentery, and a host of other ailments, for all of which they are a safe, sure, prompt, and pleasant remedy. The extensive use of these PILLS by eminent physicians in regular practice, shows unmistakably the estimation in which they are held by the medical profession.

These PILLS are compounded of vegetable substances only, and are absolutely free from calomel or any other injurious ingredient.

A Sufferer from Headache writes:

"AYER'S PILLS are invaluable to me, and are my constant companion. I have been a severe sufferer from Headache, and your PILLS are the only thing I could look to for relief. One dose will quickly move my bowels and free my head from pain. They are the most effective and the easiest physic I have ever found. It is a pleasure to me to speak in their praise, and I always do so when occasion offers."

W. L. PAGE, of W. L. Page & Bro."

Franklin St., Richmond, Va., June 3, 1882.

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have never known them to fail to accomplish the desired result. We constantly keep them on hand at our home, and prize them as a pleasant, safe, and reliable family medicine. FOR DYSPEPSIA they are invaluable."

J. T. HAYES."

Mexia, Texas, June 17, 1882.

The REV. FRANCIS B. HARLOWE, writing from Atlanta, Ga., says: "For some years past I have been subject to constipation, from which, in spite of the use of medicines of various kinds, I suffered increasing inconvenience, until some months ago I began taking AYER'S PILLS. They have entirely corrected the costive habit, and have vastly improved my general health."

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS correct irregularities of the bowels, stimulate the appetite and digestion, and by their prompt and thorough action give tone and vigor to the whole physical economy.

GENERAL NEWS.

—The Diocese of New Jersey has organized a body to hold and dispense the Trust Funds of the Church in that Diocese, and this body is to be incorporated, and the trustees are to hold office from one to five years each. It is created for a purpose identical with our Parochial Trust Fund, only in this Diocese we are only allowed by the law to hold real estate.

—It is a fact that agricultural implements made in the United States can be bought in England cheaper than in the United States. So said a competent Englishman in this city a few weeks ago, and the farmers should look into it.

—The editor of The American Literary Churchman, of Baltimore, lately in emphasizing the difference between the condition of the colored race in different parts of the country, illustrates his statement with the remark: "Everybody knows that there are the widest differences between the white population of Massachusetts and that of Missouri." In what? one naturally asks.

—The unfortunate difference in the Diocese of Quincy between the Bishop and the rector and congregation of the Church of the Good Shepherd, Quincy, of which mention has been made in the secular papers, has come out into disagreeable prominence in the recent council. Dr. Corlyn was returned as having a seat as being principal of the High School. He protested, and claimed a seat as rector, which being disallowed by the committee, the rector and delegation left the Convention and propose to appeal to the provincial Synod of the State. The question turns on the meaning of a canon, as to the value of the cathedral organization and the right of rectors to a seat.

—The Diocese of Tennessee at its Convention by a large majority decided to erect a new Diocese in Western Tennessee. It is not very clear how they will sustain two dioceses, seeing that the care of one has been almost too much for the church in the entire state. The project was opposed by those from the part proposed to be set off.

—Virginia elected the Rev. Dr. A. M. Randolph, of Emanuel Church, Baltimore, as assistant Bishop. He is about 45 years old, quite a decided Low Churchman, and from Virginia. He was voted a salary of $3,500, traveling expenses and house rent. A committee was appointed on the division of the Diocese, which puts the question off for at least three years. Bishop Whittle was voted $2,500 and his voyage to Europe.

—The Convention of Springfield took action looking to legislation by the General Convention for the erasing of the title "Protestant" Episcopal from the name of the church. The Bishop said that the movement would not at first succeed, but would be persisted in until it was successful. Dr. Kaster, who opposed this policy, was not elected as delegate to General Convention.

—Some of the Roman Catholic papers in Ireland threaten to boycott the Pope for his unfriendly interference with their affairs. They are not quite decided how to harmonize his infallibility and the mistakes under which they think he rests about Irish affairs.

—The "Living Church" has shown a fine spirit of enterprise by reducing its annual subscription price to one dollar. It has taken special pains this year to have early and full reports of the Diocesan Conventions. It showed kindness in sending seventy copies of the calendar for finding the lessons to the Bishop for the members of the Convention for distribution.

—At the Convention in California, a church which had been named St. Athanasius, petitioned to have its name changed to St. Paul's. It transpired that Bishop Kip had spent $90,000, all his private fortune, in the failure through years for the Convention to meet their obligations. This has been much the case with Bishop Wingfield in Northern California.

—Kentucky, too, has decided by a large majority to have a division of the Diocese, the labor being, it is said, too great for one Bishop. It is, however, only to be presented to the General Convention when a guarantee for five years of $3,000 a year from responsible parishes and individuals is had for the new and one of $4,500 for the old Diocese. The new Diocese is the eastern portion made by a north and south line and includes Lexington, Covington and Newport. A report shows that the church is only represented in 21 of the 107 counties of the State, and in 17 of these by missionary work.

—The pulpits of a Presbyterian and a Baptist church in Richmond, Va., on the Sunday after the Convention recently, were occupied by clergymen of our Church.

—Dr. McLaren has declined to visit the Church of the Ascension, Chicago, while certain action on the part of the Rector remains unapologized for. He confirmed the candidates from that parish at the Cathedral recently.

—The opening services of General Convention in Philadelphia, this fall, are to be held in old Christ Church. The business session of the House of Deputies are to be held in the Church of the Holy Trinity, and those of the House of Bishops in the chapel adjoining. The Convention meets Wednesday, October 3d, and will probably adjourn about the 25th.

—The Bishop of North Carolina, in his address at the recent Diocesan Convention, put strongly the reasons against division of the Diocese, but said he would acquiesce in the result reached. The Convention determined to divide by quite a large vote in both orders and by a line which puts into the new Diocese the low counties along the coast, including not more than one third of the geographical extent of the State. A Bishop in travelling by land the length of his Diocese would have to go through the other Diocese, as the old Diocese at several points comes down to the coast. The case here is apparently different in North Carolina from that which appears in Kentucky and Tennessee. It has an Episcopal Fund, the income of which is reported to yield more than enough to pay the Bishop's salary.

—Grace Church, New York, which has only had a wooden spire, conspicuous as being at the head of Broadway, is to have a marble spire, 213 feet high from the street, weighing 600 tons and to cost $60,000.

—Kentucky has just changed the time of holding its Convention from May to the latter part of September; just what we did once, and undid.

—Almost all the Conventions that have acted upon the proposal for Shortened Services, passed by the last General Convention, have, while favoring the matter itself, opposed the project because of the indirectness of the method of going about it.

—In the Convention of Illinois the proposition was adopted, subject to the approval of the General Convention, that the name of the Diocese be changed to that of Chicago. The Bishop declared that the time had come for the establishment of a strong Theological Seminary in Chicago.

—The Centennial Convention of Maryland resolved for commemoration to erect a Convention building with a hall large enough to seat a thousand persons, a library with capacity for 60,000 books, and rooms for the Bishop and committees.

—A special meeting of the Board of Managers of the Church Society for Promoting Christianity amongst the Jews, to act on the report of the Committee on Missionary Appointments with reference to the enlargement of the work, was held at the Society's office, New York City, 29th ult. Provision was made for the establishment of two new missionary schools, and the appointment of nine new missionaries in various parts of the country under nomination of the Bishops concerned. This will increase the number of schools for Jewish children from four to six, and the staff of missionaries from fifteen to twenty-four, being a large and very encouraging proportionate increase.

Summer Institute for 8 Weeks

At the Normal University, Lebanon, O.
A REVIEW TERM FOR TEACHERS.

Beginning Tuesday, June 12, '83.
ENTIRE EXPENSES, $30.

The success last year was a matter of universal congratulation. Teachers, Professors, Principals and Superintendents from a majority of the States were present with their assistant teachers. Hundreds of young gentlemen and ladies prepared for examinations, obtained certificates and secured Fall schools. A great many completed a course in Book-keeping that put them into lucrative positions. Not a few County Surveyors fitted themselves for field-work during the eight weeks. The work in Botany, Geology, Natural Philosophy and Chemistry was exceedingly popular because practical. These subjects were placed in the reach of school not possessed of Laboratories and Apparatus.

The natural beauties of Lebanon scenery, the healthy location, the delights of University privileges, reunions, lectures, sociables, excursions and entertainments, make this Summer Institute the most profitable and agreeable summer resort in the country. Catalogues sent free.

—In the Pennsylvania Convention they resolved to purchase a Diocesan house, in which the meetings of Convention could be held, and the permanent rooms of its officers could be placed. They will memorialize the General Convention in favor of a graduated representation to that body according to the size of Dioceses. Their committee also reported, but the report was not adopted, that biennial sessions of the Diocesan Conventions was better. Connecticut reported this last result a few years ago, but found that there would have to be made changes in the General Canons in order to realize it, as they went on the theory of Annual Diocesan Conventions.

CAUSE FOR APPREHENSION.

Why Mysterious Physical Troubles
Arouse Special Dread—A Professional Experience.

Few things give more pain than dread or apprehension. Most people are able to face apparent danger heroically, but the sudden and unexpected coming of some indefinite calamity very naturally strikes terror to even the bravest. For this reason lightning and tornadoes are considered terrible; their coming and going are so sudden, unannounced and unknown. For this same reason an unknown disease, some poison in the blood, some malady that is gradually undermining the life, is specially dreaded by all thinking people. And, indeed, there are good reasons for such dread, for modern science has discovered that some virulent disorders show the least signs in their beginnings, while they have the worst possible symptoms. We know of many persons who have dull and uncertain pains in various portions of the body; who are unnaturally tired one day and apparently well the next; who have an enormous appetite at times and a loathing of food soon thereafter. Such persons are really in a dangerous condition, even though they may not realize it. The following statement of a most prominent physician, who has had unusual opportunities for investigation, is of so striking and important a nature that it will be read with interest by all:

Cincinnati, O., Dec. 2, 1882.

Messrs. Editors:

I have, during my professional career of many years' practice, treated a large number of various disorders, of which, perhaps, none have given me more trouble than the mysterious disease known as acute nephritis; and while it may seem strange, it is, nevertheless, true, that the physician is generally greatly annoyed by this mysterious trouble. Especially when the case is of hereditary origin. It is, doubtless, the first stage of the well-known, but terrible Bright's disease, as the kidneys contain large quantities of albumen; and while children and young people are especially liable to its attacks, it is prevalent with all classes, and usually continues until late in life.

One obstinate case which came under my observation, was that of a fireman of this city who applied to me for treatment. The case was diagnosed parenchymatous nephritis. The man was twenty-four years of age; plethoric and light complexioned. He stated that he had suffered from urinary troubles from childhood, and that he had "doctored" a hundred times, each time improving some; after which, in a short while, he would relapse into his former state of misery. I prescribed the usual therapeutics known to the profession with the same result that my colleagues had obtained. He got better for a while and then worse again; in fact, so bad that he had to lay off for some time. He suffered intense pain; so much so that I confessed I had to resort to hypodermic injections of morphia. My druggist, who knew how disgusted I was with the case, although not willing to desert the man, advised me to try a remedy from which he (the druggist) himself, had derived great benefit. As a drowning man catches at a straw, I prescribed this remedy, not letting my patient, however, know what I was giving him; and, although not a believer in nor a patron of "patent medicines," I must confess that after my fireman had taken one bottle he grew much better. I made him continue its use for a period of two months, with the most gratifying results; it really worked wonders and he owes his cure and present perfect health solely to the remarkable power of Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, the remedy which I prescribed, and he used.

Since the recovery of the man above mentioned, I have given considerable thought to the subject of acute nephritis, or kidney difficulty, and I find that its manifestations are most remarkable. It often appears without any special symptoms of its own, or possibly as a sequel to some other disease. It may be a sequel to scarlatina, diphtheria, and other illnesses. The first symptoms frequently show themselves in the form of high, fierce, and intense pains in the lumbar region, "the small of the back," troublesome micturitions and frequent changes in the color of the urine which at times diminishes perceptibly. If the urine is entirely suppressed, the case, probably, will terminate fatally in a very few days. Dropsy is a consequence of the suppression of urine, and the severeness of it is governed by the proportion of retention. The nervous system becomes prostrated with subsequent convulsions and irregular circulation of the blood, which, in my estimation, eventually might cause a diseased heart to give out. As I have remarked, in many kidney diseases—yes, even in Bright's disease itself—there is no perceptible pain in the back, and these troubles often assert themselves in various symptoms—for instance, in troublesome diarrhoea, blood poison, impaired eyesight, nausea, loss of appetite, disordered digestion, loss of consciousness, husky voice and many other complaints too numerous to mention. Indeed thousands of people are suffering from the first stages of Bright's disease today, and they do not know it.

In conclusion, I would like to state that I have, since my success with the fireman, repeatedly prescribed Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, and if my professional brethren could only be brought so far as to overcome their prejudice against proprietary medicines they would, undoubtedly, find themselves recompensed for their supposed sacrifice of liberty, as well as by the great benefits that would accrue to the world.

Most sincerely,

O. ANDERSON, M. D.
Superintendent.

We make this liberal offer because we desire to give a present sufficiently large to induce every one to give Dobbins' Electric Soap a trial long enough to know just how good it is. If, after trial, they continue to use the soap for years, we shall be repaid. If they only use the fifteen bars, getting the dollar's worth of music gratis, we shall lose money. This shows our confidence. The Soap can only be bought at all grocers—the music can only be got of us. See that our name is on each wrapper.

A box of this Soap contains sixty bars. Any lady buying a box, and sending us sixty cuts of Mrs. Foggy, can select music to the amount of $4.50. This Soap improves with age, and you are not asked to buy a useless article, but one you use every week.

THE pressure of increasing work in the Diocese is such that the visitations have had a kept steadily up since early Spring into July and August. These last months ought to be reserved for rest, but for this year they must be used; partly because the fall must be given to the General Convention. The high waters also have caused great disturbance in plans of appointments. After trying for days to reach places the Bishop has had to turn back and name other days. Of course others suffered more, and the matter is mentioned here only because it illustrates one side of a Bishop's life, in the large amount of time which must be spent on trains and waiting at railway stations. Sometimes successive nights are broken up in this way.

CLERICAL SUPPLY.

In another column will be found an interesting communication from a thoughtful layman, who along with entire competence to grasp the reach of the question of Clerical Supply shows with what interest he entered into the question as discussed during the Convention. The postulates on which the subject as it came before the Convention claimed the right of attention were these: The tests of growth and condition in the Diocese were satisfactory in every point except that of a want of proper clergymen and Candidates for Orders: this condition was one not peculiar to this Diocese, but complained of in nearly all, and existing also in other Christian bodies: the lay growth of the Church was altogether out of proportion to the increase in the numbers of those having pastoral care: such a condition is one to be lamented, and well deserves attention and examination as to its causes.

Perhaps the discussion was not in all respects inspiring. It seemed to question at times the value of some of the underlying propositions, implying that there were as the case stood ministers enough, that there were such exceptional difficulties in clerical life, an urgency of others into it could not be expected. The debate gave opportunity for the utterance of some wise cautions, and some thrilling reaffirmations of loyalty to the high ends for which the ministry was created. Especially noteworthy were the lay utterances of Prof. Snow and Mr. Goodrich Wilson. The communication will be read with interest by all.

BISHOP PINKNEY.

Another of the Church's fathers has gone, and with a suddenness which is startling. Others of the Bishops have been ailing, and it has been feared that they must soon go to their rest; but in spite of his advanced years no one had thought that the next one to be called would be the Bishop of Maryland, and that the seat which he adorned would so soon be vacant.

He was indeed a Father in God: a large-minded and large-hearted man, who could not do an unworthy or an unjust thing knowingly. He was an old Maryland gentleman, of honored name and ancestry, of staunch, principled, settled High Church instincts, and yet firm against innovations which disturbed the order and established belief of the Church.

He was wearied with strife, and possibly their fret hastened the functional disturbances which so suddenly terminated his life. His last Convention, which celebrated the centennial of the Church's independent organization in Maryland, was however a quiet and peaceful one; and this it will be a comfort for many to remember.

Four of the five Bishops of Maryland have been natives of the State, and it has been rather the pride to chose those who were identified with the history and traditions of the State. This may narrow the choice of the one who will be chosen to succeed. It will be a difficult place to fill.

A CALAMITY.

On the seventh of last month the Bishop was at Brunswick at his appointed time, but the rain came down in such torrents at the hour of assembling of the congregation that, while a number were present from six to ten miles, the town's people could not get to church. The Bishop, in consideration of the circumstances, promised to give them Sunday, 24th ult. Just as he was starting for the place, the day before he received a letter telling him that on the night of the 20th a tornado had blown the church down and entirely destroyed it.

This was distressing news. The church was built in 1871, was of frame, cost about $4,000, and was an exact duplicate of the church in Mexico, which has had such a sad experience of being bent, and twisted, and repeatedly repaired. It was about 50 feet long, with an apsidal chancel of the full width of the church, 12 feet deep, with large vestry room, and open timbered roof, and high spire. It had firmly stood up to this time, and this had induced a belief in its absolute security.

There has always been defects. The upright timbers were too light, the roof had in it a needless waste of lumber. There were no braces to bind the sides and roof together. The roof but little more than lay on the side walls. The building fronted west, and was protected on the north by a hill. On its south side the church was sustained by a brick wall, five feet high and only nine inches thick. Its upper side was level with the ground. The blow came from the north, and either the thinness of the walls, with its height and the softness of the ground, from the long continued rains, or the weight of the roof, or the wind, or all combined, caused the building to push over. The sides, and roof, and floor were but little crushed. The ends were more broken up. The vestry room had been pulled over and was far up on its side.

The loss came very heavy upon the little congregation. Service was held on Sunday in the Disciple's church, which was kindly offered, and in which seven persons were confirmed. They have had no minister for six months. Before he left the Bishop arranged for raising nearly all of the amount required, with the timber that will be available from the wreck, to build a church large enough for the congregation. The old building was always twice as large as the town or the parish required.

The church at Mexico, injured by winds and often repaired, has at length been taken down to be replaced by a brick structure: so that now both of these churches, designed by the Rev. Mr. Jackson, and whose strength he so stoutly asserted, have passed out of existence.

DIOCESAN ITEMS.

—It was found that the roof of the Advent was not taken off any too soon for replacing by a new roof. Large holes were found where the roof was rotted through, and the stuff had to be only shovelled off. It is now repaired and is all right.

—The work of collecting the $3,000 to complete the cash payments for the purchase of the church of the Good Samaritan, fell on the Rev. Mr. Mason, wholly; and it was very hard at times and almost discouraging. The Bishop had $600 for the purpose, and his people had collected beforehand $900. To raise the balance, especially the last $300, was so difficult that he was about to give up in despair. A pledge had been made to him to raise through the city as much more as his people would give, and without the hope of this he would hardly have had the courage to set out on his work; but this was not fulfilled, and he only learned of it after he had begun. A strong sense of the important results depending on the securing of this property for the church carried him on, and we may anticipate the highest prospects for the parish, now that it is secured.

—The frequent rains during May and June acted disastrously upon the full results expected from some of the Bishop's visitations during those months. In one case four families, with a number of children, some of whom were to be baptized, came from four to twelve miles in open wagons to the service. Some of them became thoroughly drenched in the heavy storm which continued to fall after the service. In consequence, with characteristic Western hospitality, the family in which the Bishop stayed opened its house, not a large one, still further, and sheltered for the night, fifteen guests on a moment's notice. It was kindly and promptly done. The Bishop was able to say that in consequence of the storm which kept away a number who were to have been confirmed, he would give them another service on a Sunday two or three weeks after.

—The Church society for Promoting Christianity among the Jews, which has sustained a mission in this city for the past two years, will this fall establish a school for the better prosecution of its work. A house will be rented in a suitable location, and an experienced teacher have charge, under the direction of the Rev. Mr. Chestnut.

—The Governor of the State has written the Bishop intimating his purpose to appoint him as one of the delegates to the National Conference of Charities and Corrections to be held at Louisville, September 25th.

—The floods prevented the Bishop from reaching Marshall from Blackburn Sunday, 17th ult., although it was only eighteen miles distant. The whole country was almost under water. He was also prevented by the same cause from reaching Miami, Carrollton and Norborne.

—The Rev. Jos. T. Wright has resigned the rectorship of St. John's church in this city, to take effect August 15th. We are very sorry to hear this. He has worked faithfully, and for a large part of the time under the disadvantage of continued ailment. Frequently from rheumatism he has risen from his bed to go to church, and then has scarcely been able to walk across the chancel. During his administration the debt has been paid off, and the revenue of the parish has increased steadily. His kind services for the Sisters at the school have been greatly appreciated.

—The Bishop is one of the deputation appointed at the last General Convention, to attend the Provincial Synod of Canada at its triennial session in September next in Montreal, to convey the greetings of the Church in the United States. The deputation consists of three bishops, three presbyters and three laymen.

—The congregation of Christ church, St. Joseph, worships now in the basement, the upper part being in the hands of the fescos. It is intended to spend $1,200 on the interior work. Plans for large, memorial chancel windows, and a handsome font are also under way.

—The second issue of the parish year broke off Grace Church, Kansas City, has a methodical statement of the results accomplished during the year, and some valuable suggestions to the members of the congregation. The report of the treasurer of the parish shows $8,025.42 received, of which $2,171 was used to pay off encumbrance; $1,263 for music; $396 for improvements. The rector reports $1,147.39 as having gone through his hands, of which $370 was for improvements, and $206 for missions. The Ladies' Society received $1,458.69, of which $840 went for bonded debt on the church, and $481 for improvement of the church. The treasurer of the Sunday school received $292.54. Of the communicants 47 have moved into and 60 from the parish, and the number at Easter was 248. The rector says the procuring of a new, better and larger organ; memorial gifts for the church; bringing, not sending, the children to church, and suggests a line of church literature, including THE NEWS.

—The church at Joplin has met with almost an irreparable loss in the death of Mrs. R. M. Roberts, the wife of the sheriff of the county, a daughter of Judge Porter of Hannibal, and for years the foremost in Church work in the parish. Of singular loveliness of character, gentle, quiet, thoughtful, helpful, her place at home and in the church can never be filled.

—A young Churchman from Chillicothe, now living in a new town in Grundy county, has a Sunday school class of boys which meets under a tree; a society whose constitution requires that the President shall be a Churchman. In an intelligent and loving way he is bringing the minds of his young associates to a knowledge of the Church and Christian things. The Bishop has sent them some books.

—The building of a stove factory on the west side of St. Luke's Hospital, on the other side of the street, is going to be a serious, and we fear, permanent annoyance. The hammering of iron plates is constant, and is very wearying to sick patients. Of course this is worse in summer time. Mrs. A. C. Moore has given $500 for putting the elevator of the hospital in good condition. It is now estimated that this will cost $800, but it is an absolutely necessary improvement.

—The Bishop spent Sunday, 1st inst., in Trinity church, De Soto. They have no clergyman, but hope very soon now to secure one. The ladies have a cut-stone wall placed around the front and side of the lot.

—The congregation of the Good Samaritan have asked consent from the Bishop for a change of the name of their congregation, now that they are entering upon the possession of their new church, to that of All Saints. Their name came from the request of Mrs. Robt. B. Minturn of New York, who gave the first and largest benefaction to the mission, and at its start, and who desired to have it named as it was in memory of her husband, the noble Christian of an early day.

—A gentleman has made a handsome gift of the amount required to place a full and very handsome set of gas fixtures all through Christ Church, including a corona for the chancel. Services for the summer are to be held in the chapel while the church itself is being thoroughly renovated. Dr. Schuyler will not leave the city until August.

—The Domestic Missionary Committee has appointed for this Diocese for the year, beginning September 1st., for its missionary $1,800, for its general work, and $800 for work among the colored people. This is the same amount as was given last year. This amount is to be divided by the bishop among the places needing external aid, and such missionaries are by him nominated to the Domestic Board.

—Some curious observer has called attention to the acephalous condition in which the diocese will be next October, when the Bishop and all the clerical members for the Standing Committee will be absent in Philadelphia for the General Convention.

—There are consultations going on looking to the possible acquisition of land on Washington avenue for the erection of St. Luke's Hospital. In any event the chapel should be connected either structurally or by covered ways with the hospital, so that the patients may avail themselves of the services, or else there will be no justification for the building. The trustees will put out very shortly a very convenient little hand-book, giving the acknowledgements of gifts for the past year, sketch of the history of the hospital, etc.

—The new church in Rolla was used for the first time on Sunday, 1st inst.

—One of the members of the Sisterhood in St. Mary's church, Kansas City, the Sisters of the Holy Name, died on the 5th inst. The Rev. Mr. Betts went up to conduct the funeral.

—The purchase money, so far as had to be paid in cash, $3000, for the new church of the Good Samaritan, on the corner of Washington avenue and 23d street, was paid last week. The congregation will enter into possession of the property early in August, and will make quite extensive repairs to fit it for the purposes of the congregation. The Rev. Mr. Mason has gone East for a vacation. A considerable advance could be had for our purchase if we were disposed to sell the property.

—The Bishop visited Christ church, Boonville, on Sunday, 8th inst., the Services in which are maintained by Mr. Wilkins, the Lay Reader. The congregations, morning and night, and the Sunday-school in the afternoon, were very large. The Bishop baptized ten children and two adults in the afternoon, and at night confirmed ten persons, who had been prepared by Mr. Wilkins.

THE SISTERS' SCHOOL.

The closing exercises of the school of the Good Shepherd took place at the school, No. 2029 Park avenue, Thursday evening, 14th ult. As usual, the building was crowded to its utmost limits, and there was in this an intimation of the need of larger space. The saloon was arranged with a platform facing the door, on which the Bishop's chair was placed and the exercises were held, and at each end there were elevated platforms, at one end for the school, and at the other for the audience.

The clergy present, beside the Bishop, were the Rev. Dr. Schuyler, Messrs. Reed, Wright and Newton.

The Rev. Mr. Newton gave the address, which was conceived in a most happy spirit, and expressed in the graceful speech which he well knows how to use. It was based on the motto of the graduating class, "Memor et Fidelis." During the evening, beside choruses, there were a piano duet by Misses Daisy Rollins and Milly Bartel, and by Misses Scott and Mamie Winn; two solos by Miss Gulla Scheel; quartette, violin solo; a vocal duet by Misses Mamie Lamb and Winn, and a solo by Miss Tyrrel. There were two German dialogues by Misses Wickham, Parker, Mersman, Orthwein and Hill; a French scene by Misses Sharpe, Simpson and others. The Salutatory on Art was delivered by Miss Scott, and the Valedictory on History by Miss Kenrick, who presented the Bishop in the name of the class, a beautiful bouquet.

These children received certificates in the Primary Class of Honor: Helen Curtis, Julia Cox, Sadie Ferguson, Maud McDowell, Sasa Shields and Susie Van Duzer. The following continued perfect in deportment for the year were given silver medals: Virgie Conn, Alice Fichtenkam, Virgie Reed and Felicia Judson.

In the Class of Honor, proper, which requires perfectness in attendance, deportment and scholarship, the following received certificates: Annie Scott, Annie Kenrick, Louise Whittemore, Mamie Winn, Jennie Mead, Gertie Van Duzer, Lollie Edger, Anna Mullins and Beulah Boogher. The following who had previously received medals, still retained their places in the Class of Honor: Emily Bryan, Mamie Sharpe and Gulla Scheel.

The graduates of this year were Misses Gulla Scheel, Annie Scott and Annie Kenrick. Miss Scheel was awarded the Bishop's Gold Medal.

It was a delightful evening, as the year had been a happy and prosperous one for the school.

Its capacity was tested to the utmost. One little girl, Jean Cochran, a favorite scholar, had been called away from earth. The pupils parted for their homes and for needed rest. The next term begins Wednesday, Sept. 13th. Letters sent to Sister Catharine, 2029 Park avenue, about applications for entrance, will no doubt receive prompt attention.

The rent on the property, already very high, has been raised still higher for the future, and with conditions which make it still more urgent that prompt measures should be taken to secure permanence of home for this most important auxiliary of the church.

MISSIONARY HOST.

Bishop Bedell, who was present, thus expressed himself in the Standard of the Cross about the anniversary of the Missionary Host:

"I have just returned from a most exciting scene; 2,500 Sunday school scholars gathered in old Christ Church! all engaged in the missionary work; all singing the praises of Christ; reciting together the Apostles' Creed; praying together the Lords' Prayer; and shouting together the Gloria in Excelsis. Think of it! 2,500 children of the Church surrounding their fifteen pastors and their bishop, feeling that but one heart was beating in them all, and that one heart all for Christ. What would the Scribes and Pharisees have said to such an Hosanna as I have heard this afternoon! Skeptics and infidels may sneer as they please, but the Church is marching on in majesty to certain triumph, wherever the little ones are thus trained to realize their in-folding, their unity in Christ, their individual responsibility for his work, and the happy results of systematic giving in his cause. The Bishop emphasized these lessons of the occasion in his brief address.

Fourteen schools were gathered. Fully one hour was occupied in seating the children. Each school marched into the church preceded by its banners and singing its own Processional Hymn. The service was brief. But it was worth a long journey to hear the Creed recited as with one voice by 2,500 children; and the old Gloria in Excelsis chanted by a chorus of 2,500! Apart from the singing the interest centered in the secretary's report, the treasurer's report, and the Bishop's address. This Missionary Host (for this is the name of the society) already gives the chief support of two Missionaries. It is raised by subscriptions of not more than 5 cents per month. This has been a sight to rouse a Churchman's enthusiasm; and I long to witness a similar scene, under a similar organization, in Cleveland.

G. T. BEDELL.

The Treasurer, Mr. Simmons, gave the total of what the Host raised during its fourteen years of life. Exact figures could not be given for the first two years, but the approximate amount for those years was given. The total is a surprisingly large amount, considering that it comes from the adding of nickel to nickel:

LACK OF CANDIDATES.

Editor Church News:

The Report of the Committee on the Lack of Candidates for Holy Orders in this Diocese, presented to the Convention, produced a painful impression on my mind, and doubtless, also, on the minds of many others. It is seldom one is called on to hear a report so disponding in tone, and speeches so hopeless and so material. In fact, the note both of the Report and of the Discussion was lack of faith. The idea seemed to be that a certain work had to be done; that the doing involved much hardship and little pay, that it was made more difficult by certain contemptuous estimation of it and its laborers; that prudent people had accepted the Convention's estimate of the work and of the workers, and that to-day, in consequence, there was not a single candidate for the Holy Orders in this great diocese. Listening to this discussion, one could not believe that the promise, "Lo, I am with you alway," had been made to that convention, and in fact they did not seem to believe it themselves.

Now for my part, I was, and am firmly convinced that there is no reason why we should dispond—that in this business there is neither time nor place for such a feeling. I devoutly believe that the promise, "Lo, I am with you," was made to us, and that this promise excludes dispondency.

I believe that the office of a priest is divinely appointed, is a high and holy office which God has ordained to endure while the World lasts, and which men—men of the world—would not willingly let die, so beneficent is it. I believe that glory, honor and immortality is to be won to day, as in the old days, by a life of holiness, self-denial and devotion to the souls of men, and that therefore the noble and devoutly aspiring will always seek this service. I believe that in the humble discharge of his functions, the true priest receives in this world special tokens of God's favor and approval—holiness of life, peace, exemption from much of the temptation, distraction and care which oppress men, and a human sympathy larger than is enjoyed by any other; in short, that no happier scheme of life could be devised for mortal man, and that therefore men in due numbers will seek it.

These are my reasons for thinking that there is no room for despair, that the causes which have produced this poverty of men are temporary, and that it is simply our duty to try and ascertain these causes and prayerfully and hopefully apply such remedy as we may.

One cause which I will suggest cannot now be remedied,—it is a fault which is now receiving its punishment. A long seed time was suffered to pass unimproved, and we cannot reap what we did not sow. Anyone familiar with the history of the diocese for the fifteen years prior to 1868, will admit that during that period the affairs of the Church were at a low ebb. It was in the midst of the deadness, shiftlessness and terrible license of that time that the men who ought now to be candidates for orders were born and nurtured. Could any condition of society and of the Church be more unlikely to recommend the service of the altar to impressionable youth. On the other hand I expect noble returns from the years that bound the present Episcopate, or rather from the time when the work of the present Episcopate began to tell on the life and order of the Church.

But there are other causes for this lack of candidates which we may remedy, and which we should set about remedying at once.

First, then, I think we have no candidates because we do not pray for them. "Pray ye the Lord of the harvest that he send forth laborers into his harvest." Has the Church in this diocese any authorized petitions to be used regularly and perpetually in her public service, and by her members in their private devotions, for this blessing? I have not heard them.

Again I think we lack them because we do not invite them. To recruit an army you must offer special inducements, make special demand. I do not know that the Church by any systematic means appeals to her members in this behalf. Doubtless pastoral letters and reports of conventions set forth the need of men, but the appeal direct, persuasive, urgent, as part of the Church's dealing with her young men, has it ever been made?

Again, at the critical moment when the young man passes ere he finally and forever decides what shall be his course in life, it may be with strong predilections to the service of Christ in his Church, his soul is filled with doubts, doubts proceeding from his modesty, from his conscientiousness, from his awe, doubts of his fitness, of his worthiness, of his endurance. Has the Church appointed men and opportunity to resolve those doubts? I don't think doubts concerning doctrine trouble any child of the Church at such a moment; but concerning his own worthiness to so much as look to that awful eminence on which he would stand as it were between God and the human soul—many. In every parish priest the Church ought to possess a resolver of doubts, if possible, in favor of the Church. Does she?

Lastly, I think that in the discussion of this question by the Church, too much space is given to mere ways and means. When the Church shall have offered her best provision she will still fall far short of the prizes offered by the world's preferences, and to the young man none of these preferences appear beyond his reach. We want to secure the young man, yet we omit the grand appeal—to his enthusiasm, to his self-denial, to his higher aspirations—and dangle the equivalent of a petty clerkship before his eyes. I thank Professor Snow for his tribute to the young man; it was eminently just because eminently true. With the Professor, I believe that a computing of money and material advantages is not the print on which the young man's choice turns in the majority of cases. Enthusiasm and generosity are the characteristics of the yet uncorrupted youth. You can at that period of his life successfully invite him to poverty and hardship for the love of God and for the welfare of man. Has the appeal ever failed in any period of the history of the Church? Has the response ever been other than overwhelming? Young men are not so different to day that they should slight on appeal which has always stirred the noblest impulses of the human heart. I believe there are hundreds, nay thousands of young men in this diocese to whom the call would come as a message from heaven inviting them to glory and an everlasting reward.

Suppose, therefore, that the Church put herself in the attitude of asking and expecting this blessing by praying both in her public services and in the private devotions of her members for laborers to be sent into her great harvest in this diocese; that she systematically, and as a part of her function, invite, encourage, persuade her sons to the service of her altar; that she appoint the men and times and places for resolving the doubts and fears of a tremulous modesty; suppose lastly, she boldly call them to poverty and hardship and shame "for His name," can we doubt, dare we doubt, that there will be given to her, in response, men—so many that there will not be room enough to receive them.

LAY DELEGATE.

Mr. Editor:

In the last issue of THE CHURCH NEWS the Bishop spoke of the action of the late Convention in treating with indifference the question of Temperance. I think this action demands more than a passing notice, for I fear it virtually kills the question in the Diocese of Missouri. For several Sessions the subject has been before us. It will hardly again be presented. Doubtless this is the result the Diocese desires, but it is a result deeply to be deplored. Other Dioceses are actively engaged in pressing the work and gaining honors that we have declined. The plans and principles submitted are wise, moderate, and possess the very elements that bring together extremists in either direction. The total abstainer and he who uses moderation in drinking can work harmoniously together on this platform. But now the platform is broken up in our Diocese; and the most sanguine in the face of the point blank refusal of the Convention to give the movement any encouragement will hardly try its reconstruction.

The resolution of the Committee on Temperance at the last Convention was treated with as little interest as the question of adjournment. And this is the end of the labors and efforts of the last several years, in this movement of the visit of the Bishop of Rochester and Mr. Robert Graham, of the time, labor, and cost of the committee of ten appointed September 25, 1882, in the Church of the Holy Communion, of the recommendation of the Bishop that the clergy throughout the Diocese exert themselves through the pulpit and parish agencies to establish the Church Temperance Society. This is the end of the whole matter! The Convention of 1883 could have taken no action that would have been as creditable to itself, as honorable to the Diocese, as profitable to the Church, as blessed to the State, as a hearty endorsement of and a vigorous working in the cause of the Church Temperance Society. We fiddled while Rome burned, and this solemn trifling has deprived us of the honor of being a mighty social, moral, and religious power in the State of Missouri.

BENJ. E. REED.

A CHAPTER OF CHURCH HISTORY.

ST. CHARLES.

It has occurred to us that other struggling parishes, other poor and disheartened congregations, like our own, might be encouraged and benefited by perusing a leaf from our Church history, and for this reason we ask a place in your columns in order to give a very condensed account of our efforts for the payment of our church debt and the establishment of our church here upon a solid basis.

For many years our communion had owned a building, which they used for occasional worship, in a very inaccessible portion of the town. This was sold, and another house bought. This again was sold upon very good terms, for the sum of $1850, $400 of which we expended immediately for a lot in a more desirable locality, and commenced building a church which, through the influence of the architect, who planned it, and the promises of our then resident minister, was entirely too large and expensive for our means,—a common but very pernicious mistake, and one which has crippled and ruined numerous other churches beside our own weak communion. After making some progress in the building, buying stone, and paying as high as $600 for the window frames alone, it was found that we would have to abandon the work, and the foundation with its scattered stones are still to be seen as a monument of the folly of its projectors. Upon referring to the figures I find that all of $2300 was thus squandered, and was nearly a dead loss.

After this the ladies decided, with the concurrence of the gentlemen, to try if they could not build a small, cheap chapel, which would not cost over $1000. Changes were made in the original plan, and when finished without the seats it was $2000. It was put up by the Building Association, and the Ladies Aid Society obligated themselves to pay a certain sum every month, which they never failed to do, until the society collapsed and Mrs. Tillie Gibbs, our faithful president, had to leave us. Then we borrowed money at ten per cent., which we paid for years, and when two years since Mrs. Sallie Orme became our treasurer, the outlook was so dark it did not seem possible that our weak little band could pay it off. The sum then was somewhere near $400. We, however, went bravely, prayerfully and hopefully to work. Hundreds of garments were made and disposed of at very small profits, in order to insure their sale, hundreds of gloves were knit by that same old lady, before noticed in your columns, who now has the proud satisfaction of feeling that even in her old age and feebleness she has been enabled to do something for the cause of God, and in order to teach our little girls that they, too, must do something, they were sent out with the church basket to sell our articles. As one set grew too old for the work, others were pressed into their places. Some weeks since, finding that we had in bank sufficient funds to liquidate the debt, except a small balance of $25, we determined to give a festival, which was done, and took us handsomely out of debt, with a small balance left for future use. The very next morning we paid the amount due, took in the note, and felt so thankful and happy that it was almost worth all the struggles, anxiety, and labor through which we had passed to feel as good as we did over the final settlement, and to know that we were now worshipping under our own vine and fig tree.

In closing I wish to quote a few words from a note of our honored Sunday school Superintendent, himself a steady worker, H. C. Lackland: "To the ladies belongs the credit of redeeming and establishing the Church in St. Charles. The Ladies Aid Society, slightly organized as it is, has accomplished wonders by the power of little and persistent effort." This society has at no time of its existence had more than ten working members, and for the last two years the average attendance has not been greater than five. During the whole time of its existence and meetings its members have worked together in the most perfect harmony. No disagreements, no petty jealousies, no discords have arisen to mar its usefulness. This has been a silent refutation of the off-repeated masculine slander that no organization composed entirely of women and controlled by them could get on peaceably together. The writer of this article who, from the force of circumstances, has only been an occasional and non-ary member, has often jestingly told the ladies that she would not belong to a society that could not occasionally interest her by a little harmless, spicy, and amusing gossip.

Our divine Master once said in commendation of a woman, "She hath done what she could." We have tried very feebly, it may be, to imitate her example. To us it has been a work of love. We have done what we could. AURELIA.

EARLY DAYS IN KANSAS CITY.

On Christmas day the Rev. C. M. Callaway of Topeka, who was subsequently elected as rector of St. Luke's, assisted Mr. Corbyn and administered the Holy Communion to eighteen persons. Very soon after this Mr. Corbyn gave up his work in Independence and confined his attention to Kansas City, eking out a support by teaching a private school. The uncertainty and inconvenience of holding the services in various places, now in the court house, then in the Methodist church, and again in his school room, retarded the growth of the congregation. The minister urged the building of a plain church, but the ambition of the place desired a structure that would be, as was declared, an "ornament to the city." The result was that the work did not go beyond the foundation. Some progress was made in the music, and in 1859 sometimes the chants were sung.

In December Mr. Corbyn, being discouraged, resigned the rectorship, but on invitation continued to officiate, in the meanwhile teaching his school. In the January following, 1860, at a parish meeting presided over by Judge G. W. Toler, on motion of Mr. Boyer, the vestry were requested to call to the rectorship the Rev. C. M. Callaway, of Topeka, whose name had been suggested by the bishop. The vestry did this, fixed the salary at $1,000 per annum, and the call in due time was accepted. Mr. Callaway came and assumed the rectorship, and presided at the parish desk on Easter Monday, and announced that he would remove to this city on the September following, and in the meantime would "fill the desk" as often as possible. Mr. J. L. Watkins was at this time the senior warden. Mr. Chas. R. Field was authorized by the vestry to rent Concert hall on court house square for services on Sunday and Wednesday evenings, for two hundred dollars a year.

On the 23d of September the Rev. Mr. Callaway took charge of the congregation, there being at this time twenty five communicants in the parish. The Sunday-school was kept up by Mr. Corbyn, in his school room on the corner of Kane and Ross streets, and he also assisted in the services.

The incumbency of Mr. Callaway was very short, as in the next spring the community was torn and excited by the coming on of the civil war. He presented his resignation on the 1st of March, and in a few days afterward removed to Baltimore. After this for more than four years there was a long interruption, while the country was wasted by a struggle which in this section had all the fierceness of a predatory and partisan warfare. All religious services were suspended in this city. The doors of the churches were closed, except as the buildings were used as hospitals for the wounded and dying soldiers of both armies. The foundations and the materials gathered for the church building were scattered, and in the four years only two parish meetings and but one regular meeting of the vestry were held. The whole work of the church had substantially to be done all over again.

With the return of peace, however, the city sprang forward on its career of prosperity. As the population of the state had diminished one-third in consequence of the war, the immigration at its close set in at an enormous rate. The energy of the citizens of Kansas City, added to the natural advantages of the place, caused that turning of the railway systems toward this city, which has done so much for the building up of its trade and population.

In the spring of 1865 efforts were made to gather together the scattered members, but nothing was accomplished until September 8, 1865, when Bishop Hawks held his first service after the long interval, and called the Church people to their duty. He found that the people were ready to pay $1,000 a year as the salary of a clergyman. On the 23d of October, a parish meeting was called, and presided over by Mr. Watkins, the senior warden. At this time Messrs. Watkins and Ermingham were the wardens, and Messrs. M. Dively, H. W. Cooper, Geo. W. Toler, J. B. Hatch, J. W. Hagler, and D. S. Twitchell were the vestrymen. On motion of Judge Toler the Rev. Joseph Wood, jr. of Coldwater, Mich., was called to the rectorship, at an annual salary of $1,500, payable quarterly in advance. Mr. Wood was then in this city, and had preached the day before to large congregations in the Methodist church on Fifth street. The visit had been arranged by Mr. A. I. Bidwell of Coldwater, who had paid half the expense of the journey, the vestry paying the other half. The call was accepted, and Mr. Wood entered upon his duties with the beginning of the year 1866. Mr. H. W. Cooper, who had been appointed a committee to secure for services the Concert hall, which had been used before the war, found that this was only practicable by the payment of an annual rental of $2,000. This being out of the question, an arrangement was made again with the Methodist congregation on Fifth street for the use of their church for an hour and a half on Sunday afternoons. The ladies had held a fair, from which had resulted $600, with which they furnished a house for the rector and purchased a melodeon and music.

It is interesting to read now, after the lapse of seventeen years, the estimate which Mr. Wood formed and expressed in 1866 of the prospects of this city. He said: "In a commercial point of view Kansas City is one of the most promising and important places west of St. Louis. It is now the western terminus of the Missouri Pacific railroad and eastern terminus of the Union Pacific railroad, which is now completed to Topeka. Other roads running north and south are contemplated, and in progress; one to give us a Chicago connection, via the Hannibal and St. Joseph railroad, and the other to run south to the Gulf of Mexico. In fact Kansas City, from its natural position, is the base of supply for a large region of the west, and must speedily become second only to St. Louis, and the metropolis of western Missouri."

The population of this city had at this time reached over 10,000, and was rapidly advancing. Real estate had a speculative value; dwelling houses could not be put up fast enough to meet the need; rents were very high, and families could hardly be accommodated.

In this emergency, the great question which engaged the parish was the securing of a settled home. It was the constant subject of discussion whenever the vestry met. Resolutions would be adopted, and committees appointed to solicit subscriptions; but the matter made little substantial progress. The question of location was a subject of dispute. The parish still owned the lot on the corner of Fifth and High, and a committee consisting of Messrs. Watkins and C. L. Thompson was appointed to solicit subscriptions to build upon that land. Urgent letters were sent to New York by the rector, imploring the church people of the east to render help. The fact was stated that in one direction we had no Church nearer than St. Joseph, and in the other direction one would have to travel a hundred miles before coming to any of our clergy. The fearful losses which the state had suffered, and the struggle which it had been through were pleaded. The immensely important position which this city was to hold, was urged. The gifts from abroad were considerable, but not enough to justify the building of a church, especially as the local pride was averse to the putting up of any inferior structure. In the end, however, the title to the lot proved to be defective, and so the movement in this direction was abandoned.

Easter day, April 1, 1866, was a day much to be remembered. The trustees of the First Baptist church, on the northeast corner of May and Eighth streets, were appealed to, and granted the use of their large edifice for the full morning service and the holy communion; the first time for five years that the morning service had been used. At this service a large reed organ was used, the first one ever brought to Kansas City. It had two manuals and pedal bass, and cost $550. Four members of the vestry advanced the money for its purchase. The use of the Baptist church was secured for the services during the remainder of Mr. Wood's rectorship; morning and evening prayer being said there on alternate Sundays. For the other half of the time services could only be held in the afternoon, on account of the use of the building by the presbyterians.

The congregations at this time were very good and largely made up of men. Ladies many times could not attend on account of the mud. The luxury of sidewalks was then unknown beyond Main street, and it was a great undertaking to go to church or elsewhere through the mud. There were reported 42 communicants, of whom 15 were men.

To the difficulty of securing a building, so far as it would come from a lack of means, was added a division of opinion in the parish as to the best method of procedure. Some were in favor of building at once a temporary chapel, while others preferred to spend more and have a permanent building. Those who inclined to the first plan could not carry it out without the aid of the others, while those who preferred to put up at least a portion of the structure permanently could not do it alone. Besides this, when the question of going on with a building on the corner of Sixth and High streets was abandoned, the matter of location became a vexed issue. Already was emerging the contest between the east and the west sides. Even at this time was appearing that division of interest and opinion which four years later gave occasion for the organization of this parish.

The west side was rapidly growing, and it put in its claim to the privilege of designating a site for the proposed church building, for which a committee had been appointed to obtain means and plans and specifications. At a meeting of the vestry of St. Luke's, held July 11, 1866, Mr. J. R. Baylis reported that Mr. H. H. King offered to give the parish a building lot, valued at $500, on the corner of Central street and Chouteau avenue, now Eleventh street, one block south of this church. The vestry thereupon authorized the purchase of the lot adjoining that given by Mr. King. This lot, with thirty-six feet front on Central street, south of Chouteau avenue, was bargained for at $375, Mr. David Hood, the owner, agreeing to give $50 of this amount. A building committee was appointed, and it looked as though the church would be immediately erected. And yet even now there was a strange halting and indecision. The advocates for the east side were not ready to acquiesce in the determination to place the church on this side. And besides, the vexed question of unsettled grades came in to affect the result. The grade of Central and Eleventh streets had not yet been fixed, and it was feared it might cost more to bring the lots up to the level with the streets than to build the church on a lot where the grade had been already established.

Within six weeks of the time when it had been resolved to proceed with the church on Central street, the secretary of the vestry, Colonel Twitchell, was authorized to open negotiations for the purchase of the Methodist church on Fifth street, but he reported unfavorably. The arrangements of the place of holding services also proving unsatisfactory, a room was rented in a brick block on Main street, several blocks south of the court house, owned by Mr. Buckner, at the rate of $500 a year, with a view of fitting it up for services, but it was never used.

On account of such dilatory proceedings the rector, Mr. Woods, not unnaturally, lost heart. He was receiving a missionary stipend of $300 a year, but his salary at home was not promptly paid. The service being held at different places and times, the congregation had lost heart. He had been promised that a church and a school house on the lot on High street should have been immediately built; but this, or anything else, had not been done. He had written long letters to the Church periodicals of the east, appealing for help; but there had been little response, possibly in part because he had disclosed the fact that there was no definite policy at home. The result was that on the 25th of October of this year Mr. Wood resigned his rectorship, which was not, however, finally accepted by the vestry until the 17th of December. Among the persons specially interested in the parish at this time were Mr. J. L. Watkins, senior warden, Mr. Alonzo I. Bidwell, junior warden, and Messrs. Cooper, Dively, Twitchell, Parsons, Hagler, King, Balis, Pitkin, Field and Dr. St. Clair, several of whom were vestrymen.

There was, after Mr. Wood left, a vacancy of two months in the rectorship. On the 11th of March, 1867, the vestry extended a call to the Rev. D. D. Van Antwerp of North Carolina, at a salary of $1,200 a year, exclusive of the missionary stipend. Mr. Van Antwerp was already in the city. He had officiated in the parish; and he accepted the call. He was a person of much energy, and the evidences of vigorous leadership began very soon to appear. Long's hall was secured for services at the rental of $2 a month. Mr. Balis submitted a contract for building a church edifice upon the lots on Central street, which was approved by the vestry. On motion of Dr. St. Clair, however, a parish meeting was called to decide upon changing the site of the church building. At this meeting held at Mr. Bates' residence, March 20, 1867, largely on account of the unsettled grades of the streets on the west side, on which the church properly was located, it was finally determined to build on the southeast corner of Walnut and Ross, now Eighth street. Thus, after years of hesitancy, this decisive step was taken. The work on the structure was almost immediately begun, and the debt of $3,000, already on the parish when Mr. Van Antwerp came, was partially extinguished.

The city had now a population of over 25,000, and was in the full tide of its prosperity. The crucial measure of the bridging of the Missouri river, which decided so many other questions, had been determined on, and the work was under way.

Three lots were purchased from the Methodist church north at a cost of about $2,500, and the building, fifty-one feet in length and twenty-four and one-half feet in width, was placed across the rear of the lot facing north. Mr. Bigwell, the chairman of the building committee, pushed the work so vigorously that on the 18th day of August the building was first used for service. The throng that was present showed that the church had hardly been made large enough. The joy of getting into their own church after all the weary years of wandering, made the little church seem almost the perfection of beauty and comfort. The building had cost about $3,000. The church was fifteen and a half feet wide by seventeen and a half in depth. There was a gallery at the north end for the choir.

A month after the congregation got into the church the vestry endorsed the proposition which had been urged by the rector, that on their south lot, fronting on Walnut street, there should be erected a two-story building, twenty by thirty feet in size, for a parish school. The actual construction of this was, however, left for a later day. With the close of the year 1868 the parish relieved the missionary board of the stipend which had been paid to its rector, and fixed the salary at $1,500, increasing it shortly after to $1,800. Already, in May, 1868, in his report to the convention, when his communicants had increased to eighty-three, he says that the chapel is too small, that it has become their duty without delay to erect a large church, for which purpose an eligible lot has been paid for. On the 29th April, 1869, the church having been freed from debt, was consecrated by the present bishop.

AYER'S Hair Vigor

restores, with the gloss and freshness of youth, faded or gray hair to a natural, rich brown color, or deep black, as may be desired. By its use light or red hair may be darkened, thin hair thickened, and baldness often, though not always, cured.

It checks falling of the hair, and stimulates a weak and sickly growth to vigor. It prevents and cures scurf and dandruff, and heals nearly every disease peculiar to the scalp. As a Ladies' Hair Dressing, the VIGOR is unequalled; it contains neither oil nor dye, renders the hair soft, glossy, and silken in appearance, and imparts a delicate, agreeable, and lasting perfume.

MR. C. P. BRICHER writes from Kirby, O., July 3, 1882: "Last fall my hair commenced falling out, and in a short time I became nearly bald. I used part of a bottle of AYER'S HAIR VIGOR, which stopped the falling of the hair, and started a new growth. I have now a full head of hair growing vigorously, and am convinced that but for the use of your preparation I should have been entirely bald."

J. W. BOWEN, proprietor of the McArthur (Ohio) Enquirer, says: "AYER'S HAIR VIGOR is a most excellent preparation for the hair. I speak of it from my own experience. Its use promotes the growth of new hair, and makes it glossy and soft. The VIGOR is also a sure cure for dandruff. Not within my knowledge has the preparation ever failed to give entire satisfaction."

MR. ANOUS FAIRBAIN, leader of the celebrated "Fairbairn Family" of Scottish Vocalists, writes from Boston, Mass., Feb. 6, 1880: "Ever since my hair began to give silvery evidence of the change which fleeting time procured, I have used AYER'S HAIR VIGOR, and so have been able to maintain an appearance of youthfulness—a matter of considerable consequence to ministers, orators, actors, and in fact every one who lives in the eyes of the public."

MRS. O. A. PRESCOTT, writing from 18 Elm St. Charlestown, Mass., April 14, 1882, says: "Two years ago about two-thirds of my hair came off. It thinned very rapidly, and I was fast growing bald. On using AYER'S HAIR VIGOR the falling stopped and a new growth commenced, and in about a month my head was completely covered with short hair. It has continued to grow, and is now as good as before it fell. I regularly used but one bottle of the VIGOR, but now use it occasionally as a dressing."

We have hundreds of similar testimonials to the efficacy of AYER'S HAIR VIGOR. It needs but a trial to convince the most skeptical of its value.

WE are inclined to think that if our correspondent, the Rev. Mr. Reed, will wait until the Convention Journal is out, and see the resolutions which were passed, he will find the case not to be quite so bad as he fears. Action is recommended and urged, and this was passed unanimously, and presumably all who took part in the action are pledged to carry out in the parishes the organization for temperance to which they thus committed themselves.

REST,

A faithful clergyman has to work not only six days in the week, but seven. On every ground his people should see that he may have a little time for rest in the heats of summer to make up part for the accumulation of resting days during the year in which he has had to work. A little help to enable him to go off for a fortnight, if for no more, would be a vast relief. The Bishop of Springfield has induced a layman of his Diocese to buy some land near Green Bay, Wisconsin, which has been laid off into lots, which the parishes can have, if they will build a house there for their minister. Then, of course, will come the rub to get the family there and back. It is often the weary wife who needs rest the most.

If one cannot get away it will be kind if it is intimated that no sermons will be expected during the heated term, and as few requisitions otherwise as possible will be made. A clergyman will give better service latter in the season, and will be better able to stand up against disease and low spirits and fatigue if he can have had a time to freshen himself during these torrid heats.

CHAPEL FOR ST. LUKE'S.

It was a joyful announcement made by Dr. Schuyler, who had interested himself very much in the matter, that Mrs. Lindell, of Christ church, had stated her purpose to give $10,000 for the purpose of erecting the Chapel for St. Luke's Hospital, in memory of her grandson, Mr. Jesse Lindell January, one of the Directors of St. Luke's, whose early death took place two months ago. Mr. January had himself proposed to build the Chapel in memory of his father, but was prevented by his death; and his venerable grandparent is disposed to complete that which was in his heart. It is a beautiful act, and induced by a sacred motive. The generous act will bless the giver during her lifetime, and she will be able to witness the fruit coming from her gift.

The Chapel will be erected on Twentieth street, just north of and connecting with the present building. It will be about thirty feet wide, and the front will set back eight or ten feet from the street. The plans were drawn for the Chapel when the original building was erected, so as to form a harmonious portion of the completed structure. On the first floor are to be offices, one of which will be the Chamber of Peace. As it has been, the dead have had to be removed to the undertakers immediately after their decease, as there was no cool, quiet place in the building. Above this, and corresponding with the second floor of the Hospital will be the Chapel proper, with the height of two stories: the third floor opening upon galleries, as in St. Luke's Hospital, New York, so that the patients on that floor may attend the Chapel without going down stairs. If it had been possible to have secured the lots on Washington avenue to the east of the Hospital property, the Chapel would have been arranged to front on the avenue, but this was not possible.

Mrs. Femister, who died a few years, ago left several hundred dollars for the furnishing of the Chapel, which, with several other gifts, is in the hand of the Treasurer, and will be available. This long-for consummation of the Chapel built, and appliances furnished thus for religious worship, will cause great joy to those who have for so many years steadily stood by and worked for this noble charity of the Church. Such a disposition has not been shown by all. In places where a different disposition might have been expected, there has been a strange indifference or antagonism.

And yet the Hospital has steadily and quietly gone on, doing its blessed work, gaining all the while a deeper hold on the affection and confidence of the staunchest Church people, and conciliating for the Church a wide regard. It is interesting to remember that the two endowed beds in the Hospital were established by those who were not members of our Church. The other day when we chanced to be there, we found one of the busiest young society ladies of this city, of large wealth, engaged in playing on the organ and singing for the pleasure and comfort of the patients. They greatly enjoy her visits.

CHILDREN'S COT.

ST. LUKE'S HOSPITAL.

For several years an effort has been making to raise $3,000 from the children and those who are interested in them, for the perpetual endowment for a cot and a room for a child at our Hospital, where a child not able to be otherwise provided for may be kindly taken care of when sick or undergoing treatment. By little and little we have gone on so far. Gifts are urgently asked for this purpose and will be credited in THE NEWS. They may be sent to the Bishop, 2727 Chestnut street, St. Louis.

Bishop Potter is very feeble, and it is feared that he will never be up again. Bishop Beckwith is in the the Lake Superior region, on a long sick leave.

—The Rev. Mr. Proser of Monroe, La., was recently in this city for aid in building his church, and preached in St. George's Church, in the absence of the rector.

—The clerical obituary of the month includes the names of Revs. Jos. T. Loftus of Maryland; John Philson of Louisiana; W. Simonton Cochran of California, and Theo. Edson, D.D., of Massachusetts, one of the oldest clergymen in the church.

—The Rev. George F. Flichtner has been elected Secretary pro tem of the Domestic Missionary Committee, in succession to Dr. Twing. The election proper will be deferred until the time of the General Convention this fall.

—In the upper left hand corner of the sheets of paper on which Bishop Seymore writes is printed: "Do not be impatient if an answer does not come in two weeks from a Western Bishop who is rarely at home"

—It has not been easy to follow the reasons of young Dr. Tyng's course. He resigned his church in the midst of apparently good health, on the plea of impaired powers, sold his library, and took a secular insurance position in Paris. He was sued for an irregularity in a stock operation, and lost. Now he has been paid $20,000 to retire from his insurance position in Paris. It is also rumored that three admirers have offered him $10,000 each to start a church in New York City again.

—The Rev. Arthur Ritchie, of Chicago, who had an issue with Bishop McLaren some months ago, has resigned his parish. The Bishop made pointed allusion to his extreme ritualistic practices and self-will in general terms in his last Convention address, which portion was ordered to be published. His parish was erecting a new church. At the corner-stone laying the Bishop declined to officiate, because Mr. R. had, contrary to agreement, interpolated a service which the Bishop did not approve. Mr. R. used thereupon at the Services some very disrespectful language of the Bishop. The causes assigned for resigning were the strained relations with the Bishop, which led his parishioners to decline to assume responsibility for a debt of $20,000 for the erection of the new building. The parish has declined to receive his resignation, and have put forth an open letter complaining of the Bishop.

—Bishop Helmuth, of Huron, does not become Suffragan Bishop of Ripon, in England, after all. There was local opposition.

—The Rev. Dr. Holland has accepted the Rectorship of the Trinity church, New Orleans, to take effect this fall.

—Bishop Colenso is dead.

GENERAL NEWS.

— Speculations are already on foot as to the presidency of the House of Deputies in the next General Convention.

— The account given of the pastoral staff recently given to the Bishop of Wisconsin, and resigned by Dr. Hopkins, states that the first Bishop named on the staff was Gregory, then Augustine. This implies that the Episcopate and mission came to Britain through Gregory, which is wholly unhistorical.

— It is a curious fact that Kansas City sends more prisoners to the State Penitentiary than St. Louis, and the greater portion of these are for embezzlement in various forms,—spending what has not yet been earned.

— The heirs of a recently deceased Trustee of the General Theological Seminary in New York have given $10,000, the income of which is to be paid for instruction from a competent person in "reading (not intoning or singing) the Service, and for the distinct enunciation and audible delivery of the sermon." Possibly they have suffered.

LADIES can obtain a package of "Silk Waste," convenient in making Crazy Quilts, etc., by sending their address and a 3 cent stamp to BROWNING & COYLE, 521 St. Charles street, St. Louis, Mo.

TO THOSE IN HEALTH.

"Let him (the sick person) be admonished to make his will, and to declare his debts, what he oweth, and what is owing unto him, for the better discharging of his conscience, and the quietness of his executors. But men should often be put in remembrance to take order for the settling of their temporal estates, whilst they are in health." — [Rubric in Visitation of the Sick.

For those who are minded to give back to God a portion of that with which he has entrusted to them as stewards, by which a blessing may be invoked on them and their memories when they are in their graves, the following directions may be of use:

Real estate and personal property may be given, deeded or devised to the Orphans' Home and St. Luke's Hospital, St. Louis, as they are incorporated bodies. The legal name of the former is "The Orphans' Home, of St. Louis, incorporated in February, 1845," and of the latter, "St. Luke's Hospital, of St. Louis, incorporated in 1872".

Real estate for a church, parsonage, a burial ground in any particular place, may be given or devised to "The Parochial Trust Fund of the Diocese of Missouri, a body incorporated under the laws of the State of Missouri," in trust for the place. Real estate also for the above purposes may be given or devised to any Church which is properly incorporated.

Real estate for any other purpose, and personal property may be given or devised for the benefit of any church, or any of our charities by naming trustees in the will or deed, and providing how their successors in the trust may be appointed, who can receive and dispense the trust as directed. Such objects may be suggested as "Permanent Fund for the support of the Episcopate of the Diocese of Missouri," "The Theological Education Fund," "The Fund for Aged and Infirm Clergymen, and for the Widows and Orphans of Clergymen," "The Laymen's Co-operating Missionary Society," "The Sisterhood of the Good Shepherd of the Protestant Episcopal Church," "St. James Academy, Macon," "School of Good Shepherd, St. Louis."

Accuracy as to the description of property, and the designation of the trust should be specially observed.

CHURCH PUBLISHERS.

The following are reliable firms from whom Church books and Sunday School materials can be had. They send, postage paid, for the prices for which books are marked:

Hymnal with music, 50 cts., without music 20 cts.; Randall, why am I a Churchman 10 cts., Thompson's First Principles 15 cts., &c. JOSEPH FRANKLIN, Treasurer.

A CHURCHMAN WITH A CAPITAL "C."

A Churchman is one who believes fully in the Church; a churchman believes in it a little. A Churchman belongs to her out of principle; a churchman, out of mere choice. A Churchman stands by his parish, no matter who the rector is; a mere churchman, if he like the rector. The Churchman is in his place at worship, stern circumstances alone preventing; a churchman, if weather, and convenience, and inclination, or any one of a half-a-dozen other things, be favorable. A Churchman kneels; a churchman only leans over. When we kneel, let us kneel. To shrug the shoulders, and to crook the spine over the pew top in front of us, is not kneeling according to Webster; nor according to first-class, number one, Churchmanship. Kneeling is being on the knees!

We don't read that "Daniel shrugged his shoulder: three times a day, towards Jerusalem," but "kneeled," etc. Hunchback kneeling is a compromise. All Churchfolk kneel; churchfolk bend over.

Real Churchfolk never stare. This anywhere, particularly at church, is vulgar. To stretch the neck around, and gaze back at the door to see who is coming in, is bad taste. Never mind other folk; attend to the service.

A Churchman gives of his means, as a privilege; he who is only a churchman, as a kind of tax. And in a great many other ways is there a great difference between Churchmen with a capital "C," and those without.

The capital "C," Churchman never speaks of Confirmation as "Joining the Church." Every baptized person has "joined the Church." The Church then says to him, now one of her members, "Enjoy the privileges of your membership; take that step that leads to the Holy Communion; be a regular and faithful partaker of that Sacrament; fear God and do justly; and your membership shall be to your good, and not to your detriment." We "join the Church" in Baptism.

Another matter: sometimes a Sunday-school teacher sends word a few minutes before the exercises of school begin, that she will not be at school to day! Let every teacher who knows he or she is going to be absent, provide a substitute in due season. That is another way of showing whether you are a capital "C" Churchman; or only a churchman.

Never say "Sabbath," unless you mean Saturday. "Sabbath" for Sunday or Lord's day, is not English. Sabbath-school, therefore, is not English. Church people, with a capital "C," never say it.

Never say "The Sacrament," when you mean the Holy Communion; for there are two Sacraments—Baptism and the Lord's Supper.—Selected.

—Rev. Dr. Cushing (Methodist) of Rochester, in a recent sermon, expressed his opinion thus: "I may say with truth in regard to the Protestant Episcopal Church, that it has an influence in the religious world to day that far excels that of the Roman Catholic Church.

"GENELLI," 923 Olive street, have raised quite an excitement in reducing cabinets to half price. Their work is the best in the city.

Ayer's Ague Cure

BOOK NOTICES.

SUCCESSFUL MEN OF TO-DAY, by Wilber F. Crafts. Published by Funk & Wagnalls, New York, in Standard Library, price 25 cents. The testimony, facts and incidents in the lives and experiences of five hundred of the most prominent men of America, on the question of success in life, have been collected by the author of this book. The information obtained comes from Statesmen, Generals, Merchants, Educators, Doctors, Lawyers, Judges, Editors, Manufacturers, etc., and has been obtained with great care and diligence. The book possesses all the charm of biography of distinguished men, and abounds in witty, humorous and telling anecdotes and illustrations.

CHOICE LITERATURE, June: One dollar a year, monthly. J. B. Alden, Published, 18 Vesey street, New York. This gives a fine selection of the best articles in the foreign reviews.

Messrs. Palliser, Palliser & Co., of Bridgeport, Ct., the well known Architects and Publishers of standard works on architecture, having lately issued a sheet containing plans and specifications of a very tasteful modern eight-room cottage with tower, and also with the necessary modifications for building it without the tower, and with but six rooms if desired. In its most costly form, the outlay is estimated at $3,000; without the tower it has been built for $2,500; and if only six rooms are included, the cost may be reduced to $1,700 or $2,000. Details are given of mantles, stairs, doors and casings, cornices, etc.

In the North American Review for July, President Julius H. Seelye writes of "Dynamite as a Factor in Civilization," taking of the subject the reassuring view that dynamitism being merely a symptom of present discontent, is necessarily a transient social phenomenon, which are brought more into harmony with the interests and aspirations of the people. In "The Last Days of the Rebellion" Lieutenant-General P. H. Sheridan recounts the operations of the cavalry divisions under his command during the week preceding the surrender of Lee. William S. Holman, M. C., makes a striking exhibit of "The Increase of Public Expenditures." "Democracy and Moral Progress," by O. B. Frothingham, is a philosophic forecast of the probable outcome of "government by the people themselves." Z. R. Brockway, Superintendent of the Reformatory at Elmira, N. Y., points out some "Needed Reforms in Prison Management." Elbridge T. Gerry of "Cruelty to Children," and finally there is a Symposium on "Church Attendance"—the question whether the churches are growing to be less of a power for the good now than in former times—the symposiasts being "A Non-Church-Goer," Rev. Dr. Wm. Hayes Ward, Rev. Dr. James M. Pullman, and Rev. Dr. J. H. Rylance. Published at 30 Lafayette Place, New York.

The striking portrait of John Brown in July CENTURY, and "Recollections of John Brown's Raid," by ex-Congressman Boteler, of Virginia, who was a spectator of the skirmish at Harper's Ferry and expresses the Southern attitude toward Brown; and Frank B. Sanborn's "Comments of a Radical Abolitionist" on the foregoing, lend unusual interest to the number. Both articles contain new and improved information. Another important contribution to the history of the John Brown era is General Stone's paper on "Washington on the Eve of the War."

"Striking Oil," by E. V. Smalley, a profusely illustrated article is a graphic and masterly description of the oil regions and the oil trade, in all their practical and picturesque phases. George W. Cable concludes his series of illustrated historical papers on Creole life in an article called "Flood and Plague in New Orleans."

Joel Chandler Harris contributes a new batch of his famous negro stories under the title, "Nights with Uncle Remus."

St. NICHOLAS for July, will be a memorable number on account of a carefully written and wonderfully illustrated article on the "Brooklyn Bridge." Charles Barnard, who is equally known as a writer on scientific subjects, and as a story-teller for children, and who has watched the growth of the marvelous structure from its beginning, and photographed it from every possible point of view furnishes the text. The diagrams are numerous and the description accurate and popular. The frontispiece, "The Lifting of the Fog," is by Edwards, and shows the great bridge dimly seen through the rifts of the mist.

Sophie Swett opens the number with a characteristically amusing story of "How Johnnie's Men Struck Work," and George Enos Throop contributes "A Story of a Brave Girl," a Revolutionary tale of the old Schuyler mansion in Albany.

J. T. Trowbridge tells how the Tinkhams outwitted their persecutors, Maurice Thompson finishes "The Story of Robin Hood," Edward L. Ellis continues "Swept Away," and there is another "Drummer-boy" paper.

An interesting feature of the number is the appearance of the prize composition on "Robert Burns" and "A Shark in Sight," with the long Roll of Honor of those whose essays were almost, but not quite so good. And there is much besides in the magazine that is timely, entertaining, and amusing.

THE DAWN OF HISTORY: Edited by C. F. Keary, of the British Museum. Complete in two parts, 15 cents each. J. Fitzgerald, Publisher, 20 Lafayette Place, New York.

This is the first book in the English language in which an attempt has been made to present in popular form the sum of the information which scientific men have been able to gather with respect to the conditions of human life in the dim period before history. The work treats of such subjects as: Earliest Traces of Man, Growth of Language, Early Social Life, the Village Community, Religion, the Other World, Mythologies and Folk-Tales, Picture Writing, Phonetic Writing, etc.

INDIA: What can it Teach Us? By Max Muller. No. 92. Standard Library. Price 25 cents.

Max Muller stands in the front of the noblest geniuses and best scholars of our age. Had any proof of the above estimate of him been wanting, this book, "India: What Can it Teach Us?" would have abundantly supplied it. The subject of the book was first discussed in a series of lectures which he was invited to deliver before the students of the University of Cambridge, England, by the Authorities of that seat of learning. The American edition has been greatly improved by Prof. Alexander Wilder, who has written an able introduction and introduced some notes for the readers on this side of the Atlantic.

This book will be found to contain a world of information, teaching new and invaluable facts and lessons, yet apart from this it would be a most profitable task to read it once every month if only to cultivate the author's inimitable style.

THE HOMILETIC MONTHLY for July is one of the most brilliant numbers of that periodical. It contains the usual Sermonic matter from the very best and most popular preachers. Among them—Joseph H. Rylance, D.D.; Charles H. Fowler, D.D.; Canon Farrar, Richard S. Storrs, D.D. Dr. Schaff's second article on the "Homiletic Value of the Revised Version" is exceedingly interesting, as is also Dr. Ormiston's Commentary on James. Then we are treated to another article by the scholarly Dr. Chambers on Misquoted Texts, and John Hall, D.D., stands up for the Independence of the Ministry. $2.50 a year; 25 cents a single copy. Funk & Wagnalls, 10 & 12 Dey Street, N. Y.

The July WIDE AWAKE is welcome with its two seasonable stories: "How They Celebrated" a story of boys in whom was the self-control which makes good soldiers; and "A Hero," another story of a young lad's courage and self-discipline. The remainder of the story-space is given up to long and delightful chapters of the three serials: "Cacique John," "On Indiana Roads," and "More Than They Bargained For," and as interesting as a story is "A Day with Rags, Tatters & Co." This is a description of the processes at a romantic old paper-mill at Franklin, N. H., and is accompanied by twenty-four drawings made at the mill. Another feature of interest to everybody, in this issue is a portrait of Kate Greenaway, the world-famous London artist, accompanied by a glimpse of her methods of studio-work. Mrs. Diaz's John Spicer Lecture is upon "Fourth of July." Only $2.50 a year. D. Lothrop & Co., Publishers, Boston.

Rev. Father Wilds' EXPERIENCE.

The Rev. Z. P. Wilds, well-known city missionary in New York, and brother of the late eminent Judge Wilds, of the Massachusetts Supreme Court, writes as follows:

3 E. 54th St., New York, May 16, 1882.

MESSRS. J. C. AYER & CO., Gentlemen:

Last winter I was troubled with a most uncomfortable itching humor affecting more especially my limbs, which itched so intolerably at night, and burned so intensely, that I could scarcely bear any clothing over them. I was also a sufferer from a severe catarrh and catarrhal cough; my appetite was poor, and my system a good deal run down. Knowing the value of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, by observation of many other cases, and from personal use in former years, I began taking it for the above-named disorders. My appetite improved almost from the first dose. After a short time the fever and itching were allayed, and all signs of irritation of the skin disappeared. My catarrh and cough were also cured by the same means, and my general health greatly improved, until it is now excellent. I feel a hundred per cent stronger, and I attribute these results to the use of the SARSAPARILLA, which I recommend with all confidence as the best blood medicine ever devised. I took it in small doses three times a day, and used, in all, less than two bottles. I place these facts at your service, hoping their publication may do good.

Yours respectfully, Z. P. WILDS.

The above instance is but one of many constantly coming to our notice, which prove the perfect adaptability of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA to the cure of all diseases arising from impure or impoverished blood, and a weakened vitality.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

cleanses, enriches, and strengthens the blood, stimulates the action of the stomach and bowels, and thereby enables the system to resist and overcome the attacks of all Scrofulous Diseases, Eruptions of the Skin, Rheumatism, Catarrh, General Debility, and all disorders resulting from poor or corrupted blood and a low state of the system.

GENERAL NEWS.

—A mass meeting in the interest of the Citizens' league has held at Trinity Episcopal church, Chicago, a few weeks ago. Revs. Drs. Scudder, a Presbyterian clergyman, and Holland and Hon. C. C. Bonney spoke.

—A little while ago the officials of the city of Rome sent the Pope a bill for taxes on certain lands in Rome. The notice bore the following remarkable descriptive form: "To Citizen Joachim Pecci; by trade or profession Pope; conducting business at the Vatican Palace, Rome." The taxes were duly paid, and the receipt made out to 'Citizen Joachim Pecci.'

—Kansas is still trying experiments about the time of holding its Convention. The next one is to be Dec. 3rd. Recently it has been in May.

—Old St. John's Church in this city, on the corner of Sixth and Spruce, which was bought by the Roman Catholics, was never paid for apparently, and has been sold at Sheriff's sale, and is now advertised to be sold for commercial uses. Old St. Paul's, on Fifth street, is used for a saloon. Old St. George's, on Locust near Eighth, has been transformed into a paper warehouse. St. Paul's, on Olive and Nineteenth, is for sale.

—The English papers say that the further consideration of the proposed consecration of Senor Cabrera as a Bishop in Spain has been deferred until the next Lambeth Conference. So that it appears there is likely to be another of these gatherings not long hence.

—The diocese of Central Pennsylvania decided by a close vote, not to divide, but elect an Assistant Bishop. This is against the course advised by Dr. Hopkins.

—The alumni of St. Paul's school, Concord, N. H., are at work securing $150,000 for a chapel for that institution. They have gotten nearly one-half of the amount. In this church school, which in scholarship ranks the highest in the country, where the charges are $900 a year, application for admission has to be made for a boy at least a year in advance.

—One who knows recently said that while the apparent charges at Monticello Seminary for girls in Illinois were $260 a year, no one come out at less than $500. The rates at the school of the Good Shepherd are $350, but this parent who had her daughter there, and relatives at Monticello, said that the real cost at the Sisters' school was much less.

—The subject as announced at a recent Evening service in the First Congregational (Dr. Post's old) church in this city was as follows: "Evening, instead of sermon, the pastor will read an original story entitled, 'Why Mollie Reeve Did Not Go the Mountains.'"

—A suggestion was made by Bishop Green last year that the name of the University of the South being sectional militated against its prosperity, and a proposition was made that the name be changed to the University of Sewanee. This is to come up for consideration this year. There does not seem to us to be much sense in the last name proposed. Unless something better can be reached, better keep the present name.

—At the Convention of Ohio, the Bishop who was still suffering from the loss of voice, whispered his instructions to Drs. Rulison and Bodine, who alternately acted as chairmen pro tem. The Secretary was re-elected for the 36th time.

—The Connecticut Convention celebrated the Centennial of the election of its first Bishop, Seabury. The service was conducted by a great-grandson of the bishop, a great-great-grandson of Dr. Johnson, one of the first missionaries of the Church of England in Connecticut, by a grandson of the second Bishop, Jarvis, and a grandson of one of the ten clergymen who took part in the election of the first Bishop.

—An unfinished Methodist church was recently sold for debt and afterwards turned into an icehouse. This seem singular for a church building, but the church register asks, are they not often put to a similar use without the formality of a sale at auction.

—The Supreme Court of Georgia has reversed the decision of a lower court that a trust attaching to Stephen Elliot, Bishop, attaches to his person and not to the office of bishop. It holds that the trust was evidently intended and must go to the successors in the office, and that therefore although the parish for which there was this trust becomes incorporated, yet no lien can be created on this trust property without the consent of the trustees.

ELDER MOSE KITE.

His Hair Breadth Escapes from Seen and Unseen Foes.

[Troy Kansas Chief, Jan. 18, 1883.]

Most of our older citizens well remember Mose Kite (who lived in Petersburg Bottom) the hero of our state's early political history, who was of stalwart built and powerful physique; who in 1858 led a colony of our people to Pike's Peak; who fought the Indians on the plains and was shot through the body; who on his return here after the rebellion was converted and baptized by Elder Henshall, of the Christian church at Petersburg Bottom and became a revival preacher of celebrity all through this section. They also recall the fact that, attacked with consumption and reduced to a skeleton, he was obliged to remove to the Rockies in the hope of saving his life. None thought he would succeed. Last fall, however, the editor of this paper met him at the head of the Republican river, bigger and more robust than ever. "Why, I thought you had died of consumption long, long ago, Elder?"

"Me? I never had consumption, man! though people thought that was what ailed me, and I thought so myself. But the doctors had sent me on a wild-goose chase after a dozen other diseases, just as fatal, and this was the wildest one of all."

The good Elder then recounted to us, in a charming vein, his many adventures in the rough and ready life he had led, "but," he said, "remarkable as you may think my warlike life has been, I have a much more interesting story to tell you."

"You know what a rough, noisy fellow I used to be; and I could stand any hardship. Why, on a wager, I have knocked down an ox and a mule with my fist. I have fought ruffians, border outlaws and Indians; but I was

by a more dangerous unseen enemy that was ever getting me more completely in his clutches. I was shot by an Indian in a fight on the plains, but that wound healed readily and gave me but little trouble. After I returned to Kansas and commenced preaching, I first began to give way. I had a dull feeling, accompanied with a pain in the right side. Dr. Butler, our family physician, said my liver was out of order, caused by the malaria of the bottoms. I had always had an appetite like an ostrich, but my digestion became seriously impaired. While on the circuit preaching, I consulted a doctor, who said I had dyspepsia. After that, distressing palpitation of the heart followed, and the physician said this was caused by my indigestion and diseased liver which would probably terminate fatally. Sometimes I had a ravenous appetite, at others none at all. I was feverish and then chilly. My food seemed to do me no good. A specialist told me I had a tape worm! The specialist said I had a touch of the gravel, caused by use of the alkaline water of the plains. I then began to suffer severe pains in the loins and the small of the back, accompanied with sudden attacks of dizziness, during which I had to sit or lie down to avoid falling. I was forced to abandon TRAVELING AND PREACHING, because I could no longer ride on horseback, or trust myself out alone. I began to be seriously alarmed, and sought the advice of the most noted physician within reach. He said that my frequent horseback riding had jolted and jarred me until the old Indian wound, which had injured my kidneys, and become inflamed. He treated me with medicines and electricity also, but gave me no permanent benefit. My painful symptoms all returned. I began to cough, got very thin and my legs were disagreeably numb. I began to despair. At each attempt to cure, my ailments became worse, with new symptoms. I next consulted a celebrated physician from the East, who, after thumping and examining me, stated that I was in an advanced stage of consumption and threatened with diabetes and paralysis! He thought I might possibly prolong my life for a year or two, by seeking a higher and drier climate. This was my condition when the people in your part of the country last saw me.

Then I started for the Rockies but liked this country, and settled here. At first the change helped me, but about three years ago the benefit ceased. Then I failed so rapidly that I could not be out of bed only part of each day. All my old symptoms returned. At this crisis, a party of eastern gentlemen, made my house their headquarters. In the party was a Dr. Wakefield, who informed me that I had a bad case of incurable Bright's Disease, and gave me a preparation which might, he said, ease me for a few weeks or months, but that was the best that could be done. Around the bottle was a newspaper. Now a newspaper was a rarity in our home, and I sat in my chair looking it over when my eyes providentially fell upon an article relating a most wonderful cure of Bright's disease—the very malady that was killing me—by the use of Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, (of Rochester, N. Y.). Convinced that further delay would be fatal, and everything else failing, the next morning I dispatched one of my boys to the nearest railroad station, many miles distant, to obtain a bottle of the Safe Cure. The druggist said the demand for the Cure was so great that he could not keep it in stock, and he had to send to Kansas City for more. It was more than a week before it arrived, and I was daily getting weaker. But it came at last, and I at once began to take it. When I told Dr. Wakefield what I was taking, he gave me a look, half of scorn, half of pity, as much as to say, he is putting his trust in a humbug.' Nevertheless I persevered and for the past year and a half I have been as stout and rugged as I ever was in my life. After escaping the attacks of Indians and a half dozen doctors, I was lying at the mercy of a still more dreadful foe that was about giving me the finishing blow, when that great remedy stepped in, slew my adversary and placed me firmly on my feet once more. I have commenced preaching again; for I look upon the circumstances and manner of my cure as a direct interposition of Providence, and to Providence are my services due. This is my story. I think it is as good as a romance—and much better, for it is true."

ON A BUFFALO HUNT,

Such is the substance, and very nearly the language of Elder Kite's narrative. Those who read it, and are suffering, may benefit by his experience, if they will follow his example.

Letters for the Bishop, while on a Visitation, and directed to the interior, should be sent to the care of some clergyman to ensure their safe delivery.

EPISCOPAL APPOINTMENTS.

Sept. 12, Wednesday, Opening Sisters' School.

25, Louisville, Ky., National Conference of Charities and Corrections.

Oct. 3, Wednesday, Philadelphia, General Convention.

It is always better, and saves trouble and time, if persons desiring to know about the Orphans' Home, to procure children from there, or to place children there, will write directly to the officers of the Board of Managers, rather than to the Bishop, who can give less definite information. Mrs. Western Bascome, First Directress, No. 2305 Locust street, or Mrs. Henry R. O'Dell, the Secretary, St. Louis, would cheerfully give all desired information. And so of St. Luke's Hospital. For information as to terms, and accommodations, persons had better write to Sister Catharine, St. Luke's Hospital, corner of Washington avenue and Twentieth street, St. Louis.

SINCE the writing of his letter to the Diocese, the Bishop has been glad to hear that there have been received by Mr. Talbot very gratifying and substantial evidence of sympathy. There had been incurred a debt on the property before to complete the structure so far as it had gone. It would not be safe to increase this debt. But in order to prevent this, and yet put the building in condition for use this year, and to meet the pressure for room, there must be further and larger gifts. Many parishes have responded to the suggestion made in my letter; some had done so before it reached them. The Bishop suggests that, subject to the convenience of the rectors and congregations, the offertories in our churches for the Second Sunday in November next, or as near that as may be, should be appropriated to this common need, and to repair the results of this dire calamity.

IN the June number of THE NEWS, the undersigned, on the editorial page, in giving impressions that had come to him from various quarters with regard to the then recent Convention of the Diocese, among other things quoted from a letter which had been received, and in which liberty had been expressly given to show it, a rather severe criticism upon the result of some elections, and in doing so reflected upon St. Louis. The undersigned did not express any adhesion to the opinion quoted, and did not adopt it as his own. Almost all that was said was of praise; dissent was expressed on this point.

Shortly after, a communication was received from the Standing Committee in which, after declaring that the paragraph in question makes an indiscriminate and unjust charge against the Churchmen of St. Louis, and the Committee; they declare as their judgment that the publication of censures and charges is not among the purposes for which the NEWS was adopted as the official organ of the Diocese. As this was not sent to the NEWS, and there was no intimation of desire for its publication, it was not inserted in the last number.

To-day, for the first time, the undersigned is informed that some members of the Committee feel aggrieved at such absence of mention or of explanation. When the article was written, there was not the slightest idea that there was anything in it offensive to the Standing Committee. Its election for years past has been almost by acclamation, and manifestly not at the seeking of its members. While the undersigned is not authorized to interpret the meaning of the writer of the paragraph, he is sure that no such intention was either in his mind. Afterwards, when his attention was called to it, the undersigned saw that there might be drawn such an injurious inference, and while the paragraph was not his own, and he did not adopt it as his own, he is desirous that the expression of his regret that pain should have been given to those with whom he has had such courteous, official relations, should be distinctly made in this column. C. F. ROBERTSON.

PAROCHIAL FACTS.

A gentleman in a parish which is very much interested in our home missionary work, which has steadily endeavored to keep up a knowledge of its progress, and this interest and liberality toward it by monthly missionary meetings, at which all that is going on is told, asked the writer a few days ago whether he could put him in the way of getting knowledge regularly of all that was doing in the way of Church work in the diocese, right along, in order that it might be communicated to the regular missionary meetings, which are held one Sunday night in each month. He said that in the early days of the Diocesan Missionary Society, seventeen years ago, it was made almost a condition of appointment as missionary, and the receipt of stipend, that the persons so appointed should regularly communicate such facts as would impart information and stimulate interest.

Of course the NEWS was not then in existence, and whatever it does now in the way of imparting intelligence is so much gained. And how much it does in this line we have gratifying assurances of from many sides. But it will probably have been noticed how few of such contributions of intelligence have come directly from the parishes or clergymen themselves. What appears has been picked up, as the birds pick up their food, here and there. This matter has been often adverted to here. Persons think that what is taking place has little general interest; they intend to do what they at length neglect to do altogether. Now, outside of all other aspects which this neglect has, it has a serious bearing upon those who, giving statedly, and on principle, are interested in the progress of work in the diocese, who want to see what their money is accomplishing. It should be counted by the missionary, and others as well, a part of their duty, to maintain and increase the interest in aggressive work, by making known what is doing and undertaken in their neighborhoods. This does not imply long articles; it is an urgency in the direction of a prompt statement of the struggles and advances of the Church by those who are acquainted with the facts.

RALLS COUNTY.

The average weather in Missouri in July is scarcely favorable for making missionary journeys into a country that had not been previously traversed; but one took place recently of such exceptional interest, that an account of it should be given.

It came to the knowledge of the Bishop some months since that an earnest English Churchman living in Perry, had been joined by another quite as interested, and who was qualified in music and to act as a lay-reader. They came twenty-five miles lately to meet the Bishop at Mexico, and to state the situation. The Bishop gave a license as lay-reader, sent a package of Mission Service books, and promised to come very shortly, the more as he was told that some persons were awaiting confirmation.

In a buggy kindly sent to the railway station for him, the Bishop, after a rather hot and dusty drive of fourteen miles, arrived at Perry, on the afternoon of the 10th ult., the service having been announced for the next night. That evening, however, in the host's parlor, in which lay services are held every Sunday, and which was appropriately fitted up with altar fitly adorned, and cabinet organ and chairs arranged, the Bishop held the evening service and preached to the neighbors who had assembled. This service would have been held in the school-house, but for the rain.

The next day was hot, and showery and uncertain. A number of citizens called on the Bishop; he instructed several persons for confirmation, and in the afternoon baptized two children. Several wagon loads of persons, Church people, who had not heard the service for years, and their neighbors arrived, having come twelve miles. The evening, fortunately, was fine and bright. The service was to be held in a Christian church, nearly a mile from town in the woods. It was very large, holding five hundred people, and was well lighted. A screen had been arranged for a vestry room. On arriving the woods were seen to be alive with people and teams. It was harvest time; but the service had been announced in the county paper, twenty miles off, and seemed to be well known. The church soon became thoroughly filled with a most respectful and orderly congregation. With the aid of the Mission Service books, distributed through the congregation, and a few words of preliminary direction and invitation, and a mention of the page from time to time, the whole evening service was had, and was engaged in heartily by all; the responses were strongly read; the people rose and knelt at the usual places.

With some previous practice the chants were all admirably rendered, and the hymns, "Nearer, my God, to Thee," Arlington, Greenville, and Old Hundred, were sung with a relish which would have been a revelation to many a jaded city congregation.

The Bishop preached without manuscript, and then called up the four who were to be confirmed. The circumstances of each was interesting; one, the wife of the Bishop's host, had been awaiting confirmation for years; another, the mother of the children who had been baptized, had read herself into the Church, and this was the first service she had ever attended; another, an Englishman, said that these services reminded him of those to which he had been accustomed many years before in Lincolnshire; the other was an old man of 72, who had been baptized more than seventy years before, and who had lived on Linn Creek in this county for thirty-five years, who had been around the world in early life, but who had never before had this opportunity, and yet knew his well worn prayer-book almost by heart. The whole service was most affecting.

The next morning at eight the Holy Communion was celebrated in the little parlor, when those who had been confirmed and others, received,—one for the first time since he had come to this country, eleven years before, he having always lived away from where the Church was. The arrangements were all most devoutly made, and the Bishop served by one who had had good training for such service. Two hours after the Bishop started back in a temperature above 100°, for his ride of fourteen miles to the train, and for duty elsewhere, but with a feeling of the deepest joy and thankfulness that it was his happy office to minister to those who were so earnestly keeping and contending for the faith. Patience could be summoned to endure much worry, and misconception, and bitter speech, after the refreshment of three days of such helpful service.

BUILDING PLANS.

This has a good idea in it, and therefore we give the letter which has come from an intelligent layman in full. The plans of churches and the specifications ought to be preserved; and if they should be sent to the Bishop, either as drafted or modified as need might appear, they would be of great use for others contemplating building.

SHELBYNA.

Dear Bishop:—

Since we have been trying to get plans, etc., for building a church (without pay), which we are nearly compelled to do, I have thought that poor parishes might be aided by your requesting that parishes that now or may, have plans, specifications and prices of churches, so soon as contract is finished and building accepted, forward them to you, for the use of the diocese; such plans to be put in separate envelopes, and marked. This would enable you, with your knowledge of any parish wanting such information, to send such a plan as would in nearly every instance be acceptable, would save a good deal of money, and hasten matters up materially. The same to be again returned to you when the parties are through with them. Besides all the objectional parts could be removed and improvements suggested, from the fact that in your visitations you notice these. A suggestion from you through the CHURCH NEWS might be well.

Yours, very respectfully,
I. N. M.

THE DISASTER AT MACON.

Probably most persons in the Diocese have before this become aware of the heavy loss which we have sustained by the destruction by a tornado of the newer portion of St. James Academy, at Macon, by the fearful storm which swept through the State four weeks ago. It blew trains from the track. In crossing many fields of ripe grain it left them as bare as the middle of a road. In another column there is given a description of the storm, and the manner of the loss. At the first intelligence the writer was almost inclined to despair at the loss of what had cost so much labor and sacrifice, in the fear that it could not be replaced. But we are all in a Heavenly Father's hand, and even this loss came from Him. The only thing for us to do is to go forward and do our best.

The Bishop has put out the following letter to the Diocese, and hopes that there will be an early response made by those who can give large sums and small for this common and heavy loss:

ST. LOUIS, July 20, 1883.

To the Church People of the Diocese:—

In God's providence we have just suffered the heaviest disaster that the Diocese has for many years been called upon to endure. The newly constructed portion of St. James Academy in Macon City, the Diocesan school, was blown down by the fearful tornado of the 13th ult. It was a storm which caused millions of dollars of damage to this State. It was little wonder then that the walls recently put up, and not yet completely braced by interior partitions, should be prostrated. The strength of the older portion of the structure was tested by standing unharmed, except as to the flues and belfry.

The loss to us thus in a moment of seven thousand dollars, which has been expended on this noble building, and the delay in the work of the school, is distressing. No interest in the Diocese was accomplishing more solid good results than this, and it was entering upon a larger field of usefulness.

Shall the work pause in its career, because of this heavy blow upon us? I have anticipated your reply in directing that the ruins be instantly cleared, and the building begun with such strength as that no future disaster of the kind can again occur. Occasion will be taken to cause a modification of the plan of the building by reducing the height of the new part to two stories; and ultimately completing by making another addition, like the original building, so that the whole structure will be the shape of the letter H thus giving space and the utmost strength.

When loss overtakes a parish, there are those immediately concerned who are interested in standing by it, and making good the damage. But this school is of interest to the whole Diocese. It touches every part. But in this very diffusion of its good is its weakness in a supreme crisis like this. One of the clergymen of the Diocese, when he heard of the loss, said to me, "The best part of the school was not blown away. Mr. Talbot is there still."

But he cannot make an appeal now in person. He is overwhelmed with new duty at this moment. He has suffered heavy personal loss in the damage done to his dwelling and his furniture by the crushing in of the great weight of the brick walls. His home and furniture are exposed to the elements. He must push the work of clearing the ruins and rebuilding. The fall term will begin with all the former facilities on the day announced.

But now is the time for those who have watched the brave work of Mr. Talbot, and have regard for the good wrought by the school, to show it by gifts large and small for the work of reconstruction. The town has already pledged itself to do handsomely. But there should be no longer delay than is possible in the restoration and equipment of the building. Individuals are asked for personal gifts large and small as their ability and the great need will suggest, and collections are solicited from all the congregations of the Diocese. And he gives twice who gives quickly. All gifts should be sent to, and will be acknowledged by the Rev. E. Talbot, Macon City.

C. F. ROBERTSON, Bishop of Missouri.

DIOCESAN ITEMS.

—The Bishop has consented to the change of the name of the Mission of the Good Samaritan in this city to that of All Saints. They preferred the name on their entrance on a new building, and the beginning of a more substantial part of their history. They will erect during the year, in the vestibule of their new church, a tablet to the memory of the late Robert B. Minturn of New York, whose widow gave the first, and up to this time, the largest personal gift to the Mission, and at whose suggestion the name of the Good Samaritan was first given.

—The Rev. Mr. Scheetz, of Kirkwood, who has so much experience in planing and building, recently visited, at the suggestion of the Bishop and the request of the vestry, the wreck of the church in Brunswick, in order to advise how best the work of rebuilding may be entered upon. He thinks that all the parts, except the floor, should be taken to pieces before being put together again.

—Trinity parish, Kansas City, has contracted for the lots on the corner of Twelfth street and Tracy avenue, 125 by 125 feet, in a very eligible location, for something over $5000. They are getting subscriptions now for $10,000, half in cash and half in notes, payable along in three years; the $5,000 cash to pay for the land, the balance to apply on the church building and parsonage which they propose to build, the former at a cost of $12,000, the latter for $3,000. They are meeting with a very handsome response to their propositions, and the parish starts out with very bright prospects indeed.

—The old St. Paul's church, Mexico, has been taken down, and work on the new brick building to take its place is advancing. It will be sixty by twenty-four on the interior, including the chancel, ten feet deep, and extending across the church, with a curved end. The vestry room is of good size, and is entered from the chancel, projecting from the side lines of the church. There is a porch projecting from the centre of the front of the church. The walls are thirteen inches thick and sixteen feet high. The ceiling is open-timbered. The building is being done by day's work. The inner of the two lots has been sold for $500. The lots on which they build is on the corner, 60 by 114 feet.

—The confirmations in Boonville, at the late visitation of the Bishop, represented some important gains for the parish, and indicate the healthy and aggressive tone of the parish. The Sunday-school keeps large, in spite of the hot weather. They hope to secure $100 for the Missionary Host for this year. At the meeting of the vestry, attended by the Bishop, a very comfortable financial situation was disclosed; and order was taken for improvements in the furnace and other parts of the property. The rectory and church had been repaired, and a set of parlor furniture put into the rectory.

—The Rev. Robert Talbot, of Monroe City, visited Kansas City on the 8th ult., and officiated in Grace church in the morning and St. Mary's in the evening. There have been some communications passing recently between him and the vestry of the newly-organized Trinity church, with reference to his taking charge of that parish.

—The Rev. Joseph S. Colton has resigned the rectorship of Grace church, Carthage, and removed to Pittsfield in the Diocese of Quincy.

—The Bishop has recently confirmed as follows: Boonville, 10; Perry, 4; Weston, 3; Maryville, 2.

—The Bishop has received as a Postulant for Candidature for Holy Orders Mr. Henry C. Dyer, of Trinity church, in this city.

—The Rev. M. A. Browne, of Nevada City, has begun a boy's school, for which he is very thoroughly qualified, being a M. A. of Trinity College, Dublin. He has had hard duty in getting work into shape in Nevada, as it was left in a very depressed condition by his predecessor. In Rich Hill they have become organized into a mission, of which Mr. Thomas Irish is warden, Dr. Jas. S. Gillett is clerk, and Mr. T. V. Sweeny is treasurer, and the above, with Mr. Sanderson and Dr. Harris constitute the Executive Committee.

—The Rev. M. S. Woodruff, who has been for so long a time our faithful and self-sacrificing missionary in Saline county, has had a call to his native State, Big Rapids, with a comfortable salary assured. It would be a pity, indeed, if he should be induced to leave the work with which he has become so closely identified. What makes the call more persuasive is that it brings him near to his father, who, in his declining years, looks to his son. He has the matter still under advisement, will spend August on a vacation, and will decide in September, to which month the Bishop's visit is at his request postponed.

—The Rev. Dr. Schuyler has resigned his position as deputy to the General Convention, as he does not think that all of the clerical members of the Standing Committee should be away from the Diocese during the Bishop's absence at the General Convention. This leaves the Rev. Dr. Runcie as the Senior Deputy. Messrs. Porter and Lathrop, of the Lay Deputation, have also resigned; both being lawyers, finding the opening of the courts just at that time would prevent their being away. This circumstance has always militated against the acceptance in this Diocese of the position by lawyers in active practice, and by judges on the bench. The Rev. Ethelbert Talbot, and Messrs. Wm. B. Potter and John R. Triplett have been duly chosen from among the alternates to fill the vacancies.

—The ladies of St. Peter's church, in this city, netted $600 by their steamboat excursion in June.

—The Rev. B. E. Reed, of Mount Calvary, has gone to Virginia for his vacation.

—The Rev. Dr. Runcie, at St. Joseph, received the telegram announcing the disaster to the Academy, Macon, during the morning service on Sunday, 15th ult., and devoted the offertory to the School, which amounted to $23.

—The real estate agent through whom the property on the corner of Twenty-third street and Washington avenue was bought, was offered $1000 before the property was transferred as a bonus for the bargain. The Good Samaritan Mission will hereafter be known as All Saints' Church.

—The Bishop has consented to become officially a Visitor of St. Mary's School, Kansas City.

—The Rev. Dr. Runcie recently made a visit and gave the first service in King City, Gentry county, in the northwestern part of the State, at the solicitation of some Church people from there, who came down to St. Joseph to represent their numbers, and their very earnest desire to have Church privileges. The county is rich, and is rapidly filling up. He said there were a considerable number of our people there. Dr. Runcie went on Wednesday, 18th, and held the Service that night. The town is connected with St. Joseph by a narrow-gauge railway. There was a congregation of three hundred, some of whom had come over the prairies from five to seven miles. The chants and hymns were admirably sung. The leader was an old English Churchman, who, with his son, had formerly sung in the Cathedral in Manchester, England. Only about twenty could take part in the Service; the others sat throughout. An earnest desire was expressed to have regular Services, and to have a parish organized. For the present, and until more can be done for them, Dr. Runcie will give them monthly Services. He keeps well, in spite of the extreme heat, notwithstanding an early communion, two full Services and two Sunday-schools, and a funeral of a Sunday. And he does not lack for congregations, although some of his people have gone north.

—The Rev. E. M. Pecke has resigned the rectorship of Christ church, Lexington, and at the Bishop's suggestion has taken charge of Trinity church, De Soto and St. Paul's, Ironton, and the mission at Crystal City. He will reside in De Soto. This leaves Lexington vacant just now. We hope that it may not remain so long.

—The Rev. Dr. Schuyler started for his vacation in Michigan on the 6th inst.

—The Bishop has received an application for Services from Charleston, Mississippi county, in the southwestern part of the State, for Services at least once a month. It is stated that there are fifteen members of the Church there. The Bishop was there some years ago and held Services. Services were also held by the rector in Cairo, Ill.

—A lot in the phenomenal new city of Walnut, in Bates county, has been secured by gift for a church, by the Rev. Mr. Browne, through one of his congregation at Rich Hill. At Rich Hill the Opera House has been secured for Services on two Sunday nights in the month, free of rent. A good Sunday-school has been started, and the congregation at the Service last Sunday night numbered three hundred.

—The parish at Lexington is already in correspondence with a clergyman, and do not propose to remain without a minister a day longer than necessary.

—The Rev. Mr. Newton has been given by his church a six weeks vacation from the beginning of this month until the third Sunday in September. He is at Ipswich, Mass., and is enjoying himself very much in a life peculiar to the sea shore.

—It is announced in the daily papers that the Rev. Dr. Berkley has resigned the rectorship of St. Peter's church in this city, to take effect the 15th of October, and that he is to take up his residence in Kirkwood.

—The Rev. Mr. De Forest of South St. Louis is giving Services to Oak Hill. St. Paul's, South St. Louis, is proposing improvements which will cost $1,000. They consist in the purchase of the lot on Fourth street between them and the corner of the next street; the changing of the chancel to the other end of the church, the building out of a recess chancel and vestry room, and ceiling the interior of the church, in place of the plaster that is falling.

—The moonlight festival given by Mrs. Stansbury, 3818 Carondelet avenue, July 25th, for the benefit of the Church of Good Shepherd, was most satisfactory in both its social and financial features. The spacious grounds surrounding the grand old family mansion, one of the first in the city, were brilliantly illuminated. Over two hundred guests were present, and all, old and young, enjoyed thoroughly the brilliant occasion. Among the number present we noticed Capt. Martin and family of the Arsenal, Rev. Joseph De Forest and family, Mayor Ewing, Mrs. Edgerton and daughter, and many others. Mrs. Stansbury and her granddaughter Anna possess the rare gift, or rather genius, of entertaining a large company and making every one feel at home.

ST. JAMES ACADEMY IN RUINS.

AN APPEAL.

The new building of St. James Academy, Macon, Mo., is in ruins. It is the Diocesan school for boys. It was nearing completion and had cost so far $7,000, and would have required $3,000 more to complete it. The violent storm which prevailed so generally last Friday, the 13th ult., struck the Academy on the northwest. The windows were fastened only temporarily; the partitions were not in, and the mortar had not become hardened. Hence the large three-story structure collapsed in common with the wagon factory, the plow factory and the tobacco factory. In its fall the Rector's residence immediately adjoining, was crushed in on the west side, entailing a loss of several hundred dollars to house and furniture. In this great and sudden calamity the school appeals to Churchmen and friends of education everywhere for help. It does not make this appeal until its friends on the spot have shown a disposition to do all in their power. The citizens of Macon have already raised over $3,000 in cash, and the committee is still at work. But their own losses have been great and their ability is therefore limited. To rebuild and make such additions as will restore public confidence will require at least $7,000 more. A large number of boys have been engaged for the Fall, and the Rector is anxious to be ready to receive them. The school opens on the first Monday in September. The work of re-building will begin without delay. Will not our friends who may see this send us whatever they can, that this important work be not crippled? All sums, large or small, will be gratefully received and promptly acknowledged. Remittances may be sent to the Bishop, Rt. Rev. C. F. Robertson, No. 2727 Chestnut street, St. Louis, or to the Rector of St. James Academy, REV. ETHELBERT TALBOT, Macon Mo.

Mr. Talbot informs us that of the $7,000 required he has received from friends and various parishes $1,550. Doubtless many who will ultimately be glad to help have not heard of the disaster, being out of the State for the summer. He is deeply thankful for the many expressions of sympathy on all hands and for the prompt and generous material aid thus far sent him.

—A judge in St. Louis has discharged a master of a public school who was prosecuted for whipping a boy after milder punishment had been of no avail. The Court found that, in order to preserve discipline, the teacher must determine the necessity, the nature, and extent of punishment, his acts like those of a parent, being subject to judicial review. The judge also said: "Four years experience in the administration of criminal law convinces me that the boys who become criminals are boys who don't get whipped; and when it is remembered that a large percentage of the bolder crimes known to the law is committed by youths ranging in age from 14 to 20 years, the question arises, Is it better to whip first or imprison afterwards?"

—There were 237 divorces granted by the St. Louis courts during the last fifteen months.

To the Editor of the Church News :

While taking serious exception to the communication of "Lay Delegate" in your last issue, in which the Diocesan Convention and one of its committees are charged with "lack of faith," now that the Journal of the Convention is printed, I am perfectly content to abide the issue in every candid and unprejudiced mind, when the Report of the Committee and the Resolutions appended to the Report may be placed alongside of the communication of "Lay Delegate." At the same time I would like to say a few words to the Diocese, through your columns, if I may, on one point in the "Report of the Committee on the State of the Church." As every one knows, that important committee is obliged to prepare its report during the busy hours of the latter portion of the session of the Convention, and, for many reasons, has not an opportunity to give as full, or as complete a result as could be wished. Having received the impression from the report that there was an unexplained, and apparently inexplicable decrease in the number of communicants in the Diocese, I have taken the pains to satisfy myself concerning the matter. Possibly the result of my investigations may be of interest to some who are not accustomed to statistical research.

The number of communicants in the Diocese, according to last year's journal, was 5,413. This year the table foots up 5,385, an apparent decrease of 28. The Bishop reports the number of persons confirmed during the year to be 465. That there has been no decrease, but on the contrary, an actual gain of 510 communicants, will be evident to any one who will consider the following facts, viz. :

In 19 of the 48 parishes of the Diocese there have been reported gains amounting to 340 ; while in 14 parishes losses have been reported amounting to 173. The net gain, therefore, in the parishes is 167.

In the 13 of the 43 Missions, organized and unorganized, there have been reported gains amounting to 93, while in 8 missions losses have been reported amounting to 72. The net gain, therefore, in the missions is 21.

Now, taking the number of communicants as reported last year in 16 missions, from which no figures are given this year, there are 322 to be added to the gains noted above, with the following result, viz. :

Net gain in Parishes,	167
" " Missions,	21
Number in Missions not reporting,	322
Total,	510

And, further, if in the 16 missions making no report there shall have been gains also, the showing will be still better.

Faithfully yours,

E. M. PECKE.

GENERAL NEWS.

—They have instituted the Sunday School Missionary Host in Colorado. The first anniversary took place on Wednesday, June 13th, at the Cathedral in Denver. The President, Mr. Ralph Talbot, made his annual report, and in it declared that the idea of it came from this diocese. There were 200 children present.

—Bishop Burgess delivered his second triennial charge at the recent Convention in Quincy, on Some Essentials of Catholicity.

—In the Missionary Jurisdiction of New Mexico, the Church property in 1880 was valued at $5,000, in 1881 at $8,000, in 1882 at $20,000, in 1883 at $40,000. The Bishop in this one single item has more than paid for himself.

—Prof. H. B. Smith of the Union Theological Seminary, states from the experience of thirty years, that nearly all the young men who study for the ministry came from families where as children, they had received careful Christian training ; very few came from families where home religion was neglected.

—Lord Shaftesbury states that in London, from examination, it has been found that nearly all of the adult male criminals of that city fell into a course of crime between the ages of eight and sixteen years, and most of them from being allowed to stay out late at night.

—The report of the Committee on Liturgical Enrichment will be ready in the form of a volume, containing the Prayer Book with the suggestions which they make for modification, by the 12th of September. The Bishops and the Deputies to General Convention will each have a copy. For others, copies at the rate of $5.00 each can be subscribed for to Reuben Colton, Esq., Worcester, Mass. All will be distributed at the same time.

—The Standing Committee of Maryland have decided that they have no power clearly given to call a Special Convention for the election of a Bishop, and hence will not call any. The matter will thus necessarily go over until the regular Convention in May next, and leave the diocese for fifteen months without a Bishop.

—The Kentucky Church paper has made a good suggestion for the changing of the time of meeting of the General Convention to May, and have it at some of the resorts where large accommodations could be had before the summer boarders came, at reduced rate, and where each deputy could thus pay his own more moderate bill, which he cannot do now, while he does not want to impose himself, with five hundred others for three weeks, on a strange host, who never heard of him before.

—There is a movement on foot for the calling of a Church Congress for and in the South. Few writers or speakers from that section are invited or appear at the Church Congress held in the East, nor do many come from the West.

—At the Conference held at Sewanee, Tenn., for four days from July 25th to 28th, called by Bishop Green, in the matter of considering what further could be done by the Church for the religious advantage of colored persons, thirteen Bishops were present, and fifteen Dioceses and Jurisdictions were represented. The proceedings and results are to be published. A meeting of colored Church clergymen has been called in Philadelphia in September, to memorialize the General Convention, touching the same subject. The session was useful, and the hospitality most beautiful and abundant.

—The Scottish Communion office, after which ours is modeled, rather than after the English, and which the Scottish Bishops insisted upon the use of as a condition of consecrating Bishop Seabury, is now only used in Scotland at the consecration and the opening of Synods. The English is used. We have better performed our part of the compact than the Scotch have. The Rev. Dr. Edson, of Massachusetts, who recently died, was one of our oldest clergy, and had served only one parish, and that for sixty years.

—The first number of the Parish Messenger, a little monthly from Denison, Texas, reaches us. From it we see that Mr. E. H. Lingo, who used to be such a faithful man in Chillicothe, is Senior Warden, and Superintendent of the Sunday school in Denison.

—The great St. Louis Fair takes place this year from Oct. 1st to 6th. Greater pains than ever before have been taken with the exhibits, and prizes will be larger. The mechanical and commercial display and procession during fair week, Friday, Oct. 5th, will be something new and of amazing length and variety. The Veiled Prophet has put out his proclamation, and indicates a gorgeous entry into the city on Tuesday evening, 2d.

MISCELLANY.

—Says the Roman Catholic World, speaking of the laity: "Lives more destitute than theirs of intellectual activity it would be hard to imagine among educated people. . . . For the past ten years the Roman Catholic book business generally has been conducted at a loss."

—The London Guardian, having reference to the suggested resignation of Bishop Wordsworth, says: "It may be that the idea of the requirements of the Bishop's office of the presens day errs, as many have begun to think, in the direction of excessive activity, to the detriment of not less needful qualities of sound learning, force of character, and power of wise counsel and government. It may be thought that in some recent Episcopal appointments these latter qualifications have been apparently less valued than heretofore, in comparison with energy of work and personal influence. Still we must conclude that the error, if error there be, is on the right side. Episcopacy is oversight ; and oversight, if it does not demand ubiquity of presence, at least calls for universality of sympathy and interest at all times, and for the possibility of personal presence in all cases of necessity."

—To suppose that a Protestant can escape from the difficulties raised by modern science and criticism against Christianity by becoming a Roman Catholic is exactly like supposing that a man who is in the lower rooms of a house set on fire in the basement can save himself by going upstairs into the garrets. Metaphor apart, the matter stands thus: Roman Catholic theology probably is extremely logical and well constructed. But the whole system rests upon several suppositions, of which the absolute truth of the whole of the canonical Scriptures is one. This assumption pervades the whole of Roman Catholic theology, just as the fundamental assumptions as to the strength of materials pervade the calculations of architects. M. Renan's historical criticisms, if they cannot be answered, are absolutely fatal to the system in which he was educated. They are so by reason of the very quality of system and logic of which English Roman Catholics boast. The Roman Catholic syllogism is: Whatever doctrines the Church affirms to be true is true. But the Church affirms our doctrines to be true. Therefore they are true. The Protestant syllogism is: Every religious doctrine is true which is affirmed to be true by One who is proved by historical evidence to have been crucified, dead, and buried, and to have risen again from the dead and ascended into heaven. But the doctrine was affirmed to be true by such a person. Therefore this doctrine is true. If these two syllogisms are compared together, it will be found impossible to prove the major of the first syllogism otherwise than by affirming the major and proving the minor of the second syllogism, taking the authority of the Church as the doctrine to which it refers. In other words, the Roman Catholic must prove the truth of the essential parts of all the Protestant creeds before he can allege the truth of his own.

—This is the way that Gen. B. F. Butler puts it in his address at Williams College lately: Brought up in a Baptist college, it yet never seemed to me that it was of any consequence what amount of water was used to give the sign of the living soul that it belonged to Christ. Afterward, struck with the beauty of the liturgy and litany of the Episcopal Church in its rhythmic flow, almost in numbers, satisfied with the Apostles' Creed and fully content to wind up the morning devotion with the prayer of Chrysostom, "Oh, Lord, listen to our petitions, as they are most convenient for us," certain that all will be done, I became a member of an Episcopal congregation.

—A little boy finished his prayers one night, just before his summer vacation, with the words: "Good-bye, God, I am going into the country." Some such disposition as this explains why, although city congregations are so much smaller in the summer, country congregations are not at all proportionally increased. Church people who are exact in their habits at home are utterly careless when away. Even clergymen are sometimes neglectful of attendance at service, and excite the astonishment of groups of Church people having no service, by declining even to read the prayers on Sunday.

EARLY DAYS IN KANSAS CITY.

It may be taken as an evidence of the growth of the city and an increase of the church's strength that in September of this year the Rev. A. Batte began mission services in McGee's addition in a hall rented for that purpose. The communicant's in St. Luke's church had increased in 1869, to 135, and in 1870 were reported as 179. Thus rapid was the progress of the church just so soon as a settled home had been secured.

The growth of the city had, however, now reached the point that a more decisive step had to be taken. The numbers and ability of the church people on the west side had come to be such that its demand for services at that section could no longer be delayed. The policy of the rector of St. Luke's had been to build a large central church at the cost of $50,000 and two chapels, costing $25,000 each, to the west and the south. The desire on the west side, however, was for an independent parish.

On the 9th of July, 1870, I addressed a formal letter to the Episcopalians of West Kansas City, in these terms: "Each repeated visit which I have made to your city has only deepened in me the impression that I at first formed of its large present and prospective importance. My desire is that our church shall take its proper position there. The scattered condition of population, as well as the size and ability of the parish, have for several months indicated to me that the time is rapidly approaching when another centre must be had and another parish organized. The ability of the Church people in the western part of the city is sufficient now to justify action, and I recommend that steps be taken to organize. I think that the new parish will be self-sustaining from the start, and that the old one, after a few months, will not be less strong than it is now. In a parish as numerous as St. Luke's diverse opinions arise and are held, the only sufficient solution of which is division and separate action. No such an enterprise, started with a sincere purpose to further the church, I would give my cordial approval. I think that it would be wise to build on the ridge near Penn avenue, or, perhaps, as far east as Broadway. On general principles, however, I would keep to the height.

On the 20th of July, 1870, after due notice a meeting was held in the basement of the opera house, at which the rector, Mr. Van Antwerp, presided, and at which a parish named St. Paul's was organized. The articles of the association were signed, and nine vestrymen, who were residents in the western portion of the city were elected.

These were Messrs. M. Dively, G. E. Pitkin, A. S. Brackett, B. J. Henning, Wallace Pratt, J. R. Balis, T. B. Eldridge, E. H. Allen and Dr. W. W. H. Jenny.

Perhaps this important event, the organization of the second parish, may be taken as the end of those earlier days of which I proposed to give you some account, and the task that I allotted to myself may be counted as completed. What I may yet say will have reference to the parish which reaches such an interesting point in its history to-day.

The room in the basement of the opera house was used by the parish for its services until December, 1874. It was kindly furnished by Col. Coates. The access to it was very inconvenient, and in the winter and at night almost dangerous. At first there were but very few benches, occupying but a small portion of the hall. These were often taken out of the way on social occasions for the parish or otherwise. The services during the first summer were kept up by neighboring and visiting clergymen. At a meeting of the vestry September 20, 1870, the subscriptions and prospects of the parish having been found such as to justify it, the Rev. J. B. Haff of Wisconsin was called to the rectorship at a salary of $2,000. This call was accepted, and Mr. Haff entered upon his work on the first Sunday in December following. The first senior warden was Major Henning; the junior warden was Mr. Pitkin; the superintendent of the Sunday school was Dr. Jeuny. The ladies of the parish were especially active, and accumulated the means by which, during the first year, they bought the fine communion service of the parish.

At the Easter parish meeting in 1871, Mr. Bilis became the senior warden, and steps were taken to change the name of the parish from St. Paul's to Grace church. This was done because it was thought that the similarity of the names of the parishes in the city might occasion confusion. In May the parish was received into union with the convention of the diocese, and thirty-nine communicants were reported. About this time a lot was purchased and partly paid for on which to erect a church building on Washington avenue, between Tenth and Eleventh streets. The contract to purchase was with Col. Coates. There was much discussion at the vestry meeting, as to whether the building should be a grand one of stone, or a modest frame church. Plans were procured, and some canvassing for the money with which to go on; but parochial interest was evidently languishing, when, on the 20th of September, the Rev. Mr. Haff resigned his rectorship, after an incumbency of less than a year. Subsequently the resignation was accepted, to take effect December 1. It was found that the ground which had been bought could not be used to advantage, and Col. Coates released the parish and repaid the money which had been advanced, and it was thereupon returned to the subscribers.

On the first of January, 1872, an arrangement was made for Sunday morning services and pastoral care, with the Rev. A. Batte, which, it was supposed, would only continue for a few months, until the choice of a rector should be made. The connection, however, proved so acceptable that it lasted until the summer of 1874. On the 6th of May, 1872, the committee of the vestry, which had been appointed a fortnight before, reported unanimously in favor of buying the lot on which this church stands for $3,175. Messrs. Balis and G. W. McLean were especially efficient in raising the money to pay for the lot. In May of this year Mr. Batte reported to the convention that the parish has a noble band of zealous working ladies, that the male members are liberal, and if they had the same zeal they would in a year or two have a parish of metropolitan proportions.

In 1873 it was determined to change the name of the parish from St. Paul's to Grace Church, and the measure was consummated. On the 12th of May the plans for the erection of a brick church of about the original size of this building, and to cost about $9,000, were submitted to a parish meeting and unanimously approved, and the vestry was directed to proceed with the building. During the summer the foundation was put in. In the fall of this year came on the terrible financial crisis, which fell with full force on this city, together with the grasshopper plague, and depressed its trade for several years. This put an effectual stop to the intention of proceeding with the building, and caused the adoption of a less expensive plan when it was set about. During this time the parish fell behind financially, although it was steadily gaining in numbers, and a spirit of unity prevailed. Mr. Batte reported in 1873 fifty three, and in 1874, sixty nine communicants.

On the 22nd of June, 1874, the Rev. Mr. Batte, greatly to the regret of the parish, resigned his charge of it. On the 26th of the next month the Rev. Jos. E. Martin assumed the rectorship of the parish. Shortly after this the movement to erect the church received an impetus, and the contract for the construction of the building was let. The first service was held in it on Christmas day, 1874.

The eighteen months after this were anxious and troubled days for the parish. The city was growing, the position of the church was most favorable, the joy of getting at length into a building of its own was universally felt. The congregations at first were large but the illness and absence of the rector for some months, and then the springing up of alienations and divisions in the parish caused the numbers to fall off, and the indebtedness of the parish rapidly to increase. The strength of the church was not as great at Easter, 1876, as it had been at Easter, 1875. At a meeting of the vestry, May 2, 1876, the resignation of Mr. Martin was presented and accepted. He relinquished his duties about the 1st day of July. Lay services were for a while maintained, but had ceased before the clerical services were resumed.

JOPLIN.

MRS. R. M. ROBERTS, who suddenly died in Joplin, on the 17th ult., was the daughter of Judge Porter of Hannibal, and the wife of the High Sheriff of Jasper County. She was born in Bowling Green, Pike County, Mo.; married in 1870 and came to this place, then a little hamlet just springing into existence, in company with her husband in 1873. In her demise, society at large in this vicinity realizes a great loss, and the Church in which she was born and reared has sustained a heavy blow, for in its interests she was an untiring worker, as secretary and treasurer of the same, never faltering in the face of discouragements and drawbacks, of which there were many in this new place, but heroically pushing onward, trusting with God's aid, to build up a church that would be an honor to all, and in which she could worship and rear her three little darlings.

She was a woman of rare purity of character, beautiful, generous and a noble type of womanhood; a fond mother and loving wife, who in return was beloved by a true and manly heart. H. A. H.

BEATTY'S ORGANS.—Our last issue contained an advertisement of the celebrated Organs manufactured by Daniel F. Beatty, of Washington, New Jersey, which we inadvertently omitted to call attention to. Mayor Beatty is offering special inducements to persons intending to purchase an Organ now.

AYER'S Hair Vigor

restores, with the gloss and freshness of youth, faded or gray hair to a natural, rich brown color, or deep black, as may be desired. By its use light or red hair may be darkened, thin hair thickened, and baldness often, though not always, cured.

It checks falling of the hair, and stimulates a weak and sickly growth to vigor. It prevents and cures scurf and dandruff, and heals nearly every disease peculiar to the scalp. As a Ladies' Hair Dressing, the VIGOR is unequalled; it contains neither oil nor dye, renders the hair soft, glossy, and silken in appearance, and imparts a delicate, agreeable, and lasting perfume.

MR. C. P. BRICHER writes from Kirby, O., July 3, 1882: "Last fall my hair commenced falling out, and in a short time I became nearly bald. I used part of a bottle of AYER'S HAIR VIGOR, which stopped the falling of the hair, and started a new growth. I have now a full head of hair growing vigorously, and am convinced that but for the use of your preparation I should have been entirely bald."

J. W. BOWEN, proprietor of the McArthur (Ohio) Enquirer, says: "AYER'S HAIR VIGOR is a most excellent preparation for the hair. I speak of it from my own experience. Its use promotes the growth of new hair, and makes it glossy and soft. The VIGOR is also a sure cure for dandruff. Not within my knowledge has the preparation ever failed to give entire satisfaction."

MR. ANSON FAIRBAIN, leader of the celebrated "Fairbain Family" of Scottish Vocalists, writes from Boston, Mass., Feb. 6, 1880: "Ever since my hair began to give silvery evidence of the change which fleeting time procureth, I have used AYER'S HAIR VIGOR, and so have been able to maintain an appearance of youthfulness—a matter of considerable consequence to ministers, orators, actors, and in fact every one who lives in the eyes of the public."

MRS. O. A. PRESCOTT, writing from 18 Elm St., Charlottesville, Mass., April 14, 1882, says: "Two years ago about two-thirds of my hair came off. It thinned very rapidly, and I was fast growing bald. On using AYER'S HAIR VIGOR the falling stopped and a new growth commenced, and in about a month my head was completely covered with short hair. It has continued to grow, and is now as good as before it fell. I regularly used but one bottle of the VIGOR, but now use it occasionally as a dressing."

We have hundreds of similar testimonials to the efficacy of AYER'S HAIR VIGOR. It needs but a trial to convince the most skeptical of its value.

THE Journal of the Convention appeared before the end of July, and shows the careful work of the Secretary and Assistant. Fuller notice of it, and the condition of Diocesan affairs shown by it, will be made in our next.

THE Twelfth Sunday after Trinity, coming this year on the 12th of this month, is the day on which it is the custom to ask the offerings of the congregations for services among the deaf mutes, the Gospel of the day having for its subject, The Care of the Deaf Man.

THE proof-reader was absent on his summer excursion while the last number of the NEWS was being made ready for the press. This will perhaps explain the large number of typographical mistakes for which we felt annoyed. It was not, for instance, "The year broke off Grace Church, Kansas City," but "The Year Book of Grace Church," etc.

THESE OUGHT YE TO HAVE DONE.

THE NEWS reaches those in the Diocese who are in large parishes and small, in the city and the country, of a wealthy congregation and of the feeble mission. Much that it has at times to say, while intelligible to some, is not applicable to others. What is now to be said is for those who are in the country and in small congregations. It is reference to the neatness and orderliness of the church building. Of course much is often lacking because of a want of means; but then much disorder that is alleged to be occasioned by poverty, is really due to carelessness and a disposition to put off.

There ought always to be a porch before the church door, to shield from the sun in summer, to allow person sto beat off the snow in winter, and in muddy weather to prevent the tracking of clay into the church. A plank stretched before the door would prevent the tracking in nasty mud, and be a great saving to the carpets. Cocoa matting is better than carpet for the aisle in a town indifferently provided with side-walks.

In the country places where the people do not live very near, and so do not get often to the church, it is apt to get very untidy; how unsightly it is the people apparently scarcely know themselves. A little system would insure its being cleaned before each service. Kneeling in some places is wholly out of the question. Torn prayer books, and stray leaves of sacred books should not be left about the seats, they breed irreverence. If collected, and from time to time repaired, they would save the Church many a dollar.

Ladies with great effort get a carpet; but soon under each kerosene lamp is seen a large, greasy blotch, where the oil has run over and fallen. This need not been with a little thought. A bit of cotton in the socket to absorb the oil as it runs over would entirely stop the nuisance, and relieve the atmosphere of the church of this argument for incense. The lamps are often full of oil and yet burn dimly. This would be helped, if when there is an interval without night services, the oil were taken out of the lamps and put into the cans. The illuminating quality of the oil thus would not be allowed to evaporate. Clergymen do not generally insist upon the lamp cleaning being done, and the oil can and cloths being kept in the vestry room.

Have a place in the summer time for the stoves, and this not out of doors, or in a damp cellar, or any place where they are likely to get rusty. This is bad economy. The minister may be dry, but this does not necessarily imply that the stove and pipe should be put into the vestry room.

It is a good plan to have shelves for books and papers in the vestry room. These and other things are often huddled in piles on the floor. When the minister is done with his sermon, he had better put it away, and not let it lie around. A production which had such power when being uttered is greatly disillusioned when it is found with poor handwriting to be spread out on soiled paper. Put the thunderbolt out of sight; it looks and possibly sounds, when seen written, singularly unlike the thunderbolt.

The vessels and linen of the Holy Communion should be kept scrupulously clean. The wine should be pure and not sour. The water should be put in the font in baptism, not in a bowl placed in the cavity. If there is no font, a petty, common vessel should not be allowed to belittle the Sacrament. Get the names and dates for the register beforehand.

THE CHILDREN'S COT.

ST. LUKE'S HOSPITAL.

For several years an effort has been making to raise $3,000 from the children and those who are interested in them, for the perpetual endowment for a cot and a room for a child at our Hospital, where a child not able to be otherwise provided for may be kindly taken care of when sick or undergoing treatment. By little and little we have gone on so far. Gifts are urgently asked for this purpose, and will be credited in THE NEWS. They may be sent to the Bishop, 2727 Chestnut street, St. Louis.

SISTER ODEN.

The name at the head of this article was closely associated with St. Luke's Hospital for many years. There are persons scattered all over the country who were patients under her care, who will never forget her bright, cheerful face, nor her loving ministrations at the bedside. And there are many who as occasional visitors, will recall her warm, friendly greeting, and who learned to esteem her highly. Of her more intimate friends it is unnecessary to speak.

Now it is proposed in the Memorial Chapel, about to be erected for St. Luke's, that the various articles of furniture, such as font, altar, and lectern, be given "in memoriam," by friends who would thus commemorate their departed loved ones; and also, that such of the windows as might be called for, should be thus used. A desire has already been expressed on the part of a number of friends to avail themselves of this privilege. The writer of this, bespeaks a window "in memoriam" for Sister Oden, and would suggest to those who knew and loved her, and who would wish to join in such an expression of their affectionate remembrance, to send their offerings to Sister Catharine, directed to the Hospital.

She has not been consulted as to any arrangement of this kind, but there is no doubt she would gladly act. It is important that what is done should be done speedily.

PERSONAL.

—Tilden thinks that the labors of our present President are mainly gastronomic, and the strain principally on his waist band.

—Bishop Galleher's health is very good, we hear, and his going to Europe was only caused by a plethoric purse.

—Bishop Dunlop has changed his plan of making a visit to St. Louis to General Convention. He will go north on a visit to his brother in Minnesota while on his way east, and stop to see his friends in St. Louis, as he goes westward.

—Bishop Whittle has not been quite so well since he reached the other side. He is troubled with sleeplessness. With his family he is in Switzerland.

—Bishop Green in 1823, then in his twenty-fifth year, and a presbyter in the Convention of North Carolina, nominated to the vacant Episcopate of that Diocese John I. Ravenscroft, then almost unknown, and living in retirement in a log cabin in Virginia. In twenty minutes afterward he was elected. Mr. Green brought to him the evidence of his election. He was utterly dumb with surprise and consternation. He read the paper and sat motionless, and then a groan escaped him. His wife did not know what the papers could mean, and asked what was the cause of his distress. He threw the papers into her lap, and retired to his room for prayer, and was gone half an hour. When he re appeared he came up and said, "Brother Green, It must be so. The hand of God is in it." His Episcopate lasted only six years, but in that time he stamped the Churchmanship, which previously had been of the weakest, with a mark of distinctness and strength which it has always since retained.

—The Rev. Jos. R. Gray, we regret to learn, has been compelled on account of ill health to resign his parish in Tennessee. He is spending the summer in Columbia, Mo., and proposes to go to Florida in the fall.

—Father Hyacinthe and probably several English and Colonial Bishops will be at the General Convention this fall.

—Bishop Thompson of Mississippi has chosen Oxford, the seat of the State University, as the place of his residence, and will have honorary charge of the parish there, the Rev. M. M. Moore having resigned the rectorship, and taken the assistantship. He will have influence with the young men, with his marked strength of character and force and grace of speech.

—Bishop Robertson, Rabbi S. H. Sonneschein, Doctors J. Y. Wilson, W. G. Eliot, Jas. H. Brookes, Hon. D. P. Dyer and W. H. Blodgett, of this city, have been appointed delegates from Missouri to the National Conference of Charities and Corrections to be held at Louisville, Ky., September 22.

—Bishop Wordsworth of Lincoln, England, proposes to resign his See.

—Hobart College, New York, has elected the Rev. Geo. W. Douglas of Trinity Church, N. Y., as its president.

—The Bishop of Iowa has deposed Charles Colard Adams, who proposes to enter into secular business.

—The clerical obituary for the month includes the names of the Revs. Thos. A. Griffith of California, and N. S. Richardson, D.D., Editor of the Guardian, and formerly of the Church Review. He was one of the veteran writers of the Church.

—Our old friend, the Rev. Mr. Ringgold of Cedar Rapids, has had the degree of D.D., conferred on him by Griswold College.

REV. GEORGE H. APPLETON.

A REMINISCENCE.

In the Spirit of Missions for the month of August of this year, there is mention of the Rev. George H. Appleton and wife having arrived at Shanghai, China, and of his entering upon his work as a Missionary. Now such a notice would of course be a matter of interest to parents and intimate friends. And all who are interested in the success of missions, must rejoice when new laborers answer to the pressing call from "fields already white unto the harvest."

But in this dearth of ministers, in the great lack of those who are ready to work for the Church in any field, and where in every diocese in the land the number of candidates for the ministry is growing steadily less, year by year, it is a matter of interest to the Churchmen of this city and diocese, that one born here, and who has grown up among us, has been found ready and prepared to leave home and kindred, encounter the life of self-denial in a strange land, the labor of learning a foreign language, and to be cut off from all the sympathy of social intercourse, that he might bear the tidings of the Gospel to the heathens.

Little did the writer of this dream twenty eight years ago, he was admitting the little one to the Fold of Christ, and placing on his forehead the sign of the cross, "to fight manfully under His banner," that he was receiving one, who would prove a leader in the van, and who would cross seas and oceans to "seek for Christ's sheep that are dispersed abroad, and for His children who are in this naughty world that they may be saved through Christ forever."

In the retrospect of every minister of Christ, while there is much of no special interest, and much that is sad and discouraging, there are occasionally bright spots on which his memory lingers, furnishing the comforting conviction that his labors has not all been in vain. Of such a character is the incident referred to. The father of Mr. Appleton was for some time a vestryman of Christ Church, and for many years, in the days of his prosperity, gave liberally for the Church and other objects of Christian beneficence. And while it must be a wrench upon the heart-strings of the parents to be so far separated from their only son, yet entrusting him to the care of a kind

Providence, and knowing that he is engaged in his Master's work, there must be a peculiar satisfaction in the consciousness that through him they are paying back a portion of the debt they owe to the Great Missionary who "came to seek and to save the lost."

It is a singular coincidence, as appears from the date given in the Spirit of Missions, that the Rev. W. Appleton arrived in Shanghai on the 5th of April, just 28 years to a day from the time of his baptism.

It is not at all likely that there are many young men of his spirit among us, and yet his words may quicken some conscience and touch some heart.

He writes: "I have seen something of the work that is going on, and even at this early day I am constrained to call to some of our young men 'come over and help us.' I have visited other points, and judging as best I can, I should say, the good people at home have every reason to be satisfied with the work. Again, I say, workers, more workers." M. S.

TO THOSE IN HEALTH.

"Let him (the sick person) be admonished to make his will, and to declare his debts, what he oweth, and what is owing unto him, for the better discharging of his conscience, and the quietness of his executors. But men should often be put in remembrance to take order for the settling of their temporal estates, whilst they are in health." —[Rubric in Visitation of the Sick.]

For those who are minded to give back to God a portion of that with which he has entrusted to them as stewards, by which a blessing may be invoked on them and their memories when they are in their graves, the following directions may be of use:

Real estate and personal property may be given, deeded or devised to the Orphans' Home and St. Luke's Hospital, St. Louis, as they are incorporated bodies. The legal name of the former is "The Orphans' Home, of St. Louis, incorporated in February, 1845;" and of the latter, "St. Luke's Hospital, of St. Louis, incorporated in 1872."

Real estate for a church, parsonage, a burial ground in any particular place, may be given or devised to "The Parochial Trust Fund of the Diocese of Missouri, a body incorporated under the laws of the State of Missouri," in trust for the place. Real estate also for the above purposes may be given or devised to any Church which is properly incorporated.

Real estate for any other purpose, and personal property may be given or devised for the benefit of any church, or any of our charities by naming trustees in the will or deed, and providing how their successors in the trust may be appointed, who can receive and dispense the trust as directed. Such objects may be suggested as "Permanent Fund for the support of the Episcopate of the Diocese of Missouri," "The Theological Education Fund," "The Fund for Aged and Infirm Clergymen, and for the Widows and Orphans of Clergymen," "The Laymen's Co-operating Missionary Society," "The Sisterhood of the Good Shepherd of the Protestant Episcopal Church," St. James Academy, Macon;" "School of Good Shepherd, St. Louis."

Accuracy as to the description of property, and the designation of the trust should be specially observed.

IN MEMORIAM.

JESSE LINDELL JANUARY.

The beautiful dies not. In realms of morn,
Where Truth and Wisdom have their dwelling place,
And sink foundations deep in lasting light,
The foe her being hath,—and often dwells
Beside their portals for their angel guide.

What though the frosts of Time may touch the green
Or flow'ry plains of all her Eden-lands,
And rosy wreaths, and blooming woods and bowers,
Yet, Beauty's spirit-touch embalmeth all
In Immortality so fair, we say,
Behold how good! Behold there is no death!

So Beauty crowned thee, in thy prime, O, rare
And noble one! She wove the newless veil
That deck'd the presence chamber of thy soul;
And, evil, with its darken'd train touched not Thy spirit that knew all of loveliness.

They tell me Death hath shut the door of life,
That only echo in the silence gives
Reply to the tearful, calling voice of Love;
That, as yon cloud on evening's sunset tide
Thyself hath vanished to a vast Unknown.
Of this I'm sure,—thy perfect heart and mind,
Where'er thy paths may be, are luminous
In concourse high with the Immortals grand,
Who walk the paths of light throughout all time,
Or charioted by Beauty evermore.

MOTHER AFTER ALL.—Col. Ethan Allen was a bold officer of the American revolution. He could face the enemies of his country with the most undaunted bravery, and in the field of battle he never shrunk from danger. But he was an opposer to Christianity, and glorified in the character of an infidel. His wife, however, was a pious woman, and taught her children in the ways of piety, while he told them it was a delusion. But there was an hour coming when Col. Allen's confidence in his own sentiments would be closely tried.

A beloved daughter was taken sick—he received a message that she was dying; he hastened to her bed-side, anxious to hear her dying words.

"Father," said she, I am about to die: shall I believe in the principles which you have taught me, or shall I believe what my mother has taught me?"

This was an affecting scene. The intrepid Colonel became extremely agitated, his chin quivered, his whole frame shook; and after waiting a few moments, he replied, "Believe as your mother has taught you."

—In New York city the proportion of Methodists to the entire population in 34 years has fallen from one in 64 to one in 104. The profits of the organ, the Advocate, had been $63,000 for the last year.

"GENELLI," 923 Olive street, have raised quite an excitement in reducing cabinets to half price. The work is the best in the city.

LADIES can obtain a package of "Silk Waste," convenient in making Crazy Quilts, etc., by sending their address and a 3-cent stamp to BROWNING & COYLE, 521 St. Charles street, St. Louis, Mo.

THE article in our July issue, entitled "A Churchman with a Capital C," should have been credited to "How to Behave in the Parish."

BOOK NOTICES.

THE NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW for August opens with a very spirited discussion of the subject of "Moral Instruction in the Public Schools," by the Rev. Dr. R. Heber Newton, who offers a practical scheme for conveying ethical instruction without reference to religious tenets, and the Rev. Dr. Francis L. Patton, who maintains that the Bible must be made the basis of all moral teaching. Henry D. Lloyd exposes the tricks and frauds of speculation in grain, which operates to make bread dear, and maintains that they should be repressed by law, as being flagrantly in opposition to public policy. "Woman in Politics," by ex-Surgeon General Wm. A. Hammond, is a caustic discussion of certain facts of nervous organization which in his opinion render the female sex unfitted for participation in public affairs. Hon. Francis A. Walker reviews "Henry George's Social Fallacies." The evils resulting from "Crude Methods of Legislation," both national and State, are pointed out by Simon Sterne, who advocates the adoption of certain rules of legislative procedure which, in English practice, have been found to serve as an effectual barrier, both against lobbying and against the mischief of ill-considered law-making. Charles F. Wingate writes of "The Unsanitary Homes of the Rich," and there is a joint discussion of "Science and Prayer," by President Galusha Anderson and Thaddeus B. Wakeman. Published at 30 Lafayette Place, New York, and for sale by booksellers generally. Henry D. Lloyd will describe in the next number the methods employed by speculators in grain, and will show how they operate to make bread dear.

THE DISEASE OF MEMORY. By Th. Ribot. No. 46 of the "Library of Science." Price 15 cents, post paid. J. Fitzgerald, Publisher. 20 Lafayette Place, New York.

A profoundly interesting work, full of curious facts. But it is more than that: it is a philosophical study of the phenomena of memory as exhibited in sundry forms of mental disease. It offers a scientific explanation of many abnormal conditions of memory which from time immemorial have puzzled students of mental science. The book will be read with interest by all who believe that "the proper study of mankind is man."

In keeping with its midsummer holiday character, the August CENTURY contains an unusual number of short stories and striking illustrations, as well as poems and articles adapted to summer reading. The number offers, in addition to the most entertaining part yet given of Mr. Howell's "A Woman's Reason," the first part of a stirring romance called "The Bread winners," which will run through six numbers of the magazine. The scene of the story will be easily recognized as a flourishing city on Lake Erie. It is anonymous to the editor, as well as to the readers of the magazine, the author's dealings with the editor having been carried on through a third person. Humor is the characteristic of the short stories, which comprise "The New Silk Dress Story," "The New Minister's Great Opportunity," and another group of Joel Chandler Harris's "Nights with Uncle Remus." The frontispiece, an admirable essay by Henry James, have to do with the leading French novelist of the day,—Alphonse Daudet,—whom Mr. James places at the head of living writers of fiction. G. W. Prothero contributes an art essay, richly illustrated by engravings of ideal pictures and portraits, upon the works of "Mr. Watts at the Grosvenor Gallery." John Burroughs has an admiring and judicious word to say of "Carlyle," apropos of the reminiscences and letters, including those of Mrs. Carlyle.

"Bob White, the Game Bird of America," is the subject of the first illustrated article. A humorously illustrated article is Robert Adams, Jr.'s description of "The Oldest Club in America," the Philadelphia Fishing Association, known as the State in Schuylkill, which resembles the London Beestack Club. The poetry of the number includes five "Songs of the Sea," by different writers, accompanied by a full-page engraving.

ST. NICHOLAS for August. August is the great holiday month, and the August St. Nicholas is essentially a holiday number, taking its readers away from the great cities to the mountains and seashore, by the brooks and the breakers.

Edwin Lassetter Byaner contributes an amusing and capably illustrated story, entitled "Our Special Artist," which deals with the varied experience and laughable failures of a boy who undertakes amateur photography at a military camp and in a trip through the mountains of Virginia.

A bright, amusing, and exciting sea story is the "Lady of the Chingachgook," which tells how a young girl took possession of a yacht, to the owner's excessive annoyance, and helped him win a race, to his exceeding delight.

Maurice Thompson, in the "Work and Play Department," has a seasonable paper on "Fly-fishing for Black Bass," which he writes for the double purpose of advocating fly fishing as a sport for boys and girls, and of putting forward the claims of the naturally diffident black bass as a game fish and rival of the trout.

There is also an excellent story for girls called "Zintha's Fortune," which tells of the struggles and ultimate success of a young prairie maiden in her efforts to find her father.

J. T. Trowbridge takes the "Tinkham Brothers" through a thrilling midnight attack on their "Tide-mill."

WINTER IN INDIA.—By the Rt. Hon. W. E. Baxter, M. P. This is the last, and the best, of a number of charming books of travel by the Hon. Mr. Baxter, who took many journeys in Europe, Asia, Africa and America. By the aid of this book we can accompany him through his winter tour in India. He introduces us to strange scenes, curious incidents peculiar alone to India: and obtains for us a vast fund of information and facts concerning a country which is likely to call upon itself more notice from the world than any other country on earth. Mr. Baxter tells his thrilling story in such a pure, simple style that readers of all ages will alike enjoy it. His position as an English statesman is a guarantee of the reliability of its every statement. Published in Funk & Wagnall's Standard Library. Price 15 cents.

We have received from John B. Alden, 18 Vesey street, New York, nice neatly bound little volumes, in uniform sage green cloth, in good paper and type. The prices named are with postage paid: Demosthenes, by W. J. Brodribb, 30 cents; Aristotle, by Sir Alex. Grant, 30 cts.; Plato, 30 cts.; Arnold's Indian Song of Songs, 25 cts.; Arnold's Pearls of The Faith, 30 cts.; Science Series, I., 25 cts.;

Life of Peter Cooper, 25 cts.; Life of Alex. H. Stevens, 25 cts.; The Great Bridge (the orations of Abram S. Hewitt and Rev. Dr. Storrs), 25 cts. These books could not otherwise be had for less than $1 each.

The August WIDE AWAKE is a notably beautiful issue, evidently intended to add to the delights of the summer vacation days for both children and adults. It opens with a deliciously piquant frontispiece, called "The Button Charm," and following comes a piquant story of "The Runaway Rings." There is another story, the wit and sly humor of which render it delightful for piazza reading aloud. It is entitled simply "Toby." Particularly adapted for the pleasure of summer idlers is "A Castle in Spain," by the same author, a long fanciful ballad, accompanied with eight full-page drawings, in which he quite transcends all his previous work in this line. "The Lights of Paris" is another well-illustrated contribution. It is written by Isabel Smithton, and the fourteen drawings for it were made by Bodfish in Paris, and show many curious old street lamps and lanterns, as well as fine engravings of Paris by gaslight and electric light. The fifth installment of the Picture Serial, "Through Spain on Donkey-Back," is another strong attraction of the number, and "Surf Bathing at Newport," "A Summer Sketching Club," and Barnes' picturesque drawing, "Boy Bishop," and Taylor's beautiful full-page illustration for Adelaide Procter's "Lost Chord," are among the other pictorial enjoyments of the number. $2.50 a year. D. Lothrop & Co., Boston.

SCOTTISH CHARACTERISTICS. By Paxton Hood. He must be a bold man who will undertake to portray the characteristics of a Scotchman. He has generally been found too hard a case, one who could always hold his own against all comers, and finally turn the laugh upon his critics. Johnson, who hated Scotchmen, was no match for the Scot's dry sarcasm. Johnson, in his dictionary, in defining the meaning of oatmeal, said: "Food for horses and Scotchmen." And the Scotchman who saw it wrote on the margin: "Were there ever such horses, were there ever such men!" If, however, the work is to be done at all, there is not a man in Great Britain who is so well fitted for the task as Paxton Hood. No man knows them better. He was near enough to them to know them intimately; he was far enough away to be able to take in their grand proportions of character. His wit, humor, sarcasm, which abound in all his writings, are apparently concentrated in this. Some of the anecdotes we have seen before, but Mr. Hood tells them in such a quaint way that we find a new interest in them. The old as well as the young will be amused and greatly edified. Published in Funk & Wagnall's Standard Library. Price, 25 cents.

Durham, Ia., March 2, 1882.

"Eight years ago I had an attack of Rheumatism so severe that I could not move from the bed, or dress, without help. I tried several remedies without much if any relief, until I took AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, by the use of two bottles of which I was completely cured. I have not been troubled with the Rheumatism since. Have sold large quantities of your SARSAPARILLA, and it still retains its wonderful popularity. The many notable cures it has effected in this vicinity convince me that it is the best blood medicine ever offered to the public. E. F. HARRIS."

"Last March I was so weak from general debility that I could not walk without help. Following the advice of a friend, I commenced taking AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, and before I had used three bottles I felt as well as I ever did in my life. I have been at work now for two months, and think your SARSAPARILLA the greatest blood medicine in the world. JAMES MAYNARD."

GENERAL NEWS.

—The Rev. Dr. McCosh, of Princeton College, tells a story of a negro who prayed earnestly that he and his colored brethren might be preserved from their upstet'n sins. "Brudder," said one of his friends, at the close of the meeting, "you ain't got the hang ob dat ar word. It's besettin', not upstet'n." "Brudder," replied the other, "if that's so, it's so; but I was prayin' de Lord to save us from de sin ob 'toxication, an' ef dat ain't an upstet'n sin, I dunno what am."

—A well known Bishop, eminent in his position and in personal dignity, was once quartered upon the wealthiest resident of a certain village, whose wife chanced to be away from home. The Bishop, with grim humor, frequently complains of being put into the spare room, which is opened especially for him and the encouragement of rheumatism. He is withal a slim man, and on this occasion, when his host inquired how he had slept, and hoped he had passed an agreeable night, he answered, with some vehemence: "No I did not. I passed a very disagreeable night, indeed!" The Bishop departed, and when the wife of his host returned she naturally inquired who had been to the house in her absence. "Bishop P——," said the husband. "Bishop P——!" exclaimed the good woman. "And where did you put him to sleep?" "In the spare bed of course." "In the spare bed!" shrieked the horrified matron. "Why, I put all the silverware under the mattress before I went away!"

—Many years ago Dr. Newman of Oxford said, "I only lament your absence from religious ordinances, I do not complain of it. But perhaps, while one is busy with his farm, and another with his merchandise, and therefore cannot come, the vacant aisles are filled with invisible angels, and the discouraged pastor may, with the spiritual eye of faith, be conscious of their presence whose faces see God."

—"CANNOT WE DO SOMETHING?"—A missionary in Africa had established a school for colored children, which gave him much joy, for they loved the Saviour. One day he told them that there were still a great many idolaters in the world, who did not know the Lord Jesus Christ, and that there were societies in England, Germany, and France which sent missionaries to these poor pagans. The little colored children then said—

"And cannot we do something, also?" "Reflect upon it," replied the missionary; "and when you have found out some way of contributing to this good work, you may come and tell me."

These poor children racked their brains to discover how they could obtain something to give: for you know that they have no parents or friends who are rich enough to have a little money occasionally, and that there are many in Africa who do not know what a piece of money is.

One morning they came to the school full of joy, and said to the missionary—

"We wish to form a little juvenile missionary society."

"That is very well," said the master; but what will you give for missions?"

The eldest answered—

"We have resolved to form a society like grown up persons, and each of us will oblige himself to collect as much money as he can without begging. As for those boys of us who are largest and strongest, we will go into the woods to find bark, and we will carry it to the tanner, who has promised to pay us a florin for each load."

Another child interrupted him and said—"And as for the rest of us we will gather resinous gum, and will sell it for more than four shillings a pound."

"And we," exclaimed the smallest children, "will carry ashes and sell them to the soap-maker."

Then the girls came; and some of them said—

"We will collect locks of wool, and we will sell them."

Others said—"We will get some hens and sell the eggs and the chickens."

The little colored children did not rest satisfied with making promises. They executed their plan without neglecting school; and at the end of a year they held a meeting, under the direction of a missionary, and carefully paid over to him all which they had raised. And how much do you think they put into his hand? More than ten pounds.

STARTLING STATISTICS.

The Shadow Hanging over New York City and the Entire Country—
A Tribune Opinion.

The nation has been horrified at the burning of a Milwaukee hotel, whereby over seventy lives were lost. This event carried terror because it was sudden and appalling; but had the same disastrous results to life and limb come silently they would have been unnoticed, not only by the people of the land but also by the very community in which they occurred. Fatal events of a far worse nature have taken place in this very city, but they have attracted no attention, nor would they now did not the Bureau of Vital Statistics bring them to our notice. "Figures do not lie," whatever else may be uncertain and the report on the deaths of this city is a startling comment on its life. During the past year the enormous increase of certain maladies is simply appalling. While the total number of deaths has diminished and the death rate on most diseases has decreased still it is far greater in one or two serious disorders than was ever known before. More people died in the city of New York in 1882 from Bright's disease of the kidneys, than from diphtheria, small pox and typhoid fever all combined! This scarcely seems possible but it is true and when it is remembered that less than one-third the actual deaths from Bright's disease are really reported as such, the ravages of the malady can be partially understood.

The immediate query which every reader will make upon such a revelation of facts is: What causes this increase? This is a difficult question to answer. The nature of the climate, the habits of life, the adulteration of foods and liquors, all undoubtedly contribute; but no immediate cause can be certainly assigned. Often before the victim knows it the disease has begun. Its approaches are so stealthy and its symptoms so obscure that they cannot be definitely foreseen and are only known by their effects. Any kidney disorder, however slight, is the first state of Bright's disease. But it is seldom that kidney disorders can be detected. They do not have any certain symptoms. Mysterious weariness; an unusual appetite; periodical headaches; occasional nausea; uncertain pains; loss of vigor; lack of nerve power; irregularity of the heart; disordered daily habits; imperfect digestion—all these and many other symptoms are the indications of kidney disorder even though there may be no pain in the region of the kidneys or in that portion of the body. The serious nature of these troubles may be understood from the fact that Bright's disease is as certain to follow diseased kidneys as decomposition follows death.

It is high time that the doctors in this land who have been unable to control kidney troubles, should be aroused and compelled to find some remedy, or acknowledge one already found. The suffering public needs help and cannot await the tardy action of any hair-splitting code or incorrectly formulated theories. If the medical world has no certain remedy for this terrible disease let them acknowledge it and seek for one outside the pale of their profession. For the discovery of this remedy and for its application to this disease, the people of the whole land; not only those who have friends in danger are earnestly and longingly looking.

The above quotation from the New York Tribune is causing considerable commotion, as it seems to lift the cover from a subject that has become of national importance. The alarming increase of kidney diseases; their insidious beginnings and frightful endings and the acknowledged inability of physicians to successfully cope with them may well awaken the greatest dread of every one who has the slightest symptoms. It is fortunate, however, that the surest relief is often found where, possibly, least expected, and that there is a specific for the evils above described we have come to fully believe. Within the past two years we have frequently seen statements of parties claiming to have been cured of serious kidney troubles even after hope had been abandoned; but in common with most people we have discredited them. Quite recently, however, a number of prominent and well-known men have come out voluntarily and stated over their signatures that they were completely cured by the use of Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure. Most people have been aware that this medicine has an unusual standing and one entitling it to be classed above proprietary articles generally; but that it had accomplished so much in checking the ravages of kidney disease is not so generally known. Its great worth has been shown not only by the cures it has effected, but also because a number of base imitations have appeared in the market fraudulently claiming the valuable qualities of the original Safe Cure. If it were not valuable, it would not be imitated.

The above may seem like an ultra endorsement of a popular remedy but it is not one whit stronger than the facts admit. Whatever assists the world toward health and consequent happiness, should receive the hearty endorsement of the press and all friends of humanity. It is on precisely this principle that the foregoing statement is made and it merits the careful consideration of every thinking reader.

TO THOSE IN HEALTH.

"Let him (the sick person) be admonished to make his will, and to declare his debts, what he oweth, and what is owing unto him, for the better discharging of his conscience, and the quietness of his executors. But men should often be put in remembrance to take order for the settling of their temporal estates, whilst they are in health." —[Rubric in Visitation of the Sick.]

For those who are minded to give back to God a portion of that with which he has entrusted to them as stewards, by which a blessing may be invoked on them and their memories when they are in their graves, the following directions may be of use:

Real estate and personal property may be given, deeded or devised to the Orphans' Home and St. Luke's Hospital, St. Louis, as they are incorporated bodies. The legal name of the former is "The Orphans' Home, of St. Louis, incorporated in February, 1845;" and of the latter, "St. Luke's Hospital, of St. Louis, incorporated in 1872."

Real estate for a church, parsonage, a burial ground in any particular place, may be given or devised to "The Parochial Trust Fund of the Diocese of Missouri, a body incorporated under the laws of the State of Missouri," in trust for the place. Real estate also for the above purposes may be given or devised to any Church which is properly incorporated.

Real estate for any other purpose, and personal property may be given or devised for the benefit of any church, or any of our charities by naming trustees in the will or deed, and providing how their successors in the trust may be appointed, who can receive and dispense the trust as directed. Such objects may be suggested as "Permanent Fund for the support of the Episcopate of the Diocese of Missouri," "The Theological Education Fund," "The Fund for Aged and Infirm Clergymen, and for the Widows and Orphans of Clergymen," "The Laymen's Co-operating Missionary Society," "The Sisterhood of the Good Shepherd of the Protestant Episcopal Church," "St. James Academy, Macon;" "School of Good Shepherd, St. Louis."

EPISCOPAL APPOINTMENTS.

Sept. 16, Sunday, All Saints, St. Louis, Opening

24, Monday, Louisville, Ky., National Conference of Charities and Corrections.

Oct. 5, Wednesday, Philadelphia, General Convention.

THE Bishop is glad to learn that his suggestion made in the last number of the NEWS of the devotion of the offerings in our parishes for the second Sunday in November to the cost of rebuilding St. James Academy, Macon, is favorably received, and will be acted on in many places.

MANY persons have, no doubt, learned with the deepest concern and sympathy of the affliction which has met the venerated Registrar of the Diocese, in the decease, after a long and painful illness, most patiently borne, of Mrs. Ferguson. And this will be increased when it is learned that the Judge himself was so ill at the time that he was unable to leave his bed, and that much concern was felt over his own condition. Many prayers will go up to God that he may have grace to bear his affliction patiently, and that his own valuable life may be prolonged to the Church which he has so long and faithfully served.

This was written in strong hope; but God saw otherwise, and has taken His servant to his rest.

THE Bishop's address during his stay in Philadelphia during the General Convention, will be No. 1820 De Lancey Place. He is to be the guest of a relative, James Constable, Esq. After Convention he is under pledge to spend a Sunday in Richmond, under a long standing promise to his friend, and former Presbyter, the Rev. Dr. Armstrong, of the Monumental Church. He will return to the diocese early in November, and as soon as possible thereafter begin his autumn visitations in the southern part of the diocese. Perhaps it may be stated again, as many have come among us since the arrangement was established, the Bishop is only able to reach the parishes and missions of the diocese once in twelve months. He visits the portions north of the Missouri River in the Spring, and the southern parts in the Fall. The country parishes in the central portions of the diocese he visits in the early Summer.

AFTER continuing his visitations in the diocese until the middle of August, the Bishop took a three weeks' respite at Madison, Wis., where he was last summer, and where he found great pleasure in the excellent Historical Library of the State. On the 10th inst. he started for Montreal to be present on the 12th at the opening of the Provincial Synod of Canada, for which, with the Bishop of Easton and some others, he was at the last General Convention appointed one of the deputations to represent and carry the greetings of the Church. He had about given up going, in consequence of other duty, until he receive such urgent letters presenting it as an obligation that he ought to regard; with others, he is the guest of the Synod. He will return as early as possible in the week after. On Monday, the 24th inst., he proposes to be in Louisville, in attendance for a few days at the National Conference of Charities and Corrections, for which he has been appointed by the Governor to in part represent the State, and where he is to open the Conference with prayer. On Monday, 31st prox., the Bishop starts for Philadelphia for the General Convention, which has its opening session two days after.

JUDGE FERGUSON.

The death of the Registrar of the Diocese has much more than parochial interest. He had for years, so far as his health would allow, stood at the front of all diocesan work. Over sixty years he had lived in this city, one of the best known of our older generation of citizens, interested in all public measures, and had a character honored and above all reproach. He held to the last many positions of financial and civic trust.

For twenty years he has been prominent in all Church work. He honored his father, and cherished the memory of his mother's devotion. She was for many years a faithful communicant at St. John's, and in the new church he placed a memorial window for her near his pew. He thoroughly understood the history and the principles of the Church, and was at all times a devout, consistent, intelligent and outspoken Churchman. He brought his trained business habits, and his exactness and promptness into the Church's work, and it always received his best service. In his parish he was for many years vestryman; in his modesty he declined the position of warden. He was always present at service when he was at all able, and devout and regular at the Holy Communion. He always came, as it was the custom of several of the older gentlemen of St. John's, to the vestry room before service, to greet the clergyman and see if they could do anything. Having time and means he contributed both largely for all Church interests.

For years he was a member of the Standing Committee, and a deputy to the General Convention. He was always in his place in the Diocesan Convention, and from the time of the creation of the office was Registrar of the Diocese. He was also the Secretary and Treasury of the Board of Trustees of St. Paul's College. He was a member of the first Board of Trustees of St. Luke's Hospital, on which he acted for a number of years. For fifteen years he has been the lay member on the Committee on Canons, and was on every position requiring wise and energetic action.

Fifteen years ago when the writer was first coming to the diocese, a young Bishop to a strange diocese, four of the older laymen of the diocese, with a consideration pleasant to remember, came over to East St. Louis to meet him and to welcome him to the diocese. Three of these gentlemen have died. Messrs. Doan, Gordon and Ferguson. Only one remains. Servus ad astra redeat. From that time the relations between Judge Ferguson and the Bishop were of much more than official intimacy. It was a privilege to be honored with the confidence and love of such a man. It was a pleasant custom that on every New Years day, at noon, the wardens and vestrymen of St. John's, having assembled at Judge Ferguson's, came in a body to the Episcopal Residence, to pay their respects to the Bishop, and to take lunch with him. This custom has been maintained every year without exception since the Bishop came to the Diocese.

He was planing to the last for the consecration of St. John's, for the payment of the remainder of the debt on which he had contributed very largely. He desired that, before such service, the Church should be put in fitting condition, and that to it an effort should be made to get together the old rectors of the parish.

For years he has been growing more feeble. In Convention his voice could not be heard at a distance. In the past year his wife, for whom he had a tender affection, had been very ill. On Thursday, the 6th, after much suffering, borne with great patience, she passed to her rest. The Judge's illness assumed a graver character; the shock was too much for one in his enfeebled condition, and on the second day after, he, after the short separation, joined the one who had gone before in Paradise. It was a beautiful ending to a happy married life.

His funeral on the 10th was largely attended. The aged gentlemen of the city were there, and those who represented the many and varied positions with which he had been associated. The Bishop had expected to go to Montreal, as deputy to the Provincial Synod, and had procured his ticket, but he could not leave one with whom he had been so long connected by such close personal and official ties, and he telegraphed his inability to attend. The Rev. Dr. Schuyler and Ingraham, Messrs. Wright, Silvester, Chesnutt and Mason, also were in the chancel. and the first three took part in the service. The choir sang most sweetly the same music that two days before they had sung on the occasion of Mrs. Ferguson's funeral. The Bishop made an address.

Messrs. Henry Shaw, Speck, Edwin Harrison, R. J. Lackland, Judge Woener, C. P. Chouteau, Barlow, Dr. J. B. Johnson, Geo. Knapp, and the vestry of St. John's church acted as honorary pall bearers, and Messrs. Hofman, Triplett, R. M. Wilson, Judge Boyle, Chas. Miller, J. N. Dyer acted as the bearers.

Of the loss humanly speaking, to the parish and to the church in the diocese, it is impossible to compute. It is difficult to think how certain interests can go on without him. The Bishop looks about anxiously for the younger race of Churchmen, who will take the place of the older ones who are dropping away from his side; Doan, Douglass, Gordon, Bodley, Woodward, Hamilton and Ferguson. Gentle, intelligent, outspoken, uncompromising, loyal, with old-time, high-bred courtesy, the Church is not poor that could produce and nourish such men. May others, according to the need, arise to fill their places.

BISHOPS, AND ONE IN PARTICULAR.

Besides the many more considerable functions which in God's economy Bishops are intended to fulfill in the Church, there are other duties of a lesser sort which fall on them, and which, for lack of some one else better qualified to perform them, they must fulfill. They stand, and are intended to stand, as a permanent element on which trusts will come, other persons failing. Probably every Bishop has had experience of this, and his mail witnesses to the variety and the extent of the calls made on him. Within bounds this is as it should be, and it would be a bad day for the Church when, from incompetence or churlishness, these exactions, albeit at times excessive and absurd, but yet which witness to the extent to which the paternal character of the Episcopate is appealed to, should cease.

In other ways also the Bishop's minor offices are called into play. He stops gaps; fills vacancies; teaches Sunday-school classes; at times rings a bell, or helps light the lamps; shows his latent capacities as a pedestrian; sees that packages of prayer and other Church books are made up and expressed to missions and clergymen; and such like. The lesser duties do not stand in the way of the greater; at the same time, as in every household, the larger policy could only be maintained by a willingness to attend to the smaller details of daily economy. So in the Church, unless these are to be left undone, they drop into the Bishop's hands for execution.

The Diocesan paper has come to be almost an indispensable part of the work of the Diocese. It, like everything else, comes largely into the Bishop's care. Others failing, it having to appear, summer and winter, he is the one standing quantity on whom the anxiety falls. In this Diocese, at different times, the management has gone into different hands; but for various reasons it has at length come back to the Bishop. For some time past he has called on aid to the work as he was able. Of course he is not concerned about the financial side of the business. As the paper, while doing much work gratuitously for the Diocese, which else would cost it very much, has not been a burden on it. So it has never had but a small margin, and that has gone to Diocesan missions. The Bishop has always had a general oversight of the paper as of other parts of his work, and as he knows better than any one else the larger condition and movements, as well as the special news of the Diocese, the chronicling of them has come largely on him. He secures all the help there is possible, and very much that appears he does not see until it is before the public. He is in terms responsible for what appears on his page. He often in a stress writes what is given elsewhere. It is safe to say that whatever is especially bright is not his, while he will stand up to all the rest. Of course the public do not care for the details, as to how the result is produced, so long as the paper appears regularly, and is a fair reflex of the Diocese, whose organ it is. The Bishop stands by the paper, not because he desires this, but because it is a useful part of his work.

We ought to be getting soon into a condition in which we could have a larger and better paper, with more frequent issues; which should have an income sufficient to make it worth the while for a competent person to take the management and care of it. In these days this implies considerable capital and circulation, and it would not be best to give up that which we have unless we can be sure of something better. THE NEWS has seen many a brilliant venture elsewhere rise and shine, and fall away, and be forgotten, while it has held on its quiet way.

The Bishop, too, has opinions. It would be likely that a lengthening life, amid constant emergencies, and with dealings with those who shape the Church's policy, and with a wide knowledge of its past in this country and elsewhere, would bring out preference for certain principles of action. While ready to acknowledge the value of different opinions, as expressed by others, and above all anxious to promote their legitimate expression in legislation, the Bishop has distinct opinions as the Church's belief, ritual, and policy, and would be likely to seek in all proper ways to make them operative.

Of the larger lines of this policy he has given expression in sermons and addresses. In smaller matters he has spoken freely, as the circumstances under which the division of the Diocese could best be effected, of the value and place that should be accorded to Diocesan institutions. The Bishop cannot favor or oppose individuals; he has to act according to his best judgment for the large and permanent interest of the Diocese. He conceives that it is better that the offices of dignity and trust, so they come into competent hands, should be distributed through the Diocese.

The Standing Committee must from evident convenience be composed of those who live in or very near this city, and so also of the Missionary Board. In earlier days it was not unusual for the lay deputies to the General Convention to be found in many of the interior parishes. Colonel Smith of Lexington, Judge Warner of Monroe, Dr. Talbot of Fayette, and others, represented the Diocese worthily. In recent years, unhappily, it seems to have been impossible to find laymen who live far from this city who are able and willing to act as deputies. It has, therefore, practically been found necessary to choose lay deputies from this city or its vicinity. This has occasioned a disposition to distribute the choice of the clerical deputies more widely, usually taking two from St. Louis, and the others from other parts. The Bishop, while never conceiving it to be his duty to interfere in this choice, has never had either time or disposition to do so. He, however, has thought that such choice, so it fell upon competent persons, was eminently fair.

TWELVE SERMONS A YEAR.

The manner in which the services of a clergyman can be diminished in estimation was illustrated to us a few weeks ago. It came from a conversation with a gentleman, and a devout Churchman, who would have been the very last person intentionally to detract from the devotion or work of the clergyman of whom he was speaking. This minister gave monthly services in the parish, and local circumstances allowed only Sunday morning services. He was known to be one of the most devoted and indefatigable of men, whose income was small, and not too promptly paid. The gentleman in question, in speaking of this clergyman and of the salary that was paid him, remarked that it was "for twelve sermons a year."

This was not only a most unchurchly, but it was also a most untrue way of putting the matter. And, if he had thought a moment, he would have seen himself that this by no means adequately, nor prominently, represented what the minister had done or the congregation had received. The sermons, though well prepared and most thoughtful and inspiring, and each the fruit of days of work, and years of preparation, were the least of his labor. His whole time was given up to his people, and they made use of it. He was known through summer and winter, at any day in the week, in storm and sunshine, to be travelling for miles to do any one a service. He lived in severe simplicity, and had no time to save any money or think of it. The sick knew him; the sorrow-stricken heard his sincerely sympathizing words; the children all ran to meet him, and smiled in his face; his counsel was sought; his ministrations were always welcomed.

Think then of saying that what was paid for were only twelve sermons in the year. It is like the elder son in the parable, forgetting all that he had ever received at home, in the complaint that he had never received a kid. The sermons cut no figure in the multitude of other ministrations which are rendered and ready to be rendered.

We allude to this here only as an instance of a careless way of thinking and speaking of services rendered and justly paid for, in many places besides that to which reference has been made. It is likely to produce a grudging kind of giving, as though but little was being received for such an outlay, and an idea that the minister has very little to do outside of the public offices in Church. A faithful minister can be no laggard. The power to say with force and clearness what he does say is gotten only by long training. Seldom does a clergyman get rich off of his work. The value of the gifts which he dispenses from house to house, as well as in the temple, are worthy of the best gifts, and the wear of the ministry would not be endured except for the constraining love of God.

DO THE NEXT THING.

If a church has a debt on its building, let it do the next thing, and pay off that debt. If it has done this, then let it remember that it is a necessity of vigorous life that it should have some further object before it, as the purpose for which the congregation and the ladies' society should be aiming. Let it begin a fund for a rectory. This is a convenience, and often an absolute necessity in every parish. Keep on at it; slowly, if you cannot do better, but steadily. Sometimes you can best buy to advantage a house already built; if not, get a convenient lot and build.

If you have this, then, and perhaps before you have accomplished the last, procure better vessels for the Holy Communion. Britannia might have been all that you could do when all that were used were pewter and plated ware. But now that silver is so common, do not let God's board be more poorly furnished than your own. Perhaps, as some churches have done, you can collect and receive the sacred mementoes in silver from many families, and have them all made up in sacred vessels. Few parishes comparatively need a flagon; two chalices will suffice for a long time. Perhaps the next thing should be a better organ.

Or procure a font. Let the Sunday-school do this, or some one person. Let the windows be filled with memorial glass. Encourage persons to furnish the chancel with pieces of furniture as gifts in remembrance. Keep on. Do the next thing.

DIOCESAN ITEMS.

—The Rev. Mr. Waterman of Chillicothe, who for more than a year past has suffered greatly with nervousness, resigned his parish last spring. The vestry however declined to receive it, and gave him a leave of absence until fall for a rest, in which they hoped he might, with restored vigor, resume his work. He promised to let them know on the 1st of August, what the indications were of his ability to take up his duty. He finds himself however unable to contemplate it, and feels that he needs a longer rest. He has therefore renewed his resignation, and asked that it be accepted. His parish was very much attached to him. They ought to have a rectory immediately and so furnish their clergyman a permanent home. Mr. Waterman in the meantime is on his farm near Hamilton, and hopes to be able to take duty before winter.

—A company is engaged in compiling the histories of the counties in Missouri. This naturally calls for a history of the Church in the county, and the loss of early parochial and other data is lamented. We were recently in a parish in the diocese nearly forty years old, and all the records of ministerial acts back of seven years ago, if they had been kept, had been lost. The insensibility of many clergymen to the peremptory law of the Church on the subject, that they are to keep and preserve the full account of all their acts and record, and report them, is something marvellous. Where clergymen are applied to by those preparing these histories, for a statement of the Church's life and work, if they are unable to give it, they may be helped by writing to the Bishop on the subject, asking him for what is needed, and giving him as much time as possible for the examination of papers. Recently he was asked to prepare a history of the Church in Marion county, as sometime before for St. Louis, and Howard county.

—The Rev. Dr. Wainwright is preparing a lecture on Madame de Staël, in which he will give expression in his characteristically sententious way of his views on some current social problems. He is thoroughly qualified for such work. We remember sometime since hearing one competent to judge, who had heard a lecture from him before a lyceum on German Literature, that it was superior in thought and diction to many that were widely advertised. The Doctor will deliver this lecture this winter where a desire is expressed.

—The accounts given in the last number of the News of the disaster at Macon, did not mention that it took place during the absence of the Rev. Mr. Talbot and his family from town. Otherwise the wind which came from the northwest, and which brought the brick walls over on the rectory which stood near on the east, and which crushed in the dining-room and injured other parts of the house, would probably have hurt some members of the family. As it was, it caused considerable personal loss, outside of the damage to the school.

—There will be great gratification felt that the Rev. Mr. Woodruff, whose call to the parish of Big Rapids, Mich., was mentioned in the last News, and which was pressed upon him with peculiar force, has concluded to remain with his attached people in Saline county, and has declined the call to Michigan. The hold which Mr. Woodruff has upon the people of Saline is peculiarly strong, and they contemplated a severance of a tie which for seven and more years was constantly growing stronger, with something like dismay. At the same time they are determined that his determination to remain with them shall be marked by a practical appreciation of this proof of his attachment to them.

—The Rev. Eleazar Root, formerly of this city, but for several years past Rector at St. Augustine, Florida, the father in law of the Rev. Dr. Ingraham, has been spending some weeks in this city. Although he has attained an advanced age, he has had such singular evenness of health that he has been able to maintain his work without interruption in a city, which in the winter season, is crowded with guests.

—The Rev. F. W. Henry, who has been spending two years at the seminary at Faribault, has accepted the call of the parish at Louisiana, Pike county, and will have charge also of the other parishes in the same county. He has been giving them services for two months.

—The foundation of the little church at Eureka, St. Louis county, where the Rev. Mr. Scheetz holds services, has been laid, with cut stone steps at entrance, and has been paid for. The contract for the material, wood, has been let for $293, and for the carpenter work for $255. The other material will come to $75. All this has been provided for. In the town $400 has been raised, and is in bank. Money has still to be raised for furniture and painting, and until they get it they propose to use plank and nail-keg seats.

—Grace Church, Kirkwood, was burglarized recently. The cups and paten were stolen, while the flagon was left.

—The three schools in St. Mary's parish, Kansas City, are the Seminary for Young Ladies, the Kindergarten, and the Collegiate Institute for Boys. There are twelve instructors announced, and 81 pupils last year. The school year begins on the 20th inst. A boarding department for boys has been added, the rector having taken a house for the purpose on East Ninth and Holmes streets.

—The invested capital of the Orphans' Home amounts to $12,400; besides this they have a lot on Franklin and Compton avenues, and a house and lot, No. 718 Olive street. The invested funds have only increased by $200 during the past three years.

—The Directors of St. Luke's Hospital has published very handsomely, in pamphlet form, their Seventeenth Annual Report, which includes many matters of information which the public and friends of the Institution greatly desire to see. There are the by-laws, a sketch of the history of the hospital, and an acknowledgment of the gifts received during the year. We presume and hope that this will be a feature every year. But after all the figures that are given, the real history of the hospital, the story of what is doing, of the ministries of mercy, of the hearts softened and turned at length to Jesus and the better life, of the prejudices against religion and the Church assuaged and removed, this report does not tell. Perhaps no report can tell.

—The Rev. Mr. Cummings, of Kansas City, secured on his recent visit to Cleveland, Detroit and Chicago for his church, $225 in cash and $200 more in pledges. They now owe on the property $850. There has been great energy shown in raising what has been thus far expended. Mr. Cummings will not be able to attend the Conference of colored clergymen to be held in New York this month, although urged to do so.

—After the Rev. Mr. Woodruff had determined to return to his old work in Saline county, the parish at Big Rapids made another, and very tempting offer to him to come to them, pledging a salary largely in advance of that which he had been receiving. He hesitated awhile, and correspondence ensued with the Bishop, and he has returned to his work. He was on a vacation visit at home in Michigan. Marshall parish has pledged a considerable addition on its previous amount, in consideration of having three Sunday services in a month. The old Blackburn parish, by reason of the fact that it is made up of farmers who can seldom get together, raises an amount much below its ability and age, and has often let its pledges go long into arrears. This ought not to be. When money comes in from the selling of wheat, or corn or pork, then the pledge for the whole year should be paid up, and not be left until it has all been spent. The circumstances of planters are different from those of persons who receive a steady income all the year through. The rector has elected to give his present people hundreds of dollars a year for the privilege of staying with them, and being at a distance from his family. This ought to be substantially recognized not as a liberality, but as in strict justice.

—The Rev. Dr. Berkley, in breaking up his residence in St. Louis, in order to removal to Kirkwood, gave to the Young Men's Christian Association sixty volumes from his library.

—The vestry of Christ Church, Lexington, have called the Rev. John Davis, Dean of the Cathedral, Dallas, Texas, to the rectorship of the parish. His bishop speaks of his work in the highest terms.

—All Saints' Mission in this city expect to get into their new church to-morrow. Access to the property was not secured as soon as was expected, and repairs have been pushed with the greatest energy. The Bishop will not be able to be present on account of the engagement which he had made to be in Canada at that time.

—The Rev. Mr. Betts took duty at the Cathedral in Denver for a month during August, to relieve Dean Hart.

—The Rev. Eleazar Root of St. Augustine, Florida, who was ordained in this diocese, is making a visit to his son-in-law, the Rev. Dr. Ingraham of this city.

—Canon Bright, of Christ Church, Oxford, England, the distinguished Church historian, spent a day or two in this city about the middle of last month.

Christ Church congregation in this city has service in the chapel yet, the cleaning and repairs in the church not being completed as yet. The new gas fixtures are in place, and are very handsome. They will greatly add to the attractiveness of the interior at night.

—The Rev. Dr. Schuyler was away in Michigan for the month of August. The Rev. Messrs. Chesnutt and Mason also took vacations. The Rev. Mr. Newton will return from his six weeks' outing in Massachusetts for next Sunday.

—Quite extensive improvements are projected for St. Paul's Church, South St. Louis. The plan is to buy the corner lot adjoining, place the chancel in the east end, and the entrance at the west, where the chancel now is, and add a chancel proper and vestry room. This will involve an outlay of $1,000, of which $700 has been secured.

TRIENNIAL REPORT TO GENERAL CONVENTION.

Each diocese has to report to each General Convention under certain heads, and these are very numerous, which are furnished, the condition and growth of the diocese during the preceding three years. It may be interesting to state some of the principal items.

Ten churches have been consecrated. There are now 73 churches and 12 chapels in the diocese, with 2,600 sittings and 12 rectories. The estimated value of the churches and chapels is $907,425; of the rectories $24,000, and of other Church property $222,950. The total value of Church property in the diocese is $1,154,375, on which there is an indebtedness of $39,500.

There have been 321 adult and 1,334 infant baptisms; 1,105 confirmations; 603 marriages and 859 burials. There have been reported 857 communicants added by removal, and 907 by admission to the communion; total added, 1,976. There have been lost by removal 1,098 and by death 177; total lost 1,275, and yet the total number of communicants reported in 1881 was 5,318; in 1882, 5,413; in 1883, 5,385. It passes our ability to reconcile these figures.

The total number of inmates in St. Luke's Hospital has been for the three years, 811; and the receipts, of course outside of amounts received from patients, $39,892.12. This of course includes the amount paid on the new building. In the Orphans' Home there have been 265 children. $15,907.34 has been given for it.

The communion alms reported amount to $5,119.07. There have been received for Diocesan Missions $9,417.01; for Theological Education, $855.92; for the Aged and Infirm Clergy Fund, from investments, $1,048.77 and offerings, $1,369.35; total, $2,418.12. The total capital invested for Church purposes of all kinds, comes to $64,250. The total collections, legacies, etc., for pious and charitable uses for the three years, not including salaries and parochial expenses, amounted to $169,664.19. The total amount of salaries and parochial expenses come to $202,078.58. The total of all offerings for three years for Church purposes reach the considerable sum of $371,742.77.

FRESH GROUND.

MARYVILLE.

Dear Bishop:—

Last Sunday was a delightful one to me. There is always something cheering in pioneer missionary work, but with large and attentive congregations, and the musical portion of the service devoutly and appropriately rendered, and above all to find people who are willing to do and sacrifice for the sake of the Church, is enough to inspire any one with fresh courage and renewed hopes.

Such was the result to me of my first visit to King City, where Dr. Runcie had been the month before. There are in the village 700 inhabitants, and here we have three, perhaps four communicants, as many more at Empire Prairie, and how many in the surrounding country I do not know. Now from numbers to values: There is one communicant, a woman, one of the determined sort, whose life is full of Christian activity, who will do whatever she undertakes to do, and dares undertake anything that has any prospect of success. She is so earnest for the establishment of a mission that it almost made me ashamed of myself to suggest the difficulties and perplexities that might follow.

Her faith is enough almost for any achievement.

The offertory to cover expenses was in the morning $4.78, and before leaving, the husband of the lady referred to, placed in my hand a five dollar note, and at the station I found a jar of butter made by her hands for me. I have made them a promise of a monthly visit until November. In fine weather I shall go by team from Stanberry, fifteen miles, which will greatly diminish expenses.

At King City, which will be a good center of missionary work, we have the offer of a lot and $100 dollars for building a church. I think there will be no difficulty in raising enough to build a nice, snug chapel. I hope soon after the General Convention to see you on the ground. * * *

W. A. HATCH.

CARTHAGE.

The following is an extract from the closing sermon of the Rev. Mr. Colton, on leaving his parish lately for Illinois:

"I assumed the rectorship of Grace church August 1, 1880. During that time I have baptized ten infants and three adults, and eleven persons have received the Apostolic Rite of Confirmation. Twenty additions have been made to the list of actual communicants, ten by confirmation and ten by removal into the parish, but twelve persons have moved away, thus leaving a net gain of eight. The list of actual communicants now contains forty-three names. I have united eight couples in marriage and have officiated at eight funerals.

Shortly after my coming, two ladies of their own motion, collected in the parish and town about $120, for the repair of the interior of the church building. It was then replastered in part and repainted. The walls were kalsomined in gray, a new carpet was laid down in the chancel, (which was itself altered at the same time) and a handsome curtain, to screen off a robing room, was provided. A new altar cloth and lectern pendants were also procured, partly by this fund and partly by private subscriptions made in various sums from five dollars down. The embroidery is the work of the skillful hands of three of our own ladies. In the winter following, by the interest of the vestry, the outside of the church was repainted, members of the vestry and other gentlemen meeting the cost. Other sums also have been raised by direct subscription, for Christmas celebrations and other purposes. The sum of these various subscriptions, with the proceeds of two entertainments not under the direction of the Ladies Society, amounts to about $270. Besides this the bazars and sociables, held by the Ladies' Society or Guild, have netted $711, of which $615 is now in hand. The purpose for which the bulk of this money has been raised is the building of a rectory.

The Sunday school has met its own current expenses, but the people have provided the means for extra purposes, as Christmas celebrations, etc. The annual assessment laid by the convention of the diocese, for the support of the bishop and various necessary incidentals, has been promptly met during these years. The sum of the contributions just reported, (which do not include the rector's salary, the assessment, nor the ordinary current expenses of the parish) is, with the offerings of the Sunday school, $1,080. Adding to this offerings made in church for certain diocesan purposes and we have a total for the three years, $1,130.

But the rector does not forget, in this connection, many kind and generous gifts to himself and family. Some were given by a number of persons jointly, and others by individuals.

BOONVILLE.

Mr. Editor:—Mrs. Mary McPherson, of this city, one of the strongest and most loved of the Church workers, has been very sick, but with the attention of a host of friends is improving. This lady might well be called the mother of the parish, as her opinion is valued and respected as that of no one else is. Her large mansion is the home of our loved Bishop when he visits this city. She is the foremost in all good work, and when her noble spirit was wavering between life and death, old and young felt as though all they could do was nothing in comparison with their love. We humbly and heartily give thanks for her recovery.

—Longfellow's estate amounts to a little over $350,000.

PERSONAL.

—The clerical obituary for the month includes the following names: The Revs. Wm. H. Hickcox, of Kansas; J. H. Marsden, of Penn.; Saml. L. Emory, D.D., of Massachusetts; Samuel R. Gordon, of Maryland; G. W. Ridgley, D.D., of Md., and Jas. A. Williams, D.D., New Jersey.

—The Rev. Dr. Edson, who recently died, after a rectorship of St. Ann's Church, Lowell, Mass., of nearly sixty years, a length of time almost unprecedented, was at first chosen not to be rector of the Episcopal Church, but in charge of the Merrimack Religious Society, which was under the direction of the Merrimack Manufacturing Company, which guaranteed the salary, and had for one of its rules that each employe should pay 37½ cents a quarter in advance for religious privileges. The majority of the directors were Unitarians at heart, but as there was great wrangling just then over orthodox Congregationalism and Unitarianism, they decided for peace, and arranged with Mr. Edson. Some years afterward the society assumed the salary and leased the building, and ultimately bought it.

—The State of Virginia a few years ago sent Col. August McDonald to England to secure evidence concerning the boundaries lines between that State and Maryland. While there he sought out the present representatives of Lord Baltimore. After seeking long in vain he found the last remnant of the race in the Queen's Bench prison, where he had been detained eight years for debts, having been transferred from the Fleet prison where he had been for twelve years.

—The following named Bishops have, or have had sons in the ministry: Bishops Green, Neely, Huntington, Johns, Elliott, Atkinson, A. Potter, Cobbs, Chase, Kemper, Hopkins, Meade, Hobart, Parker, Jarvis, Seabury, M. A. D. Howe, A. Burgess, and possibly some others. The parsonage has always been the best supply for the ministry.

—The Bishop of Rochester is coming again to this country this year, and will attend the General Convention. He will be the bearer of a letter of greeting from the Archbishop of Canterbury, and will make a number of temperance addresses in Maryland and Virginia.

—The Rev. Mr. Pedelupe, formerly of this Diocese, is out in a pamphlet against prohibition. It alleges that this is responsible for a great increase in the use of opium. This intelligence comes to us away round by way of a New York paper.

—The late Rev. Dr. Richardson of the Guardian, left his library to the Berkley Divinity School, and after the use of the income for life by his widow of his property, left it then for the General Missions of the Church.

cures Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Rheumatic Gout, General Debility, Catarrh, and all disorders caused by a thin and impoverished, or corrupted, condition of the blood; expelling the blood-poisons from the system, enriching and renewing the blood, and restoring its vitalizing power.

During a long period of unparalleled usefulness, AYER'S SARSAPARILLA has proven its perfect adaptation to the cure of all diseases originating in poor blood and a weakened vitality. It is a highly concentrated extract of Sarsaparilla and other blood-purifying roots, combined with Iodide of Potassium and Iron, and is the safest, most reliable, and most economical blood-purifier and blood-food that can be used.

Inflammatory Rheumatism Cured.

"AYER'S SARSAPARILLA has cured me of the Inflammatory Rheumatism, with which I have suffered for many years. W. H. MOORE."
Durham, Ia., March 2, 1882.

"Eight years ago I had an attack of Rheumatism so severe that I could not move from the bed, or dress, without help. I tried several remedies without much if any relief, until I took AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, by the use of two bottles of which I was completely cured. I have not been troubled with the Rheumatism since. Have sold large quantities of your SARSAPARILLA, and it still retains its wonderful popularity. The many notable cures it has effected in this vicinity convince me that it is the best blood medicine ever offered to the public. E. F. HARRIS."
River St., Buckland, Mass., May 13, 1882.

"Last March I was so weak from general debility that I could not walk without help. Following the advice of a friend, I commenced taking AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, and before I had used three bottles I felt as well as I ever did in my life. I have been at work now for two months, and think your SARSAPARILLA the greatest blood medicine in the world. JAMES MAYNARD."
520 West 42d St., New York, July 19, 1882.

AYER'S SARSAPARILLA cures Scrofula and all Scrofulous Complaints, Erysipelas, Eczema, Ringworm, Blisters, Sores, Boils, Tumors, and Eruptions of the Skin. THE EXILE'S PRAYER.

Abba! where the morn is breaking
Through the portals of the sky,
And the dappled fawns are waking
In the reed isles where they lie.
When the roe-buck gazes wildly
At the hunter in the even;
And the milky moon looks mildly
From the azure depths of heaven—
When the turtle-doves are moaning
In the rose-isles of the sea,
And the stars above are burning,
Lift my spirit up to Thee!

Abba! when the fowls are laving
In the fountains far away,
Where the purple hills are waving
In the sunny isles of day—
When the little birds are singing
By the river banks at noon,
And the violet bells are springing
From the rosy hills in June,—
When the pigeons all are feeding
On the beach-mast by the sea,
And my bosom shall lie bleeding,—
Lift my spirit up to Thee

Abba! when the reed is broken
That has borne me up when young,
And the last sad word is spoken
That shall tremble on my tongue,—
When the roe-buck comes to wander
From the green hills far away,
And my breaking heart grows fonder
For the sunny isles of day,—
When my earthly hopes are taken,
And Death's angel bids me flee—
Abba! call me, Thy forsaken,
Take my spirit home to Thee!

GENERAL NEWS.

—This was the comment made lately when a Universalist society went over to the Unitarians. The Universalists believe that God is too good to punish man eternally. The Unitarians think that man is too good to be so punished.

—The Church Temperance Society is to hold its Second Annual Convention in Philadelphia during the General Convention.

—The report of Bishop Elliott and the Rev. Mr. Fitchner, who went to Mexico to examine into the condition of missionary work there, has been withheld for the present, but there is an impression that it is not favorable.

—Lord Robert Montague, brother of the Duke of Manchester, who perverted to Rome in 1879, has returned to the communion of the Church of England. A nephew of Cardinal Manning, a Roman priest, the Rev. Mr. Roberts, has also renounced Romanism.

—The Philadelphia Record says that "nothing except, perhaps, the weather is less open to calculation than the election to a Bishopric. We hear occasionally of individuals who live in hourly terror of the mitre, but these persons seldom get further than an honorable mention by themselves.

—Under the head of "Sunday Services," a St. Louis paper recently had the following notice: "The Immaculate Conception Sodality nine will cross bats with the Christian Brothers' second nine Sunday at 2 p. m."

—They told Lord Erskine that a certain man "was dead, and had left £200,000." His lordship replied, "That's a poor capital to begin the next world with." He left it, and because he could not take it with him. If he had only "converted" it, as the bankers say.

—While St. Louis seems to be inhospitable to church chimes, Philadelphia is very kind to them, and has been increasing them among our parishes. Those of Christ Church antedate the Revolution; then came those of St. Peter's, St. Stephen's, St.

Mark's and now Holy Trinity has just had a chime of twenty five bells made in Belgium. These last were presented by one gentleman.

—An alleged Moabite manuscript of Deuteronomy on leather leaves, copied 700 years B. C., has turned up. The owner asks the British Museum $5,000,000 for it.

—The myth of old forks that came out in the Mayflower has been destroyed. In 1620 forks were unknown out of Italy, and Englishmen of that day held their food with the left hand in a napkin, and cut it with a knife in the right hand. It was carried to the mouth on the back of the knife, which was often hammered out into a kind of flat spoon for the purpose. In the Plymouth inventories of that time napkins abound, but not a fork appears.

EARLY DAYS IN KANSAS CITY.

(Concluded.)

On October 8, 1876, the Rev. H. C. Duncan entered the rectorship of the parish. Shortly after this the fixed pews were put in; before this the benches from the old hall having been used. The carpet also was laid. From time to time afterward improvements were made; the finishing of the wood work of the interior, the frescoing of the walls, the grading of the church lot, and the placing of the fence. The number of communicants rapidly increased. From seventy-one reported in 1876, the number in 1879 had gone up to 183. The problem of heating this church was in its earlier days a vexed one. From the stove, recourse was had to the furnace, and then back again to the stoves. It has been only in more recent times that satisfactory results have been reached with larger furnaces.

In September, 1878, Mr. George E. Pitkin, the junior warden of the parish, and through all its history its faithful friend, and one of the earliest Churchmen in the city, departed this life.

During the year 1879 the final efforts were made, which resulted in the acquisition of the excellent pipe organ.

In March, 1880, the Rev. Mr. Duncan resigned the rectorship of the parish, and the Rev. D. E. Barr took temporary charge. The greater part of the floating debt of the church was canceled this year. The recess for the organ was built out as an addition to the church. In the autumn the vestry made several ineffectual calls to the rectorship.

In January, 1881, the vestry extended a call to the Rev. Cameron Mann of Watkins, New York, which, after a visit to the parish, was accepted, to take effect on Septuagesima Sunday, February 13. Several clergymen, among others Drs. Morrison of Chicago and Ashley of Milwaukee, officiated in the church in the interval before the new rector entered upon his duties.

Of the history of the strong, onward work which has been prosecuted, of the material enlargement of the building, but not any faster than the gain of the congregation that was to occupy it; of the beautifying of the interior; of the advance in tone and strength of the parish, and now of the complete extinguishment of the debt which has for years rested on this property and has shadowed the work and prospects of the parish: of all of this there is no need that I should speak. It is within the personal knowledge of the most of those who are gathered here to-day.

I have thus gone with you over a course of nearly fifty years, which more than covers the entire period of this city's history. It marks the time during which such wonderful civic and commercial results have been produced by the energy of the men who have lived here. And yet to this favored spot long ago keen eyes were turned with admiration, with an anticipation of the results which have been here achieved. The French traveler, Du Lac, passing up the river at the beginning of this century, gives with emphasis his impressions of the country at the juncture of the Missouri and Kansas rivers. Later still, at the time when the settlements in this country were being begun, it used to be said of all those who were removing this way with the most substantial equipments that, being asked hundreds of miles to the east where they were going, they uniformly answered, "Up to the Blues." Of these prophecies, we have in our own day seen a portion of the fulfillment, only a presage, no doubt, of that which is yet to be.

These fifty years mark also the beginnings and the growth of the Church here. In its benign work of evangelizing, elevating and spiritualizing these intense and throbbing haunts of trade and life, it secures a victory to-day, and a pledge of better gains results for all time to come, in the consummation of the task of securing this sacred place for the work and worship of our heavenly father, and His Son our Lord.

May it be for many a year a home to which devout affections shall resort for the building up and sweetening of characters, and be to many a soul indeed the house of God and the gate of heaven.

—At twenty a man is sure he knows everything; at thirty he begins to have grave doubts; at forty he knows there are some things he don't know; at fifty he is certain that he will never again know as much as he once knew.

AYER'S PILLS.

A large proportion of the diseases which cause human suffering result from derangement of the stomach, bowels, and liver. AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS act directly upon these organs, and are especially designed to cure the diseases caused by their derangement, including Constipation, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Headache, Dysentery, and a host of other ailments, for all of which they are a safe, sure, prompt, and pleasant remedy. The extensive use of these PILLS by eminent physicians in regular practice, shows unmistakably the estimation in which they are held by the medical profession.

These PILLS are compounded of vegetable substances only, and are absolutely free from calomel or any other injurious ingredient.

A Sufferer from Headache writes:

"AYER'S PILLS are invaluable to me, and are my constant companion. I have been a severe sufferer from Headache, and your PILLS are the only thing I could look to for relief. One dose will quickly move my bowels and free my head from pain. They are the most effective and the easiest physic I have ever found. It is a pleasure to me to speak in their praise, and I always do so when occasion offers."

W. L. PAGE, of W. L. Page & Bro.,
Franklin St., Richmond, Va., June 3, 1882.

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have never known them to fail to accomplish the desired result. We constantly keep them on hand at our home, and prize them as a pleasant, safe, and reliable family medicine. FOR DYSPEPSIA they are invaluable."

J. T. HAYES.

Mexia, Texas, June 17, 1882.

The Rev. FRANCIS B. HARLOWE, writing from Atlanta, Ga., says: "For some years past I have been subject to constipation, from which, in spite of the use of medicines of various kinds, I suffered increasing inconvenience, until some months ago I began taking AYER'S PILLS. They have entirely corrected the costive habit, and have vastly improved my general health."

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS correct irregularities of the bowels, stimulate the appetite and digestion, and by their prompt and thorough action give tone and vigor to the whole physical economy.

BOTH the Churchman and the Living Church have noticed editorially with appreciative sympathy the loss which the diocese has suffered in the injury to St. James Academy, Macon, and urged help for its restoration.

WE HAVE seen the last of the Missouri Park, opposite Christ Church, which will now be all torn up for more than a year to come for the erection of the Exposition building. It is a pity to give up those trees which were just coming to a size to give a good shade. The building will be handsome, no doubt, and a matter of pride and ornament to the city; but it will not help Christ Church. Its quiet and retiracy will be gone. It will, however, we hope, for many a year do its work and bear its witness amidst the noise and throngs which will gather about this mart of exhibition and trade.

THE brewers and others who are resisting the execution of the Downing license law, which has been pronounced legal by the highest court in the State, are not doing themselves any good. There was not a disposition before to pass a prohibition law; but still a few more months of resistance to the existing bill will convert many into advocates of a more stringent measure. Those do not read the signs of the times correctly who do not see that the liquor traffic is not going to run rampant in the future to the degree in which it has done in the past.

AMONG the certain results of the telegraphers' strike is the fixing of attention on the degree in which stocks have within the past few years been watered and inflated, and the public made to pay interest on an utterly artificial and unreal value. The present commercial alarm has been caused by the bursting of some of these fictitious values, and the insolvency of those who tried to float them. Railroad and telegraph lines are built for a certain amount and nearly the amount is raised, and then their owners bond them to their full value beside, and pocketing this money through some imaginary construction company, made up of the directors; they then make the public, by heavy charges, pay for all this. These companies are going to be pressed this year; the pity is the sharks have got their money.

THE intelligent Churchman will look with great interest at the long expected report which has just appeared in England from the commission appointed to consider the matter of ecclesiastical trials. Much dissatisfaction has been felt at the Public-township Act, and trials under it. This report, which is from a very large and representative body, does away with the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, and also Lord Penzance's court; and in a brief resorts the old authority of the Bishop in his Diocesan Court, with appeal from this to the Archbishop of the Province, and if necessary from him to the Crown. It provides for greater simplicity; for the saving of consciences by putting authority in spiritual hands, well advised; by making a difference between trials for immorality and defects in doctrine or ritual; by relegating the decision of the highest court to the provincial court for utterance, and by making only the decree and not the reasoning authoritative. All this is very reasonable, and will make the cause of litigation much smoother hereafter. Evidently it is the result of much mutual consideration, and is to be judged of as a whole.

THE CHURCH'S CENTENNIAL.

A marked copy of the English Church Bells has been sent us, in which is an article calling attention to the approaching centennial of Bishop Seabury's consecration in Scotland. The writer suggests that it be commemorated by the presence in November, 1884, of some American Bishops in Edinburgh, and simultaneously at a celebration in America by the attendance of some Scotch dignitaries; also that, perhaps at Canterbury, all the nationalities involved should be represented at a grand function. This, however, he thinks should not take the place of the "usual Pan-Anglican Synod."

He thinks that the wealth of American Church men should erect here a noble church, or better, he says, a Cathedral to honor the occasion; and that English liberality, as towards Scotland, should endow a new See, perhaps on the borders, at Berwick-on-Tweed, or aid in the establishment of the Primacy in the Scotch Church.

The event ought to be becomingly honored; but experience does not make us very sanguine as to the likelihood of securing any large demonstration of a financial sort, and least of all is it likely to take the shape of a Cathedral. The dioceses whose centennial will soon come, Connecticut, New York, Pennsylvania and Maryland, do not indulge themselves very much in the way of Cathedrals; and yet they are not wanting in any of those charities of which the Cathedral is thought to be the necessary centre.

The small result of the Centennial Church Building Fund does not of itself prove anything as to the insensibility of the Church for the occasion. That failure is due to well-understood causes in the starting and organization of the Fund. The Church ought not any way to be held as responsible for that which was hastily sprung upon the General Convention in the last moments of its session, when many of its members had gone.

But the habit into which the Church has fallen of working virtually only by dioceses, leaves us with little effective organization to undertake a great, combined work. Any suggestion of this finds us always preoccupied with obligations, which fetter our people in larger action and in making pledges. Each one has to think of the degree in which he is committed to his parish or diocese, before he can determine to what extent he can throw himself into the general call. Then, the diocese often operates, on those who concede the existence of an entity larger than the parish, as the ultimate fact, and hides all view of the Church at large. It implies a Churchman of much more than usual intelligence and faith, who can work and think and give for what seems to him such a vague thing as the centennial of the securing of the Episcopate.

Doubtless the very recurrence of the centennial anniversaries, of which for some time now in the churches we will have a number, will have the effect of enlarging our thoughts, and giving us the notion of a church larger than the parish and the diocese. In this we ought to be thankful, and such an important stage in its history ought to be marked in some more substantial way than by speeches and resolutions.

THE SOUL'S NEED.

One of our most earnest and successful clergy men said to us a few days ago—he is a country parson, hence the form of his parable,—“The cattle will come to the rack for their food, when they know that there is corn there. The need and the desire for the message of God's gracious love in Christ precedes the presentation of it. The Gospel would have made little progress in the world had it not commended itself to and fitted into the wants of men. There is an appetite for the peace and the strength and the assurance which are offered in loving allegiance to our Saviour Christ, which is needed to be kept in mind, in explaining the vast and wide throngs, forcing the way to church on Sunday morning, which has been such a persistent phenomenon of social life for many centuries.

The flint and the steel must meet before the spark is struck forth. However beautiful the story, and moving the spectacle of our Lord's love, it would not have worked its miracles unless there had been a need and a craving for it. All this should be kept in view in the presenting of religious truth. We summon a castle to surrender which has somewhere within its walls a friend of ours. The minister, the Church, is not the creator of devout desire.

But the spark is evoked only when the steel meets the flint. It does not respond to the wood. That which the craving heart wants is the love of God in Christ, as shown in prayer, and sermon, and sacrament and demeanor. Without this there are aching, famishing hearts looking up out of the eyes that have been waiting for the Lord's day's rest and worship. The highways of Judea throng at the gracious message to poor and rich, which Jesus is uttering, while the bitterness of the Pharisees becomes more bitter as they see the whole country going out after Him. The whole Roman Church feels it when Francis of Assisi tells with his consuming zeal of the ever new story of the compassionateness of the loving Saviour. The seats of an almost deserted church fill up little by little with unwonted forms as the fact goes abroad that the simplicity of loving Christ-like speech is refreshing souls that had come almost to despair of such a message.

If there is corn in the crib, the cattle will soon find it out, and come to the rack. If they do not come, it is because that is wanting which they really need. There is no arguing against hunger, it wants food. It will not come unless it is supplied, and it will come for it, if necessary, and nothing better offers, even when much mingled with chaff. Scarcely anything is more pathetic than the faces of a congregation gathered for worship; what troubles, and doubts, and worries and losses they have had to meet since they were there last, and which they bring now for solace and strength. How many inarticulate voices cry: "Sweet Saviour, bless us ere we go." And what a meaning comes from the throngs which are not there, because they have in vain in the past come for their food, and did not find it.

THE CONVENTION JOURNAL.

The journal of the Forty-fourth Convention appeared in good season, and is a handsome pamphlet. Although it contains the Convention Sermon it has been arranged so compactly that it is but little larger than that of last year. Unfortunately the reports of St. Luke's Hospital was not procurable, and so do not find place. Several of the smaller parishes and missions, some of which are vacant, have made no reports; and the accuracy of the totals is seriously affected by the absence of the report from St. George's church, St. Louis. A correspondent in our last number showed that while the number of communicants reported this year (5,385) shows an apparent loss of 28, that there was a real gain of over 500, if the reports had been complete. In a state like ours, the removals into the Diocese should at least equal those leaving the parishes; and yet every year the number removed from is greater than the number removed into the parishes. One parish reports the considerable number of sixty-two as "withdrawn." A more thorough canvass would reveal a vastly larger number of communicants in our parishes. There are 465 confirmations, 138 adult and 550 infant baptisms, 244 marriages and 336 burials. There are 484 teachers, and 4,284 scholars reported in the Sunday-schools. Such are the complexities of some returns that while there are, in the number of communicants 769 reported as gained to 589, the total reported lost, there is a net loss reported of 28. The total receipts for all purposes in the parishes, so far as can be gathered, during the year was $141,662.36, which is a very large advance upon last year. This total differs from that given in the Journal, because of the including of St. Luke's Hospital receipts, and of the difference between the amounts which several parishes report as sent to the treasurers and the amounts reported by the treasurers themselves as received. The treasurer of the Diocesan Missionary Board reports a very large increase of receipts last year beyond those of the year before; the receipts, besides those of the Sunday-school Missionary Host, being $2,864.36. The Fund for Theological Education, interest in which may fairly be taken as the measure of our desire to increase the number of our Candidates for Orders in the Diocese, received only $264.28 during the year. It has an invested capital of $2,700. The Fund for Aged and Infirm Clergymen received $461.70; and the capital of this Fund now invested on real estate security amounts to $7,100. The Permanent Episcopal Fund received $505.63. St. Luke's Hospital received, outside of the board of patients, $5,729.32, and it had 350 inmates, nearly double as many as it had for either of the two preceding years, or any former year. There were six ordinations to the Diaconate and three to the Priesthood during the year; eight clergymen were received into and fourteen dismissed from the Diocese, and one had died. Six churches were consecrated. There are forty-five parishes and thirty-three organized mission stations in the Diocese, and a number of other places where services are held, where there is as yet no organization. There are sixty-one clergymen in the Diocese, and of the forty-seven who are actively engaged twenty-five receive a missionary stipend.

WHO ARE COMMUNICANTS.

It seem that the difficulty which we have found in the diocese in the way of reaching a definition of the term communicant for purposes of statistics, has been one which has been shared by other dioceses as well. It was a matter that came before several of the conventions lately. It is a vexed question, because the general law of the Church, while using the term nowhere, gives any definition of it. The General Convention has deliberately again and again evaded a definition, because of the difficulties involved, while aware of the inconveniences and inexactness of statistics while leaving such a primary term vague in meaning. The course of recent legislation comes to these general results, which we presume must be accepted so far as they go. A person, so far as law and tabulation is concerned, is a communicant when he or she has been actually received to the Holy Communion. Not simply when a person has been confirmed, but when he has communicated. He or she remains a communicant until he has died or has been actually excommunicated, of which notice must have been given to the person. So serious a matter as ex-communication or the erasure of a name from the list of communicants must not be done in silence, but must be accompanied with notice.

A person may remove to some other parish, and then the name can be removed when there is good evidence that it has been entered in some other place; but unless dead or formally excommunicated, the name must appear somewhere. If the person re-appears, at however long an interval, he can resume his old place. For certain disciplinary purposes or causes the person may be suspended for a time, and the names of such may be placed in a special category. The Convention may, for greater exactness, seek to know who have received within the last twelve months; but it should be recorded, and it should have the means of knowing the numbers of not merely these, but of all those who are on the communicant list. The whole number should be enumerated and made known.

CHILDREN'S COT.

ST. LUKE'S HOSPITAL.

For several years an effort has been making to raise $3,000 from the children and those who are interested in them, for the perpetual endowment for a cot and a room for a child at our Hospital, where a child not able to be otherwise provided for may be kindly taken care of when sick or undergoing treatment. By little and little we have gone on so far. Gifts are urgently asked for this purpose, and will be credited in THE NEWS. They may be sent to the Bishop, 2727 Chestnut street, St. Louis.

A SPECIAL meeting of the managers of the Orphans' Home, held on the 12th, decided it was necessary in order to pay their indebtedness, that they give dinners again this year at the Fair Grounds. This means hard work for them, and an appeal to their friends for donations to aid them.

A LOVING remembrance was lately received for the Orphans' Home,—a donation of fifty dollars from Mrs. Hough. It was in 1845 that the Home was organized, with Mrs. Emeline Hough as its First Directress. All these forty years have passed, and the institution still continues to be an object of love to her. And here may be added, are there not many of our Church people, living in the country, who could easily send us of their abundance of fruits and vegetables. Did they but know how gratefully it would be received for our little ones. It is a custom in Bishop Lay's Diocese for the different parishes to gather annually from their Church members packages of groceries, dried fruit, hams and such things as can be given, and send to their orphans and destitute children at their "Home for the Friendless." Could not some of our distant parishes help us in that way. O. H.

—Bishop Gillespie criticizes the programme of the proposed missionary meetings during General Convention in giving so little place to work in the smaller organized dioceses, as compared with that in the missionary jurisdictions.

BOOK NOTICES.

The NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW for September is an admirably constituted number, whether, we regard the timeliness and importance of the subjects presented, or the eminent competence of the authors chosen for their discussion. First comes "State Regulation of Corporate Profits", by Chief-Justice T. M. Cooley, of Michigan, showing how far, by wise legislation and by applying in the spirit of enlightened jurisprudence the principles of the common law, the harrowing exactions of corporate companies and monopolies in general may be restrained and the interests of the people effectually conserved. John A. Kasson, M. C., writes on "Municipal Reform", and offers suggestions for the abatement of the evils of misgovernment in our great municipalities. Richard Grant White treats of "Class Distinctions in the United States", "Shooting at Sight" is the subject of some pertinent reflections by James Jackson, Chief Justice of the State of Georgia. In "Facts about the Caucus and the Primary", George Walton Green unveils the tricks practiced by political managers in large cities. The well-known English essayist, W. H. Mallock, contributes "Conversations with a Solitary", in which he sets forth with much ingenuity the arguments adverse to popular government. The Rev. Dr. D. S. Phelan contributes an article sparkling with epigrams, on the "Limitations of Freethinking". Finally, Grant Allen, the most charming of all living writers on natural history, discourses on "An American Wild Flower". Published at 30 Lafayette Place, New York, and for sale by booksellers generally.

THE CHILDHOOD OF RELIGIONS.—By Edward Clodd. Price 15 cents. No. 47 of the "Library of Science." J. Fitzgerald, Publisher, 20 Lafayette Place, New York.

The author treats of the origin and development of religious ideas among the principal civilized nations of ancient times, as developed by the researches of men of science. The work exhibits the perfection of literary style combined with profound scholarship. In thirteen chapters it details the legends of the past about the creation; the history of creation as told by science; the legends of the past about mankind; the story of the early races of man.

The "star" attraction in the September WIDE AWAKE is of course the opening chapter of "Buttered Crusts," the Serial Story by Mrs. A. D. T. Whitney; and a very lovely girl is Thankful Holme, the heroine, who takes it upon herself to butter the bits of crust others are obliged to eat in default of a fine white slice. The story is in Mrs. Whitney's best vein. There are two excellent stories for ambitious boys. "Benny's Disappearance," is for those who are circus-crazed, and Bobby's "Business Experience," may check the embryo development of possible defaulters and embezzlers. "Some Educated Horses," is an interesting account of Professor Barholmew's show-horses and their entertaining performances; the article is fully illustrated. Mr. Talbot's summer comedy, "More Than They Bargained For," comes to an amusing end. Mrs. A. M. Diaz reports the tenth "John Spicer Lecture," upon "sneaks." Marion Harland's tenth Cooking Lesson for the WIDE AWAKE Cooking Society gives instructions for simple desserts.

Only $2.50 a year. D. Lothrop & Co., Publishers, Boston, Mass.

According to the AMERICAN NEWSPAPER CATALOGUE of Edwin Alden & Bro., Cincinnati, Ohio, just published, containing over 800 pages, the total number of Newspapers and Magazines published in the United States and Canadas is 13,186; (showing an increase over last year of 1,028.) Total in the United States 12,179; Canadas 1,007. Published as follows: Dailies, 1,227; Tri-Weeklies, 71; Semi-Weeklies, 151; Weeklies, 9,955; Bi-Weeklies, 23; Semi-Monthlies, 1,324; Bi Monthlys, 12.

THE RECOLLECTIONS OF A NAVAL OFFICER, by Captain William H. Parker, is announced by Charles Scribner's Sons. In 1841 he entered the U. S. Navy. At the outbreak of the war he resigned his commission, and entered the Confederate naval service. In these recollections he tells of the operations in the Gulf of Mexico during the Mexican War in which he participated, and gives some interesting incidents and facts not generally known.

ST. NICHOLAS FOR SEPTEMBER is a bright and breezy autumn number, which Louisa M. Alcott opens with a charming story of child-life entitled "Little Pyramid and Thisbe," telling how a boy and girl became great friends through a hole in the wall.

Mr. Daniel Beard tells us of his young friends "Tom Dick, and Harry, in Florida," and shows us many pictures of the odd things they saw and the curious adventures they had. "Lost in the Woods" is a graphic account of the remarkable adventures of the Lorre children, who for more than a week last summer wandered through the forests of northern Michigan, and were vainly sought by miners, over thirteen hundred men at one time joining in the search. The children had not lost heart, and when eventually found were bravely following out the plan which was bringing them safely home.

J. T. Trowbridge tells how the "Tinkham Brothers" came out of the small end of the legal horn but gained much in popular sympathy. "Swept Away" continues to grow in interest, and there are three entertaining chapters of Harry M. Kieffer's "Recollections of a Drummer-boy."

D. Lothrop & Co.'s recent publications include miscellaneous books of exceptional value, notable among which are the following:—

Among books suitable for all readers, and especially for the young, are two delightfully entertaining stories, one, HILL REST, by Miss S. M. Moulton, the other, KEENIE'S To-Morrow, by Jennie M. D. Conklin. The characters are realistic enough to have been drawn from life, and to follow the charming heroines will excite to emulation in good deeds.

LITTLE MEN AND WOMEN, PANSY AND BABYLAND, justly denominated "peerless among juvenile magazines," as they appear in the form of Annuals for 1883, are, if possible, more attractive than ever.

The September CENTURY. Unusual variety and range in illustrations and reading matter and an out-of-door quality befitting the season are the distinctive qualities of the September CENTURY. A fine portrait of Robert Burns is the frontispiece. It is after a daguerreotype owned by Mr. Edmund C. Stedman and made from a miniature which belonged to the sister of Burns.

A richly illustrated paper on "Cape Cod," transforms that curious book of sea-sand into a homely Yankee paradise, where the fields are green, the woods are filled with birds, the villages are quaint and prosperous, and the inhabitants are honest and witty. This is a careful paper of thrilling interest, based on much original research. Striking pictures also accompany Lieutenant Schwatka's account of "A Musk-Ox Hunt," which was an incident of his Arctic expedition in 1879. Of popular scientific interest are Ernest Ingersoll's account of "Professor Agassiz's Laboratory," at Newport, with a portrait of Alexander Agassiz; and "The Tragedies of the Nests," by John Burroughs, who describes in his inimitable manner the dangers that threaten the birds in the housekeeping season.

A forcible argument to prove the future supremacy of New York over all the other great cities of the world is made by W. C. Conant, under the title, "Will New York be the Final World Metropolis?"

The second part of "The Bread-winners," the anonymous story which is exciting wide interest and curiosity, reveals its motive as a satire on labor unions or socialism. In the eighth part of "A Woman's Reason" (which will be concluded in the October number), Lord Rainford proposes marriage to the heroine, and is rejected.

JEWISH ARTISAN LIFE, in the time of Jesus. By Franz Delitzsch. Prof. Delitzsch has a world-wide reputation as one of the ablest scholars in Biblical science. He has opened a new field in the department of New Testament contemporaneous history. He throws a new light upon the country in which Jesus lived and upon the people among whom He moved. He sketches the public business and the private home life of the Jews in the time of Christ, in such a charming style, that one is so fascinated he can scarcely lay down the book until through. In chapter IV, "A June day in Jerusalem during the last decade before Christ," the author fairly makes one feel as if in the midst of the scenes he describes. Published in Funk & Wagnall's "Standard Library." Price, 15 cents.

SURVEYOR-BOY AND PRESIDENT. Young People's Life of George Washington. By William M. Thayer. Elzevir edition, 446 pages, Brevier type, leaded. With illustrations. Extra cloth, 50 cents; half Russia, red edges, 65 cents.

No other name has received such universal homage as that of Washington. Edward Everett spoke but the verdict of the world when he pronounced Washington, "of all the men that have ever lived, the greatest of good men, and the best of great men." Whether as school boy, surveyor boy, Indian fighter member of Congress, Commander in Chief, or President, his life was full of striking incident, and ever an example to thrill and inspire any youth whose heart pulsates with the free and vigorous blood of the Anglo-Saxon race.

Mr. Thayer, the author of the present work, writes with an enthusiasm worthy of his subject; with vividly drawn pictures of the times and scenes through which Washington passed, quoting the language of his friends and contemporaries, and crowding the pages with appropriate illustrative anecdotes, he makes the times and the characters seem present realities to the reader. It is not sold by dealers, but only direct by the publisher, who will send a 100 page descriptive catalogue of his attractive and famous cheap publications free on request. John B. Alden, publisher, 18 Vesey street, New York.

"Choice Literature."—This, one of the choicest of the literary magazines, begins a new volume with the September issue, and introduces new, larger and very handsome type. Among the valuable articles of the number are: "Luther," by James Anthony Froude; "State Socialism and the Nationalization of the Land," by Henry Fawcett, the well-known writer on Political Economy and a present member of the British Cabinet; "The Saints of Islam," by W. H. Lilly; "The Analogies of Sailing," by P. G. Hamerton; a very interesting review of the recently published "Autobiography of Renan;" also a number of other articles, less notable, but hardly less important, from eminent English and European writers. This magazine is not sold by the trade, but only by the publisher direct, at a price marvelously low, considering that it contains more literature of the very highest class than any even of the four-dollar monthlies,—ten cents a number, or $1 a year. John B. Alden, Publisher, 18 Vesey street, New York.

JOSEPH FRANKLIN, Treasurer.

GENERAL NEWS.

—On Sunday, August 5th, the Rev. E. C. Abbott, pastor of the "First Christian Church" in Albany, N. Y., delivered a sermon from Rome. xli: 5, on "What I Admire in the Protestant Episcopal Church." After tracing the history of the Church, and describing its forms and traditions, the preacher said he admired the Protestant Episcopal Church for her Book of Common Prayer, and the dignity and beauty of her public services. There was no liturgy in the English language what would compare with it. In its lessons, gospels, psalms, confessions, collects, it was rich and venerable, and stood next to the Bible itself. In non-Episcopal churches the services were too barren of worship. The people did not join in the reading of the Scriptures, nor the offering of prayer. The Scripture reading was often hummed through with. The importance of the sermon was overestimated. The churches of all denominations were realizing this, and were gradually introducing liturgies and forms of worship in which the people could unite with the minister. The multitude were drawn to the Episcopal Church by its litanies and lessons, prayers and praises. There was a charm in using the same petitions that had for centuries expressed the needs of countless numbers who now unite in worship in the Church above. The devout Churchman walks through aisles fragrant with holy associations, and unites in a service enriched by the learning, piety, and experience of noble souls for centuries past. He admired the Episcopal Church for her provision for the education of the young. The children of the Church were baptized in infancy, and instructed from year to year, and finally confirmed by the bishop and admitted to the Communion. The Church in her lessons took the congregation through all the Books of the Bible each year and every faithful Churchman must be well acquainted with the Holy Scriptures. She exalted the value of the sacraments and taught her members to esteem them highly as a means of grace. The result of this excellent teaching was seen in the loyalty of her membership and their devotion to the Church. He also admired the Church for her breadth of doctrine and her Catholicity of spirit, which he believed to be her great sources of strength.

—The service held in San Francisco on the 19th ult. by the Knights Templars was as follows: It is the Morning Service of the Church, with very little alteration. It is said that with the throngs, the dignity of the ceremonial and the music, the effect was grand:

"Processional hymn, 'Onward Christian Soldiers,' clergy and chorists, acting as escort to the officers of the Grand Encampment. Sir Knights stand with sword reversed and blade grasped by right hand, the cross hilt level with the eyes; voluntary; exhortation, by V. E. Grand Prelate; general confession, to be said by all present after the Grand Prelate, all kneeling; absolution, by Right Rev. the Bishop of California, the Knights kneeling; the Lord's Prayer, chanted in ancient manner; Versicles, Psalter, with 'Gloria Patri,' 'Gloria in Excelsis,' all standing; the Lesson—Rev. iii.: 'Te Deum,' the Sir Knights stand, and firmly grasping the sword-hilts in the right hand, repeat the 'Apostles' Creed,' 'Return swords,' 'To your devotions,' all kneeling; prayers; Templars' Litany; General Intercession; hymn, 'The Rising God Forsakes the Tomb'; Sermon by the V. E., Sir Clinton Locke, D. D., Grand Prelate of the Grand Encampment of the United States; hymn, 'Hark! hark! my soul!! Angelic songs are swelling,' all standing; "Nunc Dimittis; the Apostolic Benediction, by the Right Rev. Bishop Kip, D. D., LL. D.; Recessional, "Jerusalem, my Happy Home;" "Laus Deo."

—There has been at work in the most squalid districts in the Eastern part of New York City some Church clergymen, among whom is a son of the Bishop of Central New York, organized into an order, called the Order of the Holy Cross. They live together in a scantily furnished house, with rooms bare, in the midst of their work. They are pledged to celibacy and self-denial, and are supported by the voluntary contributions of the poor among whom they minister. Two are college-bred men, and are devoting their lives to the spiritual elevation of the dense masses of people in the closely-packed districts. The people are mainly Germans, and are ministered to in their own language. At first the priests met with great opposition, but as time went on they became softened, and now the chapel is not large enough for the crowds that throng it. The clergymen also go from house to house.

—The first religious service held in Kentucky was by a Church clergyman, the Rev. Mr. Lythe, in English orders, at Boonsboro, in April, 1775.

A WOMAN'S EXPERIENCE.

What a Lady of Great Prominence Has to Say About Her Sex.

[Boston Globe.]

On a recent trip by a representative of this paper to the city of Haverhill, Mass., a most important incident occurred, which cannot fail to be of the greatest interest to all, and especially to our lady readers. The newspaper man met a lady a trifle past middle age with luxurious white hair that contrasted strikingly with piercing black eyes. She possessed a straight, full habit, womanly, but commanding, combined with manners wholly lady-like, and yet pronounced. Any acute judge of human nature could see at once that he was in the presence of an unusual personage—one destined to accomplish more than most of her sex, and to exert an influence far reaching in its power. This lady was Mrs. M. W. Wingate. Almost from childhood she has taken a special interest in the bodily troubles of her sex and has probably been more successful in relieving suffering and saving lives than any other woman in America. Indeed, she seems to have been to women what Florence Nightingale and Dorothy Dix were to the suffering soldiers. The instances of woman who were in the greatest agony and apparently beyond the reach of human aid, that she has restored to health and happiness, are almost innumerable, and it was only natural that the scribe should become specially interested and wish to converse with her more in detail.

"How long have you been engaged in the practice of medicine Mrs. Wingate?"

"For more than 25 years."

"A long time certainly. How did you happen to enter the field at the early day when women in the professions were specially frowned down upon?"

"I think I must have inherited a taste from my Father Professor J. C. Wood, of Harvard college. He was eminent in the profession, a hard worker and equally earnest in his recreations. He hunted considerably and I remember when only nine years old I used to dissect the birds and animals he had killed. I felt infatuated with medical science, even then and the infatuation has continued up to the present time."

"And did you begin your studies so early in life?"

"I can hardly say when I began, for I can not remember when I did not read medical literature. You would scarcely believe it, but I was a slender girl and did not weigh over 120 pounds but I used to sit up night after night until 2 o'clock in the morning poring over my studies and never dreaming of the flight of time. It seemed as though calls for my attendance on the sick always came unsolicited. I certainly cannot fix the date when I first began practicing. Of course most of my patients were women, and the natural sympathy I felt for my sex has increased during all these years where I have been brought so closely in contact with them and have learned to anticipate their needs and sympathize with their sufferings. After the opening of the Boston Medical College I appeared before the faculty; passed examination and received a diploma. I had practiced for years previous to that time but thought it desirable to receive another diploma, which I did without any effort."

"Your experience with the many and serious diseases of women having been so extensive must also be valuable? Can you give me some facts regarding them?"

"I find that women seem born to suffering, and where she avoids it, it is by reason of some care on her part or owing to some special renewing power. It is true some women go through life without unusual suffering, but they are none the less in danger, for there are critical periods all along their pathway when the utmost precaution is required. The innumerable complaints called female weaknesses; the irregularities of life and changes of the system all indicate the perils which hang over every woman's career, and which, unless attended to, may result disastrously."

"But is there no way by which these terrible troubles can be avoided?"

"That has been the problem for years. The habits of life and the demands of fashion are clearly at war with the health of women. I have been, perhaps unusually successful in my treatment of their troubles, but there have been many cases that seemed specially stubborn. I recall one in particular. I had exhausted all the usual expedients and the results were not satisfactory. I became worried over the case and really did not know what to do, but finally thought I would try something out of the usual line. I had heard a certain remedy recommended very highly and so I procured some and made a chemical analysis of it. I found it was perfectly pure, and that the ingredients were unusually valuable. So I began giving it to my patient, changing it, however, into a bottle of my own. To my great joy it seemed to have an almost immediate effect and a complete cure was the result. Since then I have used it constantly in my practice and have cured every form of female weakness, as well as displacements, dropsical tumors, cellu dropsy and all such troubles. Indeed I have found it of untold value and benefit."

"Have you any objection to giving me the name of this remedy of which you speak?"

"None whatever. It is Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure."

"Why, that is a proprietary medicine!"

"Certainly, but what of that? I have but one end in view in the treatment of my patients namely—their restoration to health. In the accomplishment of this end I prescribe what I believe to be beneficial, no matter what the professional consequences may be."

"I notice in the New York papers that Doctors Hammond, Agnew and other prominent physicians are taking a similar stand Mrs. Wingate."

"Yes, and all independent thinkers in the profession are bound to do so. I am, however, on the best of terms with my professional brethren as you can see," and the lady produced a beautiful gold medal mounted in the form of a badge which had been presented her by the medical society, known as the Ensign of the Humble Family, of which she is a prominent member. After examining it closely, the reporter remarked that the medical profession evidently were proud of what she had done, as she might well be in the possession of such a medal.

"I am proud of that," she replied, "and I was also pleased a short time since to receive an offer at a large salary to take the professorship in the new medical college at Walla Walla, on the Pacific coast. I do not know how they heard of me out there, and I was obliged to decline their offer."

"And so, in your experience with the diseases of women, who have found success, and that Warner's Safe Cures has been a most efficient remedy."

"Yes, I have had unusual success and the remedy of which you speak has been proven of great benefit. There are, however, some base imitations of it to be found in the market; these are bad and should be avoided, but the genuine remedy is one of the very best."

"And has not the practice of your profession injured your health?"

"No, I am better now than ever before in my life. I froze my limbs last Winter, while riding one cold night to see a patient and was obliged to remain indoors for over two months. Otherwise I am healthy, as you can see by looking at me."

"And may I publish this interview, Mrs. Wingate?"

"Yes. If what I have told you should be the means of assisting any woman who may be suffering, I shall be perfectly willing to have it published."

25 Cts. for Perfect Musical Outfit

EXTRAORDINARY BARGAIN. Almost every household in the United States has some kind of Musical Instrument, from the plain Melodeon to the expensive Grand Piano. Not one in a thousand persons ever become adepts in the art of Music, which even Mendelssohn and Mozart could not become masters of technically. But Buckner's Musical Chart does away with the necessity of becoming proficient in the art. It is the result of years of intense application, by a Leading Professor, and is a thorough though simple, self-instructor for Melodeon, Piano, or Organ. A child (without the aid of a teacher,) can learn in a few hours to play any of these instruments as easily as if it had gone through months of instruction and hard practice. It is a grand invention and saves hundreds of dollars to any person lucky enough to possess one. If you already have the rudiments of music, this will aid you in mastering the whole art; if not, you can go right ahead, and learn all, easily and perfectly. Have you no musical instrument on which to practice? A few minutes each day at some friend's residence will make you perfect, so that you can play anywhere in response to calls. The highest class of Professors of Music unite in saying that Buckner's Music Chart leads anyone to proficiency. Heretofore the Chart has never been sold for less than $1.00, but now, that we have secured the sale of the genuine, we have resolved to send the Chart for Twenty-Five Cents and also, to send 34 Pieces of Beautiful Music, vocal and instrumental—full music sheet size, free to every purchaser. TO THOSE IN HEALTH.

"Let him (the sick person) be admonished to make his will, and to declare his debts, what he oweth, and what is owing unto him, for the better discharging of his conscience, and the quietness of his executors. But men should often be put in remembrance to take order for the settling of their temporal estates, whilst they are in health."—[Rubric in Visitation of the Sick.]

Real estate for a church, parsonage, a burial ground in any particular place, may be given or devised to "The Parochial Trust Fund of the Diocese of Missouri," a body incorporated under the laws of the State of Missouri, "in trust for the place. Real estate also for the above purposes may be given or devised to any Church which is properly incorporated.

Real estate for any other purpose, and personal property may be given or devised for the benefit of any church, or any of our charities by naming trustees in the will or deed, and providing how their successors in the trust may be appointed, who can receive and dispense the trust as directed. All subscriptions for the paper, business letters, and also advertisements, should be sent to the Publisher, GEORGE W. MATTHEWS, Room 41, Singer Building, 5th and Locust.

Subscriptions, $1 a year. In clubs of five or more, to different addresses, money sent at one time, 75cts. Other names may be added at the same rate.

A limited number of advertisements will be received at the rate of eight cents per line for each insertion. Twelve lines make an inch.

Contributions, and all other matters for insertion in this paper should be addressed to the Editor of the CHURCH NEWS, St. Louis, Mo.

The Bishop's Column.

Letters intended for the Bishop will reach him most quickly and surely, if addressed to him at the Residence, or with the name of the city simply.

Letters for the Bishop, while on a Visitation, and directed to the interior, should be sent to the care of some clergyman to ensure their safe delivery.

THE Bishop would be very much obliged, if any persons to whose eye this article may come, who have copies of the Convention Journal of 1880, or of the CHURCH NEWS of February of this year, which they have no further use for, will mail them to him. He has had frequent application for these numbers, which seem to be scarce, and would be glad to have it in his power to supply those to whom they would be of value.

REPORT OF LITURGICAL ENRICHMENT.

The long-looked for report from the Committee of seven Bishops, seven Presbyters and seven Laymen, appointed at the General Convention of 1880 to consider whether "the changed conditions of national life do not demand certain alterations in the Prayer Book, in the direction of liturgical enrichment and increased flexibility of use," was issued about the middle of last month. It appears in the form of a thin volume of recommendations, and a copy of the Prayer Book as it would be after the changes, put together in a pocket. The report shows long and conscientious work, and is an interesting indication of the sense of the strength and weakness of the Book, as looked at by representative men. They answer the question in the affirmative, and all sign the report, while the members of the Committee reserve to themselves liberty of action in Convention.

The writer thinks that the recommendations are almost all most excellent. Many are such as create no surprise, as they have been mooted for years. Of course it is impossible, at this moment, to say what the fate of the recommendations will be in whole or in part. At the best, none of them can go into effect until after the General Convention of 1886. They will occupy a large share of attention at the present Convention. The following are some of the more noteworthy changes suggested:

There are more Proper Psalms for special days, and more Selections of Psalms to be used. These, however, are not as now printed before the Psalter, but must be picked out. The tables of Lessons generally conform to the old ones in the Prayer Book, somewhat reduced in length. They, after all, seem to have been preferred to the English table tried lately. There are special lessons for every day in Lent.

There are changes in the opening sentences, and a variation between evening and morning, and some marked for special seasons, Christmas, etc.

In the Morning Prayer, the second form of absolution is left, as in the English book, for the Holy Communion office, and a new one is inserted. The permission to use the Gloria in Excelsis is withdrawn. There is a new, short, canticle between the Te Deum and the Benedicite. After the second lesson the longer form of the Benedictus is given as in the English book, and another Canticle, the 121st Psalm. After the Second Collect, an anthem is allowed, when it is convenient; the Prayer for the President is omitted when the Litany is said. On other days than Sundays, the minister may end the Service after the Second Collect with such other prayers as he may deem best. In the prayer for All Conditions of Men and the General Thanksgiving, clauses are inserted for particular persons to be prayed for.

In the Evening Prayer, the Exhortation may be omitted, and there is a second form of Confession taken from the Family Prayer. The Magnificat may be sung after the first, and the Nunc Dimittis after the Second Lesson. There are a number of versicles after the Creed, as in the English Book, and the old form of the Second Collect, "Lighten our darkness" is restored. As in Morning Prayer, the Service on other days than Sundays may close after the Second Collect. Instead of the prayer of St. Chrysostom is the Collect, "Assist us mercifully."

After the Evening Prayer is a new office which may be used after the Second Collect, at the discretion of the minister, the Beatitudes, with responses, much like the Commandments, with collects to close the Service.

The Litany may be said on any day in Lent, and must be omitted on the greater festivals.

There is a great enrichment among the special prayers and thanksgivings, one for persons on a journey, for young persons preparing for Confirmation, for those dependent on public care, Missions, Increase of the Ministry, Fruitful Seasons, vacancy in the Parish or Diocese, and very many more. The vexed word "present" has been omitted from the prayer for conventions.

There is a Penitential office for Ash Wednesday, very like the old Communion Service in the English Book.

The Service for Thanksgiving Day or Harvest Home has been wholly reconstituted, and made fuller and more characteristic. There is a Service for Cottage Lectures, Missionary Meetings, etc.

There are double collects, epistles, and gospels for Christmas, Easter and Whitsunday, to serve when there are two communions on those days. There is provision for another festival. The Transfiguration is fixed for January 18th.

In the Service for Holy Communion, the first Lord's Prayer is to be said by the Minister alone. After the Gospel, "Thanks be to Thee, O Lord," is to be said or sung. The Nicene Creed is inserted, and is to be used on the greater festivals. There are new offertory sentences added, and they may be said when offerings are received at other times. At the offertory an anthem may be sung when the alms are presented. The longer exhortation may be omitted, provided it be said once a month. The people are to join in the Trisagion at the words, "Holy, Holy, Holy." The grammatical change has been made in the prayer of consecration, "that He may dwell in us and we in Him." It is noted that every communicant should receive at least three times a year, of which Easter should be one.

In the order for Baptism the people are directed to stand from the exhortation to the Lord's Prayer.

The Confirmation Service is made much fuller. After the preface, the verses in the 8th chapter of the book of the Acts, detailing the Apostolic laying on of hands, are read; the Bishop repeats the questions in the Baptismal office, and of the person's faith in the articles of the Creed at length, and then the old question. Immediately before the laying on of hands a hymn may be sung. The candidates are to be moved to come to the Holy Communion without delay.

There is a new prayer inserted in the Marriage Service, and an office for the burial of infants.

There are proper anthems instead of the Venite, not only for Easter, but for the other higher festivals. When there is more than one celebration of the Holy Communion in a church on the same day, the Commandments may be omitted at the later Service, and in that case the Summary of the Law is to be read. The Thirty-nine Articles are placed last of all in the book.

The pagination proceeds directly through the book, and not as now. In the proposed book, without the hymns, of course, there are 578 pages, or two less than in the present standard book.

It will from this appear that nothing radical or dangerous has been proposed. The changes could be introduced with very little shock to any congregation, and they include very much that has been long desired by the Church. They provide for occasions for which now ministers have to be left to their own judgment. They give in places a greater fullness, which better expresses devotion, and the mind of the Church.

THE GENERAL CONVENTION.

There was much to be said in favor of having the opening services in the historical building, in which ninety-eight years ago the first representative gathering of our Church was held. But at the same time it was sure to be crowded, and unable to admit a quarter of the persons seeking entrance, and this proved to be the case. The Service is never rendered with the heartiness that is felt at the opening. One who has never been present does not know the power and resonance of such a vast assemblage of male voices, each speaking forth distinctly.

There was a very fine choir of many voices from several of the churches of the city, in the organ loft at the other end of the church. They sang grandly. There were probably fifty Bishops in the procession, from which one missed the fine forms of Bishop Williams, Kip, Potter and Whipple, and others. The Lord Bishop of Rochester was present, and read the Gospel. After the other Bishops had taken their places, the very aged Presiding Bishop was almost borne up the aisle by two young men. He simply pronounced the first absolution, for which he needed to be prompted, sat throughout, and retired after Morning Prayer.

The church space was wholly inadequate, and many of the Bishops had to sit on the platform, which was extended under the galleries. This caused considerable confusion. The sermon was preached by Bishop Clark, of Rhode Island. It goes down the list of Bishops by seniority. It was partly historical, and partly indicative of the larger lines of duty on which the Church should work in the coming century. It was strong and clear. The number of communicants was very large; and the Service took three hours and a half.

The Sessions of the Convention are held in the church of the Holy Trinity, much farther up town, and very large, and exceedingly rich and beautiful. There are side galleries, so that many persons can attend and see, and hear well. All the arrangements are most convenient and ample, and well considered. Two pews are assigned to each Diocese, and there is a standard designating the name of each. Missouri has a fine position, at the head of the middle aisle, under the President's eye. If Missouri is not heard from, it will not be because of lack of opportunity. On the first day Missouri had three clerical and two lay deputies in attendance. The Rev. Mr. Talbot and Messrs. Carter and Lycett had not yet arrived.

The Convention is very full. The deputations evidently had a large proportion of their members present. There is a good spirit prevalent. An excellent impression has been left from the handsome manner in which Dr. Dix, in the New York Convention, commended the Rev. Dr. Potter to his friends, although in many matters of policy the two are very different.

In the matter of President of the Convention there had been much discussion; but the Rev. Dr. Beardsley, of Connecticut, was re-elected on the first ballot. Dr. Hall, of Brooklyn, and Dr. Watson, of North Carolina, were the others mainly voted for. Senator Edmunds, of Vermont, in declining the use of his name, said he was not a candidate for that, or any other presidency, which brought down the house.

A daily lunch is served at the Aldine Hotel, which is quite near. The former Secretary of the House of Deputies, the Rev. Mr. Hutchins, was re-elected.

For the accommodation of the House of Bishops the spacious chapel of the church is set apart, with handsome desks and writing facilities for each Bishop. These are arranged in the form of a semi-circle around the President, in the order of seniority; and it is interesting to note how, every three years, one is moved up towards the front, and in the smaller circles, nearer the centre. The same Secretaries hold in this House as have held for fifteen years past.

The Convention is not likely to be shorter than in former years, and its business will not be facilitated in the Deputies' House, by a little uncertainty and hesitancy in the rulings. There are not lacking, however, those who by experience in other places, are able to help and criticise the rulings. There are, beside clergymen, ex-Gov. Stevenson, of Kentucky; Baldwin, of Michigan; Hendricks, of Indiana; Fish, of New York; Hon. R. C. Winthrop, of Massachusetts; Senator Edmunds, Columbus Delano, ex-Secretary of Interior, and many others eminent on the Bench and in the State.

Many of the churches of Philadelphia have in prominent places large tablets, announcing the day of the month, and the hymns to be sung during the Service. This seems to tend to the convenience of the congregation.

The importance of the business of the Convention seems to be appreciated by the secular press, as there are a dozen reporters in constant attendance.

Bishop Dunlop has become thinner from his work in the dessicating regions of New Mexico. He made an admirable speech before the Board of Missions, in which he strongly advocated self-help on the part of the Missionary jurisdiction. This was not the temper of several of the speeches from Missionary Bishops. He showed that the great increase of Church property in his jurisdiction had mostly come from local liberality.

R.

THE DOWNING LAW IN ST. LOUIS.

The Bishop was requested by a St. Louis news paper that proposed to put out an edition of 50,000 copies for Fair week, to give an article on the above subject. He wrote the following:

Intemperance in drinking is both an effect and a cause. In so far as it proceeds from influences lying back of it, the duty comes on all thoughtful men to do what they can to reduce, and so far as possible abolish it. This involves many forms of obligation: a more evident demonstration of sympathy of employers to the employed, of the strong for the struggling; better homes for the poor; organization of effort for the establishing of coffee houses and other counter attractions. It involves also the removal of evil suggestion and temptation, because of which those otherwise inclined are induced to yield. It involves the supply of better forms of interest, activity and reading, for lack of which from mere idleness, persons decline to lower things. It requires better example, and self-sacrifice up to the point of abstinence on the part of those who exert influence.

Intemperance is also a cause. Of the poverty, and crime, and debauchery, of present and transmitted shame and disease, of desolated homes, of which it is the parent, no words can express any adequate idea. Its harm does not stop with those who indulge. The influence and entail of evil go on widening constantly. Because of this in part, the question becomes not merely one of personal responsibility and consequence, but one also of social and political concern. The indulgence puts burdens not merely of a moral, but also of a financial sort on the community at large.

The person who drinks does not wholly pay for what he drinks; he leaves a portion of the charge for others to pay. He compels the prisons and the poor-houses to be made four times as large as they would otherwise need to be, if he did not drink. The increased taxes caused by this compel the poor man's loaf of bread to be made smaller, and his bit of meat to cost a penny or two a pound more, so as to allow the place at the corner to sell its drink. It is a perfectly equitable thing, if it can be done, to make those who desire to drink pay for what their indulgence is causing others to bear.

That, and the idea that no one has a right to carry on a business to the detriment of others and the destruction of the quiet of the Christian Sunday, is the principle at the root of the Downing law. The bitter opposition of the whiskey interest in this city at the time of its passage, shows that it fully believed at that time that the bill was applicable to St. Louis.

DIOCESAN ITEMS.

—The parish at Sedalia in purchasing the property on Broadway on which to build its Church incurred a debt. It has just succeeded in paying off $1,200, and efforts are being made to pay the balance, $1,100. The ladies have $1,000 in hand, and with this they should put in the foundation of the church, and if possible get it under roof this fall.

—The first missionary sent out by the Domestic and Foreign Missionary Society of the Protestant Episcopal Church, was the Rev. Mr. Horrell, in 1823, who came to St. Louis.

—Messrs. Lathrop and Porter, deputies to General Convention, having resigned, their places were filled by the election of Messrs. Triplett of this city and Motter of St. Joseph. Mr. Triplett accepted, and Mr. Motter declined. Thereupon Mr. Freeborn of this city, alternate, was elected, and he declined.

—The Rev. J. B. Trevett, recently in charge of St. Andrew's Church, Seguin, Western Texas, has accepted a call to Grace Church, Chillicothe, to succeed the Rev. J. H. Waterman. Mr. T. is from New York, and is a son of the late Rev. Russell Trevett, D.D. He is about 35 years of age, and was ordained in 1872.

—The Rev. Mr. Woodruff in declining the call to Big Rapids, Mich., presented the parish with the money to purchase a suitable desk Bible.

—The scholars came in at Macon at the opening of the term in great numbers. There are twenty-five boarders, and an increase in the number of day scholars. As the new building was not completed at the opening, the dining-room and sitting-room of the rectory next door had to be used by the students for their dining room. They got into the large, fine dining-room in the new building on the 24th. The funds received in Macon since the disaster will, it is thought, finish the re-building of the portion blown down completely, except the porches. The north building which is wholly new, is built from the proceeds of the offerings from abroad. These, as the case now stands, will come within $400 of enclosing this portion. There would then, however, still be needed $3,000 to finish it, and put the whole property in shape. The walls of the north building are nearly up. Much is anticipated from the November offering through the diocese. They are much delighted with Major Langdon, the new Professor of mathematics and military tactics, and with Mrs. Gilpin the new House-Mother. There are five boys from St. Joseph, and ten from Kansas City, but none from St. Louis. It is hoped that by the end of this month the whole of the middle building will be in a condition for use.

—One of our poor missionaries had the local village paper sent to him as a compliment, and as such received it regularly. Several years afterwards and recently, when the owner died, the constable in settling up the estate sent a bill for over eight dollars for the paper to the clergyman, and threatened suit unless it was paid. It nearly broke the clergyman, but he paid it, although there was no equitable claim.

—The Bishop has admitted, on the recommendation of the Standing Committee, Mr. Henry Cornelius Dyer, of Trinity Church, St. Louis, as a Candidate for Orders.

—A fortnight ago the Bishop was telegraphed to and asked whether he could attend the funeral of a Churchwoman, a friend of his, who had died, in a town where there was no clergyman residing, or if he could not go, whether he could not send a clergyman to officiate. The deceased lady was of that type that when, a few years ago, a friend of hers, a Churchman also, had died, and when the preacher of a certain denomination being asked to officiate, and use the Church service, declined, she read the service herself. The Bishop could not go; he had to be elsewhere; but he asked the Rev. Mr. Chesnutt, who had been the lady's pastor once, to attend. He went and served to the comfort of the family. He had to return at night, so as to reach his church in time for Sunday service. He had a very hard chill on the way home.

—The Bishop was made D.D., ad eundem at the University of the South at its commencement in August.

—The Rev. Stephen H. Green, of Elgin, Ill., who was called to the rectorship of St. John's in this city, declined the call, because he could not leave his present work, and break from his present duty in time to make his acceptance for the good of St. John's. The vestry, however, have renewed the call, and extended the time within which he might accept it.

—The Bishop attended the Annual Conference of Charities and Corrections in Louisville, on the 24th ult., under the Governor's commission. There were five other delegates present from this State, and there were thirty two States represented. He was entertained by Bishop Dudley. At his urgency the next session will be held next year in St. Louis. Washington strove to secure it.

In the Spirit of Missions for October there is an acknowledgement of $100 from M. S. W., Marshall, Saline County, Mo., for the Permanent Missionary Episcopate.

—W. W. Love of Macon City, Postulant for Orders, has just entered the State University, Columbia, for a four years course.

—All the last year's boys except one has returned to St. James' Academy Macon.

—The Bishop has been elected the Vice President of the National Conference of Charities and Corrections, which is to meet in this city next year.

—There are ninety-three scholars now in attendance at the School of the Good Shephard in this city.

—The Rev. John Davis, of Dallas, Texas, entered upon his duties as rector of Christ Church, Lexington, on the first of this month.

—The delay in the beginning of the chapel of St. Luke's Hospital is due to the fact that the former plans prepared were put aside, and Mr. Eidlitz, of New York, was commissioned to do the work. He submitted plans during the summer, having been informed that $10,000 was the limit which could be expended on the building. At length it was ascertained from him that it would cost $14,000, and he was asked to modify his work. Other plans have now been sent on, and it is being ascertained for what the work on them can be contracted. The same contractor's plans for Christ Church required very much more than had been expected. A lady has given $500 for putting in the boiler to make the elevator at the hospital workable. This was what it was said to require. Now it is stated that more money is needed for it, and nothing is being done. The building will be old before the elevator will begin to run, and lives will be needlessly worn out. What are Trustees for? Would the Exposition ever have been carried out in this way?

—An enterprising reporter has been among the St. Louis churches to ascertain what is being paid for music. He discovered that in Christ Church, as only one Sunday service is held, the salaries paid are small, not averaging over $250 a year. In St. George's the soprano receives $500, the alto $500, the tenor $600, the bass $600 and the organist $600. At the Holy Communion the tenor is the only salaried person, the others being his pupils. At Mount Calvary the four members of the quartette and the organist, each receive $200. At St. John's and Trinity the choirs are boys' and men's voices.

—The Rev. S. H. Green has accepted the call to the rectorship of St. John's Church, St. Louis. He will not be able, however, to enter upon the duties of the rectorship until about the middle of December.

—The Bishop was the only clergyman present at the banquet given by the Commercial Club of this city to the Chief Justice of England, Lord Coleridge, on the 29th ult. The simplicity and devoutness of his character were apparent in his addresses.

—Christ Church, St. Louis, was opened on Sunday, September 30th, after its beautiful restoration and renovation, and improvements. It looks better than ever.

—On Friday evening, the 28th ult., a reception was given to the Rev. Dr. Berkley and his family, at the residence of Mr. Ezra H. Linley, Senior Warden, on his retirement from the rectorship of St. Peter's Church. A large number of the congregation were present, and in the course of the evening, the Senior Warden made a complimentary address to the Rector, presenting him a series of resolutions which had been adopted by the vestry, elegantly written in German text, and set in a superb frame. In behalf of a few of his friends, he placed in his hands, also, a purse containing nearly $500. Although the Rector was wholly unprepared for this manifestation of regard on the part of his people, he made a suitable reply. The company repaired to the supper room, refreshed themselves with delicacies of the table, and retired with the Pastor's blessing.

—The Rev. Joseph T. Wright, recently of St. John's Church in this city, has accepted the rectorship of the parish in Lincoln, Nebraska.

—In his recent removal from the city, the Rev. Dr. Berkley sent several hundred pamphlets, a part of the accumulation of forty five in the ministry, to Bishop Robertson, for the use of the diocese. He also sent about 150 volumes from his library to the Seminary at Nashotah, and about 100 volumes to the school at Faribault, Minnesota, beside 70 volumes to the Young Men's Christian Association of this city.

SCHOOL OF THE GOOD SHEPHERD.

The Christmas term opened on the 12th inst. with numbers larger than ever before. Sister Catharine was compelled to decline to receive some who applied to be received as boarding scholars. The faces were all happy, and the greetings of the old scholars to teachers and comrades were warm and earnest. The Bishop had not expected to be present, and had requested Rev.

Dr. Schuyler to deliver an address. The Rev. Messrs. Reed and Wright were present. After singing, and a short service by the Bishop, Dr. Schuyler made the following address, which was attentively listened to:

I have been asked by the Bishop, who has been called away on duty, to officiate at the opening services of the school, and to make a brief address. It is a privilege to be present, and especially, as I am informed that the school opens under such favorable auspices, with the promise of fully as many, if not more pupils than the building can accommodate. I wish I had all the good and earnest Churchmen of the city with us here now, that I could say to them what is in my heart: that, if there is one claim upon their beneficence and liberality more imperative and deserving than another, it is that of a building properly arranged, of a befitting architectural character, and sufficiently large and spacious to receive all who would like to come, either as boarders or day scholars. In a city of a population like ours, and in a diocese as extended, and with no Church school for girls within hundreds of miles, there is certainly a want to be supplied here. And the venture of faith, which the sisters have so bravely made, and which has evidently been blessed of God, appeals not only to the sympathy, but to the judgment and interest of all Churchmen and women, who have children to be educated, and who would have them under the elevating, purifying and refining influences of an institution like this.

But I presume it is expected that the few words which are to be spoken on the present occasion are to be addressed particularly to the girls who are to commence their studies for another year—I mean to address you as girls, not young ladies. I want you to feel that the simple, modest air of children is becoming the oldest among you. The great and crying fault at the present day is, that we have no longer any children, but young men and women in miniature. Their manners and habits, and their style of dress are adapted to the parlor and the drawing room, and calls and party going intrude upon the hours which ought to be devoted to study. I don't blame the girls for this state of things, and who is particularly responsible for it, it would be hard to tell—certainly the parents, rather than the children—but what I wish to impress upon you, one and all, the oldest as well as the youngest, is, that the school hours are to be the prime consideration, and that the school hours are not alone while you are within these walls; but that trusting to the judgment of your teachers, that no unreasonable task will be imposed upon you, you will devote faithfully all the time that is necessary to accomplish that task, I would not deprive you of play and recreation—"All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy,"—and so it makes a dull girl. It is necessary that you should have fresh air, that you should stir your limbs, and get your blood in circulation; that you should get your mind off your books, and when you go to play leave all thought of your books behind you. Don't be puzzling your heads with your arithmetic, or geography, or history, or any lesson you have to learn, while you are at play. Enjoy every moment of the time given at recess, and the hours at home, not set apart for study. Forget the school at these times as much as you can. The wise man has well said, "To everything there is a season, a time to weep and a time to laugh; a time to mourn and a time to dance; a time to cast away stones, and a time to gather stones together; and a time to keep silence and a time to speak;" and this last is sometimes pretty hard for girls to learn.

One of the most important habits to be early learned, and to be kept up through life, is, to give your thought, and confine your attention to the duties of the hour. If you have anything to do, do it, and do nothing else, and do it with all your might, till the task is accomplished, and then rest. When you take your book in your lap, or your slate in your hand, let this be the signal, that you are going to devote your attention to them; and then give them your thought and attention, paying no heed to anything else, unless you are necessarily called away. Your lesson can be learned in one half the time and far better learned if you will only begin and keep up this habit of application. It was never designed that we should do two things at once, and if we attempt it we shall fail in both. We cannot play and study at the same time; we can neither improve the one nor enjoy the other. There is one branch of study of which I wish to say a word or two. You will probably think it a matter of very trifling importance, and yet there is no one branch of learning the neglect of which is so constantly apparent, and which stamps as illiterate those who may have been otherwise well educated—I mean the careful study of your spelling-book. I care not what may be the composition of your letter—it may be grammatical in the structure of its sentences; it may be correctly and elegantly expressed, and written with a well-formed hand, and yet if it is defaced with poor spelling, the writer will be set down at once as imperfectly educated, and peculiarly unfortunate in the circumstances of her early training. There is a great difference in the facility with which different persons learn to spell. Some seem to acquire it almost as it were by intuition, while others must have it drummed into their heads, word for word, time and again, until each letter, as it were, has been photographed upon their memory. Where there is this slowness to learn, there is special need that great care should be taken with the beginner, and it should be kept up through the whole course of study, even to the year of graduation. As an illustration of the importance of correct spelling, I will mention two instances, which have come to my knowledge within a comparatively recent period. A lady of the city advertised for a governess for her child, requiring of the teacher a knowledge of all the ordinary branches of learning, with a capability to give instruction in the French language. She received answers from a little over forty applicants, not one-third of the answers were correctly spelt, and in the simple word "salary," which conveyed a valuable idea, as concerned the writers, many of them failed to spell it correctly. Another instance came under my personal observation. I was applied to by a person living in the country to recommend to her a young man as a tutor in her family—she had several boys more or less advanced in their studies, to be educated, and she was particularly anxious that they should be under the influence of an earnest and intelligent Churchman. I knew of a candidate for Holy Orders, who was seeking for some remunerative occupation while he was pursuing his theological course. He had been graduated at college, and it was to be presumed that he was fitted to teach boys who were not even contemplating a college course. I therefore recommended him upon this presumption. At her request he wrote to her as to terms, etc., and I received shortly afterward a confidential letter saying she could not make up her mind to put her boys under the instruction of a teacher who could spell no better than his letter to her indicated. Bad spelling in letter-writing, and ungrammatical expressions in common conversation, which are often consequent upon mere carelessness, will stamp one in educated society as ILLITERATE, no matter what his or her literary attainments.

I will not detain you any longer—I would only say in conclusion, time is precious. Before you are aware of it your school days will have passed. Be conscientious now in the improvement of your time—study hard and patiently—be respectful to your teachers, considerate of their feelings and solicitous of their love, and you will find them always ready to sympathize and help you in your difficulties, and the year of study will pass rapidly and pleasantly away.

May our dear Lord watch over you and keep you one and all in health and safety, —Dr. Richardson sank $28,000 on the Guardian newspaper. He thought it had a mission. Dr. Cotton Smith sank about the same amount a few years ago on the paper, Church and State.

THE OPENING OF ALL SAINTS', ST. LOUIS.

The opening of another church of ours in this city is an event too rare to be passed without special mention. The mission for the colored people was begun in Trinity Chapel in this city, in 1873, by Rev. James E. Thompson, under the name of the Mission of Our Saviour. Two years after the Jewish Synagogue on Sixth street, between Cerre and Gratiot was bought for $5,000, and as Mrs. Minturn, of New York, who gave the largest amount towards this, desired it, the name was changed to the Mission of the Good Samaritan. The location became unfavorable, and in 1879 the Rev. Mr. Thompson resigned and removed to Chicago. Mr. Mason, who had acted as Lay Reader, was ordained, and took charge.

Two years ago the use of the building on Sixth street was given up, and the congregation accepted the kind invitation of Trinity to worship with them. This they have since done, and in the meantime have greatly increased in numbers and efficiency. There has long been a desire to secure quarters of their own, but their means could not compass this in a city where such an amount is required to acquire real estate, especially as their other building was not sold.

At length the chance to purchase the property on the corner of Washington Avenue and 23d Street appeared, which had been used by the Central Christian church. It was in a good location, well built, and very commodious, and at length a satisfactory price was agreed upon. The congregation desired at this juncture, when it was entering upon a new epoch in its history, to change its name to All Saints', which the Bishop acceded to.

Certain alterations had to be made, and the opening service was fixed for Sunday, 16th ult. The chancel end was greatly changed, and adapted for our uses. There needed yet several things to be done. The marble font, which Mrs. John M. Gilkerson, of this city, presented, would not be ready until the next week.

The Bishop, the Rev. C. M. C. Mason, the priest in charge, and the Rev. Mr. Murphy, of the Diocese of Easton, were present, and took part in the services. In the congregation, which was large, were present a number from the other churches, who had been interested in the movement. The Bishop preached, and celebrated the Holy Communion.

Besides the church proper, which has a large gallery at the further end, there is a basement for the Sunday-school, high and light, warmed by a furnace, a chapel across the rear of the church, a room of equal size above to be divided hereafter into three for guild rooms; a rector's study in front, and a kitchen and closets in the basement in the rear. There is a stove or furnace in every room, with gas fixtures, cushions and carpets.

Of the $12,000 given for the property, $3,000 was paid in cash, and the debt of $9,000 on it before, remains with necessity that it must be reduced soon. This will demand attention next spring. It is a very fine property, the lot being 60x137 feet, with front on three streets, and gives the most favorable site for the enlargement of this important work. The congregation, which raised more than one-third of the amount paid, is very enthusiastic over the prospects which are now before them. Many families are joining the congregation, now that its location and outlook for permanence is assured.

MR. EDITOR:

I read with pleasure in the August issue of the Church News an article by "M. S.," on the subject of Missions in China. In the article the writer speaks of Rev. Geo. D. Appleton, now Missionary in that country.

I received a letter from Mr. Appleton, last spring, telling me of the great need, not only of men, but of money, in this grand work of the Church; also, requesting me to lay before my Sunday-school his petition, as a former member, that we would take a scholarship in the school in China in which he is personally working. I did so, and the school gladly contributed the forty dollars required, and will continue the offering annually. The object of this communication is to suggest to other Sunday-schools of the Diocese the same action.

Rev. Mr. Appleton is from our city; he is, so far as I know, the only representative of the Church in Missouri, working in a foreign field, and I can not but think his call comes to us with peculiar force. It is impossible to tell the comfort and inspiration our sympathy and help, shown in this way, would give him. Superadded to the great claims of the foreign field, comes to us this one also—a cry for help from one of our own boys.

PRECEPT AND PRACTICE.—A good story is told of an excellent American clergyman, who happening one day to pass the open door of a room, where his daughter and some friends were assembled, thought from what he overheard, that they were making too free with the characters of their neighbors. After their visitors had departed, he gave his child a lecture on the sinfulness of scandal.

"But, father, what shall we talk about?"

"If you can't do anything else," replied he, "get a pumpkin and roll it about; that will at least be innocent diversion."

A short time after, an association of ministers met at his house, and during the evening their discussions on points of doctrine were earnest, and their voices were so loud as to indicate the danger of losing their Christian temper; when his oldest daughter, overhearing them, procured a pumpkin, and entering the room, gave it to her father and said:

"There, father, roll it about."

The clergyman was obliged to explain to his brethren, and good humor was instantly restored. —Pacific Churchman.

SCROFULA

and all scrofulous diseases, Sores, Erysipelas, Eczema, Blotches, Ringworm, Tumors, Carbuncles, Boils, and Eruptions of the Skin, are the direct result of an impure state of the blood.

To cure these diseases the blood must be purified, and restored to a healthy and natural condition. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA has for over forty years been recognized by eminent medical authorities as the most powerful blood purifier in existence. It frees the system from all foul humors, enriches and strengthens the blood, removes all traces of mercurial treatment, and proves itself a complete master of all scrofulous diseases.

A Recent Cure of Scrofulous Sores.

"Some months ago I was troubled with scrofulous sores (ulcers) on my legs. The limbs were badly swollen and inflamed, and the sores discharged large quantities of offensive matter. Every remedy I tried failed, until I used AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, of which I have now taken three bottles, with the result that the sores are healed, and my general health greatly improved. I feel very grateful for the good your medicine has done me. Yours respectfully, MRS. ANN O'BRIAN." 148 Sullivan St., New York, June 24, 1882.

All persons interested are invited to call on Mrs. O'Brian; also upon the Rev. Z. P. Wilds of 78 East 54th Street, New York City, who will take pleasure in testifying to the wonderful efficacy of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, not only in the cure of this lady, but in his own case and many others within his knowledge.

The well-known writer on the Boston Herald, B. W. BALL, of Rochester, N.H., writes, June 7, 1882:

"Having suffered severely for some years with Eczema, and having failed to find relief from other remedies, I have made use, during the past three months, of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, which has effected a complete cure. I consider it a magnificent remedy for all blood diseases."

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

stimulates and regulates the action of the digestive and assimilative organs, renews and strengthens the vital forces, and speedily cures Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Rheumatic Gout, Catarrh, General Debility, and all diseases arising from an impoverished or corrupted condition of the blood, and a weakened vitality.

It is incomparably the cheapest blood medicine, on account of its concentrated strength, and great power over disease.

MEMORIAL WINDOW IN ST. LUKE'S CHAPEL TO SISTER ODEN.

About two months since a short article was published in the CHURCH NEWS, proposing to the friends of the late Sister Oden, to erect a window in her memory in the Memorial Chapel, soon to be built. It is gratifying to learn that the first answer received to such a proposal was from one of the first graduates of the School of the Sisterhood of the Good Shepherd. It is gratifying, because it shows, that though Sister Oden was not engaged as one of the teachers in the school, she had, by her occasional association with the pupils, through her sweet disposition, and bright and cheerful manner, won their love and enduring remembrance.

It is gratifying also, as an indication of the Church's teaching of the school; and of the abiding influence of that teaching upon those who after years of separation do not forget the loving Sisters who trained them in the Church's ways of unselfish beneficence.

As was stated in the article above referred to, there is an opportunity for the friends of our departed sister to contribute to the proposed Memorial Window what their loving remembrance may prompt. It is important that what is done should be done promptly, as it will be necessary to order the work very soon. Could the intention of such a Memorial be made known to the hundreds of patients to whom she ministered, there is not one who would not feel it a privilege to contribute to such a token of grateful remembrance.

Contributions should be sent to Sister Catharine, at St. Luke's Hospital, corner of 19th and Washington Avenue. M. S.

REV. DR. BERKLEY'S LETTER

OF RESIGNATION OF ST. PETER'S CHURCH, IN THIS CITY.

St. Louis, July 18, 1883.

To the Wardens and Vestry of St. Peter's Church—Dear Brethren: I have for some time had the purpose, when the parish should be free from debt, and certain personal business arranged, that I would give you notice of my retirement from its oversight; which purpose I now fulfill by resigning the Rectorship of St. Peter's church, to take effect the 1st of October next.

I have been in the active duties of the ministry nearly forty-five years, and now desire to rest from the cares and responsibilities of regular parish work.

It is due to you, and to the congregation, in my severance of this connection, that I give expression to the urbanity and kindness which have marked your intercourse with me; not the least disturbance having occurred in the eleven years of my pastorate, to mar the uniform peacefulness of our parish life.

God willing, I shall reside in the vicinity of this city, and will be ready to afford any occasional service that may be required by my friends.

Wishing for you and yours, personally, as well as for each member of the congregation, all blessings of this life and the life to come,

I am, affectionately, your Friend and Pastor,
ED. F. BERKLEY.

A REAL NECESSITY.—We presume there is hardly a lady to be found in our broad land who, if she does not already possess a sewing machine, expects some day to become the owner of one.

But after the mind has been fully made up to purchase one of these indispensable articles, the question arises as to what kind of a machine to buy.

It should be so simply constructed that the most inexperienced can successfully operate it. The other points mainly to be considered, and which are the most desirable, are durability, rapidity, capacity for work, ease of operation, regularity of motion, uniformity of tension, and silence while in operation.

The "Light-Running New Home" fills the above requirements, and is said to combine the good points of all sewing machines, with the addition of many new improvements and labor-saving devices.

The price is no higher than that of other machines, and every lady who is the happy possessor of one may rest assured she has indeed a treasure.

All who send for the company's new illustrated catalogue and enclose their advertisement (printed on another page) will receive a set of fancy advertising novelties, of value to those collecting cards, &c. Their address is, NEW HOME SEWING MACHINE CO., 30 Union Square, New York.

REMINISCENCES OF THE CHURCH AND CHURCH PEOPLE IN ST. LOUIS FROM 1839 TO 1842.

BY MR. F. W. SOUTHACK.

I.

Previous to writing any account of the Church, I will give a slight sketch of the appearance of the city at the time of my arrival in the Spring of 1837.

Its appearance was quite picturesque and somewhat rural, and beautiful forest trees were on every street. The boundaries of the city were very limited, extending from the river west to Seventh street, to the south it extended to Mill Creek, on Second street, the outlet of Chouteau's pond from Seventh street, while to the north it went in a semi-circle direction to Roy's tower on the riverbank. At that time the principal business was transacted on the Levee or Front street, and on Main street, and a few stores were located around the Market square between Main, Market and Walnut streets, and some were on Market street, between Main and Second. A few shops were on Second and Third street north of Market, with a few scattered dwelling-houses as far as Vine street. Some residences were on Main street, but the most settled portion of the city was on Second and Third streets south of Market street, and on the streets leading west from the river to Fourth street. On Chestnut street there was a row of two story brick houses between Main and Second streets, which went by the name of "Quality Row," on account of the respectability of its occupants; there was another row of smaller sized houses on Second street between Chestnut and Pine, which were occupied by the same class of citizens, and also another row on Chestnut between Second and Third streets.

A few shops and houses were scattered along Second and Third streets between Market and St. Charles streets. Vacant lots were on the corners of Third and Chestnut, Olive and Locust streets, as far as Vine street; on Fourth street, vacant lots were on the corners of Chestnut, Pine, Locust, St. Charles and Vine streets, and north of Washington avenue, buildings of every kind were very much scattered, and very few houses were on either side of these streets. The basement of the Planters' House was just building and the ground in the rear to Fifth street was vacant on the whole block. The church edifices at that time were the following: 1st. The Roman Catholic Cathedral built in 1835, on Walnut street near Second; 2d. The First Presbyterian Church on St. Charles and Fourth streets; 3d. The Methodist Church on Fourth street near the corner of Washington avenue; 4th. Episcopal Church on Third, near corner of Chestnut street; 5th. Baptist Church on Third street near Myrtle street; 6th. A small church for colored people on St. Charles street near Ninth street. Beyond the western boundaries of the city on Seventh street, the streets had not been opened, and Lucas Grove extended from Seventh to Twenty-fifth streets, between Market street and Washington avenue.

South of Market street the ground was very much broken into gullies excepting Seventh street, which was the trading thoroughfare to the southern section of the city. North of Washington avenue, as far out as the "Big Mound," there were very few buildings, and towards the west, large tracts of unoccupied land being very much broken.

On Fourth street, between Market and Chestnut streets, stood the Court House in the center of the square; it was a very plain, brick building, two stories in height and contained only two court rooms, and some small adjoining rooms for the clerks and jurymen. The sheriff's office was in a small brick building on the southwest corner of the square. Opposite the Court House on Fifth street, corner of Chestnut, the new edifice for the parish of Christ Church was commenced and the ground on the south of Market street was vacant.

On the corner of Fourth and Olive streets was a one-story stone dwelling with a garden attached, extending to Pine street, and it was nothing uncommon to see corn growing there fully 15 feet high.

The block of ground bounded by Locust and St. St. Charles, Fourth and Fifth streets, was a flat and vacant lot, and subject to be overflowed after heavy rains.

All that vast extent of ground lying west of Seventh street and extending to Grand avenue, was unoccupied excepting a very few locations; a heavy growth of forest trees extended from Tenth to Twenty-fifth streets, and from Market to St. Charles, which was named "Lucas Grove," in the midst of which Judge Lucas had a house located near the site of the present Presbyterian Church on Fourteenth street.

(To be continued.)

—Last year the Chancellor of the Exchequer in England received over a million and a half of dollars as conscience money.

AYER'S Hair Vigor

restores, with the gloss and freshness of youth, faded or gray hair to a natural, rich brown color, or deep black, as may be desired. By its use light or red hair may be darkened, thin hair thickened, and baldness often, though not always, cured.

It checks falling of the hair, and stimulates a weak and sickly growth to vigor. It prevents and cures scurf and dandruff, and heals nearly every disease peculiar to the scalp. As a Ladies' Hair Dressing, the VIGOR is unequalled; it contains neither oil nor dye, renders the hair soft, glossy, and silken in appearance, and imparts a delicate, agreeable, and lasting perfume.

MR. C. P. BRICHER writes from Kirby, O., July 3, 1882: "Last fall my hair commenced falling out, and in a short time I became nearly bald. I used part of a bottle of AYER'S HAIR VIGOR, which stopped the falling of the hair, and started a new growth. I have now a full head of hair growing vigorously, and am convinced that but for the use of your preparation I should have been entirely bald."

J. W. BOWEN, proprietor of the McArthur (Ohio) Enquirer, says: "AYER'S HAIR VIGOR is a most excellent preparation for the hair. I speak of it from my own experience. Its use promotes the growth of new hair, and makes it glossy and soft. The VIGOR is also a sure cure for dandruff. Not within my knowledge has the preparation ever failed to give entire satisfaction."

MR. ANGUS FAIRBAIRN, leader of the celebrated "Fairbairn Family" of Scottish Vocalists, writes from Boston, Mass., Feb. 6, 1880: "Ever since my hair began to give silvery evidence of the change which fleeting time procureth, I have used AYER'S HAIR VIGOR, and so have been able to maintain an appearance of youthfulness—a matter of considerable consequence to ministers, orators, actors, and in fact every one who lives in the eyes of the public."

MRS. O. A. PRESCOTT, writing from 18 Elm St. Charlestown, Mass., April 14, 1882, says: "Two years ago about two-thirds of my hair came off. It thinned very rapidly, and I was fast growing bald. On using AYER'S HAIR VIGOR the falling stopped and a new growth commenced, and in about a month my head was completely covered with short hair. It has continued to grow, and is now as good as before it fell. I regularly used but one bottle of the VIGOR, but now use it occasionally as a dressing."

We have hundreds of similar testimonials to the efficacy of AYER'S HAIR VIGOR. It needs but a trial to convince the most skeptical of its value.

It is interesting to notice, in connection with the effort that is now making in certain quarters to institute an appellate jurisdiction in the Church, above Diocesan courts, that the tendency of the recommendations in the recent report of the Commission on Ecclesiastical Courts in England has been to discourage appeals by making more full and satisfactory the Courts of First Instance. Previously in England the tendency had been to carry cases all up to the highest court; but there is a distinct recedence from this course now proposed. Even when the matter goes to the highest court, it makes no direct decision, but remands the case with direction to the lower court how to decide.

THE DISCHARGING OF THE CONSCIENCE.

There is for those who are well affected to the Church's interests such a significance about the disposition of the estate of the late Judge Ferguson that it may be of use to mention what is already known to many persons. By the will of his father that which was inherited was to take the direction, in case he died intestate, (there were no children, and he was not then married) of certain relatives. He had no children, and, besides the property from his father he had at the time of his death an estate of $50,000 or more, which was also subject to disposal. Mrs. Ferguson died two days before him, during which time he lay in great weakness, and for a portion of the time with wandering thoughts.

The Judge's father had for many years been the Judge of the Probate Court, and most exact in his habits, and this trait he transmitted to his son, who succeeded him in the office. He knew all about the vicissitudes of estates. Several years ago he made his will, leaving all that was disposal to his wife, with doubtless a full understanding on her part as to what his wishes were. His wife also made her will, leaving all to him. They had adopted two children, relatives, who took their name, for whom it was understood that provision had been made. Both the Judge and his wife were sick for a long time before their death.

Some months before his death, when the Judge was spoken to about making more explicit directions as to the children and other matters, he said that he intended to leave to St. John's Church what would erect a parsonage, endow a ward in St. Luke's Hospital, and leave amounts for certain persons who had special claims on him. He had also stated his purpose to expend a considerable amount for the renovation and furnishing of St. John's church, to make it fit for consecration, he had subscribed $1,000 or more to the Permanent Episcopal Fund; besides what was intended for the children. He said, however, that he would not change his will until after his wife's death.

When he died it was found that the children had nothing, and were not eligible for anything, and that he had not given effect to any of his intentions about religious or charitable things. No doubt he had expected that his wife would have survived him, and would carry out his desires; or that, if he survived, he would have time and strength to provide for this contingency. But that occurred for which he had made no provision, his survival for such a short time that he was not able to make any alteration or think of it, and so he died virtually intestate. Of course in this writing there is no idea of imputing blame anywhere. But considering the peculiar exactness of the Judge's habits, the well understood purposes which he had frequently declared, the fact that for years his whole life and thought had turned about the parish, the Diocese, and the Church; that he should still have left the children and other objects without provision or mention is passing strange. If this was possible for him, of whom might it not be possible?

The only thought in this is the great need that in the time of health all the wishes should be expressed, and the alternatives provided for, in order that there may be the least troublesome or vexatious settlement of one's affairs afterward, when one is not here to explain. If there is thought of these things in the waiting life in Paradise, what regret there must have been between the two that the controlling wishes of each had been frustrated, for a reason that might have been controlled. One Churchman at least has said, since this took place, that his arrangements had been precisely similar, but that precaution had been taken since.

Among the duties put upon the minister, by the wisdom of the Church, as towards the sick, is this: "If he hath not before disposed of his goods, let him be admonished to make his will, and to declare his debts, what he oweth, and what is owing unto him, for the better discharging of his conscience and the quietness of his executors. Men should often be put in remembrance to take order for the settling of their temporal estates, whilst they are in health. The minister shall not omit to move such sick persons as are of ability, to be liberal to the poor." Some clergymen have a certain day in the year, the last or first Sunday in the year, when there is a deeper sense of the passing of time, to bring this to the remembrance of this duty. The last clause of the rubric above, taken from the English Prayer Book, refers to a condition of things where the churches and rectories are all built and endowed, and there is little else to do than to remember the poor. If the Judge's purpose concerning the Rectory had been carried out, it would have made good, in part, the loss to the parish caused by the falling away of the larger gifts which he had made. God knew best.

UNION OF JEWISH MISSIONS WITH THE BOARD OF MISSIONS.

Last spring an important movement was initiated by the Church Society for promoting Christianity amongst the Jews, looking to the union of that Society with the Board of Missions. A committee was appointed which conveyed to the Board of Managers of the Domestic and Foreign Missionary Society, June 12th, an expression of desire for closer relations, under the form of an auxiliary. A committee of conference was accordingly appointed by that body to arrange details of an agreement, and report a basis of union. This committee agreed to the terms proposed by the Society, and reported to the stated meeting of the Board, Tuesday, September 11th. At that meeting the following action was taken:

"Resolved, That the Church Society for promoting Christianity amongst the Jews be, and is hereby recognized as an Auxiliary of the Domestic and Foreign Missionary Society, for the carrying on of missionary work among the Jews, on the following terms, viz.: The said Society to retain its corporate organization and the administration of its funds, and binding itself to report its proceedings annually to this Board of Managers for their information and approval, and that three members of this Board shall annually be elected members of the Board of Managers of the Church Society for Promoting Christianity amongst the Jews."

It now only remains for the Church Society for Promoting Christianity amongst the Jews to ratify the action of the committee of conference, which it did, as a matter of course, at the stated meeting of its Board of Managers, 3d inst. The work will continue to rely upon its own funds for support, no charge upon the general treasury being sought, or on either side contemplated. The Society is in all respects in a flourishing condition.

The meeting of the General Convention will thus witness the happy consummation of an event by which a branch of Missions, which has won the confidence of the entire Church, shall be placed alongside of other general missions, under the missionary canon, in recognized union with, and subject to a defined control of the Board of Missions.

PERSONAL.

—When the late Bishop of Iowa was elected, 1854, he was Rector of St. Luke's church, Rochester, in western New York, of which Bishop DeLancey then was the Diocesan. Dr. Lee asked his Bishop's advice as to whether he ought to accept the Bishopric to which he had been chosen. The Bishop thought awhile, and looked at the map of Iowa, then far on the frontier. Suddenly he replied, "Why, of course, you must accept. See, your name is written on the soil of the State;" and he pointed out in the southern part of the State three counties with Dr. Lee's whole name, Henry, and Washington and Lee, all given them.

—During Bishop Whittingham's illness and disability, some years ago, Bishop Johns, of Virginia, took some of his confirmations for him. Among others he visited St. Luke's church, Baltimore, the ritual of which was quite elaborate, and much beyond what the Bishop of Virginia was accustomed, still he amiably endeavored to conform himself so far as he could to the habits of the place. When the Service was over, he laughingly said to the Rector, "Well, how did I do? Did I do pretty well for a militiaman?"

—A consequential wealthy man, with what he thought were good intentions, came to Bishop Hawks sometime before his death, and said that if he would have a church of a certain size and cost built, and a clergyman of ability appointed, he would patronize the parish. "Patronize the Church! Patronize the Church!! It will be well for any of us, poor worms of the dust, if the Lord of the Church will patronize us. We can never patronize Him or His Church."

—Massachusetts claims that if Virginia is the mother of Presidents, she is the mother of Bishops. Of the living Bishops, no less than seven were born within her borders, viz.: Bishops Lee, of Delaware; Williams, of Connecticut; Clark, of Rhode Island; Doane, of Albany; Huntington, of Central New York; Whitaker, of Nevada, and Lyman, of North Carolina. The following have held parochial cures, or have been assistant ministers in this Diocese: Rt. Rev. B. B. Smith, of Kentucky, Presiding Bishop; Potter, of New York; Howe, of Central Pennsylvania; Southgate, formerly of Constantinople, Vail, of Kansas; Perry, of Iowa; Littlejohn, of Long Island; Spalding, of Colorado, and Burgess, of Quincy—nine. Of those who have passed away, Bishops Bass and Parker, of Massachusetts; Wainwright, of New York; Alonzo Potter, of Pennsylvania; Doane, of New Jersey; Hopkins, of Vermont; Lee, of Iowa, and Randall, of Colorado, have held cures in this Diocese—eight. So that twenty-four at least of the House of Bishops, or about one-fifth of the whole number, can be claimed as being, or having been, connected with this little Puritan State.

—Dr. Chevreux, the old and highly respected Roman Catholic Bishop of Boston, sixty years ago, had one family in New London to which he came occasionally to render service, but which had their pew in the Episcopal Church, where they regularly attended. On one occasion he came to New London to pass a Sunday with the family. The rector took occasion to invite him to preach in the St. James in the afternoon. He accepted the invitation, and at the usual hour of service came to the church in the costume of his office, and after reading some English prayers, from the desk, preached a sermon from the pulpit. The Congregational minister invited him to preach for them also, at a later hour. It was a long summer day. The Bishop came again in his robes, and after delivering an extempore prayer, delivered a sermon from the pulpit. Dr. Chevreux went back to France, and was subsequently made Archbishop of Bordeaux.

—The clerical obituary of the month includes the names of the Revs. Wm. L. Mott, of California; Frederick Freeman, D. D., of Massachusetts, and Henry W. Meek, of Nebraska.

—The Rev. George F. Flichtner has been elected Secretary of the Committee on Domestic Missions, New York, in succession to Dr. Twing.

—It is indicated that Dr. Riley will probably resign the Episcopate in Mexico. We only hope that this relief will not have come too late. While no doubt a person of much simplicity of faith, he evidently lacks both learning and also the qualifications for leadership in an especially difficult work and time.

—Christ church, Philadelphia, in which the General Convention is held, was organized in 1695. The present building was erected in 1729, and in 1754 the tower and steeple were building, and the chime of bells cast in London. Benjamin Franklin was a member of its vestry, and is buried in the churchyard. At the first General Convention held there, there were two Bishops and seventeen clergymen present.

DEATHS.

PHILIPS.—Entered into rest at Columbia, Mo., on Friday Sept 7th, 1883, in the 81st year of her age, Maragret Philips, widow of the late Thos. C. Philips.

Mrs. Philips was born in the year 1802, in the county of Wicklow, Ireland. Accompanied by her eldest brother, she came to this country in 1832 and settled in St. Louis, Mo. In 1834 she moved to Columbia, Mo., and resided here up to the period of her death.

From her earliest years she was a member of the Episcopal Church and during her long life reflected the spirit of the Master she served. Her life was an eventful one, burdened with many cares and responsibilities, from these she never shrank, but bore as bravely the misfortunes of life as she had in better days dispensed the charities of a Christian woman. Conscientious in all her acts, firm in all her convictions, kind and affectionate in all the relations of life, she was loved by all who knew her, while her simple ways and upright life have left to us the impress of a noble Christian character.

JOSEPH FRANKLIN, Treasurer.

GENERAL NEWS.

—Bishop Ireland, the Roman Catholic Bishop of Minnesota, says: "Our disgrace and our misfortune in America is the number of Irish saloon-keepers. I blush for the old race whenever I walk along the streets of our cities and read over doorways Irish names prefacing so seldom the words 'Bank,' 'Commission House,' 'Dry Goods Store,' so often the words, 'Saloon,' 'Wines and Liquors,' 'Imported Liquors.' To what base uses noble names have come!"

—The Church Review has added another feature of attraction. It gives in each monthly number a biographic article, with portrait for frontispiece, and an article on the current Church history, for the previous month. Box 1839, New York, $3 a year.

—The local committee in Philadelphia sent out a circular in June last, asking persons in Philadelphia for $10,000, with which to meet the expenses of the coming General Convention. They had raised on the 15th ult. $6,000 of the amount, and asked for the balance.

—The clergy of the Church of England pay an income tax on fifteen million dollars of professional income, while on their private income they pay on forty-five million dollars. That is to say, on an average each clergyman has a private income three times larger than his clerical income, and many of them spend this on their work.

—It is certain that Kentucky will not seek to be divided at the coming General Convention, the conditions which the Diocesan Convention imposed not having been complied with in the older part of the Diocese. It is probable that the proposition from Tennessee will not be in a condition to be pressed. The old parishes in Memphis and Nashville have not rendered enthusiastic support to the measure.

—As was to have been expected the Guardian, without the ruling hand of Dr. Richardson, has gone out, and been absorbed by the omnivorous Churchman, which will fill out its subscription. There really was no occasion for the Guardian.

—In the election of the Rev. Dr. Henry C. Potter as Assistant Bishop of New York, there is the succession of the name in the Episcopate in a way that has never been known in this country before. He is the son of one and the nephew of another Bishop. It marks also the dominance of a more moderate type of Churchmanship, in the great, leading, historic Diocese, which will have its influence upon the Church's policy in the country. The majority of clerical votes in the Convention was not large, but that of the laity was much greater. He is a fine preacher, and a person of rare administrative ability. He has made Grace church, New York, with its immense wealth, which before had been doing little, the centre of multifarious activities. The building has been made beautiful by wealth and rare taste. The income from the Episcopate will be conspicuously less than that which he has received in the Rectorship. The election has far-reaching results, and has much more than Diocesan interest. Bishop Potter intimated his purpose to resign his Episcopate, but in compliance with the urgency of the Standing Committee that he shall not do so, he consented to recall his action.

BOOK NOTICES.

SCIENTIFIC SOPHISMS.—By Samuel Wainwright, D.D. "Prove all things; hold fast that which is good." This rule Dr. Wainwright has followed in presenting a thorough review of the prevailing theories of Natural Science. He has submitted to searching criticism the views of Darwin, Huxley, Tyndall, and others, and has ably shown the fallacies involved in their deductions. Although dealing with difficult scientific problems, the book is written in a clear and simple style. It is well calculated to remove skeptical doubts, and to confirm the old belief that "He that built all things is God."—Published in Funk & Wagnalls' Standard Library, No. 97. Price 25cts.

The NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW for October presents a most attractive table of contents. Senator N. P. Hill writes of "Gold and Silver as Standards of Value" and maintains that silver should be coined as well as gold. In "Some Aspects of Democracy in England," A. V. Dicey makes clear to the American reader how it is that, while all the forms of monarchy and aristocracy persist in Britain, the democracy, or in other words, public opinion, absolutely controls the action of the government. Under the title of "Co-operative Distribution," the Rev. Dr. R. Heber Newton gives an instructive historical sketch of the rise, progress and fluctuations of co operative merchandizing in the United States during the past fifty years. Prof. W. Boyd Dawkins writes of "Early Man in America," whose mode of life and whose implements appear to have been identical with those of the races that contemporaneously inhabited the Mediterranean countries, the Nile basin, and the tropical forests of India. Moncure D. Conway discourses learnedly, and at the same time most entertainingly upon the "Saint Patrick Myth." Van Buren Denslow, in an article on "Board of Trade Morality," makes a vigorous defense of the practices of the Corn Exchange. Frederick Harrison contributes an article, invaluable to the historical student, on "Histories of the French Revolution." Finally the Rev. E. E. Hale presents an inventory of the volume and distribution of "Social Forces in the United States." Published at 30 Lafayette Place, New York, $5.00 a year, 50 cents a number.

The OCTOBER CENTURY.—October brings the concluding number of The Century year, and of the twenty-sixth volume of the magazine. Illustrated articles and critical biographical papers give a popular look to the number. The portrait of Longfellow which accompanies Edmund C. Stedman's admirable essay on the poet, is thought to be one of the best of The Century series of frontispieces.

Richard Grant White's "Old New York and its Houses" is one of the most interesting among the illustrated articles, being a racy criticism of the commercial spirit and building taste of the past twenty years. William H. Rideing's interesting jaunt about London, "In the footsteps of Thackeray," describes and illustrates houses and scenes described in Thackeray's novels.

In the third part of the "Bread-winners," the anonymous novel which is attracting so much attention, there is the novelty of two love scenes, in which the hero is doubly embarrassed by a declaration of love from Maud, and subsequently by the coldness with which Alice receives his own proposal. Mr. Howells brings "A Woman's Reason" to an effective conclusion.

St. NICHOLAS for October, though the last number of the present volume, is by no means the least in respect to the quality of its contents, and opens with a beautiful poem entitled "Summer Changes," which is followed by the second part of Louisa M. Alcott's charming child story, "Little Pyramus and Thisbe."

All big and little people who are fond of pets will read with interest about a big and little pet of which John R. Coryell writes. They are respectively an elephant seal which was once tamed by a sailor, and which was the "Largest Pet in the World," and a Breton "Midget Sheep" so small as to hide behind a bucket.

LIFE IN NATURE, by James Hinton. No. 48 of the "Library of Science." Price 15 cents, post-free. J. Fitzgerald, Publisher, 20 Lafayette Place, New York. A most original, acute, well-expressed, and altogether remarkable book, distinguished not more by originality than by earnestness and eloquence. It is calculated to meet in a certain measure the mental requirements of an important class of readers, namely those whom various modern writers have stimulated into a sense of the mysteriousness of Life, and into a desire for some sort of solution of its multitudinous problems. The author is at once a sincere believer and a bold and profound thinker.

OUR CHRISTMAS IN A PALACE, by Edward Everett Hale. This is a new Christmas story now in press. In it Mr. Hale will tell us of a party of passengers travelling in the far West; each bound probably to the Christmas hearth of some good friend. While en route they become snow-bound in the Rocky Mountains and have to spend their Christmas in a Palace Car. Making the best of their situation, each contributes to the enjoyment of the occasion, bringing from their trunks such entertainment as they have, while the strangeness of the situation and the hilarity of the party dispel every thought of loneliness. We bespeak for the readers of this book an enjoyable feast. The book will be issued in ample time for the "Holiday Season." To be published by Funk & Wagnalls, 10 and 12 Dey Street, New York. 12mo, about 300 pages. Price, cloth, $1.00. Ready Nov. 10.

A POPULAR LIFE OF MARTIN LUTHER. Based upon Kostlin's Life of Luther, as prepared by Prof. W. Rein, Seminary Director at Eisenach, in Germany, translated and edited by the Rev. G. F. Behringer, Brooklyn, N. Y. The memorial celebration of the four hundredth anniversary of Luther's birth is exciting a world-wide interest. Aside from all religious questions, the great Reformer occupies a conspicuous place in history, and as a historical character alone his life is worthy of study. To present an attractive and popular record of the man, which shall at the same time be scholarly and reliable, is the aim of this volume. It retains all that is valuable and interesting in the two volumes (not the condensed work issued in one volume in Germany and announced for publication in this country) of Kostlin's extensive work, omitting abstruse and technical points of purely theological interest, and yet presenting the salient features of its subject in so attractive a manner that the interest never flags. We greatly err if it will not prove the best popular life of the great Reformer ever printed in the English language. It will be printed in Funk & Wagnalls' Standard Library, No. 101. Price 25 cents in paper; Cloth, $1.00. Ready Nov. 2.

The October WIDE AWAKE will have an illustrated article about "The Blind Children's Kindergarten," written by a graduate of the Perkin's Institution for the blind, at South Boston.

The opening chapters of seven series of articles in the third annual course of the Chautauqua Young Folks' Reading Union will be given in the October Wide Awake. Wide Awake is the official organ of the C. Y. F. R. U. In case of Accident, a series of twelve lucid practical talks about emergencies and how to meet them, is by Dr. D. A. Sargent of Harvard College Gymnasium. The third series of Little Biographies will embody the universally desired knowledge of How Success is Won, and will be written by Mrs. Sarah K. Bolton, recently of the Congregationalist editorial staff. Tales of the Pathfinders, by Arthur Gilman, M. A., will give, under the vivid light of to-day, the traditions and romantic history of the earliest Atlantic voyages and New World discoveries and conquests.

The anonymous author of "Their Club and Ours," the story of boy life in Maine, which has caused a genuine sensation among young people, is found to be John Preston True, a youthful writer who is added to the list of those who have been introduced to the public by D. Lothrop & Co.

GENERAL NEWS.

—The Watchman says: "How to get people to church, is a much discussed question in these days. When Mr. Spurgeon was asked how he succeeded so wonderfully in keeping his church full, he replied, 'I fill the pulpit, and let the people fill the pews.' Dr. Chalmers told a part of the secret when he said, 'A house-going preacher makes a church-going people.'" —Of the frequency of divorce in New England, the Interior says that "it probably comes of an over-supply of literary culture and an under-supply of domesticity—they are too literary and too stingy. There is not enough variety among them—too much sameness of novels in the library and of boiled beans in the kitchen. It is not in human nature to stand so much of George Eliot along with so little to eat. Who ever heard of a man getting a divorce from a Pennsylvania girl—one who knows the mystery of fried chicken and waffles? or from an Ohio, Kentucky, or Indiana girl, who understands the true inwardness of hot corn-bread and fresh butter? or from any of their daughters in Missouri, Iowa, or anywhere in the Northwest?"

—There is a great falling off in the number of the students in the Cornell University, at Ithaca, N. Y. This is not to be wondered at. That school has, in taking pains to be non-sectarian, swung so far toward being non-religious, and has, through an influential portion of its faculty, done so much to encourage utter religious unbelief, that parents, knowing the value of religious restraints, if not of religious ideals and aspirations, gravely doubt the safety of sending their boys to such a place.

—In the first temperance address, delivered fifty years ago by Dr. Justin Edwards, the speaker said: "The person who never drinks liquor can never become a drunkard." This is as true now as when spoken, and contains the pitch of the whole matter.

—"I dined at Montagu house last night, and had the pleasure of meeting the bishop of Oxford (Samuel Wilberforce). I was told a funny story about him the other day, viz., that when he was dining with a large party, a poor curate who was deploring the large family he had to educate with a very small income, said: 'Do you know, my lord, I have 19 children?' Upon which a very red-faced woman with a squeaky voice exclaimed, 'Only 14 by me, Mr. Jones!'"—[Reminiscences of Lady Bloomfields.

—After the learned Bishop Blomfield had preached a sermon on the existence of God, an admiring farmer was heard to say: "The Bishop is a main good preacher; but I can't help thinking as how there be a God, after all."

—A telegraph operator was telling of the experiences which had come to him, and he gave this most touching story: A little boy's mother died at Cambridge, O., and to notify their relatives in the former place of the bereavement they wrote down the bewildered talk of the little boy, who could not understand death, and sent it.

"I've just been down in the parlor to see mamma. She's in a long box with flowers on her. I wish she'd come and bathe my head—it aches so. Nobody ever makes it feel good but mamma. She knew how it hurt me, and she used to read to me out of a little book how my head would get well and not ache any more some day. I wish it was some day now. Nobody likes me but mamma. That's 'cause I've got a sick head. Mamma used to take me in her arms and cry. When I asked her what's the matter she would only say: 'I'm only tired, darling.' I guess Aunt Agnes made her tired, for when she came and staid all day mamma would take me up on her lap in the evening and cry awful hard. I ain't had any dinner to day, Mamma always gave me my dinner, and a 'little teenty pudding, with 'D' for 'Danny' on the top. I like 'little puddings with 'D's on top. I like to sit in my little chair by the fire and eat 'em. I wish mamma wouldn't stay in the long box. I guess Aunt Agnes put her there 'cause she put all the flowers on, and shows her to everybody. There ain't any fire in the grate, but I guess I'll sit by it and make believe there is. I'll get my little dish and spoon and play I've got a pudding with 'D, for 'Danny' on it. But anyhow I want mamma so bad."

—A lady, of any age, recently received a new bonnet. Shortly after she was missed, and her absence became so protracted that the family grew anxious, and instituted a search. Finally, she was discovered in her room, sitting quietly with the new bonnet on. Her daughter exclaimed, "Why mother, what are you doing here?" "Go along down," the lady replied, "I am only getting used to this thing, so that I shall not be thinking about it all church time to-morrow."

THE LOST CHILD.

A FATE WORSE THAN ABDUCTION.

How Parents, by a Lack of Precaution and Care, are Responsible for the Death of Their Children.

[Camden, Me., Herald.]

The moral and legal responsibility of parents, in the care of their children is, fortunately, attracting the serious attention of the better portion of the entire country. The many instances of child beating, oppression, and other forms of cruelty which have come to light, demand that something be done; and it is gratifying to know that the people are becoming thoroughly aroused. Whether the cruelty be in the form of physical violence or physical neglect matters not—the principle in both cases is the same. The man or woman who neglects his or her own health may be pardoned, as the consequences fall upon the individual alone; but the parent or guardian who permits the inroads of disease upon the innocent ones dependent upon him for protection, is criminally liable, however, he may appear in the eyes of men. There are, however, parents that intend to care for their children, but, who through carelessness or the urgency of other duties, permit them to become the innocent victims of disease. Such parents may be guiltless of intentional wrong, but the disastrous results upon their children are just as great.

These are truths which must be manifest to every worthy parent and especially in a vicinity where the unknown effects of the atmosphere, the water and the general tendency to malaria are so great. There are many families in this locality who have been called upon to mourn untimely losses, even when the greatest care was exercised; but the experience of one only will be given: It is that of the late W. O. Thomas. The children were all most promising, but for some unexplained reason their health and strength seemed to gradually lessen until their friends feared they were the victims of consumption. One by one, they sickened and died until three had departed and two of the surviving brothers were also taken ill. Their names were Hermon and Edward. Hermon, however, seemed the stronger of the two; and, while his younger brother was confined to the house constantly, and to his bed much of the time, Hermon was able to be about but in so weak a condition that he had no desire to play. Eddie's symptoms were terrible! He found difficulty in retaining food upon his stomach, was restless and irritable, and out of his head frequently. At various times three different physicians visited him; and each one told his friends he could not live. He finally got so low that death was only considered a matter of a few days. At that critical time his elder brothers, aroused almost to the pitch of desperation by the three deaths that had so recently occurred, and the other one staring them in the face, resolved to take the case into their own hands. They accordingly did so, and secured a remedy that was then being universally used, and began giving it to him. Its effect at first was slight, but any improvement was considered a good symptom. By degrees his strength returned; he was able to eat with a relish, then walk about the house; and finally he regained complete health and strength. The boy was so rejoiced over his recovery that, accompanied by the editor of this paper, he went before Justice Charles K. Miller and made oath to the facts of his sickness as above related, and that he was restored to perfect health by the use of Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure. Now, Edward Thomas's parents, while they lived, undoubtedly, provided faithfully for the wants of all their children; and yet the seeds of disease had taken deep root. Their care in one direction had been counteracted by unknown carelessness in another. Their love was sincere, but wholly misdirected. They should have known that children are just as liable to kidney and liver diseases as grown up people; and that the fatality of Bright's disease of the kidneys is just as great among little children as with adults. This is a serious subject. Hereditary traits: the after-consequences of measles and scarlet fever, diphtheria and the passing troubles which so easily become chronic, all demand the greatest care and caution. No case of cholera infantum, measles, scarletina, or diphtheria was ever virulent while the child's kidneys and liver were healthy. It would simply be an impossibility. These important organs of the body are just forming within the child and growing with its growth; and they can be trained to strength and health as readily as the little mind can be trained to truth and uprightness.

The importance of carefully watching the slightest troubles of the child, and especially those affecting the kidneys and liver, cannot be too strongly emphasized. Children respond so readily to the proper remedies and are so sensitive to disease, that it is a sin to deprive them of one at the risk of incurring the other. By a judicious treatment these essential organs can be developed so that a strong constitution, able to resist the inroads of disease through coming years, shall be the result.

OUR NEW AMERICAN LEVER WATCH!

After months of labor and experiment, we have at last brought to perfection A NEW WATCH. It is a Key Winding Watch with the celebrated Anchor Lever Movement, Expansion Balance, Fully Jeweled. They are made of the best material, and in the very best manner, so as to insure good time-keeping qualities. The Cases are made of our Celebrated Composition metal known as Aluminum Gold. This metal has a sufficient amount of gold in the composition to give the watch a genuine gold appearance. Indeed it cannot be told from a genuine Gold Watch except by the best judges, as the metal stands the acid test as well as pure gold. The Cases are finely engraved or engine turned and are massive and strong and very handsome making it just the watch for Railroad men, Mechanics and all laboring men who require a second strong watch and an accurate time-keeper. For trading and speculative purposes, it is superior to any watch ever before offered. They can be sold readily for $15 and $20 each, and traded so as to realize double those amounts. Farmers as well as Agents can handle these watches to advantage, as they can be readily exchanged for stock or goods. We send the watch free by registered mail, on receipt of $8.00. Or we will send it C. O. D. on receipt of $1.00 on balance, the balance to be paid at the express office. We also have very fine Aluminum Gold Chains at $1.00 each. Beautiful Medallion Charms 50 cents. We have hundreds of testimonials, but have room for only two.

Hot Springs, Ark. June 14, 1882.

Send all orders to WORLD MANUF'G CO., 22 Nassau Street, New York.

It is seldom that we meet with an article that so fully corresponds with its advertised good qualities as does the New American Lever Watch. It has the advantage of being made of that precious metal Aluminum Gold; its works are of the best make, and the general style of the case rank it with the best Watches made anywhere. We recommend it to our readers as a Watch that will give entire satisfaction.

THE LEADING MAGAZINE FOR BOYS AND GIRLS.

ST. NICHOLAS,

EDITED BY MRS. MARY MAPES DODGE.

The New York Tribune once said: "In the avalanche of immoral literature that threatens the children, some strong, vitally wholesome, and really attractive magazine is required for them, and St. NICHOLAS has reached a higher platform, and commands for this service wider resources in art and letters, than any of its predecessors or contemporaries." The reference to the wide resources in art and letters commanded by St. NICHOLAS was never more fully illustrated than by the extraordinary list of attractions which that magazine announces for 1884. The following will be some of the leading contributors:

Louisa M. Alcott, J. T. Trowbridge, Captain Mayne Reid, Hjalmar Hjorth Boyesen, Maurice Thompson, Frank R. Stockton, Charles Dudley Warner, Joaquin Miller, Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, Mrs. A. D. T. Whitney, Julian Hawthorne, Celia Thaxter, Mary Mapes Dodge, Lieut. Frederick Schwatka, Rose Hawthorne Lathrop, E. S. Brooks, George W. Cable, Chas. G. Leland, Susan Fenimore Cooper, John G. Whittier, "H. H.," W. O. Stoddard, C. P. Cranch, and scores of other distinguished writers. The best artists and engravers illustrate the magazine.

The price is $3.00 a year, or 25 cents a number. Book-sellers, news dealers, and postmasters receive subscriptions, or remittance may be made direct to the publishers, by money or express order, bank check; draft, or in registered letter.

Offertories will be received at these services for the Theological Education or the Permanent Episcopal Fund, of which notice is requested to be given. The Bishop will be ready to meet the vestry wherever it is desired, and to catechize the children whenever it is possible. He desires that the Holy Communion may be prepared for on Sundays and Festival Days. On week days, unless otherwise arranged, it is desirable that the service shall be at night; any other service which the time will permit may be had. The Bishop will be glad to meet the people socially when they can be conveniently arranged for. He desires that the parish register may be written up, and that he may see it.

THE Bishop is very much obliged by the kind and prompt responses to his request made in the last number of THE NEWS for copies of the February number, and for the Convention Journal asked for. He returns his thanks to all of those who have thus favored him, many of whom have not given their names.

By the death of Judge Ferguson the office of Registrar fell vacant, and by the canons it cannot be filled until the Convention in May. The Bishop was asked to have the books and papers of the late Registrar promptly removed, as the house had been rented. He therefore directed that they should be taken to the Episcopal Residence until some final disposition can be made of them. The room at Christ Church, which has been kindly placed at the disposal of the Diocesan Library, would be the best depository; but it will need more shelf room for the accumulation of books, which the energy of the late Registrar gathered; and some of the records are of considerable value.

THANKSGIVING DAY AND EDUCATION FUND.

Thursday, 29th inst., has been appointed by the President and the Governor as the day for Thanksgiving. The Bishop accordingly recommends that the clergy and the congregations of the Diocese assemble in their respective places of worship, to render to God their tribute of praise for the abounding mercies of His gracious providence.

The Bishop furthermore reminds the Diocese that the offerings, he hopes the generous thank-offerings, for that day are by canon devoted to the Fund for the Education of the Theological Students of the Diocese. The congregations generally are not large, nor the offerings very great on that day. This may seem to militate against the importance of this object. It should not do so. The ability to help during their days of preparation, and while they are thus not able to take care of themselves, those who are consecrating their lives to God's service, should be much greater than it is. The treasury is generally empty, often overdrawn. The amounts should be forwarded to Mr. Joseph Franklin, Treasurer, corner of 6th and Olive, St. Louis.

THE GENERAL CONVENTION.

Allowance must be made for the large space given in our papers of the last few weeks to the business and results of the great national Council which recently adjourned, in Philadelphia. Its spirit and action have received high praise. It was, perhaps, more fully attended than any previous Convention, and its numbers were maintained to the end.

The harmonizing effects, as seen in the last Convention, and in this, of placing the Missionary business at the front, of hearing the stirring reports from the Missionary Bishops, and taking order for the aggressive work of the Church, were very apparent. This gave the key-note to all the business. It would have been almost impossible after this introduction to have fallen to any petty business, or any irritable temper. The excellent addresses given also by the Bishop of Rochester, no doubt also contributed to the same end. Then, too, the vigorous, practical grasp of the Church's recent life was felt in the grouping about the business sessions of the meetings, having in view the promotion of the interests of Temperance, Woman's Work, Sunday-schools, Improvement of Divorce Legislation, Freedom of our Churches, and other kindred objects. All this had a tendency to place first things first. There never was as much impatience of speech making for its own sake.

The main work of the Convention of course was the action on the report on the Enrichment, and making more flexible the Liturgy. There is not space here to make intelligible the results reached. They will soon be made known in a published form. Each House of the Convention sat as a Committee of the Whole, and went thoroughly over the ground; then reported the results reached to the Houses severally, which again went over them. Then the conclusions of one House were reported to the other, and when there was a failure to agree, the difference was referred to a committee of conference, whose report was generally accepted. Generally there was a disposition to stand close to the report of the Commission, the fairness and thoroughness of whose labors had constant praise. The good temper of the discussions, and the candid spirit with which the business was approached, was very largely due in the House of Deputies, to the singular patience, tact and moderation of Dr. Huntington.

Of course any results reached have to go through the ordeal of an approval by the next General Convention, and will have to commend themselves to criticism for the next three years. Any change then made would defer the ratification of that part for three years longer. The House of Bishops, as a smaller body, got through its work on the Prayer-Book soonest, and the results were reached unanimously. The Deputies never did harder work than in going over the whole ground. The final vote, which was next to unanimous in favor, was only reached a few moments before adjournment.

A lesson which comes from this practically unanimous action is that, while the Church is slow to move, it can move, and strongly, and fearlessly, when a sufficient occasion appears. This combination of conservatism, with an intelligent recognition and response to the changed condition of our later American life is already commending, and will more and more commend the Church to many who thought that the Church would not move, however great was the occasion. Of course the project for changing the form of the ratification, which had its preliminary passage three years ago, and which imperfectly and by indirection sought the relief better accomplished by revision, was dropped out of sight.

Three Bishops, Knickerbacker, Potter and Randolph, were consecrated during the Convention; the Rev. W. D. Walker will, no doubt, very soon be consecrated for North Dakota; and the division of the Diocese of North Carolina will induce the election of a new Bishop there. Kentucky finally did not ask for division, and the application of Tennessee was refused.

The constitutional legislation which was begun this year with a view of facilitating the creation of Dioceses out of Missionary jurisdictions, and the election of the Missionary Bishop as the Diocesan, will contribute toward the placing of these dependent portions of the Church in a position of independence and self-help, and allow the Church to take the money thus saved and spend it where little help had before been rendered.

The Convention again pronounced against the policy of having Courts of Appeal, and also against the translation of other than Missionary Bishops.

The action taken in the Deputies of declaring that each Diocese should take care of all the expenses of its Bishop and Deputies will ultimately work many changes. The Bishop of this Diocese was asked by the Chairman of the Committee on fixing the place for the next Convention, whether St. Louis did not want it. The difficulty which has always appeared when he has previously been spoken to on the subject was the concurrence of our great Fair with the week in which Convention meets, and neither can change its time. He replied that we could not afford it, it would cost $10,000, and this would build a church. This was before the action had been had for the Convention to take care of itself. Saratoga was urged by the East, and one clergyman in New York offered to see that one-half of the expense was met.

It was inevitable that a more systematic method of meeting the charges would have to be devised than the present. Chicago takes the Convention on the express understanding that it should not pay the charges. This will operate against so large an attendance of Deputies; and will compel the choice of those who can themselves afford the expense of attending, or will bring the Dioceses sharply up before the question of reducing the size of the deputations, or changing it to a representation proportioned to the size of the Dioceses. Before now the smaller Dioceses were solid against reduction, hereafter the position will be changed, and the larger Dioceses will be opposed to reduction, in order to gain general representation.

The change will also act in favor of the meeting of the Convention in smaller cities, and a more frequent coming to the West. This will tend to give a larger scope to the Church's policy, and a closer appreciation of the conditions which it has to meet in the newer parts.

The hospitality which the Convention received was most kind and abundant. One lady invited two Missionary Bishops and their wives from very distant places to come on, and to be her guests from the time they left home until they returned. The vestry of Holy Trinity church spent several thousand dollars in fitting up the Sunday-school room for the benefit ultimately of the parish, but with immediate reference to the hall for th meetings of the House of Bishops. The lunches together, and, perhaps, the smoke afterward, the only occasion when the members of the two Houses can meet, is an important feature in bringing the measures into agreement.

The Convention by its evident intelligence, and fairness, by the eminent position of many of its members, by the wisdom and utility of the measures which it took, has gained wide recognition and applause the country over, and the memory of it will live long as one of the best in our history.

DIOCESAN ITEMS.

--In the late session of the General Convention in Philadelphia, this Diocese had the following representation on the Standing Committees: the Bishop was a member of the Committee on Canons, on the General Theological Seminary, on Expenses, on the French version of the Prayer-Book, and on many special committees. Dr. Runcie was on the Foreign and Domestic Missions Committee, Dr. Fulton on the Committee on Canons, Mr. Robert on the State of the Church. Mr. Triplett acted as teller in the vote for President. Mr. Carter found it impossible to attend.

--The Rev. Mr. Case, of Springfield, and his wife, were at the General Convention.

--It is pretty generally known that in the nomination of Missionary Bishop of North Dakota, the Rev. Ethelbert Talbot, of this Diocese, was nominated by a Bishop not his own, and warmly supported by several other Bishops. He has had but one work, and has scarcely been away from that, or out of the Diocese, and it might be supposed that his record, familiar to us here, would not have attracted attention. This evidently was not the case, and it is a suggestion of wide application. No good work, which is steadily honored by one's best and loving service, ever goes unheeded or unappreciated. His Bishop bore his testimony to Mr. Talbot, as he had been asked to do so, and told them that he was too good for Dakota, and begged that the Bishops would not take him away from his present work. When he got through several Bishops said, "You have elected him in spite of yourself." He received the second highest vote on all of the three ballots. We cannot be sorry that he stays with us in Missouri.

--The Rev. Mr. Green will enter upon duty at St. John's, in this city, at the beginning of next month. The interval has been made use of for kalsomining the interior of the church, and giving it all a thorough cleaning. The congregation is in good spirits over the prospects before them.

--The Rev. Mr. Waterman has taken charge of St. John's church, Cameron, and gives it services every other Sunday. This is a duty which he has had before, and a church which he almost organized, and where he is thought very much of.

--The Bishop was obliged to decline the invitation of Bishop Clarkson to be present and take part in the consecration of his Cathedral in Omaha, which takes place to-day, on the anniversary of his consecration to the Episcopate.

--Christ church, in this city, has signalized its entrance upon its renovated and greatly beautified building, by organizing itself more thoroughly than ever it has been before, for active parochial work, into which large numbers of the congregation can engage. Its guild has the Rector of course, at its head, and then there are vice-presidents of departments. We do not know the names of all the officers, but among them are Miss W. W. Silvester, Mrs. A. E. Peters, Mrs. Chauncey I. Filley, Mrs. John Wickham, Mrs. C. S. Freeborn and Mrs. Dr. Briggs.

--A reception was recently tendered to Mr. and Mrs. Wilkins, at their residence in Boonville, on their arrival home, on the anniversary of the time when he began his work as Lay Reader in Christ church there. It was a surprise, and doubly pleasant on that account.

--The Rev. Dr. Hartzell, of Mexico, N. Y., and Dean Irvine, of Quincy, Ill., have officiated recently in St. Peter's church, in this city. We have not heard that any call has been extended to the Rectorship.

--St. Paul's church, South St. Louis, is being very greatly changed and improved in its internal and external appearance and comfort. The changes will involve the expenditure of $1,200. The Rector, the Rev. Mr. DeForest, we are sorry to say, is not at all well.

--The new St. Paul's church, Mexico, which is of brick, and replaces the former one of wood, and is of the same size, is now very nearly completed.

--The Standing Committee have recommended Rev. Wm. James Speirs for ordination to the Priesthood.

--The Rev. John Portmess, of Texas, is in the city for a week or two, on a visit to his daughter.

--The address delivered by the Bishop in the summer before the Missouri Historical Society or Historical Societies, in their relation to Local Historical Interest, has been published in pamphlet form.

--The Rev. Geo. C. Betts is on a visit to New York City.

--They are introducing steam, as a means of heating, into Trinity church, Hannibal. There was always difficulty in keeping the building comfortable during the winter.

--The second Sunday in November, 11th inst., was the day on which the Bishop asked the congregations to devote their offerings to the amount required to make good the damage done to the building of St. James Academy, Macon, which was injured by the cyclone in the summer. If any clergyman overlooked the matter at the time, they should use the first opportunity to state the case, and make a collection, and send the amount to the Rev. Mr. Talbot, who will acknowledge the sums received.

--Mrs. Lindell, who generously gave the $10,000 for the erection of the Chapel of St. Luke's Hospital, has now kindly added the further amount found by the estimates to be required for the completion of the building. The contracts have not yet been let. The building is to be on the northern line of the property, facing Twentieth street.

--The leasehold of Trinity church property, in this city, is being again offered for sale, with a renewed purpose on the part of the vestry, to remove west, in the city.

--The Bishop, in Christ church, on the morning of the 11th, presented the matter of Christian education, with especial reference to the offertory which had been asked for, for St. James Academy, Macon; and at night made an address on the General Convention, and confirmed eight persons in Grace church.

--The Rev. Robert Talbot has resigned the rectorship of St. Jude's church, Monroe city, in order to accept the rectorship of the new parish of Trinity church, Kansas City. He enters upon his new duties on the first of next month.

--The Rev. Geo. C. Betts has been mentioned in connection with the vacancy in St. Ignatius church, New York City, caused by the death of Dr. Ewer.

--The guns for the cadets of St. James Academy, Macon, have arrived.

--The Governor of the State has recommended that all clocks and watches be changed on the 18th inst., at noon, to the standard of time adopted on the railroads, numbering the hours from one to twenty-four, and with a standard for the State, which is about the same as the mean solar time of St. Louis. Hereafter all trains will be run on this.

BISHOP POTTER.

The consecration of the Rev. H. C. Potter, as Assistant Bishop of New York, in Grace church, was a service of singular interest. Whatever differences there had been before, all parties seemed to acquiesce in the result most heartily. The day was rainy, but this did not prevent the attendance of a vast congregation, which more than filled the building. There were about 40 Bishops and 400 other clergymen in their vestments, who came in at the west door in procession. The details had been thoroughly arranged. Bishop Williams, in his sermon rose to the significance of the great occasion, and his words had weight and tenderness. The music was very fine, without being conspicuously ornate. At the moment required, the aged presiding Bishop was conducted, almost borne, to his chair, and, with him, a number of other Bishops performed the consecration. Bishop Smith is the last survivor of those on whom Bishop White laid hands, and this is probably the last consecration in which he will take part. The service took three hours. There was deep tenderness on the part of the Bishop-elect and the people evident, in the severance of the ties which for seventeen years had bound them.

The House of Bishops was invited to be the guests of Grace church, from the time they left Philadelphia until they returned to it. They were met in New York, after leaving the drawing-room coaches, by members of the vestry and taken in carriages to the Fifth Avenue hotel, where separate rooms and a parlor for all were in readiness. The next day they were taken to the church, and after service found a luncheon prepared for all the clergymen, and then carriages ready to take them either back to the hotel, or to the train on which to return to Philadelphia.

RESOLUTIONS

Passed by the Vestry of St. Peter's Church, St. Louis on accepting the resignation of the Rev. Dr. Berkley.

At a meeting of the Vestry of the Parish, held on Monday evening the Sixth of August, Eighteen Hundred and Eighty-three, a committee consisting of Mr. Charles R. Blake, James L. Benson, and J. Percival Smith, was appointed to prepare suitable resolutions in regard to the resignation of the Rector.

They submitted the following, which were unanimously adopted.

WHEREAS, a communication has been received from the Rev. Edward F. Berkley, D. D. tendering his resignation as Rector of St. Peter's Church, it is hereby

Resolved, That in accepting the resignation, the Wardens and Vestrymen in behalf of themselves and the Parishioners, while they recognize and appreciate the force of the motives which have induced our Beloved Rector to take this course, desire to express the universal regret existing in the Parish at the severance of the connection which has continued so amicably, and we trust spiritually beneficial, for the period of eleven years.

That we shall always with pleasure and gratitude, recall his constant and unwearied zeal in, and steadfast adherence to the Faith of the Protestant Episcopal Church, its Order and Worship; not forgetting the unwavering fidelity and devotion with which he remained at the post of duty, visiting the sick, and performing the last sad rites to the dead, irrespective of religious denominations, during the terrible ordeal of Cholera Epidemics, in former years.

That, in departing from us, he may confidently bear with him the assurance that the love, esteem and personal attachment of those who have enjoyed his Ministry, and shared his confidence, not only as the Rector of St. Peter's, but for years previous to that period, will not be diminished by the separation.

That, we earnestly hope wherever the Almighty may cast his lot, the evening of his life may be cheered by pleasant recollections only, of the past, and brightened by the blessed hope of that glorious immortality promised to those who have faithfully followed the Cross, and valiantly fought the good fight.

That, we hereby express our high regard for himself and his family, and trust they may continue to add to the number of those sincere friends who will always remember them with esteem and love.

That a copy of these resolutions be suitably engrossed and presented to the Rev. Dr. Berkley.

The most complete measure of the progress of the Church, for the period from 1832 to 1883, is the increase in the number of communicants; but the immediate comparison of one triennial report with the preceding one is not practicable, because of the incompleteness of the returns in some cases. By grouping the triennial periods, however, we find that the ratio of increase becomes clear, and that for the entire period of fifty years it averages 20 per centum upon each triennial report, the successive reports being so much greater in each case; and for the whole period from 1832 to 1883, the increase is more than tenfold in the number of communicants.

During the fifty years from 1832 to 1883 the growth of the Episcopal Church, as shown by the preceding Tabular Statements, has been such as to more than double the number of Dioceses, 18 to 48; to increase the number of parishes in a large ratio, but less distinctly defined; to increase the number of clergy fivefold, 592 to 3572, and the number of communicants more than tenfold, 30,50,939 to 372,484; also the number of baptisms in nearly the same proportion.

For the more complete statistics of the more recent part of this period, the number of Missionary Jurisdictions shows a gain of one hundred per cent since 1871; the number of Missions the like gain; and the offerings a gain of one hundred per cent in the short period from 1868 to 1880. The increase in the number of Communicants is very striking, but the progress in resources, as shown by the increase in offerings is still more remarkable.

GENERAL COMPARISON.

Date.	No. of Dioceses.	No. of Clergy.	No. of Communicants.	Population.
1790	7	190	...	8,929,214
1800	8	210 inc. 10 p. ct.	11,978	5,308,488

1880	48	3482 " 21 "	344,789 " 56 "	50,152,366

The ratio of increase for the longer series, shown in the previous tables, has exhibited an average gain in the number of communicants of 20 per cent for each triennial period, while the ratio of gain in population for the whole country is much less, and not more than 10 to 12 per cent for the same period.

Music Everywhere.

That wonderful musical instrument, the ORGANETTA is advertised in this issue by Massachusetts Organ Co., 57 Washington St., Boston, Mass. It is the ideal home instrument. You can dance to it; you can sing to it; a mere child can play it; it inculcates a love of music in old and young, and develops and cultivates the ear. The music is perfectly accurate, and the wonderful ORGANETTA will play any tune. At the price, $3.50, it is within the reach of all.

for $3.50.

A MUSICAL INSTRUMENT that will play any tune, and that any one, even a child, can operate.

The Organetta has gained such a world-wide reputation, that a lengthy description of it is not necessary. It will be sufficient to say that it is a PERFECT ORGAN that plays mechanically all the sacred airs, popular music, songs, dances, etc. It consists of three strong bellows and set of reeds with EXPRESSION box and SWELL. A strip of perforated paper represents the tune, and it is only necessary to place the paper in the instrument, as shown in the picture, and turn the handle, which both operates the bellows and projects the paper tune. The perforations in the paper allow the right reeds to sound and it is perfect tune in the result, perfect in time, execution, and effect, without the least knowledge of music being required of the performer: even a little child can operate it, as is shown in the picture, a little girl is playing a song and her playmates are singing the words. It is the best suited for the human voice to sing by. It interests and entertains both old and young, assists in training the voice and AFFORMS GOUBS OF SOCIAL AMUSEMENT. The Organetta is perfectly represented by the picture. It is made of solid black walnut, decorated in gilt, and is both handsome and ornamental. The price of similar instruments has hitherto been $8, and the demand has constantly increased until now there are over 50,000 in use. We are encouraged to place the Organetta on the market at this greatly reduced price, believing that the sale will warrant the reduction. The Organetta though similar in construction is an improvement upon our well-known Organette, which sells for $5 and $10. It contains the same number of reeds and plays the same tunes. Our offer is this: On receipt of $2.75 we will send the Organetta by express to any address, and include FREE $2.50 worth of music, or on receipt of $5 we will send it with over $1.50 worth of music FREE, or for $3.50 we will send a selection of music. The price includes boxing and packing. These are agreed prices, and we will appoint the first purchaser from any town our agent, if he so desires. Address: The Massachusetts Organ Co., 57 Washington Street, Boston, Mass., U. S. A.

AN ORCHESTRA IN EVERY HOME.

GENERAL NEWS.

—A citizen of Camden county, in this State, in remarking, recently, that the counties have the privilege, if they choose, of prohibiting the manufacture and sale of liquor within their limits, if they choose, said that his county had for a long time done this, and the result was that there had not been a single inmate of the county jail for five years.

—The editor of the Diocesan Chronicle, of Pittsburg, after a year's experience has relinquished his work, saying that he does so with few regrets, as it has involved him in considerable personal loss, and taught him some things of which he would rather have remained in ignorance.

—It is positively stated that a gentleman in Chicago, who does not care to have his name known, has offered Bishop McLaren a block of ground on the boulevard there, for a college or theological seminary for the Church, with a pledge that if he associates three Bishops with him, and he incorporates an institution, he will give on the 1st of May next $100,000 in cash, a part or the whole of which can be used in buildings, and that he will then begin the payment of the interest on another $100,000 for its maintenance, the principal of which he will pay on the 1st of May, 1885.

—The consecration of Bishop Knickerbacker took place in St. Mark's church, Philadelphia, on Sunday, 14th ult. Bishop Coxe acted as consecrator, and Bishop Whipple preached the sermon, and Bishops Robertson, Lyman, Scarborough, Niles and Seymour took part. The service was very beautiful, and the church was thronged to its utmost. There was a choir of fifty men and boys.

—The Pastoral Letter was largely composed by Bishop Huntington, and it has a style familiar to those who are acquainted with the writings of this genial and elegant writer.

—The missionary jurisdiction of Niobrara, which only included the care of a few Indians, has been enlarged to include the southern part of Dakota. The clergyman elected for the northern portion of Dakota, the Rev. W. D. Walker, was for twenty one years, ever since he was ordained deacon, Assistant Minister in charge of Calvary Chapel, New York City, which has grown to be a large work, numbering nearly 500 communicants. He was a classmate of Bishop Robertson, which class already includes three Bishops. He is unmarried, and has quite a property of his own, part of which has been left to him, and part accumulated by prudence.

—The local committee of arrangements of Philadelphia took the greatest pains to make the stay of the members of the General Convention pleasant. There were many invitations to excursions, the most of which the Convention could not accept for want of time.

—The Bishop of Western New York has recently ordained as Deacon Mr. C. P. Lee, a wealthy banker of Buffalo, who has for seven years past driven to an outlying town to read the service. Feeling that he could better perform his labor of love if ordained, he asked for ordination to the perpetual diaconate. The significance of the incident lies in the fact that Mr. Lee does not give up his business, nor is he authorized to preach. He is simply a Christian layman licensed to perform certain clerical functions, but neither asked nor expected to withdraw from the world.

—Mrs. Twing's long connection with and usefulness to the Domestic Missionary Committee were recognized by appointing her as Associate Secretary, in order to extend the work of the Women's Auxiliary, which in twelve years has raised nearly a million and a quarter of dollars for our missionary work.

—The railroad managers have adopted uniform standards of time for all roads east of the Rocky Mountains. The territory has been divided into three grand divisions, in which railroad time will be, say, noon in the eastern division, 11 o'clock in the central, and 10 o'clock in the western, without variation or exception.

—The Pastoral Letter was too long to be read in its entirety to any congregation. It would take over an hour. It was also too labored and obscure in its construction for most of our congregations. Rather than compel each clergyman to cut out as he can or pleases, it would have been better to have made its length conform to our modern habits of speech. The hour-glass in the Savoy Chapel, in London, which marks the normal length of a sermon, has been reduced nearly one-half within the last two hundred years. Reference should be had also to the need for terse Anglo-Saxon phrase. The wide-spread publicity which the enterprise of our American newspapers give to such a production takes away much of the interest of the reading of it in many of our congregations.

—The Chairman of the Committee of the Whole of the House of Deputies, in the consideration of the Liturgical Enrichment Commission Report, Judge Sheffey, of Virginia, made an admirable presiding officer, and brought out the contrast with Dr. Beardsley, whose voice and eyes are defective, and whose decisions are not rapid. It is quite likely that Dr. Beardsley will not again be elected as President, and it would not be strange if Judge Sheffey should be elected. Copies of the Churchman, Living Church, Standard of the Cross, and the Episcopal Register were freely distributed each week among the members of the General Convention.

—There was no increase made in the number of Domestic Missionary Bishops this year. Bishop Clarkson retires from his position as Missionary Bishop, and gives up Dakota. This is divided into two parts by an east and west line. The southern portion, called south Dakota, is placed under the care of Bishop Hare, of Niobrara, which is now abolished, and the northern portion was given to a bishop elected for it.

—A parsonage and guild hall are shortly to be built for St. Thomas church, for colored people in Chicago, by Dr. Wheeler, who gave $10,000 for the erection of the church.

—Some clergymen, especially in Illinois and Wisconsin, met recently in Springfield, Ill., and organized "The Western Clerical Union," for the mutual edification of its members, the extension of the principles of the Church, and co-operation in pastoral work, and especially in the promotion of "Missions and Retreats."

—Monsignor C pel assured his hearers in his lectures that, numerically, the Roman Church was probably not stronger to-day in England than at the beginning of the century.

—Racine College has a larger Freshman class this year than it has had for a number of years, and its prospects have never been brighter.

—The name of the Diocese of Illinois has been changed to that of the Diocese of Chicago.

—Bishop Wingfield stated in an address in Philadelphia, that one of our churches in San Francisco, whose congregation represented $100,000,000, had been mortgaged for $9,000, and was likely to fall into the hands of the Chinese.

—It is stated that Bishop Henry Potter has been offered two million dollars for the Cathedral in New York City. The offertory at his consecration, without any special announcement of object, amounted to $6,000.

—The Convention of the new Diocese in North Carolina, which will be the eastern part, has been called for the 18th prox.

—A very important action was taken by the House of Bishops, being an innovation on its previous practice, was the election of a Chairman of the House. Bishop Williams, of Connecticut, who is to be the assessor of the Presiding Bishop, in the presidency of the House, and who is to appoint the Committees. He is to be elected at each General Convention, and hold office from the close of each session, and render to the Presiding Bishop any assistance he may be called on for.

THE USUAL RESULT.—It is not to be denied that a good sewing machine is one of the most important appurtenances of the modern household.

We thought we had a good machine until one day the agent of the New Home presented himself at our door and proceeded to deliver an oration upon its characteristic merits.

"But," we answered, "our machine suits us well and we do not care for another."

The agent, however, begged the privilege of leaving one of his machines with us, "for the ladies to try."

The request was not unreasonable, so we granted it—but more to oblige the agent than anything else; for we really did not want the machine, and had not the remotest idea of buying it.

The machine once in the house, it was natural that the ladies should look it over; they did so, and as a consequence fell in love with it. They say that without the slightest wish to decry or disparage any other machine, this, all things considered, is, in their opinion, the most desirable one to be had.

This unrivalled machine is manufactured by the NEW HOME SEWING MACHINE CO., 30 Union Square, New York, who with us to say that all who will send for their new illustrated catalogue and enclose their advertisement (printed on another page), will receive a set of fancy advertising novelties, of value to those collecting cards, &c.

W. H. MOORE.

Durham, Ia., March 2, 1882.

"Eight years ago I had an attack of Rheumatism so severe that I could not move from the bed, or dress, without help. I tried several remedies without much if any relief, until I took AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, by the use of two bottles of which I was completely cured. I have not been troubled with the Rheumatism since. Have sold large quantities of your SARSAPARILLA, and it still retains its wonderful popularity. The many notable cures it has effected in this vicinity convince me that it is the best blood medicine ever offered to the public."
E. F. HARRIS.

River St., Buckland, Mass., May 13, 1882.

"Last March I was so weak from general debility that I could not walk without help. Following the advice of a friend, I commenced taking AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, and before I had used three bottles I felt as well as I ever did in my life. I have been at work now for two months, and think your SARSAPARILLA the greatest blood medicine in the world."

REMINISCENCES OF THE CHURCH AND CHURCH PEOPLE IN ST.

LOUIS FROM 1839 TO 1842.

BY MR. F. W. SOUTHACK.

II.

West of Seventh street and south of Spruce street was the great beauty spot of St. Louis, known as "Chouteau's Mill Pond" or "Chouteau's Lake," which was very much admired by the citizens and all strangers. It covered a large extent of ground between Eighth street on the east, Market street on the north, and Twentieth street on the west, while to the south it bathed the high grounds a little to the north of Gratiot street and Chouteau avenue. Clark avenue at that time was not opened across the pond, but the waters extended north to Market street, and sometimes overflowed that street between Ninth and Tenth streets.

The handsome residence of Henry Chouteau was located between Eleventh and Twelfth streets, on the site of the present Jail and Four Courts, and his beautiful gardens projecting into the lake as far to the south as the track of the Pacific railroad; this pond or lake was fed by seventeen living streams and drained eleven square miles of ground. Mr. August Chouteau constructed a flour-mill on the extreme eastern boundary of this pond, on a line with Eighth street, which he kept in operation until about the year 1850.

The population of the city in 1837, was estimated to be about 16,000.

The parish of Christ Church was worshipping in a small, brick building located on Third street near the corner of Chestnut; it was erected in 1829, and consecrated by Rt. Rev. Bishop Smith, of Ky., in 1834. There was no good style of architecture about the building inside or out; it looked more like an academy than a church. It stood a few feet above the level of the street, on a lot twenty feet back from the sidewalk; it had no vestibule, but instead there was a porch which protected the two doors of the building. In one corner of this porch, and under the stairs leading to the organ gallery, was a kind of closet, and used by the rector as his robing room. In those days the clergy changed the surplice to the black gown before preaching, and to do this he had to walk from the chancel down the whole length of the building to the robing closet and return the same way. The pulpit and the reading desk were placed at the west end of the building, opposite the entrance, and an ordinary table was placed in front of the desk for Communion Service.

The Rt. Rev. Bishop Kemper who was consecrated in 1835, as the Missionary Bishop of the Northwest, comprising the States of Indiana and Missouri, and afterward the Territories of Iowa, Minnesota and Wisconsin, was acting as Rector and the Rev. P. R. Minard, as his assistant. A Sunday-school had been organized, and Mr. J. Parker Doan was the Superintendent. The average attendance of the children was 60 to 70; of those who were among the members of the Parish in 1837, and who are now living, I remember only the following persons: Mrs. D. Hough, and her son, Mr. Henry W. Hough; Mrs. Edward Charless, now Mrs. Dr. H. L. Hoffman; Mrs. Brolaski and Miss Jane Peck. Mr. Minard had a wife and one child, a daughter, who is now the present estimable Sister Catherine, head of the Sisterhood in St. Louis.

Mr. Minard's personal appearance was quite pleasing. He had a mild countenance, fair complexion, without beard or whiskers, sandy colored hair, and was quite tall. His manners were very agreeable, and he was much liked by the people generally. He was an excellent reader of the Liturgy, of devoted piety, and an earnest worker in the Lord's vineyard.

An excellent likeness of him is now in possession of a lady residing in San Francisco, who, in her early years, was a member of St. Paul's Parish.

Bishop Kemper was a man in middle life, of a medium size, strong and active, quick in motion and speech, a clear and strong voice, very nervous temperament, decided opinion, earnest, agreeable conversational powers, conservative in his Churchmanship, very zealous in the Missionary work to which he was appointed, a faithful preacher of the Gospel, of good executive ability, and a man every way qualified to discharge the duties of a Missionary Bishop.

During the term of his Bishopric in Missouri, he made his headquarters at my store, on Main street, where he established a Depository of Bibles, Prayer Books and Tracts, and whenever he sent an order for distribution to the Missionaries under his charge, I attended to the packing and transportation of the same. I had considerable intercourse with the Bishop, and esteemed him very highly. I have in my possession some of his letters, written in 1839 and 1844. He was a widower, with two sons and a daughter; the latter married Rev. Mr. Adams, of Nashotah, and one of his sons became a Professor in the Institution at that place.

The year of my arrival in St. Louis, 1837, the Vestry of Christ church commenced the erection of a new edifice on the southwest corner of 5th and Chestnut, and in the month of March, 1838, the basement was so far completed as to allow the congregation to hold services in it, and which they occupied until the building was entirely finished, which event took place the following year, and on the 17th day of February, 1839, it was duly consecrated by Rt. Rev. J. Kemper, assisted in the services by the following clergymen, viz: Rev. P. R. Minard, Assistant Minister of Christ church; Rev. Mr. Dresser, of Springfield, Ill.; Rev. Mr. Darrow, of Collinsville, Ill., and Rev. Mr. Hamman, Professor in Kemper College, St. Louis county.

HALL'S Vegetable Sicilian
HAIR RENEWER

was the first preparation perfectly adapted to cure diseases of the scalp, and the first successful restorer of faded or gray hair to its natural color, growth, and youthful beauty. It has had many imitators, but none have so fully met all the requirements needful for the proper treatment of the hair and scalp. HALL'S HAIR RENEWER has steadily grown in favor, and spread its fame and usefulness to every quarter of the globe. Its unparalleled success can be attributed to but one cause: the entire fulfillment of its promises.

The proprietors have often been surprised at the receipt of orders from remote countries, where they had never made an effort for its introduction.

The use for a short time of HALL'S HAIR RENEWER wonderfully improves the personal appearance. It cleanses the scalp from all impurities, cures all humors, fever, and dryness, and thus prevents baldness. It stimulates the weakened glands, and enables them to push forward a new and vigorous growth. The effects of this article are not transient, like those of alcoholic preparations, but remain a long time, which makes its use a matter of economy.

If your minister lacks "magnetism," by all means get rid of him. He may be good as gold, a faithful Pastor, a fine scholar, and true friend; but in these modern times we must have magnetism. A simple, plain preacher, who preaches the fresh milk of the Gospel, is not at all suited to our wants. We must have a man of the condensed milk sort. He must be the personification of a whirlwind, a man who tears everything up by the roots and makes you wonder what he will do next; a man who will draw from all neighboring Churches, and so increase your pew rentals that you can afford to have a quartet, with a soprano who lives on the high C's, and a bass profundo whose lowest notes come from sepulchral depths—a man who can write rhetorically and twist himself into all sorts of logical contortions, until you find it impossible to tell whether he is exactly orthodox or not, or whether he is anything or not. By all means, in these days of electric light and bearded woman, let the religious world keep up the general reputation and turn out nothing but men of immense magnetism, and men who will promise never to grow old, from their theological seminaries.

The Marvellous Singing Doll.

This charming novelty is advertised in this issue by Massachusetts Organ Co., 57 Washington St., Boston, Mass. and certainly nothing will appeal more quickly to the children than a Doll that will sing a song. The price is very reasonable, the Doll is a beautiful affair, and the ingenious singing attachment will delight the young and amuse the old. The little girl who finds a Weber Doll "in her stocking" at Christmas time will be the envy of all.

Dear Sir: The beautiful Singing Doll came safely, and far exceeded my expectation of what a Singing Doll could be. Our little folk were charmed with its beauty, but when it sang, their delight was unbounded. It will be to them a thing of beauty and a constant joy.

Sincerely yours,

Medford, Mass., Aug. 13, 1883. Rev. J. B. ABBOT.

RESOLVED, That it be made the duty of the several rectors and missionaries of the Diocese to extend to the utmost of their power the circulation of the Diocesan paper, the CHURCH NEWS.

We hear of a large deficiency in the pledges for the current expenses of St. Luke's Hospital, and we do not hear of any systematic effort being made by parish societies, or solicitor appointed by the Trustees to collect the amount all the time needed for carrying on the work. When this is allowed to accumulate, it is, of course, notoriously hard to collect up deficiencies. The issuing of the pamphlet giving facts about the Hospital should have been instantly followed up by the energetic soliciting of subscriptions. The Trustees being active business men cannot give the time that they desire, and yet the Hospital cannot take care of itself. We have not heard that the elevator was finished yet. It remains, we fear, where it was, and many useless steps are being taken.

MEXICO.

The situation of the Church of Jesus, in Mexico, under the care of Bishop Riley, as reported by the Mexican Commission of Bishops, was not at all satisfactory. The concordat, by which the Episcopate was secured, had not been fulfilled by the adoption of a liturgy, as had been promised, which would secure the due administration of the sacraments. Irregular means had been used in ousting clergymen who had opposed the designs of Bishop Riley. The means so largely given had been most wastefully used.

The explanations asked for, and the investigations made on the spot being entirely unsatisfactory, and the Bishop declining to appear and thus give personal explanations, and there being an entire lack of confidence in the administration, Bishop Riley was asked to resign, and it is understood that he has relinquished the charge of the work.

This action of the Commission, having been approved by the House of Bishops, was reported to the Board of Missions, which took no action, and left the matter where it was, in the hands of the Mexican Commission of Bishops. No further aid will be extended, while matters remain as they are, except that which may specially be contributed for the object. Bishops Whipple, Dudley and McLaren were commissioned by the House of Bishops to go to Mexico, and endeavor to secure a settlement of all the disturbing matters. After they have reported the result of their visit, the Commission will be in a better position to advise what the Church's further policy should be.

SECURITY OF CHURCH PROPERTY.

Among the other matters of legislation at the late General Convention, of which it may be possible to speak later, was the careful report of the Commission, appointed in 1877, and which having reported, was continued, with the addition of some gentlemen learned in the law, in 1880. It was very full, and had evidently been drawn up by those who were interested in the securing to the Church of what was being given and devised to it, and at the same time were acquainted with the laws by which alone such desire could be made effectual. It stated the dangers which were attending the tenure of much of the Church property, and the limits to the securing of relief and safety for this which could possibly be had in the merely moral restraints of canon law. It recommended, however, greater clearness and stringency in this direction.

It stated that the only adequate relief could come from the clear statement of the trusts under which the property was given or bought, and the creation of bodies, clear from the uncertainties in the annual election of vestries, to hold the property. It inclined to favor Diocesan rather than Parochial trust bodies, as being more permanent, and gave suggestions as to how these could best be organized.

The Commission reported resolutions to make effective their recommendations, and was continued, in order to carry out still further the important purpose of guarding the Church's property, so far as possible, from wastage and loss, and rendering larger guarantees of permanence for those who are proposing to make benefactions to the Church.

The danger is one which appears in every Diocese, and the Church has aroused itself none too soon to the intelligent meeting of the need.

AFTER ALL.

Much attention has been paid by writers and speakers lately to actions and speeches in the General Convention recently held in Philadelphia, and also before to the doings of the Convention of the Diocese. Such bodies are indispensable for the efficient working of bodies so large as the Diocese or the General Church. They do not meet too frequently, nor do they probably have a larger element of speech in them than is required for the digestion of right and wise action.

Still an impression is likely to prevail that we locate much of our solicitude about the Church's progress in the size and spirit of the Convention, and that we condition the growth of the Church upon what is done in the Convention. In the more sober hours, however, after we have done reading the reports, after the deputies have returned to their parishes and homes, we are compelled to take a more sober view of the possible good and results of any Convention. Then we see that the resolutions and canons passed are but the mechanism by which the spiritual life of the Church in minister and people shall be the better carried out. The Convention is a tide mark, by which we can measure the rise or fall of religious energy. Its actions are useful, as they make practicable and give wise direction to those impulses which God's Good Spirit has impressed upon His people.

But, after all, be the Convention never so large or so hearty,—and we have reason to thank God devoutly for His manifestations in this regard latterly,—we have to come back to the daily work of minister and people for the real and effective and larger evidences of God's presence, and for the making real in personal, and family, and social life the benign effects of Christ's love. The Convention can at best touch but few. The attendance at the Church of God, the devout reception of its privileges: the simple and earnest setting forth of a Father's love, of our Redeemer's grace, and of the Blessed Spirit's comfort and power; the putting into effect of these influences received; the visiting from house to house and bringing the general message to bear on the individual's life; the ministrations of charity and kindness:—let it never be forgotten that in all these mainly consists the power of the Church for good. The average spiritual life of the parish is a better test of health than the results of a Convention. The individual appropriation of God's message, and the personal purpose and consecration of life and influence, will do more of good than can be possibly done by any Convention, however wise and strong it may be.

CHILDREN'S COT.

ST. LUKE'S HOSPITAL.

For several years an effort has been making to raise $3,000 from the children and those who are interested in them, for the perpetual endowment for a cot and a room for a child at our Hospital, where a child not able to be otherwise provided for may be kindly taken care of when sick or undergoing treatment. By little and little we have gone on so far. Gifts are urgently asked for this purpose, and will be credited in THE NEWS. They may be sent to the Bishop, 2727 Chestnut street, St. Louis.

PERSONAL.

—Bishop H. C. Potter recently gave a clear delineation of the character of Bishop Whipple, whom he greatly admires, by saying that he was nine tenths St. John, and one tenth Albany Regency. Bishop Whipple in his earlier days was interested in New York politics.

—No choice of rector of Grace church, New York, has been announced, but there is a general impression that the Rev. Dr. Huntington combines in himself the qualities most needed for the difficult and important position.

—The Bishop's visit East fortunately occurred with the celebration, on the 3d inst., of the golden wedding of his parents, at the old family place, Locustwood, near Peekskill, on the Hudson. Seven of the nine children were present, and with the grandchildren, made a company of twenty-five of kin. One of the attendants of the wedding fifty years ago, was present, and the other was detained away at the last moment. The Bishop officiated the next day at St. Peter's church, Peekskill, and started the day following for St. Louis.

—Father Hyacinthe is in this country, and will lecture this winter. He did not receive the recognition from the General Convention that he did three years ago.

—Immediately after the Convention closed, the Bishop went on to Richmond, Virginia, and made a visit of three days with our former Presbyter in this Diocese, and his old friend, the Rev. Dr. Armstrong, Rector of the Monumental church, of which he has been in charge for nearly six years, and where he is much beloved. The Bishop officiated on the 28th ult. at the Monumental and St. Paul churches, and had a delightful visit.

—Bishop Perry, the editor of the Centennial History of the Church, recently sent to the publisher 1200 pages of MSS., for the first volume. The two volumes will appear together, but not for several months.

—The clerical obituary of the past month includes the names of Rev. Dr. Wm. Shelton, of Buffalo, N. Y., one of the oldest presbyters in the Church, and for nearly sixty years Rector of St. Paul's parish; Rev. Dr. Ewer, of New York City, the foremost man in this country of the advanced party in the Church; Rev. A. J. Roberts, of Alabama; Rev. Chas. A. Spooner, of Connecticut.

—Dr. Randolph was consecrated Assistant Bishop of Virginia, in his parish church, in Baltimore, on the 21st ult., by Bishop Lee, assisted by Bishops Peterkin, Dudley, and others. Bishop Perry preached the sermon. The news about Bishop Whittle is not reassuring.

—The Rev. A. W. Mann, missionary to the deaf mutes in this city, residing in Cleveland, Ohio, himself a deaf mute, was with the Rev. Mr. Lyle, also a mute, advanced to Priest's Orders in Philadelphia, on the 14th ult. This was the first ordination to the Priesthood of deaf mutes.

—The first public service of the newly consecrated Assistant Bishop of New York, was especially significant, in view of the gorgeous ceremonial in Grace church the day before.

—The Rev. Dr. Worthington has declined the Missionary Episcopate to Shanghai, to which he was elected by the General Convention.

—The estate of the late Judge Ferguson has been inventoried at $201,477.

—The gentlemen in the House of Deputies who voted against the adoption of the revision of the Prayer-Book were the Rev. Dr. Peterkin, of Virginia, Mr. L. N. Whittle, of Georgia, and J. J. Pringle Smith, of South Carolina.

—Bishop Whittle has returned from Europe, and gone to Clifton Springs in New York, for the benefit of his health.

—Bishop Potter's first official act was to visit the Midnight Mission, and confirm a young girl, who was in a feeble state. The next day, Sunday, he officiated among the convicts of Blackwell's Island.

—Monsignor Capel was moved to write a pamphlet addressed to the General Convention, in Philadelphia. He, perhaps, had an idea of making some converts there.

—The Rev. Dr. Shelton, of Buffalo, left $4,000, and his library, to his old parish, St. Paul's, and $2,000 more towards a chime of bells, $2,000 to Nashotah, and $6,000 for other institutions. He made also a liberal bequest to Bishop Cox.

—At the reception given to Bishop Knickerbacker, in Indianapolis, on the 5th inst., among others, Governor Porter welcomed him on behalf of the State.

—The Rev. Mr. Walker, of North Dakotah, will make the third bachelor in the House of Bishops, they of Connecticut and Springfield being the others.

—Our old friend, Dr. Cross, has married again. The bride is a maiden lady, the daughter of a well-known physician in his parish, who owns a handsome property. The Doctor has had thus the means of publishing five volumes of his sermons, and has one or two more in press, and one other volume recently. They have had a very good sale. He has lost his voice and cannot preach, but is happy in his ability to preach through the volumes which he has published.

—The Rev. Dr. Tyng, Sr., whose mind is greatly impaired, still keeps up the habit of extemporaneous family prayer, which he has always been accustomed to, and which has come to be such a habit that his language is intelligent and correct. This habit of prayer has made such a certain and deep channel in his mind that not even the loss of reason can change it.

—We have heard of a clergyman, who lives not more than a thousand miles from here, who heard that a revival conducted by a Baptist preacher was going on in a neighboring town, and he was incited to go. The place was full, and so he was conducted to the only vacant place, on the front bench. He was a prominent person as he went up the aisle, and, as he sat there. It was remarked that when the minister came down out of the pulpit, and began his more earnest appeal, he stationed himself directly in front of our reverend friend, and seemed to make him the special subject of his urgent entreaties for a better life. It looked very much as though the preacher meant him.

—Bishop Penick has become rector of St. Andrews church, Louisville, Kentucky.

—The Rev. Dr. Holland entered upon the rectorship of Trinity church, New Orleans, the first Sunday in November. He has a salary of $6,000, rector, an assistant at a salary of $1200 a year, and four months vacation. This too was what Bishop Thompson resigned to become the Assistant Bishop of the poor Diocese of Mississippi.

MARSHALL, Mo., October 19, 1883.

In the CHURCH NEWS just received, "An acknowledgment of $100, from M. S. W., Marshall, Saline county, Missouri, for the Permanent Missionary Episcopate," made in the October number of The Spirit of Missions, is noticed. It is an error. The contribution is from the Church in Saline county, not from "M. S. W." It was made in the spring. It should have been acknowledged months ago. It was reported as the contribution of the County, not a personal offering. The mistake was made in the office of Domestic Missions, in New York. Immediately on seeing it in The Spirit of Missions I wrote to the editor to make the correction. It is their fault, not mine.

JOSEPH FRANKLIN, Treasurer.

BOOK NOTICES.

The HOMILECTIC MONTHLY for November will be found quite up to the high standard of excellence to which it has attained. The discourses of Drs. Kittredge and Carpenter cannot fail to interest and edify the reader, while the several condensed sermons by other well known preachers are full of thought and suggestion. The continued papers, such as Dr. Broadus' "Estimate of Noted Preachers," Dr. Ormiston's "Best Methods of Preaching," Dr. Chambers' "Misquoted Scriptures," and "Things New and Old," are deserving of careful attention. Dr. Philip Schaff's paper on the "Oldest Christian Sermon" will be read with rare interest, and Dr. Samson's "New Reading of Familiar Texts," $2.50 a year; 25 cents a single number. Funk & Wagnalls, 10 and 12 Dey Street, New York.

The November WIDE AWAKE might fitly be called a boys' number, since almost every one of its stories, outside the serials, has a boy for the "leading character." Opening with Lungren's beautiful frontispiece, "Autumn Leaves," there follows a stirring narrative poem of the late American war, entitled "The Bravest Boy in Town." The opening story, "Benny's Wigwag," is a touching little record of the homelessness of the Indian in the land the race once owned and never sold. Then comes an exceedingly interesting narrative entitled "My Arizona Class," written by Mrs. Jessie Benton Fremont, describing her work in one of the Arizona schools while General Fremont was Governor of Arizona.

The last of the John Spicer Lectures is delivered by one of the audience, and the subject is "Boys," and Marion Harland gives her last "Cookery Lesson" to the Wide Awake Cooking Society.

BY-WAYS OF LITERATURE, by David H. Wheeler, L.L.D., President of Allegheny College. A series of Essays on things old and new, in the customs, education, character, literature and language of the English-speaking people of the last fourteen centuries. He gives us what general history leaves unnoticed—a clear portrait of the thought of old time English people. This is a most interesting and instructive book. Published in Funk & Wagnalls' Standard Library, No. 100. Price, 25 cents.

ILLUSTRATIONS AND MEDITATIONS; or Flowers from a Puritan's Garden, by Rev Charles H. Spurgeon. This is a new book from the vigorous pen of Mr. Spurgeon. Published in Funk & Wagnalls' Standard Library, No. 98. Price 25 cents.

THE SUN: its Constitution; its Phenomena; its Condition. by Nathan T. Carr, L.L.D., Judge of the Ninth Judicial Circuit of Indiana. The chief results of solar research are ably presented and popularly explained in this little work. But its author is not only a clear expositor of the views of others, he offers an original and consistent theory of solar physics, which appears to reconcile many of the conflicting theories and observations of astronomers.

The NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW for November, by the liveliness and the sterling worth of the articles it contains, satisfies the requirements of the most exacting reader. Senator H. B. Anthony writes of "Limited Suffrage in Rhode Island" giving incidentally a highly interesting sketch of the early constitutional history of that little Commonwealth. Dr. Norvin Green, President of the Western Union Company in an article entitled "The Government and the Telegraph" cites the provisions of the Federal Constitution, and the determinations of the Supreme Court which appear to debar the General Government from assuming the management of the telegraph lines. W. H. Mallock contributes "Conversations with a Solitary," an imaginary passage-at-arms between a Radical and a Conservative, in which the two opposing theories of government and society are advocated with rare spirit and ingenuity of argument. In "Suggestions in regard to the Public Service," Green B. Raum offers certain facts going to prove that the clerks and other employees of the government departments at Washington, even before the passage of the Civil Service act, were in the main both faithful and efficient. Fifty cents a copy; $5 a year. Published at 30 Lafayette Place, and sold by newsdealers generally.

FRENCH CELEBRITIES, by Ernest Daudet and others. Translated by Francis W. Potter. A series of pen-portraits of the most eminent Frenchmen of our day, given us by their contemporaries. It would be difficult to name seven men more representative of French genius in different fields than Marshall de MacMahon, Leon Gambetta, Jules Grevy, Louis Blanc, Charles de Freycinet, Victor Hugo and Ferdinand de Lesseps, whose careers are here delineated. Published in Funk & Wagnalls' Standard Library, No. 99. Price 15 cents.

COPP'S U. S. SALARY LIST AND CIVIL SERVICE RULES.—Our readers will welcome the solid information contained in the 169 pages of this recently issued book. It is prepared by Henry N. Copp, a lawyer of Washington, D. C. All the Government salaries are given from President Arthur's $50,000 to postmasters with $500, officials of the Treasury, Interior, War and Navy Departments, Custom Houses, post offices, and fully 20,000 federal offices arranged by States and Territories. Specimen examination questions for admittance to the Civil Service throughout the country are added. The price of the book is only 35 cents.

The Sunday School lessons for the first half of the next Christian Year according to the uniform scheme of the Diocesan Committee are announced as ready. Mr. Whittaker in addition to the "Lesson Leaflet" will publish an illustrated lesson paper for the youngest scholars, to be called "Picture Lessons for Every Sunday," edited by the Rev. G. W. Shinn. The number of schools at present conforming to the uniform lessons is greater than at any previous period.

MARTIN LUTHER. A popular, scholarly, and reliable life of the Great Reformer, based on Koslin's extensive work, as prepared by Prof. W. Rein, Eisenach, Germany. The 400th Memorial Celebration of Luther's birth, that "solitary monk who shook the world," occurring on Nov. 10th, is exciting a world-wide interest. As an historical character only, his life is worthy of the most careful study. A book which will present, in popular, clear and attractive style, an unbiased record—not estimate—of the man as he spoke and acted, is the need of the hour. We greatly err if it does not prove the best popular life of the Great Reformer ever printed in the English language. Published in Funk & Wagnalls' Standard Library, No. 101. Price 25 cents.

THE NOVEMBER CENTURY. In illustrations, important articles, and American fiction, the November Century attempts to raise its own standard of excellence—a significant way of beginning the new magazine year. Among the engravers of the number, five are women, who contribute seven engravings. In technical skill, Mr. Cole has hardly surpassed the full-page engraving of Wyatt Eaton's portrait of Modjeska, accompanying a study of Modjeska's Shaksperian characters, by J. Ranken Towse. T. Johnson's engraving from Thomas Sully's portrait of Queen Victoria at the age of nineteen, is the frontispiece of the number; also, with Mrs. Oliphant's sketch of the life of the Queen, is printed a copy of a recent portrait. Mrs. Oliphant's paper is valuable for its analysis of character, which is interestingly shown, also, in several anecdotes of Queen Victoria's courtship and of her attention to public affairs.

An important contribution to the history of the war, and a most entertaining anecdotal paper withal, is the account of "The Capture of Jefferson Davis." It is by Burton N. Harrison, Esq., of the New York bar, who was the Confederate President's private secretary, and accompanied Mr. Davis and his family, with the leading members of the Confederate government, in their flight from Richmond.

Charles Dudley Warner's recollections of "The Bull-Fight" in Spain are impressive for the evident fidelity of the description and the picturesque and humorous treatment. Robert Blum's drawings are striking for the same qualities expressed with the brush. "Glimpses of Paris," by J. D. Osborne, is profusely illustrated by E. R. Butler. We learn from it that the French are weary of "French flats," and what traits of national character—not all of them lovely—are revealed in their daily life.

A matter of greater moment, however, than the scenes of Cable's romances is the opening chapters of Cable's new romance, "Dr. Sevier." Judging from the beginning, in the November number, it promises to be his most humorous and artistic novel. Reality and idealism appear in it blended with poetic art.

ST. NICHOLAS FOR NOVEMBER is the first number of a new volume, and is full of promise of good things for the coming year.

Louisa M. Alcott has the first half of a bright story called "Sophie's Secret"; J. T. Trowbridge contributes a thrilling biographical sketch of Captain Mayne Reid, whose serial story "In the Land of Fire" begins in the Christmas issue; and Frank R. Stockton furnishes one of his inimitable fairy tales, entitled "The Berman and his Original Form."

Then, appropriate to the Thanksgiving season, is a down-east sketch with the taking title, "A Thanksgiving Dinner that Flew Away," in which the humorous and pathetic are pleasantly blended; while E. S. Brooks, in "The Little Lord of the Manor," writes of the final evacuation of New York by the British, just one hundred years ago.

Another article of much more than ordinary historical interest is the paper on "The Origin of the Stars and Stripes," in which the author, here for the first time satisfactorily explains the reasons for the adoption of those world-famed emblems for our national banner and coat-of-arms.

Whittaker's Churchman's Almanac for 1884 will contain a most interesting centennial sketch of the Church by the Rt. Rev. Wm. Stevens Perry, D.D. It is promised for Dec. 1st, enlarged in size, with a new appropriate design on cover.

ENGLISH CATHEDRALS: their Architecture, Symbolism and History. Compiled by E. W. Boyd, Head of St. Agnes School, Albany. New York, T. Whittaker. Price 60 cents. This beautiful little book gives definitions of the various terms used in ecclesiastical architecture, giving wood-cuts of most of the parts of a Gothic church. It also explains the symbolism of Gothic architecture, a knowledge of which adds not only to the pleasure but to the profit of worshipping in a properly constructed building. Short descriptive and historical sketches are given of twenty four of the ancient cathedrals of England.

DECENTLY AND IN ORDER, or Hints for Worshippers, with reasons and comments, by the Rev. M. M. Moore, 5 cents.

SOME PLAIN WORDS FOR BUSY PEOPLE about the Protestant Episcopal Church, by the Rev. Charles Seymour. 12 cents.

Two excellent little tracts published for parish use by Thos. Whittaker. 2 Bible House, New York.

SHAKESPERIANA, Nov., Vol. 1., No. 1., $1.50 per annum. Leonard Scott Publishing Co., 41 Barclay st., N. Y. The increasing interest in the study of the great bard is marked by the starting of a new magazine, beautifully published and ably edited. It would be an excellent commentary on the volumes which are already possessed.

Music Everywhere.

That wonderful musical instrument, the HARMONETTE is advertised in this issue by Massachusetts Organ Co., 57 Washington St., Boston, Mass. It is the ideal home instrument. You can dance to it; you can sing to it; a mere child can play it; it inculcates a love of music in old and young, and develops and cultivates the ear. The music is perfectly accurate, and the wonderful HARMONETTE will play any tune. At the price, $5.00, it is within the reach of all.

THE MARVELLOUS WEBBER SINGING DOLL.

A MECHANICAL WONDER.

Last year we first introduced this charming American, and it is safe to assert that no toy ever devised attained such immediate popularity. Fully aware of its merit we had thousands of Dolls ready for the Holiday trade, notwithstanding which the supply was exhausted early in December, and hundreds of children who came to our store were disappointed. We have been accumulating stock for the past nine months, and shall endeavor this year to fill all orders the day of receipt. The Doll has been improved in every way since last year. Instead of the stiff German body, as in our imported Dolls, our Doll has an AMERICAN MADE BODY with limber joints, so that it will sit easily and gracefully in any position. The arms of Fine Kid with separate fingers. These are positively the finest bodies ever put in a Doll. They are of graceful and natural shape, and much better and more expensively made than the best imported bodies which they will outlive many times. The Waxen Heads with long hair are of the best French and German make, made especially for this Doll, and they are as beautiful as life, long hair, beautiful eyes, and delicately tinted cheeks. We consider them the finest Dolls ever imported into this country, and for this reason we call them the Wonderful Singing American Doll. ALONE IS WORTH THE ENTIRE LINE. THE MARVELOUS WEBBER SINGING DOLL is constructed with the body of fine Kid, and the face of fine Kid, and the hair of fine Kid, and the eyes of fine Kid, and the cheeks of fine Kid, and the lips of fine Kid, and the nose of fine Kid, and the ears of fine Kid, and the hands of fine Kid, and the feet of fine Kid, and the fingers of fine Kid, and the toes of fine Kid, and the nails of fine Kid, and the hair of fine Kid, and the eyes of fine Kid, and the cheeks of fine Kid, and the lips of fine Kid, and the nose of fine Kid, and the ears of fine Kid, and the hands of fine Kid, and the feet of fine Kid, and the fingers of fine Kid, and the toes of fine Kid, and the nails of fine Kid, and the hair of fine Kid, and the eyes of fine Kid, and the cheeks of fine Kid, and the lips of fine Kid, and the nose of fine Kid, and the ears of fine Kid, and the hands of fine Kid, and the feet of fine Kid, and the fingers of fine Kid, and the toes of fine Kid, and the nails of fine Kid, and the hair MISCELLANY.

—At a funeral on a recent occasion, among the Baptists, a choir chanted the Te Deum Laudamus, "and," says the secular paper which records it, "the sweetly solemn music seemed to take up and develop as its libretto, the story of the woman's life."

—Among the crowd, says the Rochester Democrat, that surged towards the gates, as the St. Louis express rumbled into the Central Depot last evening, was a little old woman dressed in black, with a little white face just visible beneath a rusty old bonnet, and above a great comforter wound high around the neck. Jostled this way and that by the hurrying crowd, she was about to pass through the gate when the gateman stopped her by a motion of the hand, and a demand for her ticket. "I am not going away," she replied. "I didn't buy a ticket. 'Then you can't go through here, against orders, you know.' 'But, sir, my son is coming, and'—'Can't help it,' was the hurried reply. 'Stay here, and he will come to you.' 'O sir, if he only would,' as the tremble in the little woman's voice arrested the impatient murmur of those behind. O sir, if he only would; but he died in Cleveland last week, and now they are bringing him home in a coffin. He was the only one I had—oh, thank you sir," The gate was thrown wide open, an unknown, friendly hand assisted her on, and in a moment the sad face of the little old woman in black was lost in the crowd.

—Cass County boasts of a post office named "Peculiar," and how it came to acquire the designation has often been speculated over, but never satisfactorily explained until recently, when a gentleman, working to get a new post office established, called at the St. Louis office to look over the names already in use, so as to avoid them in naming his town. He came across Peculiar in the list, and mentioned the fact that his father, in the early days, was a minister in Cass County. A town grew up which needed a post office, and he wrote to Washington to have one established. The department's reply told him to suggest a name which would please the people. He wrote back that the people were not particular so long as the name of their post office was peculiar. The sentence was taken in its literal sense, and the post office was christened "Peculiar" forthwith.

—The Episcopal Register has a vein of genuine wit as well as wisdom. Referring to the work of the General Convention, it says: "Autumn changes affect even the leaves of the Prayer Book." "The Prayer Book is a century plant; it blooms once in a hundred years."

—A London reviewer took down Mr. John Morley, who had insisted in printing "God" as "god" throughout one of his books. The reviewer was equally careful in the frequent mention of Mr. Morley's name to have it appear as "mr. john morley."

—One cannot prevent the eating of green fruit: Arguing the question of itinerancy, the Christian Advocate says: "The Episcopalians do increase much more rapidly than we in some of the cities. Our itinerancy is not the chief or a prominent cause of it. The compatibility of connection with the Protestant Episcopal Church and leadership in worldly social life, its claims to be the Church, its vague references to experience, its easy relation to worldly amusements, its liturgy, its liberty on the wine question its F. C. Ewer at one extreme, Heber Newton at the other, and such admirable and orthodox ministers, as Henry C. Potter or evangelists like the new rector at St. George's at the mean, its absence of all painful revival efforts, practical reliance upon the Church to get its communicants safely through, and its exclusiveness, with its inherited endowments, are some of the elements by which it surpasses us in 'wealth of purse' if not of mind, and in 'commanding social influence.'"

—A well known cleygman of Massachusetts found his hearer diminishing Sunday by Sunday, and concluded an old seafaring man, who could not boast of much religion, but who stuck by the ship, why the people would not come to church. "I canna tell you, mon; ye preached on spring and autumn most beautiful discourses, and ye improved the great accident and loss of life on the S. and; ye might try them with something out of the Bible, and being fresh, maybe it will hold them another Sunday or two."

—The New York Independent says that before the city directory man takes a census of St. Louis, watermelons are always sent there from Chicago, to double up the population. After than an official count is made showing how unreliable St. Louis figures are

A SCIENTIFIC DISCOVERY.

A New and Most Important Theory on One of the Most Vital Questions of the Day.

If anyone had informed Queen Elizabeth in her palmist days that she could have been seated in her palace in London and conversed with Sir Walter Raleigh in his North Carolina home; receiving a reply from him within an hour's time, she would have declared it to be a miracle. And yet, had they lived in the present day, this apparent miracle would most readily have been witnessed, and not seem at all strange or unnatural. The truth is, new principles are coming into existence, and the operation of many laws unknown in the past is being fully understood in the present. In no way does this fact come more forcibly to the mind than in the care and treatment of the human body. Millions of people have died in past ages from some insignificant or easily controlled cause which is thoroughly understood now and readily handled. Consumption during the entire past has been considered an incurable disease. And yet it is demonstrated that it has been and can be cured, even after it has had a long run. Dr. Felix Oswald has just contributed a noticeable article on this subject to the Popular Science Monthly. He regards consumption as pulmonary scrofula. The impurities of the blood produce a constant irritation in the lungs, thus destroying their delicate tissues and causing death. His theory shows conclusively that consumption is a blood disease. It has its origin primarily in a deranged condition of the kidneys or liver, the only two organs of the body, aside from the lungs, that purify the blood. When the kidneys or liver are diseased, they are in a lacerated state which communicates poison to every ounce of blood that passes through them. This poisonous blood circulates through the system and comes to the lungs, where the poison is deposited, causing decomposition in the finely formed cells of the lungs. Any diseased part of the body has contaminating power, and yet the blood, which is the life of the system, is brought into direct contact with these poisoned organs, thus carrying contagion to all parts of the body. Bishop Jesse T. Peck, D.D. LL.D whose death has been so recently regretted, is reported to have died of pneumonia, which medical authorities affirm indicates a diseased condition of the kidneys. It is well known, moreover, that for several years he has been the victim of severe kidney troubles, and the pneumonia which finally terminated his life was only the last result of the previous blood poisoning. The deadly matter which is left in the lungs by the impure blood clogs up, and finally chokes the patient. When this is accomplished rapidly, it is called pneumonia or quick consumption; when slowly, consumption, but in any event it is the result of impure blood, caused by diseased kidneys and liver.

These are facts of science, and vouched for by all the leading physicians of the day. They show the desirability—nay, the necessity, of keeping these most important organs in perfect condition, not only to insure health, but also to escape death. It has been fully shown, to the satisfaction of nearly every unprejudiced mind, that Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure is the only known remedy that can cure and keep in health the great blood purifying organs of the body. It acts directly upon these members, healing all ulcers which may have formed in them, and placing them in a condition to purify and not poison the blood. This is no idle statement nor false theory. Mr. W. C. Beach, foreman of the Buffalo, N. Y., Rubber Type Foundry was given up to die by both physicians and friends. For four nights he had a terrible cough, accompanied by night sweats, chills, and all the well known symptoms. He spent a season south and found no relief. He says: "I finally concluded to try Warner's Safe Cure and in three months I gained twenty pounds, recovered my lost energy, and my health was fully restored." The list could be prolonged indefinitely, but enough has been said to prove to every sufferer from pulmonic troubles, that there is no reason to be discouraged in the least, and that health can be restored.

—If a man is thoroughly a Christian, the nerve that runs from his brain to his wallet will be just as much Christianized as the one that runs from his brain to his tongue.

Bolton, Philip Bourke Marston, Celia Thaxter, Nora Perry, Rose Hawthorne Lathrop, Mrs. A. M. Diaz.

ILLUSTRATED SERIAL STORIES FOR 1884:

I. A BRAVE GIRL. By Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, author of "Gates Ajar" "Doctor Zay" "The Story of Avis, etc.

II. A DISTRICT MESSENGER BOY. By James Otis.

III. PASTOR BILLINGS By "H. H."

IV. PAMELA'S FORTUNE. By Mrs. Lucy C. Lillie, author of Prudence, etc.

V. HIS THREE TRIALS. A story for boys. By Mrs. Gannett Wells.

VI. AN HISTORICAL SERIAL. (To begin in December)

VII. IN NO-MAN'S-LAND. (A wonder-story for little folks.) By Elbridge S. Brooks.

Among the purely pictorial attractions will be fine frontispieces from the studio of F. H. Lungren, whose "A-Maying" and "Winter Birds," in Wide Awake, attracted so much attention in 1882. W. Parker Bodfish will contribute a picture serial in fifty scenes and twenty-four interludes, entitled "Through France in Sabots." Miss Jessie McDermott has prepared a novel set of twelve full-page pictures under the title, "The Procession of the Zodiac. Joseph Pennel has sent from Italy some twenty interesting and beautiful drawings of "Child Life in Venice; Henry Sandham has just contributed another series illustrative of "A Winter Carnival in Canada; and George Foster Barnes has just completed an alphabet of novel and artistic decorative initials.

Many valuable contributions, very pleasant reading for the curious, are in hand; among them two articles about famous dwarfs, and famous giants, by Isabel Smithson, illustrated by Edmund H. Garrett, from authentic sources; "The Troubadors," by George Foster Barnes, illustrated by the author; "The Gypsies," by Mrs. Catherwood, giving much novel matter, the illustrations including drawings from life sketches made among the gypsy caves of Granada the past winter.

Edward Everett Hale will make an interesting contribution to historical literature, through Wide Awake, in the form of several articles entitled "The Story of Boston Common," giving complete its curious early history, describing famous events and scenes connected with its green shades and malls, and narrating many tales and traditions, quaint but authentic. These articles will be fully illustrated.

Mrs. Clara Doty Bates, whose versifications in Wide Awake of various nursery tales, "Silverlocks and the Bears," "Three Little Pigs," "Little Red Riding Hood, etc., are received as the classics and standard form of these old favorites, has now put in verse twelve of Esop's Fables. These Fables have a setting decoratively novel and richly pictorial.

Twelve of George MacDonald's lyrics are being set to music by popular foreign composers, among them, Reinecke, Jadssohn, Rheinberger, Lachner, Jungmann, and Cowen. These musical compositions have been secured for Wide Awake by Louis C. Elson, the musical editor, lately in Europe on that commission, and they will undoubtedly form the most notable of contributions to music for young folks.

In addition, there have been secured a brilliant line of short stories, travels, practical articles, illustrated poems, etc.; and when the attractions of the C. Y. F. R. U. Reading Course, with its seven series of pithy articles are taken into account, our readers young and old may feel assured of a year of rich entertainment.

Wide Awake is only $2.50 per annum. Liberal terms to agents. Address: The Century Company, Franklin street.

TO THOSE IN HEALTH.

"Let him (the sick person) be admonished to make his will, and to declare his debts, what he oweth, and what is owing unto him, for the better discharging of his conscience, and the quietness of his executors. But men should often be put in remembrance to take order for the settling of their temporal estates, whilst they are in health." — [Rubric in Visitation of the Sick.]

For those who are minded to give back to God a portion of that with which he has entrusted to them as stewards, by which a blessing may be invoked on them and their memories when they are in their graves, the following directions may be of use:

Real estate and personal property may be given, deeded or devised to the Orphans' Home and St. Luke's Hospital, St. Louis, as they are incorporated bodies. The legal name of the former is "The Orphans' Home, of St. Louis, incorporated in February, 1845;" and of the latter, "St. Luke's Hospital, of St. Louis, incorporated in 1872."

Real estate for a church, parsonage, a burial ground in any particular place, may be given or devised to "The Parochial Trust Fund of the Diocese of Missouri, a body incorporated under the laws of the State of Missouri," in trust for the place. Real estate also for the above purposes may be given or devised to any Church which is properly incorporated.

Real estate for any other purpose, and personal property may be given or devised for the benefit of any church, or any of our charities by naming trustees in the will or deed, and providing how their successors in the trust may be appointed, who can receive and dispense the trust as directed. Such objects may be suggested as "Permanent Fund for the support of the Episcopate of the Diocese of Missouri," "The Theological Education Fund," "The Fund for Aged and Infirm Clergymen, and for the Widows and Orphans of Clergymen," "The Laymen's Co-operating Missionary Society," "The Sisterhood of the Good Shepherd of the Protestant Episcopal Church," "St. James Academy, Macon;" "School of Good Shepherd, St. Louis."

The Bishop's Column.

Letters intended for the Bishop will reach him most quickly and surely, if addressed to him at the Residence, or with the name of the city simply.

Letters for the Bishop, while on a Visitation, and directed to the interior, should be sent to the care of some clergyman to ensure their safe delivery.

EPISCOPAL APPOINTMENTS.

December 16, Sunday, Jefferson City.
19, Wednesday, Crystal City.
20, Thursday, De Soto.
21, Friday, Ironton.
23, Sunday, Cape Girardeau.
25, Tuesday, St. Peter's Church, St. Louis.
January 6, Sunday, St. George's Church, St. Louis, Ordination.

Offertories will be received at these services for the Theological Education or the Permanent Episcopal Fund, of which notice is requested to be given. The Bishop will be ready to meet the vestry wherever it is desired, and to catechize the children whenever it is possible. He desires that the Holy Communion may be prepared for on Sundays and Festival Days. On week days, unless otherwise arranged, it is desirable that the service shall be at night; any other service which the time will permit may be had. The Bishop will be glad to meet the people socially when they can be conveniently arranged for. He desires that the parish register may be written up, and that he may see it.

THE Bishop will be glad to meet his friends on New Years Day, at the Episcopal Residence, as usual. It has been an especial gratification from year to year, as he is able to be so irregularly and only at intervals, in the city, to greet those whom he has so little opportunity at other times to see.

CHRISTMAS AND ITS OFFERTORY.

The Bishop reminds the Diocese that the object of the offertory of the congregations, on Christmas day, or in places where this is not possible, on the nearest day to it which may be possible, is for the increase of the Fund for Aged and Disabled Clergymen, and the Widows and Orphans of Deceased Clergymen in this Diocese.

The importance of this object throughout the Church has been fitly emphasized, and we have in the Diocese felt that we could best contribute to the welfare of the general society by strengthening our own Diocesan Fund, and thus obviating the necessity of our calling upon the general funds to such an extent. A Diocese is resorted to by clergymen when it is seen that it has been wise enough and humane enough to provide for its infirm servants. A clergyman will work with better heart, if he knows that his future is to some extent, whatever may befall him, secured. The Church will have a simpler and more whole-souled service rendered it, if it declares that it makes its own the anxieties and needs of its clergy. It will be likely to have more efficient duty done, if there is no motive for keeping those on the active list, to the detriment of aggressive work, because there is no other than the missionary stipend for the relief of those who are inadequately maintained.

Our own fund in this Diocese has been carefully managed, and in the space of fourteen years has reached nearly ten thousand dollars. Only the interest can be used. The offertories each year go to the enlargement of the principal. It is now engaged in the relief of need and anxiety; and it should be made large enough to give assurance of a modest annuity to every faithful man who wears out in the ministry of Christ and his Church in this Diocese.

Let the liberality of the offerings sympathize with the gladness of the day. They may be sent to the treasurer, Mr. Joseph Franklin, corner of 6th and Olive streets, St. Louis.

A FEW NOTES.

It has occurred to the Bishop that possibly it may be interesting to those who are watching the Church work and growth in the Diocese to read a few notes concerning the visitation of a portion of the southern part of the Diocese this autumn. It is a simple record of travel and duty, and comprises the two or three weeks just before this issue of THE NEWS. It would give a fair impression of that which occupies the larger part of a Western Bishop's time:

November 17, Saturday, started at 7 p. m from St. Louis for Cuba. Other engagements prevented me from getting off earlier.

November 18, Sunday, reached Cuba at half an hour after midnight. Two faithful Church people met me at the station. St. Andrew's church here has been built since I was last in this little town, in which we have only four or five families. With great sacrifice they have, at the expenditure of $715, nearly the whole of which has been given among themselves, completed, so far as the lathing, a frame church, 24 by 40, with porch, recess chancel, and small vestry room, on a good lot, deeded to the Parochial Trust Fund. Just before my coming they had built the flue and bought the stove. There are no pews yet; only some benches, eked out with chairs from the families, and boards around the outside, resting on boxes. They have no organ, or any carpet. I wish some one would give them a few yards for the chancel. In the morning the seats were all occupied. I said the Service alone, started the hymns; the chants had to be read, and preached. The mission service books had to be used, of which I had brought a package, and by a few words of direction all took part.

In the afternoon I went in a farm wagon three miles into the country, and held Service in a small concrete chapel, built by an English family with means sent from the old country, on an acre of land cleared, and promised to be deeded to the Church. Here, too, there were benches, without backs, although the family are now making solid, heavy pews. I said the Service, started the singing, preached and confirmed the son and the daughter of the family. The congregation consisted of the neighbors. Some came on horseback, and one family came in an ox cart. I got back to town by dark.

At night St. Andrew's church was filled with additional chairs, and was filled to overflowing. We had the same simple Service as in the morning, and after the sermon I confirmed three young men. It was a very touching Service. They have a monthly Service here, the clergymen, the Rev. Mr. Johnson, giving the morning to the country chapel, and the night to the town. The place is ninety miles southwest from St. Louis, on the St. Louis and San Francisco road.

The next morning I was awake soon after four, and took breakfast by lamplight, and started on a freight train at 6:30 for Salem, on a branch road, forty miles south. It is a country town, in which we have no regular Service. Bishop Dunlop used to go there once or twice a year. Dr. Schuyler gave them a Sunday Service a year ago. Excepting this they had had no Service for three years. I had not been there for some time before that. We have about the same strength here as at Cuba, but the place is not as accessible. I was met at the station, and was pleasantly entertained by a brother of Mr. Sankey, the Evangelist, whose wife is a devoted Churchwoman. The afternoon I used in calling upon a number of our people who are holding bravely to the faith. The Service at night was held in the Presbyterian church, and was attended by a full congregation. They had practiced the chants, and with the help of the prayer books, and mission service books, from which the prayers were announced, which I had brought, there were full responses and a conforming to all the postures. There was request made for me to come soon again, as several desire to be confirmed. I hope also that arrangements may be made for Services for them.

The next morning, Tuesday, 20th, I had to be astir again before daylight, to take the train at 7 o'clock, which required five hours to reach Cuba on my return. On account of the uncertainty of this train connecting with the train westward in time to reach night Service at St.

James, I had arranged for another Service at Cuba where I had to spend the night. The families had been invited to spend the afternoon and take tea with me, and over a dozen persons gathered, and there was a pleasant going over Church work. At night the benches and chairs were again filled, and we had another Service. At its close each gentleman took the chairs home, of which their houses had been exhausted for the seating of the church.

Wednesday, 21st, was a day on which there was a heavy and continuous rain, so depressing for one who is working his way through towns in which the sidewalks are indifferent, and there are no street lamps. It is a bar also for those who desire to come in from the country for Service. The Bishop, while he is sorry for the place on which comes a rainy day for his visit, has to keep on, in spite of the dispiriting surroundings. At two o'clock, after a ride of fourteen miles by train, I reached St. James, in the midst of the heaviest downfall of rain. I was met and taken to those who kindly entertained me. Here we have no church building, and but half a dozen families. There is a Sunday Service once a month, and a small hall on the ground floor is rented. There is a fund of $250 at interest as the nucleus, but the town shares in the depression of the iron interest. The rain relaxed in the afternoon, and some persons called, and some local anxieties were considered. The large Methodist church had been offered for our use, and about sixty persons were present at night, and the attention was very devout and reverent. After the Service I went out in a farm wagon for the night with a Church family that had come in two miles to Service. Each day, of course, my letters meet me, and have to be promptly answered in the midst of the other duty.

At two the next day I went on to Rolla, where I was met by the estimable clergyman, Mr. Johnson, and was, as is always pleasant, a guest at the parsonage. This house is the property of the clergyman, and has been made over comfortably by him. The church here was built little over a year ago, and is indebted for its tasteful arrangements, and for much else, to Prof. Wait, the head of the School of Mines. The plans were furnished by Mr. Scheetz, who was present at its consecration on my last visit. The congregation here is becoming quite strong, and has Services two Sundays each month. The congregation at the Service at night filled the Church, and four persons were confirmed. A dramatic entertainment in the town was postponed because of the Service.

Letter writing and receiving visits occupied the morning of the next day, and a ride of seventy miles in the afternoon brought me to Lebanon by dusk. Here, in a county town of over 2,000 people, in which we have just built a neat frame church, which has cost $1,400, to hold 150 persons, but on which there is a debt of $250, very large for them, for which the builder threatens to enter suit within thirty days unless payment is made. They have no minister, but the people give regularly and apply their payments on the debt. At the Service every seat was occupied. The Bishop's visit often has incidental results. It causes the cobwebs to be cleaned out, the lamps to be trimmed, and the flues to be built or cleaned. In Cuba the flue was built, and the stove bought just as I came. Here the flue would have been built, only it rained the day before. I met the Church people after the Service about their affairs. A meeting, also, was held the next day to arrange for the payment of the debt, and to organize and appoint officers for the Mission. Twelve months ago I urged them to build, and during the year Mr. Scheetz furnished them with plans, and I helped them to a small amount. Now they have a neat church, and are $1,000 further ahead in property than they were before, and four-fifths of this was raised in the town, and the lot was given.

Fifty miles further, and I was that evening in Springfield, the busy and prosperous centre of the southwest, and having a population of nearly 15,000. Years ago, the railway left the town nearly two miles away, and now, nearly the whole intervening distance is built up. Here we have a Church, built some years since, under the rectorship of the Rev. Mr. Case. We have lots also, in the new town near the railroad, in case that it may seem wise to build there. The Congregationalists have spent over $200,000 in establishing Drury College here. I was up until very late considering some of the perplexities of the local situation.

Sunday, 25th, was a mild, bright day. Morning prayer was said with the Sunday School, and I catechized and addressed the children. The morning congregation did not fill the church. In the afternoon a number of persons came to see me, especially about a matter of great concern now to the parish. The town has grown very greatly, the building up of the new town has brought a considerable number of vigorous Church people there who desire that the church may be removed to a location somewhere between the two towns, and more convenient to them. The original location was determined with reference to the old town, as the new one had not been built up. There is not strength enough now for two churches. The older Church people remember, better than those who have more recently come, the struggles by which the present property was secured and paid, and do not feel inclined to give it up for an uncertainty, and a distant location. These are some of the complications amid which the facts had to be discovered, and advice given. At night the church was full, and four persons were confirmed.

On Monday, 26th, the kind care of my hosts had me up at five o'clock, and a warm breakfast and hot cup of coffee prepared before I started on my way to Joplin, ninety miles further to the southwest. I can never speak too warmly of the thoughtful kindness which cheers a life which has for a considerable portion of the year to be wandering and homeless. I am made to feel that I have many homes; and now that those whom I knew first as children are growing up to maturity, and many of them making homes of their own, I seem to be an old friend, who has shared in many joys and sorrows for them. My room awaits me, and the considerate provisions for my comfort is that of which the Bishop can never adequately express his appreciation. This consideration has often to show itself in the way of letting him at times alone, until he can write his letters.

Joplin is a city of over 5,000 people, but for the past six months an excess of water has flooded the lead mines, on which its prosperity depends, and the place has been very quiet. In it we have a little chapel across the rear of an excellent lot given by Judge Porter, of Hannibal, but there has been no clergyman for over a year. The place is detached, so that it cannot be connected with another point; it is not strong enough to bear the entire support of the clergyman, and the missionary treasury is not full enough to meet the amount required for the deficiency when local effort has done its best. A few months ago I tried to connect the work with that in an adjacent town in Kansas, but did not succeed. The ladies keep up their society, and I was cheered on learning that there were four persons who desired to be confirmed. I spent some time with them in the afternoon going over with them the grounds of Christian duty. At night the church was packed full, although it is small, and does not hold very many. The music was excellent, and the responses good. Two adults and an infant were baptized, and four persons confirmed. The chapel is not finished, but is all paid for. It has to depend on chairs, which ought to be replaced by pews. They move about, make a noise, get crowded together, and do not allow persons to kneel. There is no chancel proper, only a small platform. It ought to be carpeted; a few yards would suffice. The altar made of pine, and is not painted, or oiled, or covered. It ought to be covered at least with white cotton cloth; then, with a monogram on the front, which I hope that some of our good ladies elsewhere will offer to design and make for them, a more tasteful, and yet inexpensive arrangement would be had. The means are limited; there have been some most afflictive losses by death. I encouraged the good people to do that which I thought was in their power.

The next morning I went twelve miles to Carthage, the very beautiful county seat of Jasper. The parish has been vacant for six months, and should not be. It is a community of large intelligence and public spirit. We have lots on which the church was originally erected thirteen years ago. The location was not thought to be sufficiently central, and the building was removed to a large lot bought within one block of the public square, which now is not suitable for a church, while it has become quite valuable for business purposes. The ladies have by patient labor secured over $600, with which, and what more they can collect, they propose to put up a parsonage costing $1,000 with five rooms on one of the old lots, and to do this immediately. The lower lots can be sold for half of what is required to build a brick church costing $5,000, less than which they should not think of doing. The present building has always been utterly too small, and is without porch or vestry room. I met the vestry in the afternoon, and urged these matters, and the securing of a salary for a rector. They promised to act vigorously in these matters immediately. At night the church was entirely filled. I said the Service and preached.

The next morning, Wednesday, I took a freight train fifty miles, to Nevada, the caboose being almost filled with a theatrical troupe. Every moment of the time for the rest of the day, after I arrived, was occupied in meeting those of the parish who called on me, and in having a conference with a committee of citizens as to the possibility of establishing a Church institution of learning here, for which they were ready to pledge five acres of land, and $5,000, but to meet which they desired the assurance of $25,000 from the churches in the east. I could see the evidence of the strong interest which the work of the Rev. Mr. Browne here since June has aroused. His work has included not only this place, but Clin ton, Rich Hill, and other adjacent points. An unusually large congregation, wholly filling the church, was present at night, when confirmation was administered. The music was especially good.

To reach Bulter for my Thanksgiving morning Service, which had been announced, I had to be up long before daylight, and take a hasty breakfast. On reaching the station I found that the local trains had been taken off for that day, and so I had to go back and wait for a freight train, which was said to start at 10 a.m. I had to telegraph my inability to be present at the morning Service. I sat in the train from ten until after twelve before it started, hearing the church bell ring for Service at eleven, but unable to leave the train. I reached Butler at three, and was met, as I always am there, by the kindest welcome. For the rest of the day I was with the parishioners, all gathered in a Thanksgiving welcome to me. The Rev. Mr. Bohn has for six months been the missionary in this busy town in a beautiful country, rapidly filling with the best class of people. The Rev. Messrs. Jardine, of Kansas City, and Browne, of Nevada, arrived in the evening, to take part in the Service of the next day.

On Friday, 30th, St. Mark's Church was consecrated. It was named after my old church in New York. The Service was especially interesting to those few families who had done so much to make it possible. In the afternoon I officiated at the funeral of a lady whom I had baptized and confirmed two years before, with her sister who had since died. At night we had Service again, and I preached.

On Saturday morning I went to Rich Hill, with the Rev. Mr. Browne, who has charge of the work there. This is that phenomenal town which has sprung up because of the extraordinary coal developments there, and which has attracted on what was four years ago a blank prairie, a population of eight thousand in town and mines. I was to have met in the afternoon a committee to consider the building of a church. Two years ago an eligible lot was offered to me by the town company for a church, but only on condition of the expenditure of an amount of money not accessible either from the town, nor from the Church at large. These conditional gifts having in view local pride, and to build structures greater than the real needs of the Church in the place require, are always embarrassing. The committee did not meet me, and I gathered that it was because the times were not so bright, and there was not so much disposition to spend.

The next day, Sunday, 2nd, the Service was held in the Opera House, which had been hired for the purpose. The surroundings were not promotive of devotion. The great hall with movable chairs, in which in the morning only thirty persons were present; the drop curtain and the foot lights behind; the little stained table, and stand for the bible; the floor not clean; the bare theatrical dressing room for vesting. The Rev. Messrs. Browne and Bohn were with me. There was a cabinet organ, but only the hymns were sung. The offertory amounted to thirty-five cents. In the afternoon we went out three miles to the mines, and had a simple Service in the school house for the miners. The building was full, and I preached again. We got back at dark, and had another Service in the Opera Hall, at which about three times as many were present as in the morning. In the willingness to let the missionary pay his own travelling expenses and hotel bills, and the rent of the hall, I could not very strongly object to the withdrawal of Services for the present.

On Monday morning I made my way, two hours before daylight, down to the train which took me fifty miles to Pleasant Hill, to a kindly welcome and a warm breakfast. The parish here had for years drooped because of the depression of the town from railroad debt, and the removal of some excellent families. In the return of one devoted household I instantly felt the reanimation of the whole work. The surroundings of the church building had been looked after; the ladies' society was vigorously at work. The Rev. Mr. Dunn who has the charge, came down from Independence to join me. The parishioners had been invited in to meet me, and in intervals, I got upon my correspondence, and wrote two dozen letters. Every seat in church was filled at night, and extra seats had to be provided in the aisles. I have not seen such numbers together there for a long time. I confirmed a husband and wife in advanced years. The town is taking on a stronger life, and the place should have more than monthly Services.

On Tuesday, 4th, I came on to Warrensburg, the seat of the largest of the State Normal Schools, which I paid a visit to in the afternoon. The parish is vacant, not because they are unwilling to do what they can for a clergyman, but because it is difficult, with the small amount which they can offer, to join other places to it, which can produce the total with the practicable missionary stipend, needed for a minister's support. I hope, however, to make an arrangement for them soon. At night the church was uncomfortable crowded with a very devout and attentive congregation, many of whom were students from the Normal School. That took place, however, during the Service, which is at times allowed to take place where night Services are not frequent. The oil had been allowed to remain in the lamps, and had lost its illuminating quality; and soon a number of the lamps began to give forth offensive smoke, and gradually go out. The oil should be taken out after a Service, and kept closed, and then the lamps be filled again.

The next morning I started for Boonville, having a hurried interview with the warden at the station in Sedalia, as I came through, about the affairs of the parish. A kind welcome awaited me at Boonville, and a number of the parishioners had been invited to dine with me. The Rev. Mr. Gay, of Fayette, came on, also, to be present at the Service. The congregation at night filled the church. There were a notable number of men present. Two persons were presented for confirmation, who had been prepared under the disadvantage of sickness, and other duty by the faithful lay-reader, Mr. Wilkins, whose work is so apparent in the revival of religious interest in the parish. After the Service I met a number of the parishioners at an informal reception in the Rectory. Two hours after that, I started for St. Louis, for two days duty there. Changed cars at three in the morning, and arrived in time for breakfast.

DIOCESAN ITEMS.

—Clinton.—The Episcopal work commenced here a few weeks ago, has been attended with the greatest success. The congregation is large and respectable. On Sunday nearly 100 are in attendance, and a new church is being built on a very desirable lot. The Church ladies have augmented the funds with $105, the proceeds of one festival, and they expect to raise $1,000 for the furnishing of the new Church.

—The neat stone Church at Nevada has been recently fitted with gas appliances, and is now beautifully lighted, regardless of expense. The ladies of the congregation have worked energetically for several years to maintain the Church in this city, and are now pleased to see brighter prospects, and have hopeful anticipations for the future.

—The Rev. C. H. Bohn has resigned the charge of St. Mark's Church, Butler.

—The Bishop has recently confirmed as follows: Cuba 5, Rolla 4, Springfield 4, Joplin 4, Nevada 7, Pleasant Hill 2, Marshall 4, Boonville 2.

—St. Augustine's Church, Kansas City, for colored persons, has in the twelve months since they have occupied the building, paid out of their small means, $150 for furniture, and owe $10 still; $60 for lights, owing on this $10 still; and have reduced the debt to $870, $500 of which is due August 1885, on which they pay ten per cent, and $370 is due on the 23rd prox., towards the payment of which the Rev. Mr. Cummings has in bank now $160. This fall has been started a girl's sewing school, conducted by ladies from Grace and St. Mary parishes and their own mission, the average attendance at which has been 40.

—The ladies bazaar for the benefit of the parish of Good Shepherd, St. Louis, held the two evenings preceding Thanksgiving, netted $190. The Guild Room was beautifully decorated with U. S. flags entirely covering the walls and ceiling, and enwrapping the six tables in graceful and handsome drapery. Everything was sold, and the many friends present enjoyed the evenings.

—The Rev. Mr. Waterman has consented to take charges of Plattsburg, as well as Cameron. His health, he hopes will be equal to this strain upon it.

—The Rev. Mr. McIlwaine, of Keokuk has kindly given some services to St. Peter's Church, Canton, in the north east part of the Diocese, and a Sunday School has been organized.

—The Rev. Mr. Talbot secured $400 in the east in cash, and good pledges for the rebuilding and enlargement of St. James' Academy, Macon.

—They are hoping in Lee's Summit to begin their church next spring. The ladies' society has been at work, collecting money for it for several years. There are not many of them, but they are full of spirit.

—The Rev. Mr. Green has begun with much vigor his work at St. John's in this city.

—Bishop Dunlop is to pass a few days in town, on his way from the east homeward. He has had good success in his work among the parishes east. He will be at Christ Church in this city on Sunday morning, 16th inst., and at Grace Church, Kirkwood, at night, and leaves for the west immediately after.

—We believe that it is pretty well understood that the Rev. Wm. H. Assheton, of Oakland, Maryland, will be called to St. Peter's Church, St. Louis. He is of English birth, but has been a number of years in this country, rather young, unmarried. He has made an excellent record in his old parish.

—The subscriptions for St. Luke's Hospital have been pushed lately, and have realized a good amount. The elevator is going on well now.

—They have expended from $500 to $600 on St. John's Church, and greatly added to its beauty. The new rector has been warmly welcomed by his people. He received some very handsome presents on leaving Elgin.

—The Bishop had occasion not long ago to decline to solemnize the marriage of a gentleman, who was an old acquaintance, because the ground of his divorce from his wife was not the Scriptural ground, and that which the Church allows. The ceremony was subsequently performed by a Congregational minister.

—The parlor sale of fancy articles for the benefit of a Child's Institution, which was held at the Bishop's residence, netted $700.

REMINISCENCES OF THE CHURCH AND CHURCH PEOPLE IN ST. LOUIS FROM 1839 TO 1842.

BY MR. F. W. SOUTHACK.

III.

The wardens and vestrymen of the parish at this time were the following gentlemen, viz.: Mr. Wilson P. Hunt and Dr. H. L. Hoffman, wardens; Messrs. J. P. Doan, Daniel Hough, Henry Von Phul, Edward Tracy, Asa Wilgus, Alex. Hamilton, R. M. Strother, Josiah Spalding and Henry S. Cox, vestrymen. Of the above named clergymen and vestrymen who were present at this consecration, not one is now living.

I acted as Secretary of the vestry by appointment, but was not one of them; of the members of the congregation at that time, I believe the following are now living viz.: Messrs. Edward Mead, Wm. G. Clark, Capt. Swon, Green Erskine, Dr. I. Forbes, Thomas M. Taylor, Robt. A. Barnes, Thos. H. Larkin, Sam'l. B. Churchill, Dr. Van Studdiford, (all the above in St. Louis); Mr. J. L. English in Sacramento Cal.; Mr. W. P. Harrison in Hannibal, Mo.; Mrs. James Norris, daughter of the Hon. H. S. Geyer, Oakland, Cal.; Mrs. W. T. Reynolds, daughter of Hon. J. Spalding, Mrs. E. Whalley, daughter of Mr. R. P. Williams, San Francisco, Cal.; Miss H. Echer, now Mrs. Hawks, San Francisco, Cal.; Mrs. D. Hough, Mrs. J. G. Lindell, Mr. J. D. Daggett, Mrs. Dr. Vanzandt, Mrs. E. Brooks, Mrs. Brolaski, Mrs. Wannell, Mrs. E. Charles, now Mrs. Dr. Hoffman, Mrs. Alfred Tracy, now Mrs. Dr. Martin, Mrs. T. B. Targee, Miss Jane Peck, all of St. Louis.

The following is a description of Christ Church, corner of Fifth and Chestnut, in 1839:

This building was a very large one and very unique in style, its architecture was a nondescript and it was generally called a castellated gothic from the fancied resemblance of the tower to the ancient castles of England, it was elevated five or six feet from the level of the street, had three entrances which led directly to the audience room, and an organ gallery over the main entrance. There were no side galleries, and the walls were very plainly finished. A basement contained two rooms, one for the Sunday-school and the other for a robing and vestry room. A flight of stairs up a narrow passage led from the basement to the rear of the pulpit against the west wall of the building. There was no recess chancel, but in front of the west wall was placed the pulpit and reading desk. Access to the pulpit was gained by a few steps from the reading desk, which was placed directly in front of the pulpit. The Communion table (which was shaped like an ordinary parlor table) was placed in front of the reading desk with a plain mahogany chair at each end. There was no special chair for the Bishop's use. A mahogany railing extended the whole distance around from one side to the other, with kneeling cushions in front.

There were three aisles in the church and six rows of pews, besides a few pews on each side of the chancel, and the whole capacity of the building was intended for about 800 comfortably seated.

The entrance from the street was by a flight of wooden steps without any railing to protect persons from falling off.

The tower was intended to hold a bell, but none was ever obtained. This edifice cost a great deal more than it was expected, and in consequence a heavy debt was assumed by the vestry, which it took many years to extinguish.

Among the regular worshippers I will mention the name of one, Mr. Robert P. Williams, who was always in his seat, and whose strong and clear voice in the responses could be heard above any others of the congregation. He was an old Churchman of Boston, and a member of the parish of old Christ Church in that city. He was an excellent reader of the Liturgy, and several times officiated as Lay reader at the time services were held in the basement during the absence of the Rector. He became a member of St. Paul's parish, and died in 1851.

After the consecration of the church building, the Bishop continued to act as rector until the month of September, 1839, when he resigned, in consequence of the increasing duties of his Episcopate, but his resignation was not accepted by the vestry, who prevailed with him to continue his services a while longer, to which he consented until the following year, 1840, when in the spring he renewed his resignation, and which the vestry accepted with deep regret on losing his valuable services.

In the meantime the Rev. Mr. Minard was invited to take temporary charge of Kemper College, which had just opened, until the arrival of the President elect, the Rev. Mr. Crane of Rhode Island. He accepted this invitation, and in consequence resigned his office as assistant minister of Christ church. Mr. Minard continued in charge of the college for a few months, and assisting the Bishop occasionally until the month of November, when some of his friends believing the time had arrived for the formation of a new parish, held a preliminary meeting, at which it was decided to organize one by the name of St. Paul's, and on Easter Monday, 1840, the vestry was elected. A suitable lot was purchased of Judge Wash, on the southeast corner of Fifth and Wash streets, for $5,000 on a term of five years, for which amount the trustees of the church, consisting of Messrs. George Wilson, David H. Armstrong and F. W. Southack, gave their joint note, expecting at its maturity the vestry would be able to pay it. A small and neat building of wood was erected, and a two story house adjoining for the rectory. The church building was very plainly finished; it had two entrances, without any vestibule or gallery; the choir sat on raised benches between the doors in front, and the church contained a very plain reading desk and lectern with a plain table for communion service against the wall. The building could accommodate about 300 persons. I have no recollection of its cost, and only remember that it was a number of years before the debt was finally extinguished. When the note for the lot became due the vestry exerted themselves to pay it, and by dint of hard work, aided by the voluntary assistance of Mr. Asa Wilgus and other members of Christ Church, the debt was paid off and the trustees relieved of their responsibility. Rev. Mr. Minard died in 1846.

I should have mentioned before, that immediately adjoining Christ Church, in the rear, fronting on Chestnut street, the vestry had a two-story house erected for the use of the Bishop and clergy, but its location for a residence was rendered very unpleasant from its contiguity to the County Jail, which was located on the corner of Chestnut and Sixth streets. Bishop Kemper and the Rev. Mr. Minard and his family occupied it and also Rev. Mr. Peake and family. Bishop Hawks also made it his home there until he built a new house for himself.

After the Bishop resigned the rectorship of Christ Church in 1840, the vestry invited several clergymen at the East, but none accepted their call; during this time the Rev. F. F. Peake was filling the place as the Bishop's assistant, very acceptably to the congregation.

The vestry finding they could not procure any minister from the East, decided to invite Mr. Peake, and their invitation was accepted on the 5th of September.

He was a man of lovely disposition, devoted piety and good talents, very attentive to the poor, and all who were in any sorrow or trouble. He was rather a tall man and prepossessing in personal appearance. He served as rector for two years, and on account of ill health and other circumstances, resigned in October, 1842, and went to Florida, where he died a few years afterwards.

After the resignation of Mr. Peake, the vestry invited the Rev. E. C. Hutchinson, D. D., who was at that time President of Kemper College, but he declined the call for the reason that in the opinion of the Bishop and the Church people it was thought best he should remain at the college.

In this emergency Bishop Kemper came to the rescue and assumed the temporary charge of the parish until the month of March, 1843, when the Rev. Mr. Horrell took charge and continued until the arrival of the new rector, Rev. C. S. Hawks, Bishop elect of Missouri. Mr. Horrell was a very large man, weighing over 200 pounds, and of very commanding appearance; he was rather bald, but his side locks were of silken grey, which gave him a venerable appearance.

He was a very pious man, a sincere friend, of an open and cheerful disposition, full of tender sympathies, and endowed with the rare quality of good common sense. He was an excellent reader of the liturgy, and his sermons were full of Christ and Him crucified. He acquired considerable property in St. Louis, and laid out an addition to the city, which was called after his name.

In the year 1838 Kemper college was organized; this institution was started chiefly through the efforts of Bishop Kemper for the purpose of establishing an educational college of a high order, and having in view a theological department for the training of men to act as missionaries in the great West. A large amount of the funds necessary for the purchase of the ground and the erection of the buildings was contributed by Church people in the Eastern States, and a large and excellent library of valuable books was presented to Bishop Kemper for the use of the students.

The Rev. P. R. Minard was placed in the temporary charge of the college until the arrival of the President elect, the Rev. Mr. Crane of Rhode Island. The following named gentlemen were elected the first Board of Trustees, viz.: Rt. Rev. Jackson Kemper, D. D., Judge Robert Wash, Wm. P. Clark, Charles Jabine, James L. English, Daniel Hough, J. C. Laveille, Henry Von Phul, Augustus Kerr, N. P. Taylor, Edward Tracy, J. Parker Doan, W. P. Hunt, Captain Symington, H. L. Hoffman, Josiah Spalding. Mr. English is the only one now living and he resides in Sacramento, Cal.

The college was located about five miles southwest of the city, and the grounds embraced 125 acres, with a coal mine on a portion of it.

In a few years the college was not as well sustained as it might have been, and the expenses exceeded its income and a debt was incurred, secured by a mortgage. In order to pay off the mortgage and other expenses, this valuable property was sacrificed, and at a public sale it was sold to the city government for an alms house, which was subsequently used for an insane asylum.

Towards the close of the year 1841 an effort was made to organize a new parish in the southern portion of the city; the congregation of Christ Church having considerably increased, and there being no Protestant church south of Market street, it was considered to be a propitious time to extend the influence of the Church in that direction, and a minister, Rev. W. Griswold, being at hand, a meeting was held on the 28th of December, at which time an organization was made for a new parish to be called St. John's, and the Rev. Whiting Griswold was called to take charge. He was quite a young man, full of zeal, rather too high a Churchman to suit the notions of some, but being a diligent worker in the interests of the Church, he gained many friends and the prospects for a growing parish were quite flattering.

After the organization was effected the next thing for consideration was where the services should be held, whether in a rented hall, or in a building to be erected. In consequence of the debt on Christ Church it was decided to be inexpedient to attempt the erection of an edifice at that time, and the vestry concluded to rent a hall; to do this it was necessary to go further to the south than was desirable, as no suitable place could be found nearer than the corner of Plum and Second streets, where there was an engine house having a hall in the second story. This room was engaged and occupied by the parish for some time, and until the vestry leased a lot on the corner of Spruce and Fifth streets for a period of ten years, and erected thereupon a small one-story brick building at a moderate cost. The Rev. Mr. Griswold continued to serve the parish until 1849, when during the cholera seasons, he fell a martyr to his self-sacrificing spirit in his arduous labors among the sick. It was during his administration that the present Orphans' Home was established, which was first begun in his own home under the care of his estimable and devoted wife, and afterward was located in a small rented building on an alley in the rear of the church.

The following is a list of officers of the Diocese of Missouri, in 1843: Rt. Rev. Jackson Kemper, D.D., Missionary Bishop in charge; Secretary of Convention, Rev. F. F. Peake; Treasurer of Convention, F. W. Southack, Treasurer of Episcopal Fund, J. Parker Doan; Standing Committee, Rev. P. R. Minard, Rev. F. F. Peake, Rev. S. R. Crane, Messrs. H. L. Hoffman and J. Parker Doan. Kemper College: President, Rev. E. C. Hutchinson; Professor of Divinity, Rev. H. Caswell; Prof. of Greek and Latin, Rev. A. D. Corbin; Prof. of Mathematics, Mr. Edward Barry.

Of the early history of Grace Church I will only say that it was through the exertion of Rev. Mr. Minard and Josiah Spalding, Esq., of Christ Church, that the lot of ground was secured for the benefit of the Church. This lot was one of the three circles donated by Major Wright, I believe of North St. Louis, for public uses. These gentlemen went on to the ground and took formal possession of it in the name of the Protestant Episcopal Church of Missouri, and soon afterwards a parish was organized by the name of Grace, and I think Rev. Mr. Woodward was elected first Rector.

was the first preparation perfectly adapted to cure diseases of the scalp, and the first successful restorer of faded or gray hair to its natural color, growth, and youthful beauty. It has had many imitators, but none have so fully met all the requirements needful for the proper treatment of the hair and scalp. HALL'S HAIR RENEWER has steadily grown in favor, and spread its fame and usefulness to every quarter of the globe. Its unparalleled success can be attributed to but one cause: the entire fulfilment of its promises.

The proprietors have often been surprised at the receipt of orders from remote countries, where they had never made an effort for its introduction.

The use for a short time of HALL'S HAIR RENEWER wonderfully improves the personal appearance. It cleanses the scalp from all impurities, cures all humors, fever, and dryness, and thus prevents baldness. It stimulates the weakened glands, and enables them to push forward a new and vigorous growth. The effects of this article are not transient, like those of alcoholic preparations, but remain a long time, which makes its use a matter of economy.

CONSECRATION OF ST. MARK'S, BUTLER.

The consecration service of this very neat church was postponed because of a small remainder of debt on the property until recently. It is a frame structure, about 60 feet by 24, built from plans furnished by the Rev. Mr. Scheetz, and having porch, recess chancel and vestry room. It is wainscotted and ceiled within, and the wood has been oiled in the natural color. It is in gothic style, and furnished very neatly.

The consecration took place on St. Andrew's Day, 30th ult. The Bishop was accompanied by the Rev. Messrs. H. D. Jardine, of Kansas City, M. C. Browne, of Nevada, and C. H. Bohn, of Butler. The request for consecration was read by the warden, Mr. Thos. W. Childs, and the certificate of the conveyance of the property to the Parochial Trust Fund by Jas. K. Brugler, Esq., Secretary. The sentence of consecration was read by the Rev. Mr. Jardine, the epistle by the Rev. Mr. Browne, the sermon was preached by the Bishop, who was assisted in the Holy Communion by the Rev. Mr. Bohn, the minister of the mission.

The funeral of an estimable communicant was attended in the afternoon, and at night the Bishop preached again, and administered Baptism. The hospitality of the good people was, as it always is, most abundant and kind, and the clergymen went away refreshed by the cordiality and the devotion of the members of the parish.

It perhaps need not be said that the proposed revision of the Prayer Book leaves things for the present just where they are. None of the action taken at the late General Convention on the subject is at all complete. It requires ratification three years hence to become effective. Bishops, too, have not the power to license for use that which had had preliminary approval.

THE Rev. Mr. Griffith has interested himself in behalf of St. Luke's Hospital in his parish, as will be seen in the large amount given under the head of the Children's Cot. He also gathered and brought to the Hospital a large amount of most acceptable provisions, vegetables, jellies and other things. That which he did could be done by any clergymen or other person, who would make the interest of this general charity a matter of personal concern. All praise to the generous givers in this case.

THE publisher of THE NEWS is always glad to hear of irregularities in receiving it, and to hear promptly. He endeavors to have the papers come to subscribers regularly. Persons often find their subscriptions have expired sooner than they think. Not seldom too, when money is sent it finds that already a year, more or less, is in arrears, and that the amount only pays up for the past. We do not want to cut off the names of those who wish to keep up; but the amount which is lost each year by those who have neglected to pay up, and then move away, or decline to take the paper out, with money owing, is extraordinary. If persons will notice the direction tags, they can readily keep their accounts square.

WITH this number we come to the close of another volume. Probably a number of subscriptions expire at this time. We hope that a special effort will be made to have all of them renewed, and many more added. The value of the paper for those who are at all interested in Church work in this Diocese has long since been proven. We ask for special pains, because it is so easy for old subscribers to drop off. Many die or remove, and unless their numbers are made good by others who have more recently come into the Diocese, the already too small number will fall to a non-paying point. Will not each one consider himself or herself an agent for the paper, and if possible secure a club of five, in which case the subscription price is seventy-five cents, or else send individual names and amounts. In any case act vigorously and promptly.

PLACES are often very negligent about starting services. They do not show energy or continued interest. They start out well, but on the removal of some devout person, or in the intervals between the visits of the clergyman, they fall back into indifference. It may be a comfort to know that such dispositions have formerly been shown in communities which have now become strong. Rochester, New York, is a place of nearly 100,000 inhabitants, and has ten churches now. Church work was started there in 1817 by the Rev. Mr. Onderdonk, afterwards Bishop of Pennsylvania, and who was then missionary in Canandaigua. He writes to his Bishop about it: "When requested to go there, I told a gentleman I could do but little personally; but they will do almost nothing themselves. While I am there, they soon get in order again, and zealous, but speedily relax. Still, the materials are good, and they only want a clergymen fixed there to get on very well." So that some of the places which seem so indifferent and perverse, if tried with a little longer, will pay well for all labor put out on them.

A GOOD STEWARD.

The late S. M. Edgell, of this city, by will gives $50,000 to religious and charitable objects, not belonging to his congregation, but to general missionary work. During his life time he often gave $20,000 a year. Is the ability to do something like this wholly lost in our Church? and to give for other than parochial objects? What can be inferred of the faith or the love which among our people leaves millions every year, and yet scarcely ever leaves a penny for religious purposes? Mr. Edgell was, we believe, a Congregationalist, but he showed a large and catholic spirit in remembering interests which were further off, real and well administered, but not simply appealing to parochial pride or comfort. A Churchman may be a congregationalist in spite of his position, if he knows nothing of the Church except as represented in his own parish, and wonders what is meant by the mention of any educational, or missionary, or Church building societies, not connected with his own congregation. Very possibly, too, his heirs would have been glad to have received this additional amount, and would not have squandered it; but he probably thought they had enough, and other interests required this amount more.

It witnesses too, probably, to the fidelity of pastoral counsel, which familiarized the mind with these more remote objects, and kept them present, and made them attractive in the vital purposes which they were accomplishing, so that when a will came to be made, they were not forgotten.

That faith too, will succeed, and deserves to succeed, which can vitalize generosity, and make its activities so much to be thought about, and believed in, and given for, as will in the mortal crisis cause such willing and large benefactions. And that faith which cannot pass this test, which professes belief, and still gives nothing, will naturally lag. "The longest pole gets the per-simmons."

CAPEL ON PAPAL INFALLIBILITY.

The distinguished Roman dignitary, who is now sojourning in this country, confided recently to a Boston audience the fact that after casting about in his thoughts for a subject which would be fitted for their latitude, he had determined to make it the occasion of giving to the United States what, he said, would be a careful statement of the matter of the infallibility of the Pope, as a necessity for faith.

It was a large task, seeing that it was one on which no branch of the Church had for more than 18 centuries after Christ made any pronouncement, and one which the learned and candid Archbishop of the Roman Church in this city, in an address prepared for delivery at the Vatican Council, had declared to be a belief not to be found in the Holy Scriptures, nor the traditions of the primitive Church.

The lecturer simplified his task by asserting that there was no choice between accepting his conclusion, or "blotting out the very name of Christianity;" and also by remarking that "a man may be an honorable man, or the biggest scoundrel going, and yet be infallible, for God Almighty can compel wicked men to say that which is true."

The argument throughout, in so far as it was not simple assertion, was a priori; infallibility ought to exist, and therefore it does exist. There was not the slightest attempt made to prove that this is asserted in Holy Scripture, and is, therefore, to be held. While depreciating the value of reason in judging of matters of religious truth, he apotheosizes reason, he raises it to the dizzy height by airing it, and it alone, to establish the need and existence of the dogma of infallibility. It is rationalism used to condemn rationalism. He argues that there ought to be this final voice in the Church; and yet, after all, he conditions its very existence upon the last term of an intellectual process, against which anyone could with equal right assert that it is not proven.

Much of what the Monsignor says is mere commonplace to the Churchman, and in his declamations against Protestantism, he entirely ignores, either in ignorance, or with uncandor, the historical position of the old Anglican Church. He is simply mistaken if, under the name of Protestants, he declares of it that "these, one and all, make the declaration that by private judgment, and private judgment alone, it is possible for us to have a full knowledge of revelation." The Church's immemorial position has been that in matters of faith, beyond the explicit declarations of Holy Writ, the judgment of the primitive, undivided Church, as evidenced in the creeds, was to be taken in the arbitrament of differences in doctrine or practice.

Our Lord has declared that the gates of hell are not to prevail against the Church, but He gave no such assurance of indefectibility as to any member or officer in His Church. The locating of infallibility in the Bishop of Rome is a late novelty, which, as Archbishop Kendrick declared, could not stand at the bar of history. It is a weak device to incarnate the functions of the Holy Ghost in one man. Against this, as intelligent students of history, we have a smile at the effrontery which would by assertion brazen it out; as concerned about the practical effects of the unhistorical assumption, we make our steady protest.

CHILDREN'S COT.

ST. LUKE'S HOSPITAL.

For several years an effort has been making to raise $3,000 from the children and those who are interested in them, for the perpetual endowment for a cot and a room for a child at our Hospital, where a child not able to be otherwise provided for may be kindly taken care of when sick or undergoing treatment. By little and little we have gone on so far. Gifts are urgently asked for this purpose, and will be credited in THE NEWS. They may be sent to the Bishop, 2727 Chestnut street, St. Louis.

PERSONAL.

—Mr. Edwin Booth has given $2,000 to a fund being made up for the family of the late Dr. Ewer, in remembrance of kind offices done by Dr. Ewer when an editor in California to Mr. Booth, then a young aspirant.

—Father Hyacinthe recently officiated in one of our churches in Washington, D. C., also in one of the parishes in New York city, and for Dr. Crosby, the Presbyterian minister.

—The Rev. Dr. Huntington of Worcester, Mass., has been called to and accepted Grace Church, New York. There can hardly be any doubt but that he will still be found in the General Convention, from which he could be ill spared. He was recently in this city, and preached in Christ Church on the 2nd inst. The congregation was very large. He came on to accompany the remains and widow of Mr. Preston Player, who had been a parishioner of his.

—The clerical obituary of the month includes the names of the Rev. J. H. Magoffin of Michigan, Rev. Geo. W. Boyd of Oregon, Rev. Henry Lockwood of New York, the Rev. George W. Wilson of Georgia.

—The consecration of the Bishop elect of North Dakota has been appointed for Dec. 20th at Calvary Church, New York. He has invited the Bishop of this Diocese, his old classmate, to be present and take part; but Bishop Robertson had to decline on account of home duties.

—The new Chaplain of the House of Representatives in Washington is the Rev. John S. Lindsay, rector of one of our churches in Georgetown.

—The new Bishop of Huron, Canada, Dr. Baldwin has been consecrated, and the aged Bishop of Niagara is about to resign, and give his entire income to the Bishop that is to be elected.

—Sir F. Bramwell says that in England if a man had made up his mind to be killed in a railway accident, he would have to travel day and night by express trains for nine hundred years, before he could be quite certain of achieving his purpose.

—The Bishop of Rochester has expressed his approval of the work of Moody and Sankey in its results upon the desperately wicked people of South London, whom other agencies have failed to reach. He thinks that persons otherwise provided with religious advantages should not attend and so crowd out those for whose special good the work of the evangelists is designed.

From the above it will be seen that thus far only six parishes in the diocese have acted on the Bishop's suggestion, though no doubt the others will soon follow. The Rector has heard from several parishes to the effect that when the right time comes, the offerings will be taken. He, of course, understands how pressing are the local needs, in many cases, but hopes that all will respond to the urgent call, which the late disaster makes imminent. As it is the property of the diocese and not his own, and a work in which all have a common interest, he does not hesitate to appeal to his brethren for such aid as they may be able to give.

He would take this opportunity to say that one of the new buildings is now about completed and accommodations for twenty more boys thus provided for. As it is in every way desirable that these rooms be at once filled, the Rector would be glad to send catalogues for distribution to any of the clergy, or to receive names of parties who have sons to educate. All will be in readiness for new boys immediately after the Holidays.

GENERAL NEWS.

—The State of Maryland has deposited in a fine fire proof safe, belonging to the Historical Society of the State, some of its most valuable archives, and appropriated $2,000 for copying, editing, and printing them. For $1,800 of this, the society has had printed 750 copies of a first volume, very well edited and gotten out, of which the society takes 400 copies at cost price for its members, handing over to the State 350 copies. With the balance of the money the society is at work on another volume, with enough to well nigh pay for it. Now it proposes to ask the Legislature to entrust it with some more money, having shown how creditably it has used what has been entrusted to it.

—St. Ignatius Church, New York, of which Dr. Ewer was rector, is burdened with a debt of $35,000, the anxiety caused by which, no doubt, tended to shorten Dr. Ewer's life. The Rev. McClellan Fiske has received a call to the rectorship.

—The Church Temperance Society has established a monthly organ in New York, "Friendly Visitor," at $1.50 a year. It has a well selected list of contents, and is published at 73 Bible House. It has sixteen pages, and is handsomely printed.

ADVICE TO GIRLS.—"Never marry a drinking man in the vain hope of reforming him after marriage. It is one of the most awful mistakes any girl can make. If the love of God and the love of you, before marriage will not keep a man sober, your influence will be of very little use afterwards. Have you ever seen a drunkard's home? Well, then, will you run the risk of sharing such utter, hopeless misery for life?" If your intended husband ever drinks too much, the very next time you meet him say to him, 'I will not marry you until you have been an Abstinence for one year, and you must begin to night.' Suppose he will not agree. Then he loves his liquor better than he does you; he does not really care about you, and you are well rid of him. Temperance and thrift, based on the love of God, are the only foundations of a truly happy married life?"—Rev. J. H. Potter.

BOOK NOTICES.

The December CENTURY. A portrait of Peter Cooper, engraved on wood by Thomas Johnson from a photograph taken a few months before his death, is the frontispiece of the December number.

An entertaining paper on Devonshire, entitled "The Fairest County in England," is the opening illustrated article, and contains nine charming sketches. In a profusely illustrated paper on Los Angeles, entitled, "Echoes from the City of the Angels," H. H. closes her series of picturesque articles on Southern California. Professor J. Rendel Harris, of Johns Hopkins University, writes of "The Original Documents of the New Testament," and gives an interesting illustrated account of a discovery which the author believes that he has made with regard to the text of the Bible and other ancient manuscripts.

In fiction the December CENTURY is uncommonly generous as well as interesting. It offers parts of three serial stories,—namely, the much-discussed "Bread-Winners"; George W. Cable's new romance, "Dr. Sevier," which was begun in the November number; and the first part of Robert Grant's story of New-York life, "An Average Man."

MONEY AND THE MECHANISM OF EXCHANGE. By Prof. W. Stanley Jevons, F. R. S. In two Parts, Part First. Price, post free, 15 cents. J. Fitzgerald, Publisher, 20 Lafayette Place, New York.

The many weighty questions of Currency and Banking, which are now agitating the body politic, make such a work as this exceedingly valuable at the present time. The subjects treated in this first part of the work are, barter, exchange, the functions of money, early history of money, qualities of the material of money, the metals as money, coins, the principles of circulation, systems of metallic money, fractional currency, money standards.

ST. NICHOLAS for December. John G. Whittier opens the Christmas ST. NICHOLAS with an Indian legend told in verse, entitled "How the Robin Came." Julian Hawthorne follows with the first half of "Almon, Auria, and Mona," a charmingly fanciful tale; and Louisa M. Alcott contributes the second half of her bright Christmas story, "Sophie's Secret."

Captain Mayne Reid's new and exciting serial, "The Land of Fire," is also begun. "A Duel in a Desert" is a very laughable story, and so is the series of pictures and verses entitled "The Well-Read Hunter."

Then there is a Christmas play by E. S. Brooks, with a full page drawing by R. B. Birch of "Bringing in the Yule Log"; and the same artist furnishes the colored Christmas frontispiece; there is also a description of a "Children's Christmas Club," by Ella S. Sargent.

MCCALLA AND STAVELEY'S CHURCH ANNUAL. This large and beautifully printed almanac and year book is the first which reaches us. It is full of most valuable information, and made elegant by the superiority of paper, and type, and engraving. It has all the needed statistics, and a great amount of suggestions as to parochial activities, quite out of the line of the other almanacs. It is not so much a history as a living oracle. 237-9 Dock St., Philadelphia: 50 cent.

AMERICAN CHURCH REVIEW. Nov. Monthly. In addition to many other elements of this number which gives it special value, it contains the authorized publication of the proposed amendments of the Prayer Book, as passed by both Houses of the General Convention, and now made known to the Dioceses. This is the only form in which they have been given. There is much also that is valuable. $3 a year, 35 cents a number. P. O. Box 1839 New York City.

The Christmas WIDE AWAKE, of extra size, just at hand, is a refined and very beautiful number, sure to be carefully treasured in the family for years, for its literature is not of the evanescent class, and its illustrations are an art-portfolio in themselves. The Frontispiece, is threefold, and designed as an illustration for Miss Wilkins' dainty poem "On Christmas Day." Sophie May follows with one of her inimitable stories, "A Christmas Breeze." Then comes "Facing The World," by Mrs. Dinah Mulock-Craik, an Edinburgh story. The WIDE AWAKE serials promise to be of great excellence this year, the one for the older boys being a romance of the Revolution, "A Double Masquerade," and there is a delightful Wonder Story for little folks, "In No-Man's Land," illustrated with dainty pictures. Subscribe now, and secure the opening chapters of the Serials. Only $2.50 a year. D. Lothrop & Co., Publishers, Boston, Mass.

FRENCH CELEBRITIES. Part Second, by Jules Claretie and others. In the interest which has latterly been aroused in French politics by the Alphonso and Touquin Episodes it is very interesting to have authentic information about Ferry, Simon, Bert and others. This is written and published besides in an attractive form. It forms No. 102 of the Standard Library of excellent reading, issued fortnightly, in stiff paper covers. $5 a year, 15 cents. the number.

PALLISER'S USEFUL DETAILS. The enterprising firm whose address is given below has given in a large volume forty large plates of working drawings for a great variety of household objects. They are useful, not only to the designers and carpenter, but will be of interest to all others as well. They promote efficiency and good taste. Palliser, Palliser & Co., Bridgeport, Conn., $3.

No intelligent reader can fail to be interested in the contents of the NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW for December. The question of the telegraph has the place of honor in the number, Gardiner G. Hubbard pointing out the great advantages that would result from the proposed "Government Control of the Telegraph," and showing from the experience of several European countries the benefits to be derived from the incorporation of the telegraphic with the postal service. Prof. J. Laurence Laughlin, of Harvard University, shows the "Evils of the Sub-Treasury System" in its absorbing and withholding from circulation the specie that is constantly needed to insure stability in the world of finance. "The Day of Judgment," by Gail Hamilton, is a caustic review of the less amiable moral traits of Thomas Carlyle. Henry George writes of "Overproduction," an idea which he declares to be preposterous, unless more wealth is produced than is wanted. Gen. W. B. Franklin sets forth the views of naval and military experts as to what is absolutely needed, in the way of organization, forts, ships and war material, to insure the "National Defense." An article on "Railroad and Public Time," by Prof. Leonard Waldo, of the Yale College observatory, explains the system of uniform time standards now being introduced into the railroad service of the United States. Finally, there is a discussion of the question of Morality without Religion," by F. A. Kider and Prof. A. A. Hodge, of Princeton College. Published at 30 Lafayette Place, New York, and for sale by booksellers generally.

THE MANUFACTURE OF CABINET ORGANS. Daniel F. Beatty, proprietor of the famous Beatty Organ Manufactory, at Washington, N. J., was recently at the Fifth Avenue Hotel. To a Tribune reporter he gave some facts as to the growth in the cabinet organ business.

"Any information that I can give you," he said, "must necessarily be personal and relating more to my particular business, but to that you are welcome. On October 9, 1879, ground was broken for my factory at Washington, N. J., which was completed and occupied by January 1, 1880. An acre of land was attached. The monthly sale of organs then averaged about 150. To day we have thirteen acres of land, well-nigh covered with buildings and lumber, and the monthly shipments reach 2,000 organs, apart from the sale of pianos. Upward of 1,000,000 feet of choice woods are kept constantly in stock, 200,000 feet being required each month for merely boxing the instruments. Our orders come from all parts of this country, from South America, England, the Continent and Australia. In the factory we employ 500 men. You may judge of the demand for cabinet organs by the fact that an organ is made by us every ten minutes.

"Realizing the immense profits made by middlemen, I determined to have no agents but to sell directly to the people, thus enabling them to purchase at a low price. Take, for instance, our Beethoven organ, of which 25,000 have been sold. It has twenty-seven stops and ten sets of reeds, is handsomely cased in ash, black walnut or mahogany, and sells for $125. It is impossible for a manufacturer employing agents to make this organ for less than $300. Extensive advertising has helped to increase the trade."

SCROFULA

and all scrofulous diseases, Sores, Erysipelas, Eczema, Blotches, Ringworm, Tumors, Carbuncles, Boils, and Eruptions of the Skin, are the direct result of an impure state of the blood.

To cure these diseases the blood must be purified, and restored to a healthy and natural condition. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA has for over forty years been recognized by eminent medical authorities as the most powerful blood purifier in existence. It frees the system from all foul humors, enriches and strengthens the blood, removes all traces of mercurial treatment, and proves itself a complete master of all scrofulous diseases.

A Recent Cure of Scrofulous Sores.

"Some months ago I was troubled with scrofulous sores (ulcers) on my legs. The limbs were badly swollen and inflamed, and the sores discharged large quantities of offensive matter. Every remedy I tried failed, until I used AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, of which I have now taken three bottles, with the result that the sores are healed, and my general health greatly improved. I feel very grateful for the good your medicine has done me. Yours respectfully, MRS. ANN O'BRIAN." 148 Sullivan St., New York, June 24, 1882.

All persons interested are invited to call on Mrs. O'Brian; also upon the Rev. Z. P. Wilds of 78 East 54th Street, New York City, who will take pleasure in testifying to the wonderful efficacy of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, not only in the cure of this lady, but in his own case and many others within his knowledge.

The well-known writer on the Boston Herald, B. W. BALL, of Rochester, N.H., writes, June 7, 1882:

"Having suffered severely for some years with Eczema, and having failed to find relief from other remedies, I have made use, during the past three months, of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, which has effected a complete cure. I consider it a magnificent remedy for all blood diseases."

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

stimulates and regulates the action of the digestive and assimilative organs, renews and strengthens the vital forces, and speedily cures Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Rheumatic Gout, Catarrh, General Debility, and all diseases arising from an impoverished or corrupted condition of the blood, and a weakened vitality.

It is incomparably the cheapest blood medicine, on account of its concentrated strength, and great power over disease.

MISCELLANY.

—Here is a good sentence by the late Dr. Washburn: "Our episcopate must be seen to be no needless ornament; not the queen bee of the hive to keep up the succession, but the most active in work, and the least active in self-seeking."

—A sweetheart's solicitude: "I'm so alarmed, Lizzie," exclaimed a St. Louis girl who was engaged to be married to a young army officer. "He hasn't written me in three days." "There is no occasion to get excited," was the reassuring reply; "he is out of the reach of Indians; there is no epidemic prevailing where he is stationed, and when he last wrote you he was in perfect health. "Oh, yes, I know all that, Lizzie," said the timid, agitated creature, "but then there's the army worm."

—John Randolph once said, "I should have been an atheist if it had not been for one recollection—and that was the memory of the time when my departed mother used to take my little hands in hers, and taught me to say, 'Our Father, who art in heaven.'"

—A young man called, in company with several other gentlemen, upon a young lady. Her father was also present to assist in entertaining the guests. He did not show his daughter's scruples against the use of spirituous drinks, for he had wine to offer. The wine was poured out, and would have been drunk, but the young lady asked: "Did you call upon me, or upon papa?" Gallantry, if nothing else, compelled them to answer, "We called upon you." "Then you will please not drink wine; I have lemonade for any callers." The father urged the guests to drink, and they were undecided. The young lady added: "Remember, if you call on me, then you drink lemonade; but if upon papa, why in that case, I have nothing to say." The wine glasses were set down untasted.

—As showing the vagueness of much Sunday School teaching, and the same thing hold quite as true in this country as in England, to which this incident refers: Canon Elwyn related recently the story which Lord Hatherly used to tell: "He said that after examining his children at St. John's, Westminster, on the words 'Take My yoke upon you,' he asked them what was the meaning of 'yoke'; and a large number of them said it was the inside of an egg. In another case, after a lesson on the Litany, a teacher asked his children what they prayed to be delivered from, and he was sorry to say that the answer was, 'All Bishops, Priests, and Deacons.'"

—The story is told of Senator Vance, of North Carolina, that soon after his second marriage he remarked to his bride: "My dear, I'm a stubborn fellow, and you may anticipate trouble. Now, in the beginning, while I am submissive, I want to give you one piece of advice. If you follow it, we'll get on mighty well. It is this: Make me do just as I please."

—The Christian Advocate says: "The career of Mr. Beecher on the Pacific coast is notable in more ways than one. In many places his audiences are small, and the committees are losing money. But his addresses are reported in full. In the opinion of several discreet correspondents, neither bigots nor illiterate nor prejudiced, they are little less injurious to Christianity in their quality than the harangues of Ingersoll, and worse in their effect."

It is both a gratification and pleasure to note the great and general satisfaction which the McShane Church Bells give wherever sent. Following is a letter published by permission of the firm, and it speaks for itself; after stating that he was glad that his bill was settled, he says, "Now, I have another bill to square and settle; I mean the bill of honor with respect to your bell. It is for me a duty both of justice and courtesy to acknowledge, as highly as possible, that you have fully and entirely settled your obligation towards me. Your bell is very nice, very strong, very sonorous, giving general and entire satisfaction. Its way to the church from the railroad station (some ten miles), was a triumphal one. The people, as it passed along, being roused by its mighty voice. The day it was fixed up in its steeple was a feast day, the whole parish was gathered all around to see and to hear, and the satisfaction goes but increasing. Now, this bell is spoken of to its praise in every part of this country. I am sure that no other company could do better than you did. I shall not fail to commend your bells at every opportunity, and the next time I want a bell, I shall not fail to apply to you again."

A MALARIAL VICTIM.

The Trying Experience of a Prominent Minister in the Tropics and at the North.

TO THE EDITOR:

The following circumstances, drawn from my personal experience, are so important and really remarkable that I have felt called upon to make them public. Their truth can be amply verified:

In 1875 I moved from Canton, St. Lawrence county, N. Y., to Florida, which state I intended to make my future residence. I purchased a home on the banks of the St. John's river and settled down, as I thought, for life. The summer following the first winter I was conscious of most peculiar sensations which seemed to be the accompaniment of a change of climate. I felt a sinking at the pit of the stomach accompanied by occasional dizziness and nausea. My head ached. My limbs pained me and I had an oppressive sense of weariness. I had a thirst for acids and my appetite was weak and uncertain. My digestion was impaired and my food did not assimilate. At first I imagined it was the effort of nature to become acclimated and so I thought little of it. But my troubles increased until I became restless and feverish and the physicians informed me I was suffering from malarial fever. This continued in spite of all the best physicians could do and I kept growing steadily worse. In the year 1880 my physicians informed me a change of climate was absolutely necessary—that I could not survive another summer in the south. I determined to return north, but not to the extreme portion, and so I took up my residence at Upper Sandusky in Central Ohio. The change did not work the desired cure and I again consulted physicians. I found they were unable to effect a permanent cure, and when the extreme warm weather of summer came on I grew so much worse that I gave up all hope. At that time I was suffering terribly. How badly, only those can appreciate who have contracted malarial disease in tropical regions. It seemed as if death would be a relief greater than any other blessing. But notwithstanding all this, I am happy to state that I am to-day a perfectly well and healthy man. How I came to recover so remarkably can be understood from the following card voluntarily published by me in the Sandusky, O. Republican, entitled:

HONOR TO WHOM HONOR IS DUE.

EDITORS REPUBLICAN: During my recent visit to Upper Sandusky, so many inquiries were made relative to what medicine, or course of treatment had brought such a marked change in my system, I feel it to be due propriety and to the public to state that Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure accomplished for me what other medicines and physicians had failed to do. The malarial poison which had worked its way so thoroughly through my system during my five years' residence in Florida had brought me to the verge of the grave, and physicians had pronounced my case incurable; but that is not to be wondered at, as it was undoubtedly one of the worst on record. Hough Brothers, of your city, called my attention to the medicine referred to, and induced me to try a few bottles. So marked was the change after four week's trial that I continued its use, and now, after three months, the cure is complete. This is not written for the benefit of Warner & Co., but for the public, and especially for any person troubled with malarial or bilious attacks."

Such is the statement I made, without solicitation, after my recovery, and such I stand by at the present moment. I am convinced that Warner's safe Cure is all it is claimed to be, and as such deserves the great favor it has received. A remedy which can cure the severest case of tropical malaria of five years' standing certainly cannot fail to cure those minor malarial troubles which are so prevalent and yet so serious.

LADIES' SOLID GOLD WATCHES!

Almost every young gentleman rides himself upon carrying a watch of some kind, and gentlemen can with perfect propriety, carry a silver watch, an imitation gold, or a tickle watch, provided it is a good time-keeper. Although ladies have the same pride about carrying a watch, and take the same pleasure in doing so that gentlemen do, still, the great majority of ladies do not carry watches. There are two reasons for their not doing so. First it is not considered quite the proper thing for a lady to carry any but a Gold Watch, and second, Gold Watches have heretofore been so high in price that the majority of young ladies could not afford to own one. Realizing this condition of things, we have, after much time spent in expending, and at great expense, perfected a beautiful "Heavenly Ladies' Watch, with solid Gold Hunting cases, which we are enabled to sell at the extremely low price of FIFTEEN DOLLARS, making it the CHEAPEST GOLD WATCH IN THE WORLD, and placing it within the reach of almost every young lady to the land. This watch is sold by retail firms at $25.00 each and upwards, but we sell thousands and are satisfied with a very small profit. Young gentlemen who have desired to make their favorite sister or sweetheart a present of a Watch, and who have been prevented by the high price of watches from doing so, can now purchase an "Elegant Gold Watch, without feeling impoverished a whole year afterward. We make the cases of our New Ladies' Watch of Solid Gold, Elegantly Engraved, and in various patterns, they are "Things of Perfect Beauty." They have fine Movements and are fully guaranteed for time. Every Watch is sent up in a beautiful velvet-lined Case and sent by Registered Mail on receipt of $15.00. Or we will send the Watch C. O. D. if you send $3.00 on account, the balance to be paid on delivery. If you order before Christmas, and send full amount of cash, we will ENgrave YOUR INITIALS FREE OF CHARGE. We send a Double Extra Fine Gold Plated Open or Loose Chain with the Watch on receipt of $3.00 additional. Send money by Registered Mail, Post Office Money Order, or Draft on New York to World Manf'g Co. 122 Nassau Street New York

We feel a real pleasure in calling our readers' attention to these splendid watches. A careful inspection satisfies us that it is one of the most beautiful, useful and thoroughly well made watches that ever adorned a lady's person. It is indeed an extraordinary bargain.

PARLOR ORGANS

ONE YEAR'S TEST TRIAL.
Money Refunded, with interest at six per cent., if not just as represented. Organ shipped same day order is received.

ONLY $88.00

It is by far the sweetest toned and most powerful Organ yet made. The case is manufactured from the choicest of seasoned and kiln-dried Black Walnut, built neat, so as not to absorb dirt or dust. It is manufactured on a new and scientific plan, so as to render sound of reeds PIPE-LIKE in tone. The Pipe Tube Cells enable this Organ to imitate a Church Pipe Organ that would cost from $500 to $1,000. The Scotch BAGPIPE, ALPINE HORN, CHIME OF SWISS BELLS, EUROPEAN FLAGGOLLET, ORCHESTRA, BRASS BAND, OLD RULL VIOLIN, MUSIC BOX, the HUMAN VOICE, ANGELIC HARP, NIGHT HORN, CATHEDRAL PIPE ORGAN, are all exactly imitated in "Beatty's Best." Only $88; providing order is given and remittance made within 25 days after date of this newspaper. If ordered within 13 days, $80.00, or if order is given and remittance is made within 9 days, only $75.00 cash will buy this magnificent $200.00 Parlor Organ, including a very handsome Bench (or stool), Book and Music. The reason why this limited time price is given is to induce you to order as early as possible, thus introducing this sweet-toned instrument immediately. IF YOU CANNOT BUY NOW, WRITE, GIVING YOUR REASONS WHY, AS I WANT TO HEAR FROM YOU ANYWAY.

9th Set—Noble DIAPASON Reeds.

11th Set—ANGELIC HARP Reeds.
12th Set—World NIGHT HORN Reeds.

READ THE DESCRIPTION OF STOP WORK. 29 IN ALL.

- 1—CLARINET.—A set of reeds that exactly imitates the musical instrument that bears its name. It is one of the most brilliant sets of reeds used in "Beatty's Best."
2—VOIX CELESTE.—The sweet, pure, and exalted tones produced from this Stop are beyond description.
3—CELLO.—A rich and melodious tone is produced.
4—FRENCH HORN.—Imitates a full ORCHESTRA and BRASS BAND.
5—PICCOLO.—Variety of music which makes the Piccolo the most difficult and expensive Stop to build, producing an effect similar to a MILITARY BAND.
6—SAXAPHONE.—The beautiful effect of this Stop is "Beatty's Favorite." This set of reeds is so pleasing that many have written to me saying: "It alone is worth the price of the Organ."
7—DIAPASON.—Draws a full set of Golden Tongue Reeds.
8—AEROSTATIC EXP-ERSON Compass or Regulator, showing at a glance the amount of pressure upon the instrument; same as a compass to the ship so is this new improvement to the Organ. The last seventeen (17) Stops are operated in direct conjunction with above twelve (12), bringing forth, at command of the performer, most charming music, with beautiful orchestral effect, from a mere whisper to a grand and burst of harmony. Its MELODIOUS TONES, while using the full Organ must be heard to be appreciated. To which is added the RIGHT and LEFT Grand Organ Knee Swells, so as to enable the performer to throw on or off full power without removing hands from keyboard. Also a third Knee Swell (patented) gives the Organ a resonant tone not obtained in any other make. Lamp Stands, Pocket for Music, Treble (S) Upright Bellows, Steel Springs, 6-Octave Keyboard, BEATTY'S PATENT STOP ACTION and SOUNDING REEDS. Regular Catalogue Price, without Bench, (or Stool), Book and Music, ONLY $200.00. This Organ is worth, to any lover of sweet music, several times its price. $200.00.
If you ever intend to buy an Organ you should order this instead of some other make. Why? Because this instrument contains all the music to be found in an ordinary Organ that is sold at retail for $200.00. Besides, it has many varieties of sweet combinations and imitations of several musical and pipe instruments only to be obtained in "Beatty's Best." Now ready for $88. It is fully secured by United States patents. Why, then, not order the best? If you are not entirely satisfied after one year's use you are at perfect liberty to return the Organ, and I hereby positively agree to promptly refund you your money, with interest at 6 per cent. If you don't want to buy just now why not come and money, with interest at 6 per cent. Look at the Organ, hear it played, and see for yourself. YOU ARE WELCOME. FREE COACH meets you at train. Don't fail to visit my factory, as it is by far the Largest Organ Works in Existence. 43 Shipments of Beatty's Organs (2 Horses), 1,600. TOTAL, 5,000. This is as many Organs shipped as any two of the largest Organ Builders in America combined, and it is beyond a doubt positive proof that the public are buying Beatty's Organs in preference to other makes.

A limited number of advertisements will be received at the rate of eight cents per line for each insertion. Twelve lines make an inch.

Contributions, and all other matters for insertion in this paper should be addressed to the Editor of the CHURCH NEWS, St. Louis, Mo.

The Bishop's Column.

Letters intended for the Bishop will reach him most quickly and surely, if addressed to him at the Residence, or with the name of the city simply.

Letters for the Bishop, while on a Visitation, and directed to the interior, should be sent to the care of some clergyman to ensure their safe delivery.

WOULD any person who has no personal use for old copies of the Churchman send any of the following numbers of last year's volume to the Bishop, in order to complete a set for the Diocesan Library: May 12th, 19th, 26th; June 2d, 9th; August 4th, 11th, 18th? The attention will be appreciated.

THE Bishop expressed himself unfortunately in his Notes in the last number of THE NEWS if he left on any one the impression that they were written for the purpose of telling how hard his lot or his work was, or as a bid for sympathy in fulfilling the duties which his office calls for. He enjoys few parts of his work more than that which takes him to the parishes to help and sympathize in their struggles. He is constantly made aware, by the evidences of self-denial which he meets, that his own is by comparison a very easy lot.

THE Service for the Institution of the Rev. Stephen H. Greene into the Rectorship of St. John's church, St. Louis, will take place on Friday, 25th inst., being the Festival of the Conversion of St. Paul, at 11 o'clock in the morning. The Bishop will act as the Institutor. The Clergy of the Diocese and members of the other St. Louis parishes, particularly those who have been formerly connected with St. John's, are especially invited to attend. The Clergy are requested to bring surplices, and to be at the church at least fifteen minutes before hour of Service, which will commence promptly at 11 o'clock.

The Rector has invited the Bishop, the Clergy, and the Vestry of the parish to lunch with him immediately after the Service at his residence, No. 1308 Dillon street.

PLEDGES.

Pledges are often made by the Bishop for aid in building churches, or parsonages, or purchasing lots. Generally these are matters which are immediately carried out, but sometimes the project is dropped, and after a long time the subject is revived, and the Bishop is called upon for the amount. The whole sum which the Bishop has ever at disposal is very small; only the amounts which a very few generous persons placed at his disposal. Let it be once for all understood that there is no vague, general, "Fund," as it is called, on which the Bishop can draw for large aid. It may be to our shame that it is so, but such is the fact. It makes no difference what other religious bodies do or promise.

The Bishop has but a few dollars at disposal for any one work. Often clergymen needlessly encourage false hopes of the hundreds of dollars which they assume the Bishop can control, from "those rich churches in the East." They should not do it. The Bishop, when he comes, has to do the disagreeable part of disenchanting them. He is at times wearied by the iterated question in successive towns, "Cannot Trinity help us? What are those rich churches in St. Louis doing?" Churches can have what they themselves are ready to pay for.

As, too, the Bishop's funds are constantly overdrawn, he can only hold himself responsible for an amount pledged by him, when he is called upon for it within six months. After this he holds himself quit, unless he pledges an amount over again.

DIOCESAN ITEMS.

—Some generous person in the parish of one of our clergymen the other day left word that he was to have a credit of fifteen dollars worth of books, and that the name was not to be given. There was only one such case mentioned.

—The Bishop has recently confirmed as follows: Grace Church, Kansas City, 2; Independence, 2; Clinton, 7; Sedalia, 9.

—The Bishop during his recent visit in Kansas City was the guest of Mr. Jardine, at his rectory on the corner of Ninth and Holmes streets. He was taken over the eastern portions of the city, and was astonished at the wonderful growth of the city in that direction. A boulevard is being pushed through to Independence, and soon the whole distance will be lined with houses.

—Whatever may be said about the slackness of trade in the manufacturing centres, and in the lines of goods in which there has been an over production, the statement certainly does not hold true with regard to the trades and the towns which depends on agriculture. The communities in the western parts of the State are enjoying the greatest prosperity; crops have been good, the purchasing ability was never greater, new people are coming in, the towns are improving, as evidenced by gas, waterworks, stone sidewalks, new and enlarged hotels with all modern facilities; balances in the banks are greater than ever. If there are hard times the farmers are not going to suffer, nor those whose business depends on farmers.

—At Harrisonville they have just erected a fine large hotel, of which the town is justly proud. It is handsomely conducted. The Bishop was entertained there lately while on a visit to the town; and after the service a reception was given in the pleasant parlors of the hotel, at which the Church people and a large number of others were present. The whole visit was made very delightful.

—The Rev. E. Talbot is giving services every other Friday evening in Kirksville, and the attendance even on a week night is very large, filling the church. The new rooms in the new addition to St. James Academy, Macon are finished, and will comfortably accommodate an additional number of boys. The rooms are admirably arranged. Parents who desire information can procure catalogues, giving terms, &c., of the Rev. E. Talbot, Macon City.

—One of the papers in Kansas City has the habit in announcing the services of the Episcopal Church, in the long list of religious notices on Sunday morning, of putting down "Catholic," with "Episcopal," in a parenthesis under it, and then under "Episcopal" the words "See Episcopal" added. Probably it is a bit of newspaper enterprise.

—The Rev. Mr. Bohn has taken charge of St. Philip's Church, Joplin, giving it his entire time. The congregation have, with great devotion and sacrifice, pledged themselves to raise the means to pay for the whole of the clergyman's services.

—As was indicated in our last number, the Rev. Mr. Assheton of Maryland has been unanimously called to the Rectorship of St. Peter's Church, St. Louis. The prospects of the parish in its admirable location in the centre of the growing part of the city are very flattering. His first service was on the festival of the Epiphany.

—The welcome given to Bishop Dunlop by his old friends in his late brief stay in St. Louis on his way to the West, must have been very gratifying to him. He officiated in Christ Church, St. Louis, on Sunday morning, 16th ult., and at night in his old parish in Kirkwood. He had a reception on the previous Friday night in Kirkwood, and on Saturday night was met by many of his old friends at the Episcopal Residence. The Bishop of the Diocese was not able to return to the city in time to be present.

—The Rev. J. W. Dunn, of Independence, has started to seek from some eastern business men the $1,000 still owing on Trinity Church, Independence. He is sanguine that he can accomplish the purpose. The members of the parish will then be able to finish the church and seat it.

—Mr. Edward Brugler, of Butler, has become a Postulant for Orders in the Diocese, and has entered the Seabury School at Faribault, for the purpose of beginning on his course of theological study. He is a young man of excellent prospects, and of good energy.

—Christmas brought out a good many acts of kindness. One of the clergymen not far from this city, a missionary, who was very sick, and disquieted because of a debt which had been incurred during his wife's sickness, and which he was paying off gradually, was cheered by some one's leaving at the door $101 which had been given by a number of generous persons in this city. Another missionary in this city, whose wife had unfortunately lost out of her purse a ten dollar gold piece which her husband had just received as a wedding fee, had the loss more than made good by the generosity of another parish, which made him a present in money, while he also received a large missionary box from Christ Church in this City. The offerings at Christ Church were $100 for our Diocesan Aged and Infirm Clergy Fund, and $53 for the General Fund of the Church for the same object. At the early communion at St. John's Church there was a $100 note marked for the Rector. He has an impression as to who the generous ladies were from whom it came.

—Mount Calvary Church, in this city, has increased its fund for building its new church to $2,000.

—On the afternoon of Christmas eve the children of the Orphans' Home were treated to two large heavily loaded Christmas trees, which had presents for them all. The trees were given by Mr. Shaw, and the presents contributed by Wm. Barr & Co., and other generous friends. Three days after the annual Christmas dinner was given at the Home. The children ate heartily of the abundant provisions which had been furnished. Eight turkeys were cut up for them. After this the lady managers and friends had a delightful repast in one of the large rooms. Besides the managers representing seven parishes, the Bishop, Mr. Henry Shaw, the long-timed benefactor of the Home, the Rev. Messrs. Reed, Silvester, Greene, Griffith and Speirs, and many others were present. The children sang, and some addresses were made. The health of the children is as usual excellent.

—The Bishop's visit down the Iron Mountain road began on Wednesday, 19th ult., at Crystal City. This is a community built up around the plate glass works here in which 700 persons are employed, and for which the vast buildings are all the time increasing in size. The capital of the company has been increased to a million and a half of dollars. We have here some families among the officers, as well as a number of old country members among the workmen. The only place of public gathering is the large hall over the company's store, which is used by the secret societies, and for plays. It has, therefore, stage, and scenes, and drop curtain. It is open to the roof, and on the night of the service, although the fire had been kindled in the morning, the hall was almost as bleak and cold as it was out of doors. The music was well sung. A stand in front of the stage was neatly arranged by the Rev. Mr. Pecke, the priest in charge, and after the Service and sermon, four young persons were confirmed.

—At Trinity Church, De Soto, on the night of the 20th ult., four persons were confirmed.

—St. Paul's Church, Ironton, was crowded on the occasion of the Bishop's visit on the 21st ult., and the very large number of fourteen persons was confirmed. The congregation is growing very much. It is very much to be desired that a parsonage could be built on the church lot. This would secure the services all the time in this beautiful valley.

—From Lexington we hear that the Christmas Services were hearty and impressive, and the music would have done honor to any of the St. Louis churches.

—A handsome upright piano was sent to the residence of the Rev. Mr. Betts on the day before Christmas. The matter was arranged by some of the very kind and energetic ladies of the parish.

—The number of Church families in Odessa, Lafayette County, on the Chicago & Alton road, has considerably increased, and they are moving towards securing a lot with a view to building a church. The Rev. Mr. Davis, of Lexington, lately visited them, and gave them a service, the first of ours ever held in the town.

—A liberal lady has placed in the hands of one of the Sisters at St. Luke's Hospital an amount sufficient to support a patient in a bed there for a year, and besides on Thanksgiving sent six turkeys, a barrel of oranges, lemons, figs, and quantities of other delicacies for the sick. The like kindness was also extended on Christmas day.

All Saints' church, in St. Louis, has gained in a very substantial way, in the accession of important families, since it entered upon the possession of its present church. The Christmas services were very fine, and well attended. The Rev. Mr. Mason, the clergyman in charge, was liberally remembered.

—At Utica the young people of the Mission formed themselves into a society some months since for the purpose of raising money to carry on the expenses of the Church Sunday school. They made fancy and useful objects which they recently sold, and had a supper together. They realized $70, and with this they have secured books and papers for the year. They also with this procured toys for the tree from which they distributed the presents on Christmas day. Their minister, the Rev. Sydney Smith, gives them a service one Sunday in the month.

—The Bishop has recently been elected as a member of the Virginia Historical Society, the Southern Historical Society, and a corresponding member of the Maryland and Wisconsin State Historical Societies.

—The Sunday, 23rd ult., assigned for the visit of the Bishop to Cape Girardeau, unfortunately fell on one of those cold and rainy days which followed the long succession of charmingly mild fall days of which we had last year so many. The rain fell, and became a sheet of ice, making walking dangerous. In spite of this a good congregation was present at Christ Church, and the Bishop said the service, and after the sermon celebrated the Holy Communion. The mission became vacant in October by the removal of the Rev. T. F. C. James, M. D. In the afternoon the Bishop catechized the Sunday school, and had the evening Service and preached again. It is to be hoped that Services can soon be begun at Charleston, the county seat of Mississippi County, where there has been a desire expressed for the Church to be established. When this is done, and the Bishop has promised to visit the place soon, this place can then be connected with Cape Girardeau, under the care of the same clergyman.

—The Rev. George H. Ward, of Matton, Ill., has been corresponded with in connection with the rectorship of St. Jude's Church, Monroe City, and gave them Services on Sunday, 30th ult. It is thought that he will soon enter on duty there.

—The Bishop visited Bonne Terre, St. Francois County, on a branch leading from the Iron Mountain road, on Sunday 30th, and held Services in the Union Church there morning and night. There are quite a number of our families, who had had no service since the Bishop's visit three years ago. The chants and hymns had been practised, and by the aid of the Mission Service books, the whole service was rendered. At night a child was baptized. This is the seat of large lead mines which employ 1,500 men.

—There was a day school started in St. Louis, in October, by a lady, under the auspices of the society for promoting Christianity among the Jews for the promotion of the interest of that work. There are, we believe, about twenty scholars.

—The ordination of the Rev. W. J. Speirs to the priesthood took place in St. George's Church, St. Louis, of which he is the assistant minister, on Sunday, 6th inst. The Bishop preached, the candidate was presented by the Rector, and Dr. Fulton and the Rev. G. C. Tucker, of West St. Louis, joined in the laying on of hands.

—The recent cold weather in the State has been something without precedent for many years. Some of the churches held no service on the 6th, the mercury the day before having gone down to 25 degrees below zero and lower; and others had to shorten the service, it having been found impossible to make the buildings endurable. It is interesting to know, however, that the weather at the time was so mild in England that the roses were blooming out of doors in London. In one church near here, not in the city, we heard that by dint of starting the fires on Friday night, and keeping them up night and day, they got the temperature on Sunday morning up to freezing point. One of our oldest clergymen in the Diocese, over seventy years of age, that Sunday morning, walked out three miles to the chapel where he was to hold service, had the service, started in with some country church people to town in the afternoon; the sleigh tipped over in the bank. They righted it and kept on, but found that the town congregation thought it was too cold to have service that night.

—The Kansas City papers, in writing up the history of the churches there for the past year, report of Grace Church that its communicants have increased 20 per cent., that it has paid off a debt of $4,000, and spent $800 on the interior, and that from Easter 1882 to Easter 1883, eleven months, it raised $10,922. Of St. Mary's, First Ward, it says that it has steadily held its own, and is $300 better off. Of Trinity it reports that the Rev. Robert Talbot held his first service on the 23d ult., and services were held regular in a new hall and a Sunday School organized, and that a lot has been bought on the southeast corner of Tenth and Tracy avenue, on which is a residence which will be used for a rectory, and a church erected in the spring. About St. Mary's, of which the reporter says, "It is under Episcopal supervision, but rector and people prefer to draw their names from the ancient creed of the church, rather than from the modern title page of the American prayer book, when the then noted term Episcopal first appeared as a part of the name of the church." There have been 35 additions among the communicants, and 21 baptisms, with activities as stated in another column of this paper.

—The children and relatives of the late Bishop Hawks, of this Diocese, have chosen a design for a memorial window for the chancel of Christ church, St. Joseph, submitted by Mr. Lamb, of New York. The whole cost of the window, when in place, will be $700. It will not only be the marked feature about the church, but it will be a worthy tribute to the memory of one under whose counsels the parish was organized. The frescoing of Christ church, which has been in progress for nearly three months, was completed so that the reopening Service was held on Christmas day. The congregation has been worshipping in the lecture room in the basement.

—The Bishop held Service at his recent visitation in Clinton in the Cumberland Presbyterian church, which was offered, rather than the place in which the regular Church Services are usually held, as being a larger building. It was filled with a most intelligent and devout congregation. The Service was said by the Rev. M. A. Brown, the minister in charge of St. Paul's Mission. The music had been admirably arranged, and was well sung. Services were held here years ago, but for a long time had been intermitted, as there seemed to be but little encouragement. Other bodies of Christians had become strongly established, and our people would have to begin in a small way. Mr. Brown has been at work for several months, the number of Church people had increased, and the spirit now shown is admirable. They have bought an excellent corner lot, costing $1225, a part of which, however, they propose to sell, so as to reduce the cost to about $700. Some years ago about $400 was realized from a festival, which has been in the Bishop's hands in trust, and which will now afford material help. Mr. Brown gives them Services every other Sunday. The city is large and important, and its social tone is very high. After preaching, the Bishop confirmed and addressed nine persons, having previously baptized two adults and an infant. The next morning he met the gentlemen, and arranged for the purchase, and title, and payment of the lot and other business matters, and then took a freight train for Sedalia.

—Emmanuel church, St. Louis county, on Thanksgiving Day, besides giving $34.75 for the Children's Cot, St. Luke's Hospital, also gave $18.75 to the Orphans' Home, and $18.83 for other benevolent objects. This is a very large amount ($72.33) for that little congregation to do, and it shows that their hearts must have been moved in earnest. The Rev. Mr. Griffith has been sick, broken down by nervous exhaustion. He is better, but has been cheered by the evidences which his sickness brought to him of the affection of his people.

—The Rev. Mr. Hatch, of Maryville, has been greatly cheered by the services which has for a few months past been holding at King City, a rising town on the narrow gauge railroad running northeast from St. Joseph.

—It is stated that the Rev. B. F. Newton, of the Good Shepherd, in this city, was called to be assistant to the Rev. Dr. Holland, in New Orleans, but declined.

—The ladies in Calvary church, Sedalia, have always been a most important working element in that parish. The city is growing very rapidly. An opera house has been lately built, costing $75,000, a hotel costing $30,000, a Presbyterian church costing nearly $20,000, the county has ordered a court house to cost $100,000. For two years the parish has been without a church, and for over a year without a rector. Temporary duty has been most admirably and efficiently performed by the Rev. Dr. Foster, which advanced years alone prevent him from getting over the large town. The vestry, probably remembering that they have in the past been often left to meet alone the engagements which the congregation should have helped them bear, have been reluctant to undertake the duty of proceeding to build on the excellent lot which the church owns, or to call a rector. The Bishop at his late visit met the ladies, over thirty of them, keen and spirited, and they will proceed to secure a salary on which the rectorship may be filled; and a plan was devised by which it is hoped that in the spring the chapel or Sunday school room will be built, a part of the Church proper, and the foundation of the church laid, on which work may proceed, as means are had. Probably $10,000, or $12,000, will be expended on the church. The ladies recently paid $1,200 debt, clearing off all encumbrance on the church lot.

KANSAS CITY.

In this teeming centre of population, where there are scores of Church workers whose removal many parishes all over the land are lamenting, and where there are hundreds of Church people whose existence there as such is not known, there is very much of activity in all the parishes.

In Grace Church besides the regular services at 11 and 7-30, there is an early Communion every Sunday at 7-30 and a shortened service to which much point is given, in connection with the Sunday School at 4 p.m. The excellence of the music in the parish has long been noted. The congregations are large, and are keen and alert with young life. There are, besides the ladies society, two parish guilds, that of St. Christopher for the promotion of acquaintance and intimacy among the men, and of St. Catherine for the young ladies of the parish, for work in a missionary direction, and for the increase of sociability.

St. Mary's is the centre of very many activities. There are three services daily. There is a guild for young ladies, one for married ladies, one for school girls, one for young men, and an altar society, and a sewing school in a chapel. There is a parish school for boys, a seminary for girls, and a parish Sisterhood. The Rector is also the head of All Saints' Hospital, which is a large brick structure of four stories, the one wing of which, that is now nearing completion, having forty rooms, and costing $14,000.

St. Mary's, First Ward, is not strong. It is a frame structure, built on leased ground. The Rev. Mr. Holeman is the rector, but has been in Florida for over a year. The Rev. Mr. Wells performs all the duties. The Circuit Court has recently, after long delays, decided the suit between the two St. Mary's Churches in favor of the older parish, formerly St. Luke's. This was on a suit of ejectment on the part of St. Mary's, First Ward, for the possession of the property left by Mrs. Troost. It will probably not be appealed.

St. Augustine's Mission, for colored people, has had its brick church completed for a little over a year. It is doing a good work among the more intelligent families of colored persons in the city, and besides its regular Sunday Services, maintains a sewing school, in the care of which ladies from Grace and St. Mary's Churches assist.

The new organization of Trinity Church in the eastern part of the city has not yet a building of its own. The land which it had the refusal of, it did not secure. The neighborhood is growing with marvellous rapidity. Districts which a few months ago had no persons living in them, are studded with hundreds of houses, and the movement of population is marvelous. It is difficult under these circumstances to decide quite where best the church should be located. The new Rector, Rev. R. Talbot, entered upon his duties on the first of December, and is holding services in a hall in the neighborhood. He starts with fifty families.

ST. PAUL'S, PALMYRA.

The Rev. Dr. Wainwright recently preached a sermon giving a history of the parish. We cannot find space for the whole of it; but for the purpose of putting on record a memorial of the earlier days of one of the oldest parishes in the Diocese, we give the following portions:

The Rev. C. S. Hedges was the first Episcopal clergyman in Palmyra. He was sent by Bishop Kemper, and began his work in January, 1837. In the summer of 1838 he leased ground a few rods north of this present edifice, and began the erection of a building, which was completed sometime in the following January. At that time this was the second Episcopal church in the State.

In the summer of 1839 Mr. Hedges resigned the mission and removed to Jefferson Barracks. He was succeeded by the Rev. Thomas E. Paine, Nov. 1, 1840, after an interregnum of about one year. In this same month and year the church was consecrated by Bishop Kemper. There were then in the village fifteen communicants and eight or ten more in the vicinity. The expenses attending the building of the church were defrayed by contributions from Churchmen in St. Louis. In connection with his ministerial duties, Mr. Paine conducted a school, the fixtures of which were bought by F. B. Scheetz, who became its principal and acted as Lay Reader in the church. In the autumn of 1842, Mr. Paine resigned his charge, and in June, 1845, after an interval of two years, was succeeded by the Rev. George Sill, who had been connected with Kemper College. Sometime in 1846 the lease of the ground on which the church stood expired, and the people of the parish not being able or willing to redeem the building, it was lost to the church. For several months after this deprivation the Odd Fellows' Hall was secured as the place of worship. When the further use of this room was declined, (it was found that such use was an infraction upon the rules of the association,) the services of the church ceased to be celebrated for about three months. A room was finally secured on the third story of a large brick building on Main street, where the congregation worshipped until Easter, 1847, at which time Mr. Sill resigned the mission and removed to Hannibal. It is to be remarked that he gave as a cause of his resignation that Palmyra was a declining town, and that Hannibal had three times the larger population. The fact of the change made does not necessarily indicate vain ambition, but perhaps the kind of church spirit which he found in Palmyra to co-operate with him in his work. It was in 1846 that the parish was first represented in Diocesan Convention. During his Rectorship of two years there were sixteen baptisms, and at the accession of Dr. Corbyn, February 2, 1848, there were nineteen communicants, or only about the same number as in 1840. During the next four years there were thirty baptisms and twelve confirmations, or on an average of three a year.

In the spring of 1842 a chapel was begun for St. Paul's College, on the grounds of that institution. This building was not finished until some time in 1856. In the summer of 1857 it was consecrated by Bishop Hawks. It was intended to be used for a church for the parish, and was so used what time it stood. It was built of white limestone, seventy five feet long, including the tower, and twenty-two feet wide. It was of Gothic architecture, finished with an open roof of oak. The plan was to add transepts and a chancel, making the building, when finished, cruciform. This plan, was never executed. The structure, however, when new, though unperfected, was a neat and churchly edifice, and served its purpose well for twenty-eight years.

During the five years between 1852 and 1857 there were but seventeen baptisms and ten confirmations. The cost of the building was about six thousand dollars, upwards of two thousand dollars more than the cost of the present St. Paul's Church. The sum of sixteen hundred dollars was contributed by the people in Palmyra. The remainder of the outstanding claims was satisfied by subscriptions and donations from abroad.

In 1857 Dr. Corbyn resigned the Rectorship of the parish, and was succeeded by the Rev. Francis J. Clerc, who held this office one year and was then followed by the Rev. S. Y. McMasters, D. D., previously a Methodist divine in North Carolina. In 1861, Dr. McMasters having been appointed to a chaplaincy in the U. S. army, resigned the charge of the parish, and Dr. Corbyn, for the second time, was elected to its Rectorship, which office he held during the civil war, and until June, 1871, ten years.

In October, 1871, Dr. Wainwright, of St. John's Church, Salisbury, Connecticut, having been elected in the previous month to the Wardenship of St. Paul's College, was made, also, Rector of the parish. In June, 1874, he resigned that office and accepted the principalship of Wolfe Hall, in Denver. During that year the Rev. F. B. Scheetz was the joint Rector of St. Paul's Church, Palmyra, and St. Jude, Monroe City. In September, 1875, Mr. Scheetz resigned the charge of the parish in Palmyra, and Dr. Wainwright having been recalled to the Presidency of St. Paul's College, was again elected to the Rectorship. He now holds that office, his entire pastoral charge having extended over the interval of eleven years—one-fifth of the life of the parish.

St. Paul's Chapel being located at an inconvenient distance from the homes of most of the parishioners, after due consideration, it was deemed advisable by them to build a new church, in a more eligible situation. The site for the new building was selected on the northeast corner of Olive and Lane streets. The lot was purchased from Mrs. Annie E. Overton for three hundred dollars, which amount was paid from funds earned by the "Ladies' Aid Society." In accordance with an ancient and sound policy of the church, the land was deeded to the Rt. Rev. Charles F. Robertson, D. D., and to his successors in office, in trust for the parish. The deed is dated May 11, 1877. In the autumn of 1879, Mr. Robert Bruce of Quincy drafted the necessary plans, and on the 24th May, 1880, the contract was signed by the Rector, Wardens and Vestrymen.

The last service held in St. Paul's Chapel was for the ordination to the Diaconate of Mr. John Evans. Bishop Burgess, of the Diocese of Quincy was present and preached a sermon appropriate to the occasion. On the same day, June 8, 1880, the corner stone of the new edifice was laid by the Rt. Reverend the Bishop of the Diocese. The Bishop of Quincy, Rev. Dr. Runcie, of St. Joseph, Revs. Abiel Leonard, of Hannibal, Ethelbert and Robert Talbot, John Evans, C. P. Comings, of Kansas, F. W. Scheetz and the Rector were present and took part in the services. The Rev. Mr. Scheetz and Rev. Mr. Comings were also present at the laying of the corner stone of St. Paul's Chapel, twenty eight years before this occasion. Many citizens came to witness the ceremony and to bid "God speed" to the parish.

The house thus auspiciously begun was to have been finished and ready for delivery and consecration on the first day of the following November. But it was not opened for Divine service until May 2d, 1881.

The church was consecrated January 17, 1882. There were present of the clergy, besides the Rt. Reverend the Bishop of the Diocese, and the Rector of the parish, the Bishop of Quincy, Rev. Dr. Runcie, Revs. Abiel Leonard, Ethelbert and Robert Talbot, Richardson, of Moberly, Curtis, of Louisiana, Elliot, of Quincy.

The sum total of cash absolutely paid the contractor was $2,299.02. The contributions from Palmyra amounted to $1,118.82. $1,231.76 was furnished by the "Ladies' Aid Society," the main part of which sum had for several years been accumulating in the bank and had been fairly earned by laborious toil. The sum of $800 was realized through the sale to Dr. Wainwright of St. Paul's pasture ground, a glebe of land given by Rev. George Scheetz for the use of the Rector of the parish. It is here to be remarked that the Rev. Mr. Scheetz also gave to the church an acre and a half of land for a cemetery.

In addition to the contribution of the "Ladies' Aid Society," the ladies from various sources furnished several hundred dollars besides. The entire cost of the building, including the charge of the architect, the chancel furniture and incidental expenses, was about $3,800. The chandeliers cost about $115, and were purchased by the ladies. The carpet was a munificent gift from Dr. White, who had already contributed largely towards the erection of the building. One hundred and twenty eight feet of the neat fence which encloses the church was contributed by Mr. and Mrs. Mankey, and sixty feet of the same by Mrs. Jackson. These gifts merit the highest appreciation of the parish.

Thus the entire cost of the property, as it now stands, was not far from $4,400. The parish ought to congratulate itself that it has come into the possession of so elegant and so comfortable building at so small cost. There are many church buildings in the county that are no whit more elegant and no larger, and yet cost five and six times as much.

ST. LUKE'S HOSPITAL.

The following letter tells its own story. It was not written for publication, but consent to its use was afterwards given. The assurance expressed is that which many already have felt, but it may serve to interest those who have known little about the Hospital, and those to whom for any reason, as to our friend, apparently a prejudice had been imparted.

EMMANUEL CHURCH, Dec. 1, 1883.

Dear —: I am thoroughly satisfied that the extent and nature of the work of St. Luke's Hospital was not understood by some who have spoken to me of its lack of charitable feature; and, indeed, I take to myself serious blame for allowing myself to be at all influenced in my feelings, when I could so easily have convinced myself that the feeling was wrong, by simply doing what I did to day, i. e., going to the hospital and getting the printed report of its truly beneficent operations; and I pray the Lord to pardon me in this thing, although, I am thankful to say, that in no way did I allow my feelings to dampen my ardour in stimulating my people to think of, work and give for the Hospital. Henceforth my soul will be all enlisted every year in the blessed work of talking, acting and thinking for St. Luke's Hospital, St. Louis, as long as I remain in the diocese. It is in such works that I am able most clearly to see the Lord Christ—to realize that He is indeed a living Saviour among and of men, and not a mere theological abstraction.

I do think that the first part of the report ought to be reprinted; and a sufficient number be sent to each parish in the diocese to supply every member of the Church with one, and added to it a request for a subscription or contribution, according to the ability of each one every year. If the Board of Directors will do this, I will gladly give $5 toward the expense thereof.

The report shows a lamentable deficiency in "Churches" as contributors to the support of the Hospital. I find only two, viz., Grace Church, Kirkwood (fruitful in every good work), and St. Paul's, South St. Louis, where as every church near St. Louis should be in the list, and I trust that it may indeed soon be the case. As I told you this afternoon, I believe every one could be taught the blessedness of giving, and would be anxious and glad to do something for Jesus, if they could only be made to realize that Christ is indeed in the sick and orphans.

The report shows, indeed, a queer state of things, so utterly contradictory of the report, that the Hospital lacks charitable features. Now see how it runs: The total cost of current expenses of the Hospital were $10,492.01; number of patients treated, 339; average cost of each patient $30.60. Now, I say, that comparing this with any hospital in the United States, will speak volumes in praise of the careful and economical management of St. Luke's. Again, the report shows that the total of contributions, i. e. charitable contributions, for I trust you will pardon me if I fail to see where the charity comes in, from fairs, festivals and dramatic entertainments, except from the few who work so hard, and give so liberally to get them up, from all sources, footed up $2,428, leaving $8,064 from pay patients. Now, averaging the partial charity patients at near one half, it gives 125 purely charitable patients; multiplying these by $30.60, and it gives a total cost for their treatment of $3,825; but the Hospital received only $2,428 from charity patients, leaving the hospital itself a giver of charity to the amount of $1,397 from its income of pay patients—more than half as much as the whole of the charitable contributions.

A few plain facts like these are worth more than ten thousand guessed-at statements. I could go on and show other things from this report, but the report speaks for itself, and it should be permitted to have a hearing from every member of the Church of Christ. If the Bishop will have the first part of the report printed in the CHURCH NEWS, I will give $5 towards sending copies of that number in sufficient quantity to supply every member of the Church in the diocese. It will cost very little more after the forms are up for the regular edition, hardly more than the white paper. And, too, I hope it would prove a good advertisement of the paper itself, for every person ought to take it—at least every family.

Take it all in all, God has given me few happier, or as happy, Thanksgivings than that of this year. I do not think a single member of this Church failed in securing the blessedness that comes of giving for the Home and Hospital—and I think every member of every family, and every member of the Sunday-school. When will men learn the profound truth of our dear Lord's saying, "It is more blessed to give than to receive?"

C. E. D. GRIFFITH.

UTICA.

Mr. Editor:

The young ladies of the Episcopal Sunday School at Utica organized a society the 22nd of Feb. 1883, the proceeds to be used for the benefit of the Sunday School. The society has netted since that time with the help of the Church Ladies' Aid Society, $80. Our Sunday School is in a flourishing condition, there being about seventy members. Services are conducted regularly once a month by the Rev. Sidney Smith. We hope to be able to have services twice a month during the coming year.

SEC. OF YOUNG LADIES SOCIETY.

DEAF MUTES.

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 20th, 1883.

My Dear Bishop Robertson:

On last Sunday, 16th, at 3 p.m., I conducted a service for deaf mutes at Christ Church with a large attendance notwithstanding the inclement weather. In the evening at the Church of the Holy Communion, I interpreted the evening Service for the Rev. Mr. Robert for the benefit of the deaf mutes present. He also read my address to the regular congregation. The service was what is called "combined," or "joint."

I expect to be in St. Louis again on Sunday, February 3rd.

From St. Louis I went to Jacksonville, Ill., the seat of the state school for deaf mutes, and conducted a service at Trinity Church, of which Dr. Easter is rector. Affectionately yours,

A. W. MANN.

AYER'S Cherry Pectoral.

No other complaints are so insidious in their attack as those affecting the throat and lungs: none so trifled with by the majority of sufferers. The ordinary cough or cold, resulting perhaps from a trifling or unconscious exposure, is often but the beginning of a fatal sickness. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL has well proven its efficacy in a forty years' fight with throat and lung diseases, and should be taken in all cases without delay.

A Terrible Cough Cured.

"In 1857 I took a severe cold, which affected my lungs. I had a terrible cough, and passed night after night without sleep. The doctors gave me up. I tried AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, which relieved my lungs, induced sleep, and afforded me the rest necessary for the recovery of my strength. By the continued use of the PECTORAL a permanent cure was effected. I am now 62 years old, hale and hearty, and am satisfied your CHERRY PECTORAL saved me. HORACE FAIRBROTHER." Rockingham, Vt., July 15, 1882.

Croup.—A Mother's Tribute.

"While in the country last winter my little boy, three years old, was taken ill with croup; it seemed as if he would die from strangulation. One of the family suggested the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, a bottle of which was always kept in the house. This was tried in small and frequent doses, and to our delight in less than half an hour the little patient was breathing easily. The doctor said that the CHERRY PECTORAL had saved my darling's life. Can you wonder at our gratitude? Sincerely yours,

MRS. EMMA GEDNEY."

159 West 128th St., New York, May 16, 1882.

"I have used AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL in my family for several years, and do not hesitate to pronounce it the most effectual remedy for coughs and colds we have ever tried. A. J. CRANE," Lake Crystal, Minn., March 13, 1882.

"I suffered for eight years from Bronchitis, and after trying many remedies with no success, I was cured by the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. JOSEPH WALDEN."

Byhalia, Miss., April 5, 1882.

"I cannot say enough in praise of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, believing as I do that but for its use I should long since have died from lung troubles. E. BRADGON," Palestine, Texas, April 22, 1882.

No case of an affection of the throat or lungs exists which cannot be greatly relieved by the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, and it will always cure when the disease is not already beyond the control of medicine.

BOOK NOTICES.

OUR CHRISTMAS IN A PALACE. By Edward Everett Hale. It is unanimously conceded that Mr. Hale has no superior in this country as a writer of short stories. His humor is irresistible in its freshness and refinement, and a kindly heart and a teeming mind guide his pen into a realm of thought where all may find wholesome delight. The stories in this book are distinct, each being complete in itself, but they are knit together in an ingenious manner which we shall not forestall the reader's delight by divulging. A story so delightfully told and so appropriate for these stirring Christmas times, certainly would be a welcome gift to any one. Published by Funk & Wagnalls, 10 and 12 Dey Street, New York. Paper, 12mo, 25 cts.; in neat cloth binding, $1.00.

General Sherman's retirement from the army lends timely interest to the frontispiece of JANUARY CENTURY, and is evidence to the eyes that General Sherman has been retired by law before his bodily and mental powers have even begun to decline.

"Garfield in London" is an account, in the main, of President Garfield's experiences and impressions while in the British capital, being extracts from his journal of his trip to Europe, in 1867, "Edinboro Old Town," is the opening article of the number, and is profusely illustrated. "Husbandry in Colony Times," is perhaps the most popular of Dr. Edward Eggleston's studies of colonial life. Many curious illustrations add to the interest of the paper.

In fiction, the January number is notable for the conclusion of "The Bread-winners"; the third part of Mr. Cable's romance, "Dr. Sevier"; the second part of Robert Grant's New York story, "An Average Man"; and a humorous story by Frank R. Stockton, entitled, "His Wife's Deceased Sister."

ST. NICHOLAS for JANUARY makes its New Year's call with a bright table of contents and a brilliant list of contributors.

Louisa M. Alcott begins her promised series of "Spinning-wheel Stories" with a sketch of the "good old times" of seventy years ago, showing how Grandmother's wheel spun a tale of fun, war, love, and wolves, to suit the tastes of all her hearers.

The frontispiece opens the number with a complete and timely story of Colorado mining life, entitled "Christmas in the Pink Boarding House."

Julian Hawthorne finishes his fanciful allegory, "Almion, Auria, and Mona"; and Rose Hawthorne Lathrop contributes a merry tale of child life in holiday times, called "Fun Beams." Mayne Reid's serial, "The Land of Fire," continues to grow in interest, and is full of instruction in regard to the many peculiarities of that faraway region.

An entirely new feature, inaugurated in this number and to continue throughout the year, is the ST. NICHOLAS Almanac, which will give to young folk, the more important phenomena of our earth's relations to the heavenly bodies.

MONEY AND THE MECHANISM OF EXCHANGE. By Prof. W. Stanley Jevons, F. R. S. Complete in two Parts, 15 cents each, post free. J. Fitzgerald, Publisher, 20 Lafayette Place, New York.

This valuable and most timely treatise, from the pen of one of the foremost contemporary writers on finance, should be perused by every thoughtful citizen. It throws a flood of light upon every one of the great questions of finance, such as Metallic money, Gold coinage, Bi-metallism, Bank issues, Bank reserves, etc., which are destined to receive thorough discussion in Congress this Winter. The account of the Mechanism of Exchange here given is singularly full and instructive.

THE HOMILETIC MONTHLY for January cannot fail, we think, to gratify its numerous readers. The leading sermon by Dr. A. T. Pierson, on "Supernatural Answers to Prayer," is eminently timely and effective. Dr. Holme's on Poe's "Raven"; or, "Memory an Element of Retribution," is rich and suggestive. A "Symposium on the Darwinian Theory of Evolution," opened in this issue by President McCosh, who will be followed in the next by Dr. Jos. T. Duryea, and in future numbers by Profs. Francis L. Patton, Alexander Winchell and J. P. Gulliver, and Dr. Buckley and others, is sure to attract unusual attention, and cannot fail to shed new light on this subject. Price $2.50 a year; 25 cents a single number. Funk & Wagnalls, 10 and 12 Dey Street, New York.

VICK'S FLORAL GUIDE, for 1884 is an elegant Book of 150 pages, 3 colored plates of flowers and vegetables, and more than 1000 illustrations of the choicest flowers, plants and vegetables, and directions for growing. It is handsome enough for the center table or a holiday present. Send on your name and Post Office address, with 10 cents, and I will send you a copy, postage paid. James Vick, Rochester, N. Y.

The January WIDE AWAKE opens crisply with a winter morning Frontispiece, to accompany Margaret Sidney's naive poem, "A Burst of Confidence." Mrs. Mary Hartwell Catherwood follows with a piquant bicycling story for the season, entitled, "The Whizzer." Then comes a pictorial article about "The Troubadours." Edward Everett Hale contributes a To-Day Paper, concerning the question, "Shall We Study Greek?" There are some charming poems, too: "The Bishop's Visit," with a wonderfully good illustration. Only $2.50 a year to those who send in their subscription before Feb. 1, 1884. After that date the price of WIDE AWAKE will be $3.00 a year. D. Lothrop & Co., Boston, Mass.

LITTELL'S LIVING AGE. With December the 159th volume was closed. There has come from such an age and experience an instinct as to what is best in the ever-increasing piles of foreign periodical literature. Here certainly is the choicest selection in the graver or lighter forms of reading, and a year's subscription gives four volumes of the best of the articles in the foreign quarterlies and monthlies. It is a monthly every week. $8.00 a year. Littell & Co., 31 Bedford St., Boston, or Littell's, and the NEWS will be sent for one year for $8.00, if subscribed for through this paper.

THE ENGLISH ILLUSTRATED MAGAZINE. Monthly. January. This is the fourth number of a new and beautiful candidate of popular favor. It rivals our American pictorials in paper, type, engravings and general daintiness, although not so large, and of smaller cost. $1.50. McMillan & Co., 112 Fourth Ave., New York.

LITTELL'S LIVING AGE for 1884—For forty years The Living Age has been published with uninterrupted success, and has enabled its readers, at small expense of time and money, to keep pace with the literary progress of the age. Frequent in issue, and unequalled among periodicals in amount of matter, it furnishes an unrivalled compilation of a great and growing literature which embraces the productions of the most eminent living writers in all departments of literary and scientific work. And as this literature grows year by year in extent and importance, The Living Age becomes more and more valuable. Filling the place of many periodicals, it can hardly be dispensed with by any American reader who desires a thorough compendium of the best literature and thought of the time. Its prospectus for 1884 is commended to the attention of all who are selecting their reading matter for the new year. Reduced clubing rates with other periodicals are given. Littell & Co., Boston, are the publishers.

Rev. Father Wilds' EXPERIENCE.

The Rev. Z. P. Wilds, well-known city missionary in New York, and brother of the late eminent Judge Wilds, of the Massachusetts Supreme Court, writes as follows:

"3 E. 54th St., New York, May 16, 1882.

MESSRS. J. C. AYER & CO., Gentlemen:

Last winter I was troubled with a most uncomfortable itching humor affecting more especially my limbs, which itched so intolerably at night, and burned so intensely, that I could scarcely bear any clothing over them. I was also a sufferer from a severe catarrh and catarrhal cough; my appetite was poor, and my system a good deal run down. Knowing the value of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, by observation of many other cases, and from personal use in former years, I began taking it for the above-named disorders. My appetite improved almost from the first dose. After a short time the fever and itching were allayed, and all signs of irritation of the skin disappeared. My catarrh and cough were also cured by the same means, and my general health greatly improved, until it is now excellent. I feel a hundred per cent stronger, and I attribute these results to the use of the SARSAPARILLA, which I recommend with all confidence as the best blood medicine ever devised. I took it in small doses three times a day, and used, in all, less than two bottles. I place these facts at your service, hoping their publication may do good.

Yours respectfully, Z. P. WILDS."

The above instance is but one of the many constantly coming to our notice, which prove the perfect adaptability of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA to the cure of all diseases arising from impure or impoverished blood, and a weakened vitality.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

cleanses, enriches, and strengthens the blood, stimulates the action of the stomach and bowels, and thereby enables the system to resist and overcome the attacks of all Scrofulous Diseases, Eruptions of the Skin, Rheumatism, Catarrh, General Debility, and all disorders resulting from poor or corrupted blood and a low state of the system.

THE CHURCH NEWS

JANUARY 15, 1884.

No communications can be inserted, in any current number, which reach the office after the 10th of the month.

RESOLUTIONS PASSED AT THE THIRTY-FOURTH ANNUAL CONVENTION.

RESOLVED, That the CHURCH NEWS be made the official medium of communication between the Treasurers of the different Diocesan Funds and the Parishes, and that the Treasurers be instructed to receipt for all payments to the several funds through the NEWS.

RESOLVED, That it be made the duty of the several rectors and missionaries of the Diocese to extend to the utmost of their power the circulation of the Diocesan paper, the CHURCH NEWS.

THE year is passing on, and yet we have not observed in the acknowledgments of the Treasurer of Diocesan Missions receipts such as must be required to keep up the work with efficiency, nor the names of many parishes, amounts from which ought to have been received, now that the Convention year has more than half elapsed.

It is still in order to intimate that our friends would be rendering a good office to the Church's work in the Diocese by renewing their subscription for the year, and, if possible, securing other names. Among the new Church people there are many to whom a mention of the paper, its object, the small amount of the subscription, and the direction would secure a subscriber.

THERE is a Churchman in this city, and one of the earliest in the Diocese, of very moderate means, who works daily for his pay, who is always seen at church on Sunday, seated far off modestly in his pew, who regularly gives his one dollar each week; and he does not give a dirty, worn-out bill. It is always a fresh note. He thinks that God deserves of the best.

It is not without its meaning that the extraordinary capitalist, Mr. Villard, who had secured and finished, and with such splendor opened recently the Northern Pacific Railway, and who had not yet finished building his palatial residence in New York, costing more than a million of dollars, has had to succumb, resign his position, and make an assignment of his property for his creditors. The undertaking which overwhelmed Jay Cooke, has proven too much for his successor. Mr. Cooke has come up again, and so too may Mr. Villard, who from the humblest beginning, as an obscure German, in so short a time mounted to such a giddy height of ambition. His wife, however, will hardly have to make over her dresses, with her provision of $5,000,000 in Government bonds.

OUR interesting and enterprising parochial contemporary, the Parish Register, of Macon, is mistaken in its article stating that the proposition for the change of name of the Church was only defeated in the House of Bishops by the majority of one vote. This is purely imaginary. The majority against the matter in the House of Deputies of General Convention was about fifteen to one. In the House of Bishops the majority against it would have been relatively larger if a vote had been taken. It was never distinctly passed on. The motion was made for change when the matter of adopting the title page of the Revised Prayer Book came up. The motion in order to save its defeat was referred to the Standing Committee on the Prayer Book, which later brought in a vague report, explaining why the name could not be changed. That is all of it. The man is not living who will see the name of the Church changed.

An illustration of the manner in which persons otherwise careful are careless, either on account of superstition or procrastination, about the disposition of their property, is had in the case of the late Samuel G. Wyman, of Baltimore. He was a devout Churchman, and his proposed manner of distribution of large amounts of his property for parochial and general Church objects was well known. He left a will in which he declares that he leaves his property to two persons whom he names "in trust." Then on a separate paper he leaves a memorandum of the objects and the persons to whom he desired amounts and property should be given. He had also made verbal explanations to these gentlemen. After some relatives brought suit for the property, on the ground that these instructions were not valid, and that these persons held the property in trust for the heirs at law. They won the suit, and the Church and charity got nothing.

A CONSIDERABLE experience of railroad travel east and west has assured us that we have many more comforts within the reach of the ordinary traveler in Missouri than in any of the eastern parts. The day coaches are easier and handsomer. The Horton chair cars give for no extra charge all the comfort for which a fee is charged in New York. At night they give a rest as comfortable to many as do the Pullman coaches. Recently on the Pacific road we found that for a quarter the porter would give you a blanket and pillow with a clean case. In the morning for ten cents you get the comfort of the toilet with a clean towel. On the Wabash they have secured more space between the chairs, and for the passage, by placing only three chairs abreast across the car; two chairs on one side of the passage, and one on the other. They have also a system of lunches provided in lunch baskets, neat and at a moderate price, showing just what you get for the money. The porter telegraphs ahead your order, the baskets are put on board, you eat at leisure, and the porter takes charge of basket and dishes. Traveling here is made very convenient.

STATISTICS FOR THE YEAR.

The coming out of the almanacs enables us to gain an impression of the progress of the Church during the last twelvemonth. Of course there must be made the usual deductions about the lack of fulness and accuracy in the returns. Many names of communicants appear, no doubt, on the list of more than one parish, and hundreds and thousands do not appear at all. With the three almanacs before us, the Church Almanac, Whittaker's, and the Living Church Annual, which we designate, for convenience, respectively as (a), (b), and (c), the following are the summaries of leading facts. The variations come from the different degree of thoroughness in collecting facts and excluding errors:

	(a)	(b)	(c)
Number of clergy.....	8,630	3,559	3,575
" " communicants.....	369,006	364,003	373,088
" " confirmations, 26,090	26,133	26,133	26,440
" " baptisms.....	46,593	46,945	46,900
" " Candidates for Orders.....	324	333	392
" " Ordinations to Diaconate.....	137	146	155
" " Sunday scholars.....	313,156	317,552	320,854

Contributions.....$8,230,561.23 $8,319,191.39 $9,880,868.38

The increase or decrease for year, according to (a) and (b), comparing their respective lists of last year, is as follows:

	Increase, 55	Decrease, 20
Clergy.....	16,192	19,115
Communicants.....	114	42
Confirmations.....	739	1,128
Baptisms.....	10,874	8,961
Sunday scholars.....	Ine. $272,075.68	" $252,787.08
Contributions.....	29	14
Ordination to Diaconate.....	8	63
Candidate for Orders.....	Decrease, 8	Decrease, 63

Probably the first thought which will be called out by these figures is the marked discrepancies in the totals between the several almanacs. They all consulted the same journals and tables, and yet the results were so different; one makes the increase of the number of clergy for the year 55, and the other reports a decrease of 20; one reports a decrease in the number of Candidates for Orders at 8, the other puts it at 63.

Another inference to be drawn is the prosperity of the Church as marked by the increase of its contributions, and in a degree, but less, of its number of communicants; but the degree in which the supply of the ministry is running low, the clergy at the best not increasing at the rate of one for each Diocese, and the number of Candidates decreasing in about the same ratio. This is the point of strain in the Church's work.

THE CHURCH ALMANACS.

We give, as a matter of information for all well informed Church people, the names and facts about the different Almanacs. They contain information year by year in a compendious form which cannot be gotten in any other shape, and which no one should consent to be without. They have each of them characteristic excellencies, and the competition has caused a fulness and exactness in the information furnished that leaves little to be desired. We give them in the order of their age:

The Church Almanac. James Pott, 12 Astor Place, New York. 15 cents.

Protestant Episcopal Almanac. Thomas Whittaker, 2 Bible House, New York. 25 cents.

Living Church Annual. S. A. Maxwell & Co., Chicago. 25 cents.

McCalla & Stavelly's Church Annual. 237-9 Dock street, Philadelphia. 50 cents.

The last three are fuller than the first; and of these last the first gives perhaps the largest information about the Church in this country; the second adds to this much information about other branches of the Church, and about secular matters in foreign countries. The last is the largest and is illustrated, and gives many suggestions about parochial work. One or the other of these hand-books every one should have. The price includes postage.

CHILDREN'S COT.

ST. LUKE'S HOSPITAL.

For several years an effort has been making to raise $3,000 from the children and those who are interested in them, for the perpetual endowment for a cot and a room for a child at our Hospital, where a child not able to be otherwise provided for may be kindly taken care of when sick or undergoing treatment. By little and little we have gone on so far. Gifts are urgently asked for this purpose, and will be credited in THE NEWS. They may be sent to the Bishop, 2727 Chestnut street, St. Louis.

It will be noticed what a great lift the Cot has had this month. The whole amount should be in before the end of this year. When this is done, then the securities will be solemnly presented to God in what we hope will then be finished, the Hospital Chapel. After this one thousand dollars more will be asked for the Cot, for the reason that since this fund began interest on investments has so gone down that it takes now a larger capital sum than it used to, to realize the income necessary for the support of the child in the Cot. When all is done, a complete list will be made, so far as is possible, of all who have contributed to it.

THE Annual Christmas dinner was given at the Orphans' Home, Thursday, 27th December. The Bishop, several of the clergy, Mr. Henry Shaw, and other friends and managers were present. The occasion was delightful to all present, and the supply from all the churches for the dinner so large that it is impossible for us to make a list of donations as we are accustomed to do.

We received for the Christmas tree $6.22 from St. Peter's Sunday School, through the superintendent, Mr. Hayne; a large box of toys from Wm. Barr & Co.; $42.80 from the children's fair, through Sophie Schuyler and Lila Wright; 1 dozen dolls, 70 cornucopias, from Lousia and Clara Leete and Daisy Wilcox; 5 lbs. candy, oranges, ½ dozen dolls, Chaille and Amy Hyde; St. George's infant class, through Mrs. Butler, a liberal supply of beautiful toys for Christmas tree; some beautiful picture cards made by Mrs. Ed. Moffatt.

The Board of Managers desire to thank all for the bountiful supply, and feel thankful that the children at the Home were so well remembered by all their friends.

Mrs. J. McLEAN,
Secretary.

PERSONAL.

—Mr. George D. Hall, of this city, left by will $5000 in trust, to be used as a fund for the purpose of assisting any religious or charitable work in St. Louis, as occasion presents itself; and $5,000 each to foreign and home missions of the Presbyterian church, and $2,500 for the fund for aged and infirm Presbyterian ministers.

—The following from the New Orleans Times Democrat will be interesting to the many friends of Rev. Dr. Holland, late rector of St. George's church in this city:

Dr. Holland, the new rector of Trinity church, is still such a stranger that many people have not yet heard him, or having heard, are not yet through with comparing him with Bishop This-that-or-the other, who remotely or immediately preceded him. And, indeed, there is, both in the appearance and style of the reverend gentleman, something that recalls the Bishop of Georgia. No one who has heard Bishop Beckwith will ever forget the organ tones of that sublime voice that made the tritest commonplace seem important, and caused truth to assume most majestic proportions. Dr. Holland's voice has not, indeed, the sonorous richness and depth that charmed in Dr. Beckwith but it is an uncommonly good voice, smooth, well-sustained and of excellent carrying quality; while his enunciation is clear and distinct, his lowest utterances going into the furthest corners of the large church, as easily as arrows cut the air. It is remarkable that the pronunciation and inflections of one who entered the ministry as a mere lad, and whose life has been full of action, should be so free from localisms. It is not easy to judge from his speech of the section whence he comes, so correct of his pronunciation, so nice his vowel sounds, so perfect his knowledge of the English tongue. His reading of the service is in no wise dramatic, but it is very impressive and satisfactory. There are clergymen who forget that the noble Episcopal liturgy should be nobly rendered; those who rush through the service in a painfully perfunctory manner, or else drawl and drone until the congregation is fairly worn out with impatience.

In the sermons of Dr. Holland the first quality that impresses his hearers is earnestness. Evidently the speaker is profoundly impressed by his own convictions, and seeks to present them as they appear to him; hence their life, their color. His wealth of vocabulary and felicity of diction are also remarkable; there is no hesitation, no painful seeking for proper phrases; the word that best expresses the shade of meaning he wishes to convey seems to rise unsought to his lips, and the stream of eloquence flows smoothly and swiftly onward. In the whole range of English prose, and even in poetry, it would be hard to find figures more apt and beautiful than those with which Dr. Holland embellishes and illustrates his ideas. Never mixing or straining metaphors, never diluting his thought by the unnecessary introduction of simile, there is a felicity of illustration the writer never has found in any predecessor, in any occupant of the "Nursery of Bishops." The discriminating vestry of Trinity, the large congregation worshipping in that church, the entire parish, the town and state itself, may well be congratulated upon the coming of a clergyman who unites the apostolic qualities of fervent zeal and piety with the highest culture of this century and on oratory at once finished and most natural.

—The clerical obituary of the month includes the names of the Rev. W. A. Weddell, D.D., of Virginia; Rev. E. Ferris, Bishop of Connecticut; Rev. Joshua Morsell, D.D., of New York; Rev. George W. Boyd, of Oregon; the Rev. Wm. S. Bartlett, of Massachusetts; Rev. Geo. A. England, of Nebraska; the Rev. Geo. L. Chase, D.D., Warden of Seabury Hall, Faribault; Rev. Jas. H. Magoffin, of Michigan; Rev. Horace tringfellow, Sr., of Virginia.

—Last week Wednesday was an unlucky day for Bishop Cox. He had an appointment in Geneseo to confirm a class of communicants in the evening, and on his way to this village was given at Avon a seat in the last car of the 5:15 train coming from Rochester. He stepped off to attend to his baggage, but on his return boarded the next to the last car and fell into conversation with a friend. He did not realize that he was speeding away in the wrong direction till almost to Livonia station, where he left the train, secured a conveyance and started for Geneseo. When he reached here he found that his baggage, containing his surplice, was at the railroad station, and the agent could not be found to unlock the station before the necessary article of apparel could be secured for the service. In the meantime the exercises in St. Michael's church were under way. The bishop, in the basement, ready to go upstairs, wished some drinking water to dilute a few drops of ammonia, which he takes as a preventive against colds. No one but the organ pumper could be found. This individual was busy, and left his post for the water only by the voluntary substitution of bishop's work at the handle. But no water could be found. At the conclusion of the services, through some misunderstanding, the carriage to convey the bishop to the house of Mr. William Wadsworth did not appear, and the only conveyance procurable was a fish wagon. After starting from the church the horse broke into a rapid run, turned in at Globe hotel and stopped. It was afterwards discovered that the bridle was broken, so that had the horse chosen nothing could have prevented a runaway. We trust that the bishop will not have any hesitation in coming to Geneseo in the future.—[Geneseo Paper.]

—Monsignor Capel is most struck in America by the precociousness of the children. He called with the Archbishop upon a Baltimore lady, who said to her four-year old boy: "My son, speak to the Archbishop." The boy readily held out his hand, and said: "How do, Arch."

—The Rev. W. D. Walker was consecrated Missionary Bishop of North Dakota in Calvary church, New York, on the 20th ult., Bishop Clark acting as the Consecrator. One hundred clergymen were present, vested.

—The Bishop of North Carolina has just ordained Mr. Jas. H. Postette, and Bishop Dudley has ordained Mr. S. S. Pentz, both Methodist ministers, and the Bishop of New Jersey has admitted Mr. Durand, a reformed Dutch minister to Deacon's Orders.

—The oldest peer in England, aged ninety, the Earl of Buckingham, is in Holy Orders, as are also the Marquis of Donegal, the Earls of Deleware, Carlisle, Stamford and Mulgrave, and Lords Plunket, Sage and Sele, Scarsdale and Hawke.

GENERAL NEWS.

—Instead of a Vestry, the Church of the Holy Trinity, New York, has a board of nine trustees, elected in threes for terms of three years. No Easter Monday excitements ever turn out a whole vestry at once for a new one.

—At the recent celebration of the thirtieth anniversary of the consecration of Bishop Kip in San Francisco, the Rev. Mr. Githens spoke of the encumbrance of $15,000 on the Church of the Advent, of which the Bishop has charge, and urged its payment, and said, moreover, that in order that his hearers might not think he was merely advising others what to do, he would be one of thirty to pay the indebtedness.

—The Plymouth Church, Minneapolis, which not many years ago was a home-mission station, gave last year $61,507 to benevolent objects, in addition to carrying on its own work.

—St. Luke's Hospital, New York, has since the beginning taken care of 5,324 Roman Catholic patients, but has not received one dollar from the Roman Church. These patients were almost wholly charity patients. What was saved by them from this was spent in building their churches and schools. There are 85 endowed beds in the Hospital, yielding an income of $26,500 a year. They have also received $8,468 from pay patients, and yet require over $35,000 more from contributions to carry on the work.

—At a great meeting held on the 10th ult., Luther's birthday, in Dr. Boyd's Baptist Church, St. Louis, which was very largely attended, the great congregation joined in saying together the Apostles' Creed. This was after all the bond of their union.

—The Diocese of New York, whose Episcopal Fund at interest amounted to $110,000, lately resolved to increase it, both to provide from it the salary of the Assistant Bishop, and also to make good the reduced rate of interest now procurable on investments, five gentlemen started off with giving each $10,000 for the object.

—There was a lively debate in the South Carolina Senate last week over a proposed law to permit divorces in that State. It was in a fair way to success when an amendment was adopted providing that after divorce neither party could marry again during the life of the other. This defeated the whole measure.

—The primary Convention of the eastern portion of the Diocese of North Carolina, which was set forth at the late General Convention, was held on the 12th ult. It chose the name of East Carolina as the designation of the Diocese, after rejecting the names of Wilmington, Albemarle, Roanoke and Carolina, and it elected the Rev. Dr. A. A. Watson for its Bishop. Dr. Watson is a native of New York, and was reared a Presbyterian, is about 70 years of age, has been in North Carolina nearly fifty years, and has for several years been Chairman of the Committee on Canons in the House of Deputies of General Convention.

JOSEPH FRANKLIN, Treasurer.

GENERAL NEWS.

—Rev. Dr. Dixon, a distinguished Wesleyan preacher in England, writes to the Methodist paper in Boston, in reference to the idea that the Church of England was only a dignified establishment: "Be not startled; but there is more true religion in the Church of England than anywhere else in the country. This Church is the only Protestant body which is making progress, and is the most prosperous body in this country."

—Figures show that last year in 14 dioceses two thirds and more of the parishes contributed to the general missions of the Church. Missouri was not one of the dioceses. In eight others more than one-half and less than two thirds contributed. Missouri was not among these. In sixteen other dioceses less than one-half, but more than one-third contributed. Missouri was not among these. In nine others less than one third of the parishes contributed to General Missions. Here is where Missouri is named. No special cause for glorying in this showing.

—The census shows that the men spend $45 a year, and the women only $27 a year for dress.

—Mr. Wm. Astor is to give a reception in New York on the 31st ult. in honor of the centenary of his grandfather's coming to this country from Germany. It is to be the most costly entertainment ever given in the United States. The sterling silver and gold service is to cost $175,000, and the table on which the wines are to be served is to be of repousse silver, costing $60,000.

—The papers have lately been devoting much attention to the fact that in a New York paper, while an advertisement for a girl to do housework for three dollars a week and board, received few answers, an advertisement for a lady copyist at 7 dollars a week without board, got 554 replies. This shows a bad state of things. Work that is genteel and will not soil the hands is sought for, and persons will starve at this rather than go at honest, independent housework. There would be fewer divorces if more women could cook, and honored domestic service. Girls' heads are filled with romances, and the hope of marrying a fortune that will keep them from work. Being disappointed, the divorce court and the brothel are the alternations. Scores of girls are now wanting situations in shops and as governesses, while hundreds of housewives are at their wit's end for domestics whom they are willing to honor and treat and pay well for honest, capable service.

—The failure of Klein's bank, Vicksburg, Miss., which was occasioned by speculating in futures in wheat in St. Louis, has caused the most discouraging losses to the Church in that impoverished Diocese. The Bishop and Assistant Bishop have lost amounts deposited in the bank, and also all that had been collected for the endowment of the Episcopate. Thousands of dollars gone, from the insane craze to make money faster by speculating on the chances of the future. It means despair, and suffering, and it explains many a broken home and suicide's end.

An American writing to the Chicago Tribune from England, after his recent return from the States, in speaking of the great throngs of 10,000 or 15,000 in St. Paul's, London, who attend on Sunday afternoons to hear Canon Liddon, among whom he saw Froude, the historian, sitting among humble people, says that in this country alone the poor do not generally go to church. He says religion is not dead or dying in England, nor has the Church of England lost an atom of its hold on the reverence and affection of the people. He finds a large part of the cause of the non attendance of the poor here to the costliness of the arrangements, and the vulgar displays of clothing and jewelry made in church.

—It is said that five corner lots in as many towns in Northern Dakota have been offered to Bishop Walker for an Episcopal residence.

—The first Episcopal congregation in New England was formed at what is now Portsmouth, New Hampshire in 1640.

—St. Louis claims to have erected $10,500,000 worth of buildings the year past. The Globe-Democrat declares that it spends more money for the collection of news, domestic and foreign, by telegraph and otherwise, than any other city, New York and London included.

—Mgr. Savarez, doctor of civil and canon law, and until recently the pope's domestic prelate, has left the Roman Catholic Church.

He was received into communion of the Episcopal Church by Dr. Nevin, in St. Paul's American church, in the city of Rome, on confession of the Nicene creed and abjuration of dogmas of the immaculate conception and papal infallibility. He asks for the guidance and protection of the Anglican Episcopate against the usurpations of the bishop of Rome.

—The Rev. Mr. Bishop of Connecticut built himself, at the cost of $25,000, the church in Bridgeport, of which he was rector. He was in early days largely interested in railroad building, and was still president of several companies at the time of his death. He died worth $150,000.

—With the increased mileage of railways in this State, out of the 114 counties, or 115, counting the city of St. Louis, 98 of them now are reached by railways. The tax valuation of railroad property in the State is $40,000,000, which on a real valuation of two-fifths, the general estimate, represents an outlay of $100,000,000 invested in railroads in Missouri.

—This is what a Presbyterian minister said at the funeral service of a minister named Watkins, who died on the 22nd of February. Raising both hands with a voice tremulous with emotion, he exclaimed: "Oh think, my brethren, what a wonderful, what a wonderful providence! How wisely God chose the day of our friend's departure! How sweet, how glorious the thought, that the same day on the year that gave a Washington to our country gave a Watkins to heaven!"

—St. John's Church, Detroit, gave last year to the general missions of the Church, $1,181.80, which is the largest amount given by any parish in the West, or by any Diocese west of it. This was besides 1,500, pledged and given to Missions in the Diocese, and the support of its own parochial missions.

—St. Luke's Hospital, Chicago, has just received for its building fund from the estate of the late Wm. B. Ogden, $25,000, making in all $108,000 received for the purpose. Dr. Wheeler also has given $25,000. This is something becoming.

—Mr. Wm. G. Harrison, of Baltimore, has left $15,000 to St. Luke's Church, the income of which is for the Rector; $5,000 to St. Paul's church, the income for the Rector; $10,000 for the Church Hospital, $5,000 to the Convention, the income of which is to augment the clerical salaries which are less than $1,000 a year; and $5,000 to St. James College.

THE SHAM AND THE REAL.—Every good thing has its host of imitators; every genuine article its counterfeits. Bad manners and wicked habits have theirs also; but he who shams the bad never boasts of it; while they who ape the virtues of the good or simulate the genuine never hesitate to place the counterfeit before the public in their alluring tones. When these people imitate they always choose a pronounced type or popular subject to copy from; and when they claim to be as good as "So-and-So," the public may depend upon it that Mr. "So-and-So," and his article are always the best of the kind. Thus the sham is always proving the genuine merit of the thing it copies. A firm of enterprising gentlemen produce and popularize an article of household use, such as the Royal Baking Powder, whose convenience, usefulness and real merit make for itself an immense and universal sale. A hundred imitators arise on every hand, and as they hold out their sham articles to the public, yelp in chorus, "Buy this: it's just as good as Royal, and much cheaper!" The Royal Baking Powder is the standard the world over, and its imitators in their cry that theirs is "as good as Royal" are all the time emphasizing this fact. In their laborious attempts to show by analysis and otherwise that the "Snowball" brand has as much raising power "as the Royal," or that the "Earthquake" brand is "as pure as the Royal;" as well as by their contortive twistings of chemical certificates labored efforts to obtain recognition from the Government chemists and prominent scientists who have certified the superiority of Royal over all others, they all admit the "Royal" to be the acme of perfection, which it is their highest ambition to imitate. But difference between the real and these imitations, which copy only its general appearance, is as wide as that between the paste and the true diamond. The shams all pay homage to the "Royal!"

A VETERAN BENEFACTOR.

His Past Life, Present Plans, and What He Has to Say Upon a Subject That Astonishes Him.

[New York Times.]

Nearly forty years ago a young man, of unusual endowments, began to mould public opinion upon a subject of vital importance. Like all pioneers, his early efforts were unsuccessful, but his ability and the value of his work soon won public confidence, and to-day there is not a village or hamlet in the country that has not been influenced by Dr. Dio Lewis. When, therefore, it was learned yesterday that he contemplated the establishment of a large magazine in this city, the fact was deemed so important that a representative of this paper was commissioned to see him and ascertain the truth of the rumor.

Dr. Dio Lewis is a gentleman of sixty years and two hundred pounds, with snow-white hair and beard, but probably the most perfect picture of health and vigor in the metropolis. He is a living exponent of his teachings, and notwithstanding the amount of work he has already done, promises still greater activity for years to come. He received the interviewer most courteously, and in reply to a question said:

"It is true I have come to New York to establish a monthly magazine. I have come here for the same reason that I went to Boston 25 years ago. Then Boston was the best platform in the country from which to speak of education. New York has now become most hospitable to progressive thoughts, and especially so to movements on behalf of physical training.

I have reason to know the great and abiding interest of the American people in this subject. They have come to realize that the future of our country pivots upon our physical vitality, and especially upon the vigor of our women. My new magazine will bear the title 'Dio Lewis's Monthly' and be devoted to Sanitary and Social Science. I hope through its pages to inaugurate a new departure in hygiene."

"Have you not written several books on the subject?"

"Yes, nine volumes, and some of them like 'Our Girls,' published by the Harpers, have had an enormous circulation, but the best work of my life I shall give the world in the new magazine. Forty years of skirmishing ought to conclude with ten years of organized warfare."

"Doctor, what is the occasion of this new interest in health questions?"

"It has come through suffering, which seems the only road to self knowledge. The stomach, heart, kidneys or liver fall into trouble, happiness is gone, and then people give attention to their health."

"Which of these organs is most frequently the victim of our errors?" asked the Reporter.

"Within the last few years diseases of the kidneys have greatly multiplied. When I was engaged in practice, thirty-five and forty years ago, serious disease of the kidneys was rare; but now distressingly frequent and fatal."

"To what do you attribute this great increase of kidney troubles?"

"To the use of stimulating drinks, adulterated food and irregular habits of life."

"Doctor, have you any confidence in the remedy of which we hear so much now a-days, 'Warner's Safe Cure'?"

"I believe in the ounce of prevention, rather than in a ton of cure."

"But have you noticed the remarkable testimonials of Warner's remedy?"

"I have, and confess that they have puzzled and astonished me. The commendations of proprietary medicines usually come from unknown persons residing in back counties. But I see in our most reputable newspapers the warmest praise of Warner's Safe Cure from College Professors, respectable physicians, and other persons of high intelligence and character. To thrust such testimony aside may be professional, but it is unmanly. No physician can forget that valuable additions to our Materia Medica have sprung from just such sources. I was so impressed with this cloud of witnesses that I purchased some bottles of Warner's Safe Cure at a neighboring drug store, and analyzed one of them to see if it contained anything poisonous. Then I took three of the prescribed doses at once, and found there was nothing injurious in it. I do not hesitate to say that if I found my kidneys in serious trouble, I should use this remedy, because of the hopelessness of all ordinary treatment, and because when a hundred intelligent and reputable persons unite in the statement that a certain remedy has cured them of a grave malady, I

I choose to believe that they speak the truth."

"But as you may know, my great interest in life lies in prevention. For forty years I have labored in this field. One of the phases of my work in New England was the establishment of the Ladies' seminary at Lexington, Mass. My aim was to illustrate the possibilities in the physical training of girls during their school life. This institution became before I left it, the largest and most successful Seminary for young women owned and managed by one person, in our country. I sat down to dinner every day with a family of two hundred persons. The remarkable results of this muscle training among girls, were given in my paper published in the North American Review of December, 1882.

"Besides, I established the Normal Institute for Physical Training in Boston, and for ten years was its President and Manager. Dr. Walter Channing, Dr. Thomas Hoskins, Professor Leonard, and others were among its teachers, and more than four hundred persons took its diploma and went out into all parts of the land to teach the new school of gymnastics. And now the years left to me I propose to devote to the magazine which I have come here to establish. It will be the largest periodical ever devoted to this field of literature, and will present the hundred and one questions of hygiene with the simplicity of a child's talk. To this end all so called learning will be subordinated. The magazine will be more or less illustrated, and will strive to reach a high place in the confidence and hearts of the people. In a few weeks, our first number will appear, and we shall fondly hope for it a hearty welcome."

The facts above narrated are indeed most important. It is gratifying to know that the life long experiences of a gentleman who stands without a peer in successfully demonstrating the principles of hygiene; whose heart has always been in sympathy with the afflicted, and whose brain has ever been active in planning for their relief, are to be given to the public through the pages of a magazine. And it is specially significant and proof positive of rare merit that a proprietary medicine, even with such high standing as Warner's Safe Cure is known to have, should be endorsed and recommended by a man so able, so reputable and of such national renown as Dr. Dio Lewis.

[OFFICIAL.]

THE Rev. Charles H. Gauthier, a Deacon canonically resident in this Diocese, having declared in writing to me his renunciation of the Ministry of this Church, I hereby depose the said Charles H. Gauthier from the Ministry, and pronounce and record that he is deposed from the Ministry of this Church: such deposition being for causes not affecting his moral character.

Done in the city of St. Louis, on the 25th day of January, in the year of our Lord 1884, and in the 16th year of my Consecration.

[Signed,] CHARLES F. ROBERTSON,
Bishop of Missouri.

We, the undersigned, hereby declare that this deposition was pronounced and recorded in our presence.

[Signed,] ED. F. BERKLEY, Presbyter.
FRED'K B. SCHEETZ, Presbyter.

Mr. Gauthier, having some months since withdrawn from the ministry, several months were allowed to elapse, in the hope that he might recall his purpose. As he did not do so, the above was the only course left to be pursued.

IN response to a suggestion made by the Bishop, the Rev. Mr. Newton, of the Church of the Good Shepherd, sent a very handsome cloth to St. Philip's Church, Joplin, to cover their bare altar; and a lady member of Christ Church gave $5 for a carpet for the chancel of the new St. Andrew's Church, Cuba. The Sisters of the Good Shepherd gave the numbers of the Churchman needed to make up the file for 1883 for the Diocesan Library, as did also Mr. Bullens of Chillicothe, and Mr. Wm. B. Ryder of this city, and one other whose name was not given. Others kindly gave separate numbers.

SUCH cold as we have had this winter—and we have such every winter, of course—shows how a chapel to St. Luke's Hospital, if built separated and detached from the building proper, would cause it, and its services, to be useless to all those who could not face the intense cold of the outer air. The reason for the chapel lies in its being of religious service to the sick and infirm inmates. Probably a consideration of the condition of the sick will have a controlling influence in the location and arrangement of the building.

MRS. FRANKLIN.

Many persons were moved with painful concern at the announcement made three weeks ago of the death after a very short sickness of the wife of the Treasurer of the Diocese. She had received a severe shock and injury three years ago from an explosion of gas, since which time she had not been strong. But the immediate cause of death was the cold taken while attending a funeral during the intense cold early in January. She was of a remarkably sweet, and engaging disposition, and shared her husband's interest in Church and Sunday School and humane work. The family had removed but a few months before to a handsome residence just finished at Oakland, near Kirkwood.

Of the shock and the loss to the family, with its seven children, we cannot speak.

The large establishment of Barr & Co., with its hundreds of employes and its enormous daily sales, was closed for three days.

The funeral was attended by a very large concourse of friends; a special train took out hundreds of those engaged in the establishment and others. The Service was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Reed of Mount Calvary, assisted by the Bishop and the Rev. Mr. Porteus, an intimate friend of the family. The Rev. Mr. Scheetz also was present. The interment was at Oakridge Cemetery.

The time and pains with which the Treasurer has now for nearly twenty years, in the midst of all his other vast and varied business, performed the duties of the Treasurership of the Diocese and of two of the Funds, is something of which few have any idea. The amount of detail labor in keeping up so many separate accounts, and in conducting the necessary correspondence, and in looking after the investment and interest on the funds is something which could not be paid for. At every Convention the long and complicated reports are in hand, and drawn up with a clearness which makes the whole situation intelligible.

Such attention, which does not seek recognition, is called to mind, with so much else, at a time like this.

SPECIAL PRAYERS.

The Bishop hereby sets forth the following prayers, any of which may be used in the congregations in the Diocese on extraordinary occasions, and in family prayer. They are among those reported for insertion in the revised Prayer Book:

"O God, at whose word man goeth forth unto his work, and to his labor until the evening: Be merciful to all whose duties are difficult or burdensome, and comfort them concerning their toil. Shield from bodily accident and harm the workmen at their work. Protect the efforts of sober and honest industry, and suffer not the hire of the laborers to be kept back by fraud. Incline the hearts of employers, and of those whom they employ, to mutual forbearance, fairness and good will. Give the spirit of governance, and of a sound mind to all in places of authority. Bless the schools of good learning with quietness, and grant to every work of mercy an even course. Care for all aged persons, and all little children, the sick and the afflicted, those who travel by land or by sea, all strangers and outcasts. Remember all who by reason of weakness are overtaxed, or by reason of poverty are forgotten. Let the sorrowful sighing of the prisoners come before Thee, and according to the greatness of Thy power preserve Thou those that are appointed to die. Give ear unto our prayer, O merciful and gracious Father, for the love of Thy dear Son, our Saviour, Jesus Christ. Amen."

"Almighty God, who in the former time leddest our fathers forth into a wealthy place, and didst set their feet in a large room: Give Thy grace, we humbly beseech Thee, to us their children, that we may always approve ourselves a people mindful of Thy favor, and glad to do Thy will. Bless our land with honorable industry, sound learning, and pure manners. Defend our liberties, preserve our unity. Save us from violence, discord and confusion; from pride and arrogance, and from every evil way. Fashion into one happy people the multitudes brought hither out of many kindreds and tongues. Endue with the spirit of wisdom those whom we entrust in Thy Name with the authority of governance, to the end that there may be peace at home, and that we keep our place among the nations of the earth. In the time of our prosperity, temper our self-confidence with thankfulness, and in the day of trouble, suffer not our trust in Thee to fail; all which we ask for Jesus Christ's sake. Amen."

"O God, Almighty and merciful, who healest those who are broken in heart, and turnest the sadness of the sorrowful to joy: Let Thy fatherly goodness be upon all whom Thou hast made. Especially we beseech Thee to remember in pity such as are destitute, homeless, or forgotten of their fellow men. Bless the congregation of Thy poor. Uplift those who are cast down, mightily befriend innocent sufferers, and sanctify to them the endurance of their wrongs. Cheer with hope all discouraged and unhappy people, and by Thy heavenly grace preserve from falling those whose penury tempteth them to sin. Though they be troubled on every side, suffer them not to be distressed; though they be perplexed, save them from despair. Grant this, O Lord, for the love of Him, who for our sakes became poor, Thy Son, Our Saviour, Jesus Christ. Amen."

LENTEN CALENDAR.

The Bishop was assured of the value of the calendar referred to below, as arranged last year, and of its convenience and value where it could be introduced. He encouraged the Rev. Mr. Reed in getting out an edition for the approaching season. The following note will explain itself:—

2739 LAFAYETTE AVE., ST. LOUIS,

My Dear Bishop:

Aided by last year's experience, I have prepared another Lenten Calendar for 1884, which in many respects—not in its make up, however,—is a vast improvement on the one of 1883. It opens with a "Call to Repentance." Then beginning with the first Monday in Lent are "Duties to God." The next Monday begins with "Duties to self." The next Monday with "Duties to our neighbor," and continues this for two weeks. After that are general exhortations, and occasional verses are inserted. Through the use of this Calendar my congregations last Lent were large—almost as large as on Sunday; despite the terrible weather, they were always good.

I exhorted them to read in morning prayer the Psalm numbered on the daily page, and to teach their families the text. I saw evidences of a deepening spirituality directly from this source. Now I would like to help others in the same way, and would be obliged if you would mention the Calendar in the next issue of the NEWS. If they should be desired by either clergy or laity, they can get them by applying to me. If they are wanted in any number, I will leave blank the space at the head of the sheet, so each parish can insert its own name, also its hours for service. The cost will be as low as can be made to save me from loss. Sincerely and affectionately yours,
B. E. REED.

DIOCESAN ITEMS.

—The Rev. George H. Ward of Mattoon, Ill., has accepted the rectorship of St. Jude's church, Monroe city, and will enter upon duty at the earliest day possible. He probably is, by this time, in possession of the very comfortable rectory which the parish has recently erected. It is a delightful parish, and we are glad to have Mr. Ward back in the diocese.

—Mr. J. J. Wilkins of Booneville, has been recommended by the Standing Committee and admitted by the Bishop as a candidate for Holy Orders. He has acted as Lay Reader in the Diocese for many years. Fifteen years ago he was a candidate for Holy Orders, and withdrew at his own desire on account of personal and family reasons. In the meantime, he has been widely engaged in a lucrative business, which he proposes to give up to fulfill his long cherished wish to give himself entirely to the services of God in the ministry of His Church. If he shall be admitted in due time to its functions, he will bring to its work trained qualifications and experience of an unusual kind for the prosecution of his work.

—Trinity church in this city has long been considering the difficulties attending its position on leased ground in a part of the city being rapidly deserted by residences. The lease has yet almost twelve years to run, and it has been offered for sale, but has not found a purchaser. The owner of the property, Mrs. Lindell, has generously offered to forego the lease, and also the amount of special tax, $1,000, now resting upon the property for street construction, and rent now due. This offer left the parish ready to proceed with the consideration of the project for removing to the western part of the city. On the evening of the 15th inst., an enthusiastic meeting was held in the chapel, at which the Rector presided. After fully discussing the matter, it was concluded that at least $15,000 was needed in order to enter fairly upon the work of construction. The Rev. Mr. Betts, and Messrs. Wm. H. Thomson and John A. Harrison were appointed a committee to canvass for subscriptions for the building fund.

—Mr. Herbert Welch of Philadelphia, Secretary of the Indian Rights Association, whose father's interest in the Indians is well known in the Church, will make an address in Christ church in this city, on Sunday evening, 24th inst., on the subject that he has at heart. He spoke in Philadelphia during the General Convention, and has made addresses in a number of places, and published a most interesting pamphlet on his observations among the Sioux. Dr. Schuyler offered the church, and the Bishop will preside. Many citizens in this city have shown deep interest in the subject.

—A cross and pair of vases of exquisite beauty were placed on Sunday morning, 20th ult., for the first time, upon the altar of Christ church in this city. They arrived the day before from London. The cross and vases, which are a memorial gift to the church, are of brass, elaborately designed and beautifully wrought. The cross stands forty-two inches high upon a conical base, resting upon lion's feet. Above the base for a space of six or eight inches the upright bar is round and twisted into a series of circular and screw-like rings. Above this is a knop of eight inches in diameter, and above the knop is the cross proper, which is of the Greek model, with trefoil points. The base and the knop and the ends of the cross are set with different kinds of stone—agate, crystal, carnelion and jasper. The base and knop are further ornamented with beadwork in brass, while the whole is elaborately engraved and ornamented in blue, green and red in ecclesiastical design. The vases, which are large and about eighteen inches in height, are of a style corresponding with the cross. This altar set came from a gentleman in Philadelphia, and is in memory of his mother.

—A proposition was recently made to the Bishop relative to the purchase of the cut stone foundation for the country house in Pacific, for the establishment of a school. It stands out as a vast mediæval ruin on a height, and is the remains of one of the jobs that immediately succeeded the war. The Bishop did not entertain the matter.

—St. Augustine's church, Kansas City, has cost so far, without the furniture, $3,545. A suggestion was received lately that if they wanted to sell, they could get $4,500 for their property. There is still $870 owing on it, which they are steadily reducing.

The following were the contributions for the purchase of All Saints' (formerly Good Samaritan church) in this city from within the diocese: Jos. W. Branch, $100; John M. Gilkeson, $100; Edwin Harrison, $100; D. P. Dyer, $100; W. F. Ferguson, $200; Mrs. A. C. Moore, $100; C. F. Robertson, $100; Jas. Franklin, $100; Geo. H. Gill, $100; Mrs. J. Lindell, $100; Newton Crane, $50; W. R. Pye, $50; Mrs. Agnes Kennett, $50; E. C. Simmons, $50; Henry Shaw, $50; Chas. Parson, $50; Silas Bent, $50; Mrs. J. J. Mitchell, $35; Jas. O. Broadhead, $25; Mrs. Hugh Campbell, $25; Hugh Rogers, $25; Jas. Hill, $25; Dr. J. G. W. Steedman, $25; R. M. Wilson, $25; John W. Harrison, $25; John R. Nugent, $10; Miss Mary McCreery, $10; Gains Paddock, $10; S. Hand, $10; J. B. Gazzam, $10; T. Ewing White, $10; H. H. Curtis, $10; cash in various sums, $100.

The following are the contributions for the same object from without the Diocese: Mrs. S. Tomlinson, Batavia, N. Y., $100; Rev. James Saul, D. D., Philadelphia, $100; Mount Calvary church, Baltimore, $35; Rev. J. S. B. Hodges, D. D., Baltimore, $10; Rev. George Leeds, D. D., Baltimore, $10; Rev. W. A. Leonard, Washington, $10.

—It may be remembered that Mr. Gill's gift to the building fund of St. Luke's Hospital of $1,500, was conditioned upon its being paid when it would relieve the Institution of all debt. It has not therefore yet been paid. With the $10,000, of Mr. Sellew, and this amount of $1,500, there is only $3,500 left to be raised to clear the Hospital of debt, and increase the income by $900 a year, besides all the moral benefit of being out of debt. This should be an inducement to take steps to raise this small sum before the year is over within which Mr. Sellew's gift cannot be paid.

—A few weeks ago the Bishop received, at the Oratory on Park Avenue, into the Sisterhood of the Good Shepherd, a serving Sister, who is engaged in nursing at St. Luke's Hospital.

—The Rev. Mr. Brown of Nevada and Clinton has been interesting himself very much recently for the organization of a Church institution of learning of a high character in Southwest Missouri. He is a graduate of Trinity College, Dublin, and an experienced educator. He has stirred up very much local interest in Nevada, Clinton and Rich Hill in behalf of the enterprise; so much so that each of these places have offered considerable money and from five to ten acres of land close to or in the towns. Rich Hill secured ten acres of land, a pledge of ten thousand dollars and other valuable franchises; but the conditions were such that with the disposition shown at Clinton, where the Church strength is greater, Mr. Brown has inclined to accept the pledges from Clinton. He is sanguine of being able to secure the means required to meet the pledges at Clinton, and start what will grow into an important institution and auxiliary of the Church.

—A brass memorial cross has been placed upon the altar of the Church of the Holy Communion in this city by Mrs. Chouteau Maffitt, in memory of her little child taken to its rest.

—The Rev. Mr. Mason has arranged a course of lecturers for Wednesday evenings during Lent by different clergymen in All Saints' Church in this city on the "Armor of God."

—The Rev. Mr. Griffith will have a series of Pre-Lent Services in Emmanuel Church, St. Louis County, during the two weeks before Lent, with sermons by various members of the city clergymen.

—The first meeting of the Committee on the Division of the Diocese was held in St. Mary's Church, Kansas City, on Friday, 8th inst. The Rev. Dr. Runcie, Rev. Messrs. E. Talbot and Jardine, and Messrs. W. B. Grimes and W. D. B. Motter of St. Joseph were present. The special business before the committee was the proposition for St. Mary's Church to convey to the new Diocese all the property of their church, valued, it was stated, at $40,000. This included the Troost residence and property, 90 feet by 120, the title to which has just been confirmed to St. Mary's. The committee considered the matter, but concluded to wait until they could see whether the property was available, and what it would be worth towards the support of a Diocese, supposing it to be available. The impression seemed to be with several members of the committee that a division was desirable on general principles, but a doubt was expressed as to whether it was possible yet. The committee will further consider the matter before reporting.

INSTITUTION SERVICE AT ST. JOHN'S

The Wardens and Vestry desired that their newly elected rector, the Rev. S. H. Greene, should be formally instituted by the Bishop. The service which was appointed for St. Paul's Day, was one which was new to many clergymen, and to almost all of the people, and had only been used by the Bishop three times before in fifteen years.

The church has been materially renovated and cleaned, and looks very bright and fresh. The congregation was the largest that has been seen on a week day service in St. Louis for a very long time. It had in it representations from all the parishes, and many who were formerly identified with St. John's. The music was specially arranged for. The excellent choir of men and boys which has been drawn together, and trained, was supplemented by some extra voices, male and female. The usual chants were rendered with strength, and the anthems with skill and delicacy.

There were present besides the Bishop, the Revs. Dr. Ingraham, a former rector of the church, under whom the present building was erected, Dr. Berkley, and Messrs. Scheetz, Reed, Silvester, Betts, Griffith, De Forest, Chesnutt, Newton, Tucker and Mason. Mr. Chas. Hofman, the Senior Warden, presented the keys. Very deep interest was shown in the solemnities, which gave such a new emphasis to the obligations of the rector, his position, and the esteem in which he should be held. The sermon was preached by the Bishop. The newly instituted rector celebrated the Holy Communion, which was received by a large number of persons.

After the service the clergy and the vestry went by a previous invitation to the rectory not far away, where a delightful lunch was served, and where several hours were most pleasantly spent in a reunion. The whole occasion was one that gave great gratification, and was an auspicious starting off, in the face of his brethren, of an incumbency which it may be hoped will long continue.

The Bishop in his sermon made the following references to the earlier days of St. John:

"St. John's has a right to have care for its present and future, because it has such a noble past to be proud of. It was organized on the 28th December, 1841, when there were only two other parishes in this city, Christ and St. Paul's, the latter of which ceased to exist twenty years ago. The diocese had not yet a Bishop of its own, Bishop Kemper having still provisional oversight. It was described as a church in the southern part of the city. The Rev. Mr. Griswold, who had only been ordained in the previous summer, took charge of the new work with youthful zeal and untiring diligence. In the first year or two it held its services in the upper room of an engine house on Second street, south of Plum. Early in 1842, when the matter of building its church was being considered, the vestry determined not to do so, because of the heavy debt resting upon Christ church, from which most of the members had come. They even proposed, according to their ability, to help their Mother Church pay its debt, which kind offer was thankfully declined.

Their place of worship proving to be too far south for the congregation, the parish in 1843 leased for ten years the lot on the southwest corner of 5th and Spruce streets, on which it erected a small brick building. The rector reports this year that, besides his Sunday services, he has prayers on most of the festivals and fasts of the Church, on Friday morning before Communion Sunday, on every Wednesday and Friday during Lent, every morning during Holy Week, and the Communion every Sunday in Lent. This may fairly represent the high water mark of distinctive Church teaching then, for St. John's always typified strong, outspoken Church life and work.

A parochial school had been organized, and an Orphans' Home, the nucleus of our larger institution, which had its origin in St. John's. It began with the ladies of St. John's Church, who associated themselves for the relief of orphans and destitute persons. It subsequently became enlarged, and took in representations from other parishes, and in 1845 was incorporated as the Orphans' Home. It rented different houses in the neighborhood, and was under the pastoral care of the rectors of St. John's, until in 1853 it removed to the building erected for it in North St. Louis. When in 1849 the cholera scourge visited this city in its terrible fury, it first made its appearance among the children of the Home; but it was when its ravages were nearing their close that the devoted Griswold at length yielded his life as a sacrifice to his devotion to duty.

"Exhausted by unceasing attention," I quote the words of Bishop Hawks, uttered soon after, "by day and by night, upon the sick, the dying and the alarmed, he was at last prostrated himself. Some days, calm and collected, he seemed quietly to contemplate death as his portion. Indeed, those who loved him best have thought, since his departure, that he had firmly fixed in his mind the idea that he should die during the season. At length his reason wandered, and, occasionally, only would he have lucid intervals of thought; but oh! what comfort was allowed us who witnessed his wild delirium! It seems to have been allowed by his Heavenly Father only to reveal the good man more distinctly in his last moments; the ruling passion shone strong in death through that delirium. At one time you would hear him in the holy office of Baptism, apparently receiving some lamb into the flock; then you would catch his words in the solemn service of the Burial of the Dead; then would he call those ministering to him near, and give them, as he deemed, the holy sacrament of the Lord's Supper, his broken and feeble voice whispering them, 'The Body of our Lord Jesus Christ, which was given for you; eat this! The Blood of our Lord Jesus Christ, which was shed for thee; drink this.' Thus passing through all the solemn offices he had used so often before, he was to the last, and in all his thoughts, ministering to the souls of others. A faithful soldier of Christ he lived, and a faithful soldier he died."

His whole career in the ministry was comprised within eight years, and yet in that time he had strongly established the Orphans' Home, and left behind this undying record of faithfulness unto death. The position of Rector of St. John's is evermore made sacred in my mind by the memory of the one who first bore it.

At the time of Mr. Griswold's death a lot had been purchased at Eight and Gratiot streets, and a foundation laid for a new church edifice. The vestry were however compelled to sell it, and in 1852, during the rectorship of the Rev. Mr. Clerc, the parish purchased the lot on the southeast corner of Sixth and Spruce, on which a brick church was built, holding four hundred persons, and costing $15,000, and which was consecrated August 28th, 1853.

The successive rectors since Mr. Clerc, who succeeded Mr. Griswold, and who resigned in 1857, have been the Rev. Wm. R. Johnson, 1858; the Rev. John Coleman, D.D., 1859-'61; the Rev. Wm. G. Spencer, 1861-'68; the Rev. J. P. T. Ingraham, D.D., 1868-'79; the Rev. Jos. T. Wright, D.D., 1880-'83.

The neighborhood of the old church having become disagreeable, and remote from the congregation, the land on which the present church was built was bought in 1870. On the 1st August, 1871, the corner stone was laid, and the first Service had in it on Easter Day, March 31st, 1872. On account of the new and distant locality to which the church had removed, a large number of members were lost to the parish, and this was increased by the starting of the Good Shepherd mission at this time, which was almost wholly made up from former communicants of St. John's. The large debt also left upon the property by unexpected expenses in construction, at one time $40,000, caused a period of struggle to begin at this time, from which you have only recently been happily relieved.

IN MEMORIAM.

MRS. MARY C. GANTT.

Another from among the oldest and most useful of the communicants of Christ Church has gone to her rest in Paradise.

There was a fitting tribute paid to her memory on the day of her funeral. The children of the Orphans' Home assembled at the entrance of the Church, and, following the procession up the aisle, when the casket rested, each of them with singular quietness of demeanor, and cordial feeling, passed round and deposited upon it a little bouquet of flowers. No words could have been as eloquent in praise of the departed as this simple and touching act of the fatherless and motherless children. She had been for years one of the managers of the Orphans' Home, and was in the habit at each monthly meeting of providing herself with a basket full of good things for the little ones; and her kindly greeting with a face bright with smiles, was always welcomed with delight. The sad countenances of the children told plainly that this act of devotion on their part was not a mere matter of form. And this incident gives a good insight into the character of Mrs. Gantt. She was not one of those women who put themselves forward on the public arena to contend for the rights of her sex. She did not figure in the public prints as a member of committees, having in charge sundry interests of public concern. While no less active and energetic than many of those whose names are thus frequently paraded, it was always in a quiet and unostentatious way, and her charities and acts of kindness were known only to the beneficiaries. Home was her peculiar sphere of duty, and the hearthstone was brightened by a sympathetic carefulness, an unceasing watchfulness and self-devotion, that made it a place of restfulness to the hard worked husband's heart and mind; and a welcome abode of peace and plenty to all its inmates.

There was a just and beautiful tribute to her memory, written by one of our oldest and most respected citizens, in the columns of the Republican on the morning of her funeral, which the writer of this brief notice would append as a full and accurate delineation of the character of the deceased:

"I had known her intimately, either by personal acquaintance or through those who are nearest to me, from the days of her childhood when she was at school in Washington city, to the close of her life, and do not need to use exaggerated terms of praise in speaking of her gentle loveliness of character. A perfect lady in manners; a woman of well balanced and highly instructed mind; of retiring unobtrusive disposition; modest in her self estimate; generous in her judgment of others; steadfast in her own convictions; considerate of the conflicting opinions of those with whom she differed. I have known few persons combining so many qualities that belong to the best cultivation of true Christian womanhood. Her inherent strength of character was half hidden by the uniform mildness of her demeanor. The habitual and unconscious disinterestedness of her life made its self-denial, and even its self sacrifice, seem the natural promptings of her own first choice, the spontaneous expressions of a loving heart. It was a life of exalted service of God, almost seeking to hide itself from the praise of man. The high estimation in which she was held by all who knew her was in exact proportion to the intimacy of their knowledge. The loss sustained by her decease will be felt most deeply by those who can give it no expression.

CHRIST CHURCH, ST. LOUIS.

Some idea of the rearrangement of the work in this church may be had from the account of the fuller and better distribution of the activities of the ladies in their work. The present organization is known as Christ Church Guild, and it embraces all the charitable and other work of the parish. There is a common treasury, and stated times for meeting to report the work done by the several branches which comprise the Orphans' Home, St. Luke's Hospital, Diocesan Missions, Woman's Auxilliary, Dorcas Society, Sewing School, Care of Altar, Care of Church, Mission Sunday School, and Mothers' Meeting. The work of the various branches is sewing for the Orphans' Home, the Hospital and the poor; preparing boxes for missionaries through the Woman's Auxilliary; investigating applications for charity and assisting worthy cases; visiting and encouraging the attendance of Sunday School children; providing objects for work for the Dorcas society, which is an organization of the younger members of the parish; the Industrial School for Girls; keeping good the supply and condition of the vestments, and providing for the orderly arrangement of the altar at the different seasons of the Church year. THOSE WAYSIDE NOTES.

Editor CHURCH NEWS:

We sent the December number of the CHURCH NEWS containing the Bishop's notes to friends in Baltimore, wishing it could be sent broadcast, as the best missionary appeal that could be made for this extensive, and as yet, undeveloped diocese. The notes seemed to us like the letter of a father, who visiting some members of his family, writes to tell others of their state and condition, that they may wisely extend help where needed, and from the sorrows and discouragements be stronger to battle against their own difficulties. It is this strong personal interest in each parish and its individual members, that has so endeared our Bishop throughout the diocese. But alone, and unaided, he can not bear the burdens of all. It is our part and duty to hold up his hands, not only by strenuous effort each one for his own parish, but by bearing one another's burdens. Most of us living in the diocese know either from experience or observation of the exceeding great difficulties and discouragements of a large number of the parishes. To many, elsewhere, in older dioceses and smaller, the Bishop's notes read like an account of fifty years ago. Such persons cannot but feel a more kindly interest and active sympathy from a knowledge of our true condition. By no means can we consider the Bishop's wording unfortunate. The notes seem not given as an account of labor, but as recounting the needs of the struggling churches visited, and come as an appeal—cannot you send a little to this one, and another a little to that one, not alone for the benefit it may bring of itself, but also for the encouragement. Let words of Christian love and prayers of faith go with it. Thus shall we strengthen indeed our beloved Bishop in his work and continual care. We trust we may again hear from his wayside notes of travel. C.

MAKING A CHURCH CHARITY SELF-SUPPORTING.

The House of Rest, Charleston, S. C. the only reformatory of the fallen in the South, appeals to a common humanity in being a home for those who cannot be received or elevated elsewhere, and where, during the nine years of its existence, many children have found a home while their mothers earned their bread or their parents recovered from sickness.

It has the endorsement of the Diocesan Convention, and the Bishop of the Diocese is the visitor.

It is earnestly desired to make it self-supporting, by the introduction of steam, a mangle, wringer, etc., into its laundry, which at present is paying its expenses, could then have its capacity for work increased at reduced prices, the work being done by the inmates so, as it is firmly believed, to defray the necessary expenses of the House.

It is felt that the one thousand dollars ($1,000) needed to thus enable this charity to maintain itself will be freely given.

Contributions may be addressed, House of Rest, Charleston, S. C., where they will be received and all necessary inquiries answered by the founders, who are also the Executive Committee, Mrs. J. Bellinger, Miss E. J. Wagner, Miss Celia Campbell; the latter being also the Secretary and Treasurer, and Miss E. J. Wagner, the Head of the House. *

MISCELLANY.

—One of our contemporaries says, "If some churches carry their exactions much further, they might as well select their minister's wife as the minister himself.

—Prayer Book advice to persons perplexed about confession: "Make your humble confession to Almighty God."

—A new degree is recognized among the Bishops in the American House. There are three B. B.'s among the many D.D.'s, LL.D.'s, &c. Bachelor Bishops convey irresistible grace.

—A gentleman of New York city has been testing the capacity of "objects of charity" for useful labor. He is a member of the Charity Organization society, and one of their "visitors" in the tenement districts. At his own expense last June he started a laundry in 27th street. He sent thither women who said they wanted work and could wash. For the first week's work of the "Model Laundry" not a shirt was properly washed. Out of twenty women of the charity seeking class sent as workers to this laundry since its establishment eighteen were incompetent. One of the eighteen proved a good washerwoman, but she suddenly disappeared, and when heard from was on the island, sent up for a spree. The laundry has proved rather expensive for its originator, but he thinks it has paid him in the knowledge gained concerning the charity depending and charity asking class, of whom he makes three divisions—those who want work but are unable to do anything useful; those who can be useful but wont; and those who are both capable and willing. The last named are few in number, and when found and assisted are soon set upon their feet.

—The rector, a dignified D.D., after listening to a recitation of the catechism by some children, was asked to say something to them, whereupon he arose, and said, "I desire, my young friends, to express an unqualified approbation of this exercise. I regard the catechism as the most admirable epitome of religious belief extant." The superintendent pulled his sleeve, and asked him to explain the word "epitome," which he did thus. "By epitome, children, I mean—that is—it is synonymous with synopsis.

—A little child was asked what charity was, and she, from observation at home, replied, "It is giving to poor people things that you do not want yourself."

—"My husband is Vicar of St. Boniface, but I don't go to his church." "Indeed, how is that?" "The fact is, I—I don't approve of married clergymen." Punch.

—Mr. Marsh, at a recent meeting, having referred to the fact that many read, but very few study the Bible, remarked that it was noted in one of the great diamond fields of South Africa, that black men got more diamonds than white men, and the reason was found to be that they got on their knees to work. So in all God's work, they do most, who are most on their knees.

—A friend, calling on a lady in affliction, was surprised to find her so cheerful, and asked how she could be happy when God had taken away so many of those whom she had loved. She replied: "If I am sad and melancholy, what will others think of my religion?"

AYER'S PILLS.

A large proportion of the diseases which cause human suffering result from derangement of the stomach, bowels, and liver. AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS act directly upon these organs, and are especially designed to cure the diseases caused by their derangement, including Constipation, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Headache, Dysentery, and a host of other ailments, for all of which they are a safe, sure, prompt, and pleasant remedy. The extensive use of these PILLS by eminent physicians in regular practice, shows unmistakably the estimation in which they are held by the medical profession.

These PILLS are compounded of vegetable substances only, and are absolutely free from calomel or any other injurious ingredient.

A Sufferer from Headache writes:

"AYER'S PILLS are invaluable to me, and are my constant companion. I have been a severe sufferer from Headache, and your PILLS are the only thing I could look to for relief. One dose will quickly move my bowels and free my head from pain. They are the most effective and the easiest physic I have ever found. It is a pleasure to me to speak in their praise, and I always do so when occasion offers.

W. L. PAGE, of W. L. Page & Bro., Franklin St., Richmond, Va., June 3, 1882.

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have never known them to fail to accomplish the desired result. We constantly keep them on hand at our home, and prize them as a pleasant, safe, and reliable family medicine. FOR DYSPEPSIA they are invaluable. J. T. HAYES."

Mexia, Texas, June 17, 1882.

The REV. FRANCIS B. HARLOWE, writing from Atlanta, Ga., says: "For some years past I have been subject to constipation, from which, in spite of the use of medicines of various kinds, I suffered increasing inconvenience, until some months ago I began taking AYER'S PILLS. They have entirely corrected the costive habit, and have vastly improved my general health."

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS correct irregularities of the bowels, stimulate the appetite and digestion, and by their prompt and thorough action give tone and vigor to the whole physical economy.

GENERAL NEWS.

—The Rev. Dr. Morgan of St. Thomas' Church, New York, has in a pastoral directed that the first form suffrages in the Litany and the General Thanksgiving be said in unison by minister and people, that at the services other than those for Sunday the minister will pass from the opening sentences to the Confession and that the Communion hymn be announced only on the tablet set up in the Church.

—At a Convention of the Church of England in Maryland, held at Charleston, Nov. 9, 1780, attended by three clergymen, Dr. Wilmer moved the following resolution, which was adopted: Resolved, that the Church, formerly known in this province as the Church of England, be now called the Protestant Episcopal Church." This was the origin of the name.

—Mr. L. M. Hill of Wilkes Co., Ga., who has just died, made $700,000 by farming. So, if low tariff promotes farming, it is not such a hard fate.

—A church in St. Paul sent out last year three colonies, and hopes this year to build more chapels; and yet the home church is larger than ever. This is the right kind of growth. Some of our churches in St. Louis ought to be considering this, and putting out swarms, and not simply try to hold themselves all whom they can get.

—A St. Louis correspondent of the Chicago Advance writes, of the churches in St. Louis: "The wide awake spirit that reaches out to save the lost in large numbers has hardly come yet. Many of the older churches have withdrawn themselves, like the hermit crabs, into costly shells, for the building of which they inherited the most of the money from a former generation, and the rise in real estate values; and they appear to be satisfied before they awake in the Master's likeness.

—The Wardens and Vestrymen of Grace Church, Chicago, issued a handsomely engraved note of invitation for a reception at the Grand Pacific Hotel, for the evening of the 29th ult., to meet the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Locke, in honor of the twenty-five years of their marriage, and of their connection with Grace Church Parish. It was a beautiful recognition of a tie which has in that intense city for so long a time bound harmoniously together pastor and people. He ante dates, we believe, now every pastor of any kind in Chicago.

—The expenses of the General Convention, not including private hospitality, according to the report of the Committee, for the 24 days of the session, were $11,773, or at the rate of $490 a day. There was a balance of $1,055 in the hands of the Committee.

—It is a common matter of knowledge that in many instances when a young, intense, inexperienced clergyman comes into a parish, and sets on foot an advanced ritual, disturbs all the settled and previously successful methods of a parish, and distresses the people, the trouble which he creates often causes that the next choice of a rector shall be a person who will err quite as much on the other side. One extreme creates another. This same principle has been lately illustrated in India. The very young and learned Dr. Coplestone, Bishop of Colombo, fell out with the missionaries of the Church Missionary Society directly he went out there; then he dismissed a Church teacher for marrying a Wesleyan wife. The result of this was that he was cut off from the government use of the post office, and the agitation has been made use of so that disestablishment in all India is about determined on. A little boy can set a temple on fire.

—There have been 496,721 pensioners and applicants for pensions, and twice as many more yet to be heard from, besides the female and distant relatives who fill up the rear. It is estimated that $1,295,729,000 will yet be required to pay these pensions, and already over a hundred more pension bills have been introduced into this Congress to increase the amount.

—Father Hyacinth's deacons say "thank you" to those who contribute as they pass the plate around. "A little of this French politeness in passing the plate," says a Baptist paper, "might be copied by some Americans. We have seen deacons present the plate as though it were a revolver."

—A special convention has been called in Ohio, in order that the Bishop may attend. He goes to London in June to preach a special sermon.

—A Quaker church in Maine, the first in the country, has just procured a bell.

—The Bishop of Colorado reports that in his jurisdiction the Church property is worth $249,350, and the school property $220,000; nearly half a million dollars. There has been a large increase in values and numbers in that State. It has now 28 clergymen, and more parsonages than we have in Missouri.

The Cathedral at Fond du Lac was burnt on St. Paul's Day, 25th inst. It was of stone, the loss was $20,000, and the insurance $10,000. It was caused by the overheating of the furnaces, in preparation for the services. It was built in 1868, but had struggled with a debt, which was only paid off with great difficulty a little over a year ago. It will be a heavy blow to a diocese which is far from strong. Take care of the heated, dried wood work near the furnaces in these days when a great heat has to be created, and keep up the insurance.

—Bishop Potter of New York has given the entire administration of the Diocese into the hands of the Assistant Bishop.

—The society for promoting Christianity among the Jews, while connected with the general missions of the Church, supports its own missionaries entirely apart from the general society. All offerings for it should therefore be sent to their Treasurer, Mr. Wm. G. Davies, 37 Bible House, New York.

—A Quiet Day for women is held in Grace church, New York City, once a week. The object is to deepen in the minds of those who are engaged actively in Christian work, a sense of the blessedness of our holy religion, and of the value and importance of work for Christ. It is expected that the persons so engaged shall arrange beforehand their ordinary concerns, so as to keep their minds free from care at such seasons of retirement from society and business.

—The Diocese of Albany is not contented with its time of meeting, in the middle of January. They defeated a project to substitute the fourth Sunday after Easter, and are considering the middle of November.

—A notice is posted at the entrance of the chancels of St. Augustine's church, Kilburn, London, one of the grandest parish churches in that city, where they have daily communion and morning and evening prayer, earnestly requesting all communicants to take the chalice in their hands while partaking.

—In his last convention address Bishop Bedell accompanied the notice of his readiness to use the service for the institution of a rector with the condition that the predecessor of the rector to be instituted have had an incumbency of not less than ten years. He used, on St. Paul's Day, the services for the first time in the history of the Diocese.

—The fiftieth anniversary of the rectorship of the Rev. Dr. Shand of Columbia, S. C., will be commemorated this month. This is probably the longest incumbency in the South.

—The conversation was about Bishops, and one fervent dame said, "How good the dear Bishop of Peterborough is! What a good man!" Instantly a gentleman replied, "There is no merit in that. Bishops ought to be so. They get fifteen thousand dollars a year for being good, while we are expected to be good for nothing—and most of us are."

MEMORY.

"There is an eloquence in Memory, because it is the nurse of Hope."—[Bulwer.]

There is a moonlight in the heart,
A lonely, sad expanse of light,
Cold as the meteors that impart
Strange lustre to the wintry night:
A vacant being which, though lit
By gleams that haunt it from the sky,
Still feels cold phantoms o'er it flit—
The shapes of those who should not die.

These are the memories of the past,
Gray watchers on the waste of years,
Shadows of hopes that could not last,
And loves forever born in tears!
The mellowed music that they bring,
Falls sweet, but sad, upon the heart,
Around whose brink they sit and sing
Of death,—and will not thence depart.

—[GIERLOW.]

Rev. Father Wilds' EXPERIENCE.

The Rev. Z. P. Wilds, well-known city missionary in New York, and brother of the late eminent Judge Wilds, of the Massachusetts Supreme Court, writes as follows:

3 E. 54th St., New York, May 16, 1882.

MESSRS. J. C. AYER & CO., Gentlemen:

Last winter I was troubled with a most uncomfortable itching humor affecting more especially my limbs, which itched so intolerably at night, and burned so intensely, that I could scarcely bear any clothing over them. I was also a sufferer from a severe catarrh and catarrhal cough; my appetite was poor, and my system a good deal run down. Knowing the value of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, by observation of many other cases, and from personal use in former years, I began taking it for the above-named disorders. My appetite improved almost from the first dose. After a short time the fever and itching were allayed, and all signs of irritation of the skin disappeared. My catarrh and cough were also cured by the same means, and my general health greatly improved, until it is now excellent. I feel a hundred per cent stronger, and I attribute these results to the use of the SARSAPARILLA, which I recommend with all confidence as the best blood medicine ever devised. I took it in small doses three times a day, and used, in all, less than two bottles. I place these facts at your service, hoping their publication may do good.

Yours respectfully, Z. P. WILDS.

The above instance is but one of the many constantly coming to our notice, which prove the perfect adaptability of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA to the cure of all diseases arising from impure or impoverished blood, and a weakened vitality.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

cleanses, enriches, and strengthens the blood, stimulates the action of the stomach and bowels, and thereby enables the system to resist and overcome the attacks of all Scrofulous Diseases, Eruptions of the Skin, Rheumatism, Catarrh, General Debility, and all disorders resulting from poor or corrupted blood and a low state of the system.

A CORRESPONDENT calls attention to the interesting fact that in the Articles of the Act of Union of Great Britain and Ireland, 39 and 40, George III., Act V., the term "Protestant Episcopal" is used to designate the Established Church. Was this taken from one name, or was it at that time a common and best descriptive designation of the body?

FROM the fact announced that two elegantly furnished rooms and an assured support are offered to any disabled clergyman by the Old Clergyman's Home near Albany, N. Y., and without applicants, it looks very much as though, even though they are in need, old clergymen do not like to be placed in clerical alms houses. They prefer help which will leave them near their kin, and in a certain degree of independence. Mr. A. T. Stewart's elegantly built Women's Hotel in New York City failed for much the same reason. You can systematize a thing to death.

WOULD it be too much of a strain on modesty for very, very many of our people to choose their stated pews, and the place where they occasionally sit, very much nearer the front of the church than they very often do. Scarcely anything is more depressing for the minister and the service, than the great block of vacant benches in the front of the church, with other seats filled, or with the fringes of Church people at the back as though desirous of being in a position most non-committal, and easy to escape from. Come to the front.

THE Domestic Missionary Committee desirous of increasing the reading of the "Young Christian Soldier," and thus promoting the dissemination of good reading among the children, and a knowledge and interest in missionary subjects, proposes to send the weekly edition in one package in any number exceeding ten copies, for one month, at about one-twelfth the annual rate, that is 5 cents for each subscription, including postage; or, in the same way the monthly edition at 4 cents for each subscription. If these trial subscription are then renewed for a year, and cash is sent, fifteen per cent. may be retained for the trouble. The address of the paper is 22 Bible House, New York.

THERE were few Church people who read of the noble benefactions of Mr. Sellew,—whose sudden death has been recently deplored,—to St. Luke's Hospital and the Orphans' Home, whose hearts were not stirred with gratitude. It was, as one gentleman said, the first of our wealthy citizens who had recently left anything for humane or religious purposes. One after another as they died, it was found that for one reason or another there had been no provision made for any other than family bequests. Mr. Sellew left $80,000 for the institutions of St. Louis, and although not a Churchman, left $15,000 to our two Diocesan charities. It will greatly help them, and will, we hope, be only the first of a succession of such gifts which will enable them to widen and strengthen their work. The amounts, $10,000 for St. Luke's, and $5,000 for the Home, will not be available for a year.

GENERAL CONVENTION JOURNAL.

The Secretary has gotten out this large and difficult volume with remarkable expedition. It contains nearly 800 pages, and is handsomely printed.

So far, however, the copies have not yet been received for the clergymen of the diocese. They will, however, no doubt be soon received by the Bishop by freight. The Secretary would not undertake to send them by express or post to each clergyman. There will probably be a copy for each minister, who will transmit the, perhaps twenty cents, amount required for postage, if it has to go by mail. Of these copies, no doubt, due notice will be given.

There is a change in the order of the Journal. The proceedings of the House of Bishops are placed first before those of the Deputies. The report of the Committee on Enrichment as originally made, and then as finally adopted, is given. The book as it will be, if adopted as proposed at this Convention, will be soon published as a private enterprise. The changes are not to be used until after next General Convention.

The Lectionary adopted finally at this Convention is the present authorized Table of Lessons, and not that in the Prayer Book. The summary of the reports show 364,125 communicants; 45 church hospitals, 48 Church orphan asylums, 32 Church homes, 99 academic, 17 collegiate and 16 theological institutions, 804 parish school teachers and 10,499 scholars in these schools; and that the total offerings for religious purposes in three years in the Church, so far as reported, amount to $28,912,731.08. This should no doubt be increased by hundreds of thousands of dollars that will never be known, because never reported. We may imply a very definite and active faith and love which will contribute such an amount as this for religious uses.

THE NEW CHICAGO SEMINARY.

Bishop McLaren, and the whole Church in the West, has reason to rejoice over the gift by Dr. Wheeler of Chicago, of $200,000, for the establishment of a Theological Seminary in that city.

It is the first in the Church in the West that we have had at once such a large benefaction, but it, as every other good gift, will attract others, and create a disposition to give. It will go a good way towards creating the necessary material structure, and the place where Bishops so disposed can sustain their candidates for orders.

It is yet too soon to discover what effect the inauguration of this Seminary will have upon Nashotah, only less than two hundred miles distance. It will have an important bearing, not merely because of proximity, nor of the fact that a considerable section of the Trustees of Nashotah have been placed on the Chicago board; but more yet because of a disposition shown evidently among some of the authorities and alumni in Wisconsin to be drawn to the larger centre.

It is worth thinking about, however, that the steady, unspasmodic receipts of Nashotah from the daily mail for daily bread for years represent the income from a capital much larger than the Chicago institution will have at disposal for investment for maintenance at first. This no doubt will increase. Much more could be done with the domain at Nashotah to bring in an income, and this will have to be done. But after all, the real need at this moment is not more seminaries, but more student, to fill them; and what it is that keeps this number down is the problem which most seriously should exercise the Church. With offerings greatly increasing, with communicants growing much faster than the growth of the country, the number of our Candidates for Orders in the whole Church is less than it was three years ago; an increase last year of less than one clergyman to each Diocese, and this increase largely made up of adherents from without, and clergymen coming to us from England, Ireland and Canada. Why is this? Each person should try to find an answer.

CHILDREN'S COT.

ST. LUKE'S HOSPITAL.

For several years an effort has been making to raise $3,000 from the children and those who are interested in them, for the perpetual endowment for a cot and a room for a child at our Hospital, where a child not able to be otherwise provided for may be kindly taken care of when sick or undergoing treatment. By little and little we have gone on so far. Gifts are urgently asked for this purpose, and will be credited in THE NEWS. They may be sent to the Bishop, 2727 Chestnut street, St. Louis.

One of the amounts given above was by a lady who chanced to hear her minister speak of the proposed free bed for the child, and said she desired to be among those who are blessed in helping to establish such a charity.

Some children in this city are preparing to have a sale of articles for the Cot at about Easter, and are at work busily sewing every week. Some are hoping that the $3,000 may be fully given by Easter. It can be done.

PERSONAL.

—On her first performance in London Lotta, the actress, was astonished that after her success in this country her pranks there were received in stony silence. There were no hostile demonstrations however, until she and another began to sing and caricature the hymn, "The Sweet Bye and Bye." Then was a storm of hisses. She came to the front, and said, "I do not understand this." Some one in the gallery shouted, "Hymn on the stage; No, no."

—Mr. Henry Shaw, of this city remembers, after he came here, the time when the whole State had a population of only 10,000, and Illinois had only 40,000 people. He came to this city in 1819.

—The clerical obituary for the month includes the names of the Rev. Chas. A. Rand of Massachusetts; the Rev. Edward Fontaine of Louisiana; and the Rev. E. Orgain of Tennessee.

—There has been a Mr. John K. Karcher in this city lately, and he delivered a lecture while here under the auspices of the Roman Catholics, in which he essayed to tell how he had gone from Presbyterianism to Universalism, and then to Unitarianism; and then after having read some Roman Catholic books and consulted with some of their priests, went into the Episcopal Church; and afterward went into Romanism. Now he wants to tell how happy he is in his new faith. There can be, we should say, but little confidence put in any faith of his. It seems only like the staying over night for him in a house in order to get its shelter, and then moving on and lampooning the shelter which had been sought. He wrote a few years ago to the Bishop of this Diocese for work, and protested his Evangelical views; but as his references were a number of years old, and he had in the meantime apparently become altogether secularized, his services were not accepted.

—A contemporary has noticed the fact that both the President and acting Vice President of the United States are Churchmen. A memorial window to the late wife of the President is being put into St. John's Church, Washington.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Managers of the Orphans' Home, held Feb. 7th, 1884, the following resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, it has pleased Almighty God to remove by death our friend and associate, Mrs. Mary C. Gantt, therefore be it

Resolved, That we deeply feel the loss of one of our worthiest members, one whom we have learned to regard with great esteem for her fidelity in the discharge of her duties, as well as for the purity of Christian character.

Resolved, That we bow with submission to the voice of our Heavenly Father, knowing that "Our loss is her gain."

Resolved, That this Board tender to the family of the deceased their deepest sympathies in their great sorrow.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be handed the family of the deceased, and be spread upon the records of the Orphans' Home, and be published in the Church paper.

MRS. T. McLEAN, Secretary.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Managers of the Orphans' Home, held Feb. 7th, 1884, the following resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, it has pleased our Heavenly Father to remove from among us our worthy and esteemed friend and former manager, Mrs. Joseph Franklin, be it

Resolved, that though several years have passed since she was a member of this Board, her lovely Christian example still remains with us, "She being dead yet speaketh."

Resolved, That we extend our sympathy and condolence to the family of the deceased, and that the action of this meeting be spread upon the records of the Home, and furnished the Church papers for publication, and be handed the family of the deceased. MRS. T. McLEAN, Secretary.

A careful examination of the changes made in revising the New Testament shows that there are 18,358 words changed by a substituted rendering of the received text; 4,654 words added in translation of the received text; 550 words in translation of additions in the Greek text; 1,604 words which translate an altered Greek text, and 222 words taken from the margin into the text; in all, 25,388 words changed out of 179,914, or 17 per cent.

—San Francisco has fifty miles and Chicago twenty-two miles of cable-power street railroads, which cost about $120,000 per mile.

BOOK NOTICES.

LETTER TO A YOUNG CLEYMAN.—By the Rev. John C. Miller D.D. This is an American edition of an admirable English work, the excellence of which may be judged from the titles of some of the chapters. "The apportionment of the Minister's time to the various duties of the minister"; "Pulpit preparation"; "The Theology of our Sermons"; "Visitation," &c. E. T. Dutton & Co. N. Y. $1.75.

THE CHURCH CATHOLICISM.—By Rev. Isaac Williams D.D., 2 vols. All things written by the author of "Passion of our Lord" is good; and this for completeness and devoutness is all that can be wished. Jas. Pott, 12 Astor Place, New York.

THE DISEASES OF THE WILL.—By Th. Ribot. "Humboldt Library of Science," No 52. Price, post free, 15 cents. J. Fitzgerald, Publisher, 20 Lafayette Place, New York.

Every one is from his own experience or from his reading familiar with the principal phases of mental disease in the form of intellectual insanity, or disorders of the intellectual faculties. Other forms of mental malady, though quite as destructive of that equilibrium which constitutes entire sanity of mind, are practically unknown to the general public. In the present work the phenomena of will impairment are fully explained with abundant illustrations from the history of these and many other celebrated cases.

ST. NICHOLAS for February is a bright, crisp, and cheerful midwinter number, and the seasonal frontispiece, —an original wood engraving,—is called "A Midwinter Night." Accompanying the frontispiece is a paper, entitled "An Engraver on Wheels," which gives a pleasant and instructive account of wood-engraving in general, and, in particular, of Mr. Kingsley's peculiar methods of work, and of his peripatetic studio, a veritable house on wheels, in which he lives, eats, sleeps, and drives about from place to place, for months together, transferring to the block and engraving whatever strikes his fancy.

"Historic Boys," a series of sketches, which bids fair to be of unusual interest, begins in this number with "Marcus of Rome, the Boy Magistrate," a vividly written account of some incidents in the boy life of the Emperor Marcus Aurelius; Mayne Reid tells in "The Land of Fire" of a thrilling pursuit and escape of its heroes in a manner which explains how that country derived its name.

THE DECAY OF MODERN PREACHING.—An essay by J. P. Mahaffy. Whether one reaches the same conclusion as the author or not, the study is an extremely interesting one. He groups the causes of the result to historical causes, social, personal, defection types; and then gives some considerations about the remedies. 90 cents. Mac Millan & Co. New York.

MANY noted names lend weight and importance to the table of contents of the February CENTURY, either as subjects, or as contributors to the number. In the frontispiece is given one of Rembrandt's most effective paintings, engraved with a skill that has seldom been excelled in the magazine. This painting, "The Head of a Man," is from "The Hermitage" in St Petersburg.

Signor Salvini contributes his "Impressions of Shakspeare's 'Lear,'"—a paper which shows how deeply the actor has studied the poet and with what thought and elevation of purpose he approaches the Shakspearean drama.

"How Edwin Drood Was Illustrated," by Mrs. Alice Meynell, reveals considerable of the "mystery" of Dickens's unfinished story.

A full page portrait of "Lieut General Sheridan" is accompanied by a striking description of his military career. George B. McClellan writes of "The Princes of the House of Orleans," including special reference to their service in the Army of the Potomac.

George W. Cable's convincing polemic against "The Convict Lease System in the Southern States"—read at the Louisville convention in the interest of prison reform—is here brought to the notice of the whole country. From Mr. Cable, we have, besides, the fourth part of his serial story, "Dr. Sevier."

THE CLASSIC PREACHERS OF THE ENGLISH CHURCH. Lectures delivered in St. James Church, Westminster, by Rev. John Edward Kempe. The sketches includes Doune, the Poet Preacher; Barrow, the exhaustive Preacher; South, the Rhetorician; Beveridge, the Scriptural Preacher; Wilson, the Sainly Preacher; Butler, the Ethical Preacher, E. P. Dutton & Co. New York. $1.50.

STORY OF THE MERV.—By Edmond O'Donovan. Under the title of "The Merv Oasis," Mr. O'Donovan recently published a work in two volumes, which created a decided sensation abroad. As a story of travel, it is one of the most thrilling of recent years. As a work of description, its faithfulness has been promptly conceded. The country described—Central Asia—has been, one may say, rediscovered by the writer, and his powers of observation and his literary skill acquired by many years' service as correspondent of an influential London journal, give the work an interest and finish seldom found. The above volume forms the first issue of the "Standard Library," for 1884. Other books are promised by Hale, Joaquin Miller, G. P. Lathrop, Julian Hawthorne, etc. 12mo. Paper, 25 cts.; cloth, $1.00. Funk & Wagnalls, 10 and 12 Dey St., N. Y.

SERMONS FOR BOYS.—By most Rev. Alfred Barry. Metropolitan of Sidney. This series follows the course of the Christian year, and are full of freshness and life.

THOROUGH.—Being an attempt to show the value of Thoroughness in Christian Life and Practice, by Rev. Sir Emilius Bayley.

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO SATAN.—By Standish Grey. ORIGINS OF CHRISTIANITY.—And other University Sermons, by Rev. Charles P. Reichel, D.D.

PRIVATE INSTRUCTION.—An experienced teacher of English branches, French and Latin, desires pupils, either ladies or children; best references given. Address, "Private Teacher," Office of CHURCH NEWS.

MISCELLANY.

—In the toe of a little sock, sent to the Foundling's Home, Chicago, was found this quotation:

"Oh, little feet, that such long years
Must wander on through hopes and fears,
Must ache and bleed beneath your load.

I, nearer to the wayside inn,
Where toil shall cease, and rest begin,
Am weary thinking of your road."

—There is a clergyman in Tennessee called the "satisfying preacher." If a congregation is discontented he is sent for and so atrociously bad is he that after hearing him once or twice the congregation is entirely satisfied to keep the pastor it has. The Christian Advocate tells this story, and adds that when the great Robert Hall was recovering from mental aberration he took a whim that he would not preach. Several clergymen filled his pulpit. At last he heard one so poor that he said to him—so the tradition is: "Sir, you have produced a great effect by your sermon to-day. If the people must hear you or me, my duty is clear—I must resume preaching."

—On Sunday recently quite an affecting little scene occurred in St. John's church Washington. Old blind Jou, for years past a regular communicant of this church, has had his accustomed seat near the chancel rail removed since the recent alterations, to one in the gallery. The change has been somewhat confusing to the poor old man, inasmuch as he is no longer able to find his way unaided to the communion table. He has therefore to be taken in charge by some member of the congregation who chances to be near at the time.

Last Sunday it so happened that no one remembered Jou, who stood all through the service waiting for some friendly hand to lead him where he had so often knelt. The last communicants had risen from their knees, the organ sounded for the Gloria, and then began the chanting of the recessional hymn. Suddenly into the silence came the quivering voice of the blind man, as with raised, imploring hands he exclaimed: "Is there no one to lead me! Will no one take me to the holy communion?" Immediately some one stepped forward trying to quiet his agitation, at the same time guiding his footsteps down the gallery steps, where at the foot he was met by one of the vestrymen, who at a sign from the rector, took old Jou to the feast of the sacrament, for which, in his blind helplessness, he had impulsively, forgetting time and place, uttered his touching appeal.

—An Irishman had a correct appreciation of the fitness of things, who, being asked by the judge when he applied for a license to sell whiskey, if he had a good moral character, replied: "Faith, you honor, I don't see the necessity of a good moral character to sell whiskey."

—Mr. Spurgeon tells of a man who used to say to his wife: "Mary, go to church, and pray for us both." But the man dreamed one night, when he and his wife got to the gate of heaven, St. Peter said, "Mary, go in for both." He awoke, and made up his mind that it was time for him to become a Christian on his own account.

—A Warden once asked his pastor: "Did you ever think what you would do if you had the Duke of Westminster's income?" To which the impecunious pastor replied: "Well, no; but I have sometimes wondered what the duke would do if he had mine."

It is a long time since we met with such a ready retort.

Mark Trafton says: "Give me a bass drum or a Chinese gong, rather than our quartettes of two youngsters, with their hair parted exactly in the middle, and a pair of young girls with wool gathered one their eyes like a merino sheep, or a Scotch poodle, who troll out something which nobody understands, and call it the praise of God!"

—The Presbyterian Banner says: "At the annual pew-renting [at Plymouth Church] a few days ago, instead of the two or three thousand formerly present on such occasions, only sixty were there. So strong were the manifestations of the decline of popular regard for Mr. Beecher and his church, that he himself could not only fail to see it, but was forced to acknowledge it in words expressive of the greatest disappointment and mortification. The lesson is an old one; it has been repeated again and again. It is that the laying aside or abandoning the orthodox and fundamental doctrines of the Bible and the introduction of merely moral or secular themes, especially when occasion is taken every now and then to treat with contempt and even ridicule those blessed old truths taught in the Bible which have comforted and saved the saints of all ages, will bring ruin to the Church and cause the preacher to lose his popularity even among the people of the world."

—The plan for a Cathedral in Albany contemplates a building 250 feet long by 120 in the transepts, to hold 2,800, without galleries, and to cost $500,000. They may get it before the long talked of Cathedral in New York City.

—Five per cent. of the gross amount of all the collections, pew rents and fees in the Roman Catholic churches in Missouri, go to the Archbishop for his revenue.

TO THOSE IN HEALTH.

"Let him (the sick person) be admonished to make his will, and to declare his debts, what he oweth, and what is owing unto him, for the better discharging of his conscience, and the quietness of his executors: But men should often be put in remembrance to take order for the settling of their temporal estates, whilst they are in health."

—[Rubric in Visitation of the Sick.]

For those who are minded to give back to God a portion of that with which he has entrusted to them as stewards, by which a blessing may be invoked on them and their memories when they are in their graves, the following directions may be of use:

Real estate and personal property may be given, deeded or devised to the Orphans' Home and St. Luke's Hospital, St. Louis, as they are incorporated bodies. The legal name of the former is "The Orphans' Home, of St. Louis, incorporated in February, 1845;" and of the latter, "St. Luke's Hospital, of St. Louis, incorporated in 1872."

Real estate for a church, parsonage, a burial ground in any particular place, may be given or devised to "The Parochial Trust Fund of the Diocese of Missouri, a body incorporated under the laws of the State of Missouri," in trust for the place. Real estate also for the above purposes may be given or devised to any Church which is properly incorporated.

Real estate for any other purpose, and personal property may be given or devised for the benefit of any church, or any of our charities by naming trustees in the will or deed, and providing how their successors in the trust may be appointed, who can receive and dispense the trust as directed. Such objects may be suggested as "Permanent Fund for the support of the Episcopate of the Diocese of Missouri," "The Theological Education Fund," "The Fund for Aged and Infirm Clergymen, and for the Widows and Orphans of Clergymen," "The Laymen's Co-operating Missionary Society," "The Sisterhood of the Good Shepherd of the Protestant Episcopal Church," St.

Having obtained the sole right to sell the German Electro-Galvanic Belt in America from the inventor, Prof. Conrad Ziegenfuss of Berlin, we are determined, whatever may be the cost, to introduce them here at once. The price of the Belt has always been Six Dollars ($6.00), but to induce invalids to give it a trial we will, for the next ninety days, send the German Electro-Galvanic Belt for ONE DOLLAR, provided you will cut out and send us the annexed coupon and give us your written promise to recommend the Belt if you find it as represented. This Belt is without doubt the best, strongest, and most scientifically constructed Electric Appliance ever introduced, being the invention of the great German Electrician, Prof. Ziegenfuss, and has met with the most marvelous success in Europe, being recommended and endorsed by the entire Medical Profession of Germany. The inventor has in his possession letters from Prince Bismarck and several members of the Royal Family. A quarter of a million of them were sold in the German Empire last year. The same belts, unlike many so-called electric appliances, are very light and not disagreeable to wear, and generate a current that can be immediately felt. Their action is stimulating and at the same time soothing; causing the Stomach, Liver, Kidneys and Nervous System to act as nature intended they should. Curing thousands of cases that for years had failed to relieve. Under no circumstances can it do any harm and must do good no matter what is the complaint. They are made of cloth, silk lined, and the Electric Discs are so arranged that they retain their strength 20 years.

This Coupon is worth $5.00.

If you will cut out this Coupon and send it to us with ONE DOLLAR in a registered letter we will send you postpaid by return mail, One GERMAN ELECTRO-GALVANIC BELT with full directions in both English and German. Write Name and Post Office Address very plainly and give your waist measure in inches.

Offertories will be received at these services the Theological Education or the Permanent Episcopal Fund, of which notice is requested to be given. The Bishop will be ready to meet the vestry wherever it is desired, and to catechize the children whenever it is possible. He desires that the Holy Communion may be prepared for on Sundays and Festival Days. On week days, unless otherwise arranged, it is desirable that the service shall be at night; any other service which the time will permit may be had. The Bishop will be glad to meet the people socially when they can be conveniently arranged for. He desires that the parish register may be written up, and that he may see it.

THE Bishop has been inquired of a number of times lately whether he has sent certain persons to individuals for various purposes. He asks such and all persons only to receive as sent those who bring written evidence of the fact. He cannot be responsible for others.

In response to inquiries made on the subject, it may be stated that the Canons of the Diocese do not draw any distinction between men and women otherwise qualified, in respect of voting at the parish elections. Women, otherwise qualified according to the Diocesan law, are not disqualified by reason of their sex.

UNFORTUNATELY in the confusion after Judge Ferguson's death, some of the more valuable books which he had as Registrar, must have been sold with his private library. Among these were the four-folio volumes sumptuously published of the Colonial History of the American Church, which are all that have thus far been issued, and for which he had subscribed for the diocese. Other valuable record books have not up to this time been found, and probably now will not be.

THE General Convention Journals have come, one for each clergyman in active duty in the diocese. Copies have been sent already directly to the deputies to the Convention. This box has been sent to the Bishop, and a copy will be given to each clergyman entitled by calling for it, or by sending 17 cents for postage to the Bishop's residence. Others who desire, can get copies from the Secretary, Rev. Charles L. Hutchins, Medford, Mass. The cost is about $1.25

THE weather for two months past, at this writing, has been very hard on congregations and Sunday-schools, and many letters have been received of a disponding character. But while we weary of this long succession of bleak and stormy Sundays, which are not merely uncomfortable, but which are, for many clergymen who depend upon the offertory, the occasions of loss and suffering, there is nothing left us but to keep up a brave heart. Let persons make it a point of principle to be in their places. Stormy Sundays and Lenten days are weeding-out times. They show who can

THERE is very great need that the subscriptions for the work of St. Luke's Hospital should be greatly increased and should be promptly paid. The resource on which the Trustees have depended for helping the fund for current expenses this year has brought no net income. It will have to be supplemented by a large increase of direct giving for the charitable and laborious work that is being steadily prosecuted there. Annual membership involves the payment of $10 a year. This should be done at least. Mr. C. S. Freeborn, 309 Olive street, is the Treasurer.

MACON CITY.

The Rev. Mr. Talbot writes about the Academy: "The school is doing nicely, and I regard it now as an assured success. It has been though, a very expensive year to me. So much outlay! I do wish that I could get $2,000, and then in a few years I could turn over to you the school without a dollar's incumbrance. I have had to put in a good deal of money in order to finish up the work. One thousand dollars now is needed to enclose the third, or north building, and another thousand to finish it, so far as to make it habitable." Here is the place to give efficient help.

HOLY WEEK.

The customary united services of the parishes in Holy Week, which have been held in this city for many years past, will be as stated below. They are held at night, and are over and above the parochial services. The sermons for each day are on the special incidents in our Lord's life during that day of the Great Week. The services begin at 8 o'clock, and the seats are free. On Maundy Thursday, so named because of the mandate given by our Lord, "Do this in remembrance of Me," at the institution of the Holy Communion, the united celebration of the Communion will be had, as usual, and with no sermon, on the night of its institution.

The offertories on the other evenings will be devoted, as is customary, to missions in the Diocese, and on Thursday evening to St. Luke's Hospital.

April 7, Monday, St. Peter's Church, the Rev. S. H. GREENE, Preacher.

April 8, Tuesday, St. John's Church, the Rev. JOHN N. CHESNUTT, Preacher.

April 9, Wednesday, Trinity Church, the Rev. W. W. SILVESTER, Preacher.

April 10, Maundy Thursday, Christ Church, HOLY COMMUNION.

April 11, Good Friday, Grace Church, the Rev. GEO. C. BETTS, Preacher.

An effort has been made to have a service in each portion of the city. It is hoped that very many will avail themselves of these services during the Great Week.

BISHOP SEABURY IN SCOTLAND.

Letters have been received by the American Bishops from the Bishop of Aberdeen, in Scotland, inviting them to come and be the guests of the Church in Scotland at the approaching centennial of the consecration of Bishop Seabury in Aberdeen, Nov. 14th, 1784, which it is proposed shall be appropriately celebrated there. On account of the severity of the weather, however, at that season, and the storminess of the passage of the Atlantic for the American Bishops who may attend, it is proposed to commemorate the event on the 5th, 6th, 7th and 8th of October; the object being to fix a time as near as possible to the actual date, and at the same time secure a date when persons can travel with safety and comfort.

On Sunday, 5th, it is proposed there shall be celebrations of the Holy Communion, and sermons in every Church in Scotland, the latter by Bishops, and others from America and other foreign parts. On the 6th a rendezvous at Aberdeen. On the 7th and 8th special services, public meetings, banquets, papers read and addresses given.

A cordial invitation has been extended to all who may be able to attend, and it will be an occasion well worthy of being observed.

BISHOP CLARKSON.

Bishop Clarkson died on Sunday night, 9th inst. To those who knew him the blow is a very severe one. His place among the Bishops was one altogether his own. With a tender heart and earnest devotion, he was singularly clear-headed and of great practical ability. He was astute, and direct, and full of energy. He has shown this in the success with which he has managed his Diocese, brought it up in numbers, and made it self-sustaining. He was superb as a speaker. He gave the key note to a missionary meeting, and his clear voice rang out, summoning the Church to an advance in the standard of duty. Some of his addresses can never be forgotten by those who heard them. They marked pivotal points in the onward work of the Church.

He had just lived to see the work of his heart, the Cathedral in Omaha, completed, the poem in stone, as Bishop Garrett called it. The blow to the Diocese, just beginning to stand alone, will be a staggering one. It was his creation, and he is associated with all its life.

He had always been well. Every ounce in his small frame was made for use. For many years, and in its former days, the main figure among the clergy of Chicago, representing its intense vitality and best life; he went to Omaha eighteen years ago, but he was known everywhere. One of the first questions, as the writer landed in Liverpool years ago, was about Bishop Clarkson, and in many a parish, where he is associated with missionary work, from his voice and presence, he will be sorely missed.

The telegram, which was opened with misgivings, as being known to convey the distressing news, read, "Bishop Clarkson died last night. The burial will be on Thursday afternoon. He particularly requested that you be informed of the event and time of funeral. Answer." It was a sad privilege for the Bishop to join with his brethren in consigning the remains of his dear and honored brother to their resting place.

POSTURES IN THE SERVICE.

A uniform understanding is of advantage. Of course where there is physical disability, all rules are suspended. The presumption was, at the time when the Prayer Book was compiled, that when no other special attitude was prescribed, standing was the custom, since at that time there were no seats in the churches. Things have changed since. The News goes to places where the knowledge of the Church's ways is not exact; therefore some of the directions may seem elementary to certain persons.

In the Holy Communion Service the kneeling posture at the beginning is maintained through the Commandments and the Collect for the Day, until the epistle, during which they sit, and rise on the announcement of the Gospel, keeping on their feet if the creed is to be said, or the notice of the Communion is to be given. Kneeling during the Prayer for Christ's Church Militant, after which is, perhaps, the best time for non-communicants to withdraw, not, however, with triumphant strains from the organ. If the recommendations of the Revised Book are adopted, the longer exhortation may be omitted, so that it be said once a month. If both longer and shorter are used the congregation stand; if only the shorter, they remain on their knees until the hymn. They kneel at the benediction.

In the Baptismal Service all stand until the Lord's Prayer after the Baptism, and again at warning to the sponsors. All join in the Thanksgiving, "Almighty and Everlasting God, we give Thee," &c., and respond to the prayers.

In the Confirmation Service, the congregation stand until the Lord's Prayer; the candidates kneel just before the laying on of hands, and all remain kneeling until the blessing. In the Revised Book, the Amen after the laying on of hands is in italics, indicating that all join in it, as also in the versicles after the question to the candidates.

At the Marriage Service all remain standing throughout, except the bride and groom, who kneel for the final blessing.

At the Burial Service, all join in the responsive reading of the Psalm, standing until the lesson. In the Revised Book, it is the minister, or some one appointed by him, who throws the earth upon the coffin, which is real burial. The hymns and prayers come after the lesson, and a hymn also may be appropriately sung as the body is being taken from the church.

THE BARR WILL MATTER.

Now that a settlement has been reached in this case, that may fairly be written which it has not seemed opportune to state before. In the five years, or more, which had elapsed between the ecclesiastical proceedings in which he was involved, until his death in June, 1883, Mr. Barr lived, so far as known, a blameless life. He did some clerical duty, until his health failed, with acceptance. Few persons saw much of him, and these spoke well of him. The increasing paralysis of back and limbs, the locomotor ataxia, caused by an early sunstroke, which he had said produced the symptoms that had been taken for intoxication, induced many persons to doubt as to whether they had not to a degree misjudged him earlier.

After his death it was learned, to the surprise of all, that he had willed his property mainly to religious and charitable bodies, to the exclusion of his daughter, who had not for many years lived with him. The cause of this was stated in his papers that she had refused to answer the letter written by him in his sickness, to her, asking her to come and take care of him, and that he would leave her his property. Two thousand dollars were left also to Mrs. Morse, the person who had taken care of him.

The will was admitted to probate, but a relative, in behalf of the daughter, entered suit to set aside the will, for two reasons, because it was alleged that Mr. Barr was incompetent, and because improper influence was brought to bear on him. Having the option of coming directly to the legatees and asking them to renounce their claims in her behalf, choice was made to invoke litigation, with a consequent legal fee. The Church and other institutions were in the defense of a suit which they had not begun, and about a matter in which no request had been made to them for any remission.

The business was at this stage at the time of the last Convention. A motion was made at the instance of Miss B.'s lawyers, that the Missionary Board withdraw its defense, and retire from the suit. A motion offered that a Committee should be appointed who, before any action, should report to the Convention the facts of the case, was laid on the table. A majority of the Convention voted that no action was expedient, and many who were of this mind declared that they were ready when action could be effective, to do all that justice and kindness demanded, and that if the complainant had come directly to the legatees at first, instead of going to law, she would have had most candid treatment, that the Church did not want the money, but that the action asked of the Convention by the attorneys was not such as was becoming for the Church to take.

Matters were in this state, the case not having yet come up in court, when two months ago the Bishop received a note from Miss Barr's attorneys, in which, after stating that they had heard that a hindrance to settlement was the impression that they were to receive fees, they stated that, if this was the case, they desired to say that it need not be an obstacle in the way.

Whereupon the Bishop, enclosing the letter, wrote a note, of which the following is a copy, to Mr. McMasters, the attorney for the Missionary Board:

"I received the within yesterday. I do not know who is referred to as having expressed the condition mentioned in the note. The position which I occupy is precisely that which I held and expressed in the Convention in May. We did not go to law, and make the choice to go into litigation. If Miss Barr had come to me, or to any of the legatees under the will, and stated her case, she would have been received kindly, and probably would have had the assurance which she desired. We did not seek for the money, and do not want it. Her advisers preferred that she should go to law. While the case was taking its course in the court, which Miss B. chose, our Convention was asked by Miss B.'s attorneys to instruct the Missionary Board to withdraw its defense from a case into which they had voluntarily gone. The Convention did not see its way to take any action.

"I said then publicly that, so far as the action of any bodies over which I have any control or influence is concerned, if at any time, when my action can become effectual, I can restore to Miss B. the money which her father left otherwise, I would promote it. I will not move for enlarged powers to be given to the Missionary Board to enable it to take the money. The action which I think it right to take myself, I would advise other legatees under the will to take. The resentment felt by Mr. B., and which apparently was the cause of his dealing as he did, does not seem to me to be a cause sufficient to justify us in withholding the money, if it comes in our power, from the natural legatee.

"The course which I think should be taken is for them to withdraw their opposition. Mr. B. was competent to make his will. We are not compelled to take the money. * * * My point is saved, that the Convention should not be called in a legal contention of which it was not the author, about which it did not have the facts, to interpose at the instance of an opposing attorney, in advance of the decision of a legal tribunal which had been invoked by the other side, and which was competent, to influence irregularly the decision of the court."

Hereupon the several legatees agreed to waive their claims, on the withdrawal by Miss Barr of her suit, in order that the amounts should go without diminution to her. Miss Barr expressed her regret that she had not come first of all to the Bishop and legatees, instead of going to law. Her lawyers proposed in writing voluntarily that it should be left to the Bishop to say what would be the fair amount with which a settlement should be made with Mrs. Morse. A compromise, however, was made between Miss Barr and Mrs. Morse without this; the suit was dismissed by plaintiff with costs, and Miss Barr receives her father's money.

Thus a troublesome matter was disposed of, and largely by the patience and tact of Mr. F. J. McMaster, and the Church did, what it always intended to do, when its way should be left clear, the right thing, and this without the advice of the secular press, which thought it could teach the Church what the grounds of morality and equity are, and in spite of much needless misconstruction and vituperation.

The following was received shortly before the season of Lent began :

ST LOUIS, Feb. 12, 1884.

Rt. Rev. C. F. Robertson, Rev. and Dear Sir:—

As Lent draws near and the Rectors will soon be arranging the lenten services, I would like to mention a difficulty experienced by myself in the past, and, perhaps, by many Churchmen, viz.: that the services are usually appointed at hours, which although perhaps convenient for the women, make it almost impossible for the men to attend. Also could not a more cordial invitation be extended to those who are not Church people to join with us in our lenten worship that they may learn more of the Church's ways and beautiful, hearty, common prayer.

Sincerely,

A CHURCHMAN.

THE JEWS AND GOOD FRIDAY.

The Bishop has put out the following communication to the Diocese, in behalf of the interest spoken of below, and the Good Friday offertory :

"I think that our work for the Christianizing of the Jews should be prosecuted and enlarged, with any modifications which experience in the work may suggest, for the good which I am bound to believe is being done to them, for the reflex good upon our own people which is being wrought by the extension of thought and practical sympathy to God's ancient people, and for the attestation of our Catholic position and character which the maintenance of such a work affords.

Bishop of Missouri.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.

The Bishop has recently received the following note:

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 15, 1884.

Rt. Reverend and Dear Sir:

At a Conference of Sunday-School Workers, held in Philadelphia, in October last, the undersigned were appointed a Committee "to take action for the organization of a Sunday School Institute throughout the Church in the United States.

The object of such Institute, briefly stated, is to promote the general efficiency of this important branch of our Church work; to associate our teachers and workers; to suggest—and in time, it is hoped, to supply—all needed appliances for carrying on our Sunday Schools successfully.

As at present conducted, we are aware that serious evils are charged upon the Sunday-School system; we are satisfied that these are not constitutional, and that our schools can be made in reality that which they are sometimes termed—nurseries of the Church; training schools, in which our children and youth shall be fitted so as to take their place later on in the congregation, a godly intelligent laity, ready always to give an answer to every man that asketh a reason of the hope that is in them.

But before taking any definite steps in the matter thus intrusted to us, we wish to lay the subject before yourself and Right Reverend Associates, and respectfully ask your patronage and assistance, and as it is desirable that associations of Sunday-School workers should be formed in the various Dioceses, we would request that at some suitable time you will bring the matter to the attention of your clergy and laity, for only as our object receives the favor and support of the General Church can we hope to bring about the results at which we aim. We should be glad to have your views upon this subject, addressed to the Secretary of the committee, Rev. R. R. Swope, Wheeling, West Virginia.

Yours very respectfully,
GEORGE C. THOMAS, Philadelphia.

(Rev.) GEORGE WORTHINGTON, Detroit.

(Rev.) JOHN C. MIDDLETON, Glen Cove, L. I.

(Rev.) R. R. SWOPE, Wheeling, W. Va.

JAMES STEWART MACKIE, Newark, N. J.

DIOCESAN ITEMS.

—The number of patients in St. Luke's Hospital on January 1st was 32; the number received during the month of January was 24; the number treated was 56; of these, 35 paid full rates, 16 partial rates, and 5 paid nothing. An impression may be had of the cost of some of the charity cases from the circumstance that a needy communicant of one of the city parishes needs a room by herself, for which $10 a week is received, and the entire care of a nurse who is paid $20 a month, with the expense of nourishing food and stimulants. Her husband was in the hospital nineteen weeks last summer.

—The slippery and disagreeable weather after Christmas produced its usual effects. The Rev. Mr. Gray, of Fayette, fell on the ice, and received a very severe sprain of his ankle which shut him up for a month. The Secretary of Convention, Mr. John R. Triplett, fell and sprained his ankle, which has confined him to the house, and will make it necessary, the physicians tell him, hereafter to carry a cane. The Rev. Mr. Griffith, of Emmanuel Church had to postpone the series of services before Lent which he had planned, because of the very severe weather and bad roads.

—The Rector of St. James Church, Macon, has been delivering on Sunday nights lectures to young men, which have been very well attended. This result is accounted for in part by the excellent singing of the choir of boys and men. The increasing number of students at the Academy is pressing upon the capacity of the church, and here is some thought of putting out a transept to the east. Mr. Talbot has been giving services in Shelbina and Kirksville, in the vacancy in these stations.

—The total cost of the repairs and improvement of St. Paul's Church, South St. Louis, has been so far, $1,380.88, somewhat more than was first intended. Towards this amount the Rev. Mr. De Forest thought that he had secured $1,024.58; but owing to the great reduction in wages, and then the closing of the Vulcan Iron Works recently, $100 of this has been lost. Of this, $733.80 has been paid, and the balance is all good. The shortage is, therefore, $464.80 which has been borrowed. It is anticipated that this amount will be ready to be paid when it is due. A portion has been pledged on condition that the whole be raised.

—When the St. Joseph paper copied from the Kansas City paper the following notice of the meeting of the Committee, it added the editorial comment which is appended below:

A NEW EPISCOPAL DIOCESE.

[From the Kansas City Journal.]

At the late diocesan convention of Missouri, under the direction of the Right Rev. C. C. F. Robertson, of St. Louis, with the clergymen of the diocese, a committee was appointed to prepare a feasible plan for the division of the diocese of Missouri, with a view to the formation of a new diocese in the western part of the State. This committee of six, consisting of three clergymen and three laymen, has been called to meet in this city on Friday next at 1.30 o'clock at St. Mary's Church to mature a plan for a division. The three clergymen composing the committee are: Rev. Dr. Runcie, of St. Joseph; Rev. Mr. Talbot, of Macon, and Rev. Father Jardine, of this city. The remaining three members of the committee are laymen, and are: Judge Turney, of Cameron; Judge Motter, of St. Joseph, and Mr. W. B. Grimes, of this city.

On this it makes this very vigorous, but not very elegant remark:

"With characteristic hoggishness Kansas City makes a bid for the new Episcopal diocese. When the reverend body to whom the selection will be left, come to consider all points in interest, nothing but a private grudge can induce them to make Kansas City the Bishop's headquarters. St. Joseph has every advantage for the residence of a bishop."

—The Rev. Wm. Johnson has been very sick and confined to his house for more than a month. The ladies of Christ Church, St. Joseph, sent him a box of valuable articles, and much besides, and showed a beautiful spirit of kindness which was much appreciated.

—The Rev. Mr. Griffith of Emmanuel Church has put out the third number of the Parish Leaflet, to be issued weekly, the copies of which are reproduced by the hektograph process. It enables him to put out notices of matters that should be remembered. Boxes have been distributed through the congregation to receive in each family the Lenten self-denials. The contents are to be presented on Easter. The Young Ladies' Aid Society has engaged the services of a competent teacher of embroidery, and ecclesiastical designing from which it is to be hoped that the church will receive benefit. The young men and boys have been considering the organization of a Church Guild. Other ministers may take a hint from the large use which M. G. makes of the hektograph in communicating with his people.

—The Rev. Mr. Scheetz has been called on to sorrow for the sudden death of his sister, Mrs. Jones, of Monroe City, who died on the 22d ult.

—The basement under the chancel of St. John's, St. Louis, has been very neatly fitted up as a chapel with seats, and a chancel, shut off by a wood screen, which can be screened when the room is used for secular purposes.

—We learn that the committee on the Division of the Diocese had a meeting in Kansas City on the 8th ult., and resolved unanimously to report in favor of division.

—The extraordinary growth in the membership of Trinity Church, Kansas City, has compelled the vestry of the church to cast about for a location for a new church edifice. A lot at the corner of Tracy avenue and Tenth street was selected as a site and the purchase made during the past month. Contracts for the new building will be let in a short time, and it is expected to have it ready for occupancy early in the spring. Trinity parish was organized in the spring of 1883, by parishioners of St. Mary's and Grace Churches living on the East side, and a hall on Ninth street, between Forest and Tracy avenues, selected as a temporary place of worship. In December, 1883, Rev. Robert Talbot of Monroe City, was called to the rectorship, and formally accepted the call about the first of the present year. Since his acceptance the regular services of the Church have been held, and much good accomplished, as is demonstrated by the necessity for a more commodious place of worship. The labors of Mr. Talbot have been unceasing, and to him is due in a great measure the rapid growth of the parish. The hall on East Ninth street, used for church purposes, has been neatly carpeted and otherwise improved. Mr. Talbot, the rector, was greeted on the first Sunday in Lent by the largest congregation since he began his labors, and feels very much encouraged. He preached a Lenten sermon on the subject of the "Temptation of our Lord." At the evening service he delivered a lecture on Bible reading.

—The effort making in St. George's Church in this city to secure contributions of silver and gold for a new, solid silver communion set, resulted on the first Sunday this month in an offering of an amount valued at $350 to $400, besides money. Of course the purpose will succeed.

—The Rev. J. R. Holeman has resigned the rectorship of St. Mary's Church, First Ward, Kansas City, and taken Letters Dimissory to the Diocese of Florida. He has not been in the Diocese for nearly two years, having resided on his plantation in Florida.

—The Rev. Joseph R. Gray has been spending several weeks in Columbia, on account of sickness and death in his wife's family there.

—The Vestry of the Holy Innocents, Oak Hill, are, we learn, about to call to the rectorship of their church the Rev. Jas. P. Lytton, of the Church of the Holy Trinity, Nashville, Tenn., a brother-in-law of the Rev. Mr. Greene of St. John's, and whose wife is a niece of the Rev. Dr. De Koven.

—The Lenten Services in St. George's Church, consist of a Bible instruction, in which the seats are placed conveniently, the Rector is seated at a table, and he and the congregation having Bibles follow the lesson. The interest has been marked, and the numbers in attendance large.

—The Rev. Mr. Betts was absent for ten days during the past month, holding a mission in Danville, Ill.

—The laying of the corner stone of the Chapel of St. Luke's Hospital, St. Louis, was appointed for Sunday afternoon, 9th inst., but the continuous cold weather of the weeks before prevented the builders from being able to prepare the wall. The service had therefore to be postponed until the weather became milder. The service for the occasion was, at the Bishop's request compiled by the Rev. Mr. Betts, and is licensed for use in the Diocese. The chapel faces on Twentieth street, in the rear of the Hospital, close to it, and connected. Its chancel is to the east.

—The Rev. Dr. Fulton has been appointed by the Bishop to preach the sermon at the next Diocesan Convention.

—The corner stone of St. George's Church in this city was of soft sand stone, and has for years been flaking off, so that the inscription has become almost undecipherable. It has now been chiselled down five inches, and a granite block of this size been let in, properly lettered.

—The corner stone of the Chapel of St. Luke's Hospital was to be laid on Wednesday afternoon, 12th inst. by the Bishop.

THE QUIET DAY.

Three years ago, just before Lent began, at the suggestion of several of the clergy of the city, the Bishop called them together, and they spent the day together in retired devotion, fitted for their office and needs, and with an especial reference to the approach of the season of Lent. It was felt at the time that it was an exceedingly refreshing and strengthening service.

A similar request was made this year, and the Bishop invited the clergy of the city to a Quiet Day before Lent, on the 22nd ult., in Christ church chapel.

The following letter was sent out by the Bishop:
2727 CHESTNUT ST., Feb. 18, 1884.
My Dear Brother:

A number of the clergy of the city have asked me whether, before the season of Lent begins, I will not hold with them a Quiet Day, as was done with, I hope, some profit three years ago. I am persuaded that we must all feel that our ministrations will be more availing during the approaching season, which counts for so much in the religious life of our people, if there can be a deeper stirring up of the grace of God which is in ourselves.

Will you accordingly with me give Friday of this week, 22nd, to this service in Christ Church Chapel? I will ask you first to join me in the celebration of the Holy Communion at 10 o'clock. At 1 o'clock there will be an interval of an hour, when a light refection will be had in the room below. The exercises will close at 5 o'clock.

May I ask your prayers in the meantime that God, the Holy Ghost, may be pleased to bless us in our coming together, and our endeavor to honor him?

I am your loving brother in Christ,
C. F. ROBERTSON.

All the clergy of the city and vicinity, nineteen in number, except one, Dr. Berkley, who was ill, and one other to whom the notice did not come in time, were present, and remained throughout the protracted services of the day. They began at 10 o'clock in the morning, and continued until 5 o'clock in the evening. An interval of an hour was had at 1 o'clock, when a light repast was spread in one of the rooms of the church below, and served by the ladies.

An estimate cannot of course be made of the good that will be derived from the services, but there was emphatic expression given at the close that the services had been to the highest degree appreciated and enjoyed, and the hope was expressed that there would be a similar day kept every year.

DIOCESAN MISSIONARY BOARD.

The Diocesan Missionary Board has felt itself compelled to put out the following circular to the parishes:

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Feb. 20, 1884.

Rev. and Dear Sir:

The Missionary Board of the Diocese earnestly and anxiously request that you lay before your congregation, at the earliest possible moment, the fact, that this Board has received but $642.45 so far this year towards the support of upwards of twenty missionaries in the field, against the sum of $1,800, received for the same time last year. $2,400 is the amount actually needed to meet the appropriations for this fiscal year; and the Board therefore begs that each Parish in the Diocese will speedily forward an amount at least equal to their contribution of last year.

This appeal is urgent, and much of the work in the Diocese depends upon the spirit in which it is received and acted upon.

C. F. ROBERTSON, President.
F. J. McMASTERS, Secretary.

The following was the first response.

Your letter concerning the shamefully barren condition of the Diocesan Missionary Treasury reached me by Saturday night's mail. Episcopalians expect to go to heaven on "flowery beds of ease." I did all I could Sunday to wake my people up. I laid my sermon aside and talked to them in plain Saxon, and will do so next Sunday. My collection here yesterday was $16.85. I will forward it.

INDIAN RIGHTS IN ST. LOUIS.

Mr. Herbert Welsh, of Philadelphia, has visited St. Louis within the past few weeks for the purpose of creating an interest in the object of the Indian Rights' Association, of which he is the Secretary. The object of the organization, which has been in operation for two years, is to draw attention to any breaches of plighted faith on the part of Indian agents and the government as towards the tribes, to observe and report the real condition of the Indians in their several reservations, to check the sudden and inequitable removal of tribes from one locality to another, to promote their education, and so to prepare them to be able to hold their lands in severalty, and take their places as citizens.

Mr. Welsh has visited the Indians of the Northwest, and has made addresses in our churches and other places in all the larger cities of the East, and been in communication with the general government, and already the Association has been able, by diffusing information, and directing action intelligently, to stop some iniquitous plans.

In this city, at a meeting in Christ Church on Sunday night, 24th ult., a large congregation of nearly five hundred persons were present. Several of our parish churches were closed, and their people were present. There were present also, a large number from other communions. After a short service, the Bishop, whose guest Mr. Welsh was during his stay in the city, made a short statement of the general subject, and of the special purpose of the Indian Rights Association, and introduced Mr. Welsh.

Mr. Welsh spoke from under the chancel arch, and made an address of singular clearness, force and beauty. He stated the results of the observations which had convinced him of the capacity of the Indians to be educated and improved. He showed that they were not decreasing in numbers, and that the problem was one which could not be evaded, and that humanity and expediency, and economy all concurred in favor of furnishing them the means which they crave for gaining the advantages of education and Christian civilization. He detailed the methods by which a robbery of over eleven millions of acres from the Sioux had been nearly consummated, and had only with difficulty been stopped; and finished an address of forty minutes with a thrilling appeal to Christian principle to do the right thing for these dependent people.

Chancellor Eliot, of Washington University, followed with a clear endorsement of the plans and purposes of the Association, and showed that in urging the union of education and Christian influences it avoided the weakness and fault of the two opposite theories of improvement of the Indians, which had alike failed in the past.

An offertory was then made which amounted to $55 for the purposes of the Association, and Captain Silas Bent, in response to a call from the Bishop, gave his views as a business man, and confessed that the evidences afforded of what had been done by the Indians had changed his mind as to their disposition and capacity for improvement.

A further meeting was announced to be held in Washington University on Wednesday evening, 27th, in which further and more particular explanation of the purpose of the Association would be made, and a branch be organized. A smaller, but deeply interesting, meeting was held on that evening, and Chancellor Eliot elected President, and Prof. M. S. Snow, Secretary. It promises to be an agency which will have influence for good.

We call the attention of our readers to the advertisement of Mrs. Lizzie E. Cotton, in another column, under head of Honey Bees:

SCHOOL FOR JEWS.

My Dear Bishop :

I visited Mr. Chestnut's "Jewish school" a few weeks since, and must express to you my gratification with its appearance. The building in which the school is held, the location, the lady in charge, the number and character of the scholars, the system of instruction, the recitations, the cheerful rooms and appropriate furniture, all bearing the air of refinement and of school experience struck me most favorably. I almost envied Brother Chestnut his good work. It must be the sowing of seed that will bring forth good fruit in days to come. Miss Finklestein appears to be very provident and discreet, and well adapted to deal with Jewish prejudices, and must at length gain the confidence of many Jewish parents.

Faithfully and affectionately,

J. P. T. INGRAHAM.

THE NORTHWEST.

Editor Church News :

The Bishop made his first visit on the line of the St. Joseph and Des Moines Railway, narrow gauge, in the midst of winter, in the most cheerless weather—yet to the Bishop and his missionary, who met him at King City, with a happy face, the visit was far from wintry, was altogether cheery, and to the faithful few in each place visited, cheering. At King City services have been given, one Sunday in each month, since July last, by the missionary, who resides at Maryville. On Septuagesima Sunday the Bishop preached, confirmed four and celebrated Holy Communion. In the afternoon the missionary said the Litany and baptized two children, whose parents were confirmed in the morning. In the evening the Bishop preached again a very effective sermon, making a profound impression on more than one of the large congregation.

Among those confirmed was one of the foremost citizens of Andrew county, who resides about seven miles from King City, on the famous Empire Prairie. Where at the start we had only two families, and an occasional visit from Rev. Dr. Runcie, of St. Joseph, we have now at King City, and vicinity, after eight months of regular services five families, in which are twenty seven baptized persons and nine communicants. These are earnest and hopeful of soon having an organization, and a place of worship which they can call their own.

But we must not linger here, however delightful our stay; there is work further on. The narrow-gauge takes us to Albany, its northern terminus, the capital of Gentry county, which place the Bishop visited several years ago, driving across the country with the Rev. F. B. Scheetz. On the train the missionary finds an old friend, C. G. Comstock, Esq., whose proffered hospitality is gratefully accepted. All that refined taste can suggest, and abundant means provide are found in this happy home. Owing to the short notice of our coming, the inclement weather, and several meetings in the neighborhood, the attendance at the evening service was not large, but all the faithful were out and a few others. The service was devoutly rendered, and the Bishop's sermon attentively listened to. In the bleak, chilly morning of Tuesday, after a comfortable breakfast and an affectionate farewell to the kind host and hostess, the journey is re-commenced, this time in a sardine box on wheels—called by courtesy, a hack—six human beings were packed knee to knee, for a jolting and jump, and bumpy bump, over the roughest of rough roads, to Evora, a station on the Wabash, three and a half miles from Albany, when the road is good, which is seldom. Fifteen minutes ride in the smooth-rolling coaches of the Wabash bring us to Stanberry, a town of 3,000 inhabitants, which sprang up in a single season, in the midst of a corn field. The Bishop visits this place once before, over a year ago. Occasional services had been held here by Rev. Mr. Sherman, and his successor, Rev. Mr. Hatch, of Maryville—but only one within the past year, and occasional visits of condolence to the afflicted.

There has been recently a most remarkable spiritual awakening, and a few earnest, zealous, loyal Churchwomen have exerted themselves to the utmost to secure to the Church her own children. They had gathered a class for confirmation, sent to the nearest missionary to come and assist in the work of preparation, and asked the Bishop to come and confirm. The kindness and courtesy of their Methodist friends placed their beautiful chapel at the disposal of these ladies, who prepared it for the impressive services with tasteful decoration. A rustic basket, green with ivies, held the baptismal font, and a beautiful cross of green stood on the chancel wall. The seats were completely filled before the service commenced, and many remained standing through the whole two hours. After the lesson three adults and two children were baptized by the Bishop, and at the close of the evening prayer. He preached with more than usual earnestness to hearts awakened, and to ears attent, and then followed what to the majority of the congregation was something new, the Apostolic Rite of the laying on of hands. It is something very solemn and impressive to those accustomed to it, and on this occasion was especially so to those who had never before seen it. Three children, two young ladies, a matron, and a young man of twenty-one, kneeling before the chancel rail, confessing Christ in His appointed way and receiving His blessing.

The ladies and children at the Baptism and Confirmation were clad in white, with white veils, after the ancient custom, but more beautiful than any outward display was the evident preparation of heart and mind, not for a beautiful spectacle merely, but for the heavenly benediction. These young Christians will set right to work, to organized, practical, systematic, continuous work for Christ and His Church. H.

A VISIT TO ST. LOUIS FORTY-EIGHT YEARS AGO.

I have been asked by a friend who heard me mention the fact that I visited St. Louis, in the summer of 1836, to give a brief account of my recollections of that visit. I was then a resident of Michigan, having but recently removed from the State of New York, and yet restless with the desire to go farther West. My journey to St. Louis, for more than a thousand miles, was performed entirely by stage and steamboat. I crossed the lake at the mouth of the St. Joseph, to Chicago, then a comparatively small village, going from thence by stage to Galena, and thence to St. Louis by boat. I reached St. Louis on Saturday. I found my way, with a number of other passengers, to what was then considered the best public house in the place, the "City Hotel," a comparatively small building of brick, three stories high, standing on the corner of Vine and Third streets. It was in the month of July, and as is not unusual in this climate, rather warm for one accustomed to a more northern latitude. The day was spent, however, in looking about the town, which was not spread over a very extensive territory, as there were comparatively few houses west of Third street, the town lying between that and the river, and extending for some distance, both north and south.

As this was the year when speculation in real estate was rife all over the land, my attention was naturally turned to the value of property in this distant town, and I remember being shown a tract covering nearly a block on Second street, not far from the Cathedral, which was offered to me for two thousand dollars. I had the money at the time, and was strongly tempted to make the purchase, but St. Louis was then a far off town, there being at that time no thought of a railroad, and the Mississippi river the only channel of communication, save by stage. Had the investment then been made, and the property retained till the present time, there would be no necessity for any anxiety as to provision for the future in worldly matters either for myself or family.

Sunday came, and in those old-fashioned times, the thought of pursuing a journey on that day did not enter the mind of a young man, even though he was not a communicant of the Church. As a matter of course, the Church was sought out in the morning. It was situated on the corner of Third and Chestnut streets. It was, as described by the Rev. Mr. Minor, who was then officiating, in his report to Bishop Kemper, a small building, "neat in appearance, but more like an academy than a house of worship, capable of containing about 250 persons. It was well-furnished and contained a small, but fine toned organ. The church had been built for about $6,000."

It was as described, an humble edifice, and very little that was attractive in its appearance within or without, but a good and attentive congregation was in attendance, and a faithful priest ministered unto them the Word of Life. The church was on the out skirts of the town, westward, and where the Planters' House now stands must have been an open waste. There was an unusual excitement in the little place at that time, in consequence of a negro having been burned alive only a few days before. The negro had committed a most cruel and wanton murder, and in the excitement following thereupon, a mob had been gathered, and had gone to the jail, taken him by force from prison, carrying him into a field, having fastened him to a tree, built a fire about him and burned him to death. As a matter of course, this was a topic of conversation wherever a few were gathered together. Having formed an acquaintance with a young man who was a fellow traveler, we concluded on Sunday as a matter of curiosity, to go and see the tree on which the unfortunate negro had been fastened to be burned. I remember well what a distance it seemed for us to walk from the hotel on Vine street, and our going into the fields, and getting over fences, before we reached the place. That tree, as I have since learned, stood between Pine and Chestnut, and Sixth and Seventh streets.

It is needless to say, that such an occurrence as the one to which I have referred, did not help to exalt our ideas of the high civilization of the place, or the moral tone of the society. But marvellous changes have been since wrought, not only in the material, but moral growth of the city.

On Monday morning I started on my return home, by stage, through Illinois. It was a tedious journey, occupying some three or four days. During the journey we encountered a serious disaster, the stage having overset in crossing a bridge over a ravine, by which some of the passengers were so seriously injured, that we were obliged to leave them on the way, and being saved myself from which might have been a dangerous hurt, by reason of my stove pipe hat, which was crushed nearly to the rim, I have ever since worn this style of hat in grateful recognition of my narrow escape.

The remainder of the journey was accomplished without disaster, having been absent about a month, and traveling nearly two thousand miles mostly by stage. M. S.

—Some years ago the rich old St. Ann's Church in Brooklyn, L. I., having built beyond its ability, was in danger of being lost for a debt of $150,000. To relieve it the Rev. Dr. Schenck, who is wealthy, gave three years' salary, $30,000, and his son-in-law gave $75,000, on condition that the church should always be free. Lately the rector has had to confess that the parish cannot be kept afloat on the voluntary system, even with all the favoring circumstances under which it is there worked.

—Senator Edmunds was once urged to join a Congregational Church. He asked to see the articles. After some days deliberation, he returned them, and agreed to become a member if ten out of the 27 clauses were omitted, 6 modified, and two new ones added. The result may be inferred from the fact that he is now an attendant at the Church of the Epiphany, Washington.

It would be interesting to have the experience of the Rectors, who to accommodate the late comers, have put the hour of morning service half or quarter of an hour later, whether this has had any appreciable effect on curing the tardy habits of those who previously were late. Some at least have told us that those who came late before are late now; and almost the same proportion of persons come late now as before. The difficulty is not with the hour, but with the careless habit of leaving everything to the last moment. The NEWS generally reaches those who are at church in time, and so our words do not meet the eyes of many who are at fault. But we greatly question whether any benefit has arisen from putting the hour later.

SPEAKING of the resolutions of the pastors in Auburn, N. Y., against attending Sunday funerals hereafter, the Kalendrar gives a case in point. A minister was at church at 9 a.m. for the Communion; at 10.30 he had Morning Prayer and Sermon; at 12 his Sunday School took an hour and a half of his time with catechising. Then he went to the funeral, and at 5 returned utterly exhausted and in no fit state for night service. And the funeral was of a person who had died the previous Tuesday, and neither the dead man when in life nor his family were at all connected with the parish. The funeral could just as well have been held on Thursday, Friday or Saturday, but it was held on Sunday to secure a crowd. We have recently had experience in this city of the horrid vulgarity and irreverence which can be exhibited at a funeral on Sunday.

THERE is to appear within a few weeks, The Church Cyclopædia, which will be a large volume containing a dictionary of Church doctrine, history, organization and ritual, and also original articles on special topics expressly written for this work by Bishops, Presbyters and laymen. It will give also a history of all the dioceses, written by several Bishops, appointed by them. It is intended especially for the laity of the Church, the articles being written in a clear and untechnical way.

The volume has been edited by Rev. A. A. Benton, who for learning and judgment is admirably qualified for the task. Clergymen or others desirous of acting as agents for the work, may obtain terms which will make it pleasant for them, by addressing Rev. S. F. Hotchkiss, Bustleton, Twenty-third Ward, Philadelphia. The work will be in one large volume, and will be delivered at $5 a copy. It will be a reliable library in itself.

CANON ON LAY READERS.

The General Canon on Lay Readers was very considerably changed at the late General Convention. As it now stands it may not be granted for conducting service in a congregation without a minister, which is able, and has had reasonable opportunity to secure the services of an ordained minister. The reader must not be used as a cloak for niggardliness. The license is given by the Bishop alone in a vacant parish, but the request of the rector is needed where there is one.

The license must be given for a definite period, not to exceed one year from its date, but may be renewed or revoked. All the former limitations are continued as to the portions of the service which the Reader may or may not use. He may now, however, deliver addresses, instructions and exhortations in vacant congregations or missions, if he be specially licensed thereto by the Bishop. The prohibition from assuming the dress appropriate to clergymen, would not prevent him from using the vestment which is common now to choir men, nor to the use of the academic gown.

EASTER ELECTIONS.

Before another number appears, Easter will have come and gone, and with it the Easter Elections, the results of which are of such importance to the welfare of the parishes. It makes but little difference what the available ability and energy in the congregation is, if it is not put into the place to be of use. The vestry should represent the best life and work in the parish.

It is for the people to put such there. The time to do it is at the annual Easter parish meeting. Usually if the parish is quiet, few attend. This is selfish and lazy. Often, when the best choice is not made, persons are angry for not having been at the trouble to go. Of course then it is too late. There is provision for the vestry election only in Easter week. All the congregation have a right to attend such parish meetings. Those who are qualified to vote are the communicants of full age, who have been such for not less than six months prior to the election, and such other baptized persons, of full age, and not under discipline as have contributed to the support of the parish, according to such rules as the parish has adopted. This includes both men and women. The minister presides. The polls are kept open for two hours.

The vestry consists of not less than three, not more than thirteen persons. They must be baptized persons.

The outgoing vestry must, at the annual meeting make a full report of its proceedings for the past year, and a full statement of the financial condition of the parish.

CHILDREN'S COT.

ST. LUKE'S HOSPITAL.

For several years an effort has been making to raise $3,000 from the children and those who are interested in them, for the perpetual endowment for a cot and a room for a child at our Hospital, where a child not able to be otherwise provided for may be kindly taken care of when sick or undergoing treatment. By little and little we have gone on so far. Gifts are urgently asked for this purpose, and will be credited in THE NEWS. They may be sent to the Bishop, 2727 Chestnut street, St. Louis.

PERSONAL.

—The Rev. Thompson L. Smith, whose name was a familiar one in this Diocese a number of years ago, and who was deposed from the ministry by Bishop Vail, of Kansas, in 1875, and who joined the Cummins movement, has, it seems, become heartily tired of his experience, and has formally applied to Bishop Vail to be restored to our ministry. The Bishop of Colorado, in whose jurisdiction he has been living for three years, approves, as does the Standing Committee of Kansas.

—The clerical obituary for the month includes the names of the Rev. Thos. N. Carter, D. D., of Indiana; Rev. Benj. W. Stone, D. D., of Pennsylvania; the Revs. N. R. High and Joseph Meunscher, D. D., of Ohio; the Rev. L. H. Corson, of Michigan; the Rev. John W. Payne, of New York, (died in Italy), the Rev. Geo. F. Segmund, D. D., New York, and Rev. Henry Dane Ward, of Pennsylvania, and Rev. R. M. Baker, of Georgetown, D. C.

—The Rev. Leonard Woolsey Bacon, a Congregational minister, and son of the famous Dr. Leonard Bacon, of New Haven, created a sensation by recently preaching in a Worcester, Mass., Unitarian pulpit, and wearing the white surplice of that denomination.

—The Bishop of Ohio has deposed from the ministry, for causes not affecting his moral character, Rev. Chester Field Adams.

—The will of Mr. Ralph Sellev, of this city, by which bequests were made to St. Luke's Hospital, the Orphans' Home and other charities, is being contested by the brother and sister of the deceased, as against a nephew, who gets a large proportion of the property. All the legatees are made defendants.

—Miss Burr, of New York, an aged maiden lady, left two or three years ago a large fortune to Church and charitable objects. The will was contested by distant relatives, but decision has been given in its favor.

—The Rev. Arthur Ritchie has been called to succeed the late Dr. Ewer, in the St. Ignatius Church, New York City.
